Coming to Part II. we find that Section 14, which is divided into seventeen subsidiary clauses, gives very elaborate directions respecting "Emigrant Ship Fittings;" all barricades and gratings for the confinement in any way of Chinese emigrants are prohibited, and even the manufacture, purchase, sale, or possession of such fittings will be deemed offences against this ordinance, unless there be lawful excuse, "the proof of which shall lie on the accused." Actions, however, in this respect must be brought "within three months after the thing done, and not otherwise," and all prosecutions must take place at the suit of, or, at any rate, with the consent of the ATTORNEY-GENERAL. Section 15, a very long one, provides "Rules as to Chinese Emigrant Ships." Among the subjects treated of are licences, their form and conditions, and the mode of application for them; punishment for furnishing untrue particulars; the governor's power to revoke and cancel licences; building, equipping, despatching, selling, hiring, &c., &c., vessels without a licence; seizure, search, and detention of suspected vessels, and proceedings consequent thereon. We are glad to notice that ample provisions are made for indemnifying the owners of such vessels as may chance to be seized or detained without "reasonable and probable cause."

Part III. orders the repeal, subject to certain provisions and conditions, of portions of two Ordinances and of the whole of ten others. To this Ordinance there are annexed ten schedules, but they extend to so great a length that we can only indicate their purport very briefly. Schedule A gives the form of Emigration Passage Broker's annual bond, and Schedule B the form of his licence under Section 6 par. 2. Schedule C provides the form of notice to be given by a Justice to the Emigration Officer of the forfeiture of a licence, and Schedule D the form of contract passage ticket, which, we may mention, must be signed and registered by the Emigration Officer. Schedule E enacts the regulations alluded to in Section 8, par. 1, respecting Chinese passenger ships proceeding to sea upon voyages of not more than thirty days' duration. They seem calculated to promote the comfort of the Chinese, and we should think there can be little chance of their grumbling at the dietary scale, which is as follows:—For every passenger per diem not less than 1⅓ lb. of rice or bread stuffs, ⅓ lb. of dried and (or) salt fish, 1 oz. of Chinese condiments or curry stuff, 1⅓ lb. of fresh vegetables, 2 lb. of firewood, and one gallon of water to be carried in tanks or sweet casks. By Schedule F the following are declared to be voyages of not more than thirty days' duration:—For steamers which can steam five miles an hour without sails, voyages from Hong Kong and coast ports as far north as Shanghai to Calcutta, Pegu, Sumatra, Java, the Straits Settlements, Labuan, Sarawak, Manila, Bangkok, or Japan. For sailing vessels, voyages from the same ports to Sumatra, Java, the Straits Settlements, Labuan, Manila or Bangkok between October 1 and March 31, but during the rest of the year only those to Labuan, Manila, or Bangkok. Schedule G gives the form in which, under Section 8, the Emigration Officer is to certify that all the conditions and requirements of the Ordinance have been duly complied with, &c., and Schedule H the form of his certificate, that there are no prohibited or objectionable fittings on board. The last two schedules are forms of warrant and citation under paragraphs 10 and 14 of Section 15.

CHINESE WOMEN AT SAN FRANCISCO.

CONSIDERING how useful the Chinese are in a country where labour is scarce, one would think that the dominant race, having none else to perform its menial work, would do all in its power to induce them to settle there permanently. Not so our Transatlantic cousins, at least in the Western States; where it is lamentable to see the dead-set which is, from time to time, made against the patient, hard-working Celestials and all which they hold dear. The P. M. S. S. Company's steamer Japan brought over among her passengers some twenty-five women from China; some of these, we believe, were already married, and others were sent over for the purpose of being married. Incited, however, we doubt not, by the anti-Chinese league, the Port officer at San Francisco declared them to be prostitutes, and prohibited their landing! A San Francisco correspondent describes this affair in an amusingly exaggerated letter to the New York Times, and satirises the folly of his fellow citizens in no measured terms. Immediately on the arrival of the "consignment," he says, "a howl went forth, "and some fanatical ass swore out a warrant against the "lot, and the Pacific Mail Company inclusive, for importing "moral-corruptors." The unfortunate women, together with their husbands in esse and in posse, were bandied about from one local Judge to another, and it seemed highly probable that the steamer company would be compelled to take them back to China. Luckily, however, common sense has prevailed, even in San Francisco, and "Judge "FIELD, of the United States Supreme Court, not being "in the way of political influences and untrammelled by "local prejudices, has decided that the whole proceedings "are illegal," and has further directed that all these "musters" of celestial loveliness shall be forthwith discharged. "There is rejoicing in Sacramento-street," we are told, "and the delighted Celestial igniteth the festive fire-cracker." With every desire that the morality and respectability of San Francisco should be rigidly preserved, we hope that its inhabitants may shortly be brought to see the suicidal folly of thus persecuting the Chinese settlers, at any rate in matters in regard to which it is notorious that they are keenly sensitive.

Literature.

A First Japanese Book for English Students. By JOHN O'NEILL. London: Harrison and Sons, 1874 Cours de Langue Japonaise. Par FELIX EVRARD. Premiere partie. Yokohama: Imprimerie d L'Echo Du Japon, 1874.

These two first Japanese books propose to instruct the beginner in very different ways, and beginners commencing the study of Japanese will probably find more benefit from the French than the English work. Mr. O'Neill's book is written by a student for students, and although it may possess many advantages, it has drawbacks which are perhaps inseparable from such a production. As a student himself, Mr. O'Neill seems to have overlooked the fact that it would be very difficult for a beginner to attempt to attain, by the aid of his book, any useful knowledge of the Japanese colloquial, which ought to be the object of every "First Japanese Book." Mr. O'Neill launches the beginner, who must, of course, be presumed to be entirely ignorant of Japanese, on to a Buddhist sermon, one of Kiu-O's Do-Wa, or Path Discourses, i.e. sermons on the Path of Morality. To smooth the thorny path of the beginner, he gives an interleaved transcription in English letters, an unmistakably literal translation, with interlinear glosses, explanatory notes, and a Japanese-English vocabulary. We fear that if the student does struggle through the sermon from conscientious motives, he will do so at the expense of much toil and labour, and will never attempt it again.

With regard to Père Evrard's book, we have before us only the first part, containing thirty out of the sixty lessons of which the work is eventually to consist. It was not originally intended for publication, having been composed for the use of one of his friends, but the author was induced to print the matter he had already put together for that purpose, leaving the completion of the work to a future period. Père Evrard's plan is as follows:—He gives first a few lines of Japanese in Roman letters, then a literal translation, to which is added a French version of the Japanese "text;" next a conversation on the subject of the lesson, and afterwards exercises or phrases composed of the words used in that and previous lessons; finally, there is "la théorie et l'analyse," by which the author means that, as rules present themselves, he points them out and puts them into shape. In our opinion, he makes rather a mistake in omitting all stops in the Japanese "texts:" on this subject, however, we are glad to see that he is open to conviction.

Both these books, which are professedly elementary, are wanting in much that a beginner requires to enable him to make a start in a foreign language. To do that he requires, as it appears to us, a series of graduated lessons, which at first should be extremely simple; teaching him, for example, all that appertains to the daily requirements of life, &c., and increasing, though but gently, in difficulty. A slight modification of the method adopted by the late Rev. Thomas Kerchever Arnold, M.A., in his Latin, Greek, French, German, and other elementary works, would be a very great boon to all students to whose lot it falls to be obliged to study the languages of the Far East. The nearest approach to this is the very useful little elementary book on Chinese which the Rev. Joseph Edkins published some years ago. The two books which we have briefly noticed are both lacking in one most essential particular; their author quite overlooks the great want which a student feels at the outset of his career for an English-Japanese and a French-Japanese vocabulary, and without which he cannot turn to much account his elementary knowledge of the language as he acquires it.

"Islam, its History, Character, and Relation to Christianity," the third edition of which is published by Messrs. Longmans, will be heartily welcomed, both on account of its merit as a literary work and its importance as a protest against the too prevalent notion that the work of evangelisation carried on amongst the Moslems may be taken up or left alone at pleasure. The author, Dr. John Muehleisen Arnold, has revised and condensed the present edition, and the title is changed from Ishmael, or the Bible and Koran, to its present form. "Islam" may be regarded in the light of a labour of love, written primarily for the purpose of reviving the missionary work in the East, for although the author acknowledges the value of the missionary work now going on amongst the Moslems, yet it is evident that he wishes to see it maintained in a more persistent manner. He acknowledges the encouragement received at Cambridge, and states that the publication of the present edition is due to the request of missionaries in the East for fresh copies. Judged in the light of a history of Mohammedanism alone, the work is at once a proof of the author's capacity, and the reception accorded to the earlier and incomplete form of the book augurs well for the future of the present volume, which may be considered as a complete and valuable addition to our Eastern literature.

The current number of the Cornhill contains a paper entitled "Feudal China," from the pen of the Rev. F. S. Turner, late of Hong Kong. The author, in instituting a comparison between the progress of the Western and Eastern worlds, urges in justification for what he calls the stereotyped notion that the rate of progress in China has been less rapid than that of Europe, that in the former country there has been no glacial period to establish a marked break between any two portions of its history. But he combats the idea that the admiration of the past with the Chinese is so profound that for 3,000 or 4,000 years they have done nothing but hash up the broken fragments of primeval ideas and reproduce the forms of their earliest national life. Again, the development in Europe is the results of the interfusion of diverse types of civilisation, whereas the Chinese development is entirely of home growth. Mr. Turner, however, condemns the notion which he says has got abroad that the state of things in the Far East is precisely what it was in the days of Marco Polo, and he denies that a stagnation exists either as regards religion, philosophy, or poetry. He is of opinion that China will remain stereotyped to our popular imagination only so long as we preserve our profound ignorance of the vast amount of internal activity which has been at work within her borders for ages.

The Geographical Magazine this month, although presenting no special feature of attraction to those interested in the Far East, contains some very valuable papers. The Oxus Expedition, the Yarkand Trade, a chapter on Human Agency in the Dispersion of Plants, together with many others, make up a good number. There is a review of the report presented to the Legislative Session of the Portuguese Cortes on the abolition of the Macao coolie trade. The concluding words of this document are worthy of reproduction. "In abolishing emigration by contract from Macao," says the report, "the Government firmly believes it has fulfilled a duty. The evil being once recognised as incurable it became necessary to put a prompt and effective stop to it. The traditions and honour of Portugal required this."

Amongst the possible candidates for the Rectorship of St. Andrew's University, the nominee of the scientific section is said to be Dr. Darwin; others say Mr. Herbert Spencer or Mr. Matthew Arnold. Mr. Herbert Spencer declined the honour on a previous occasion, while those who on the last election supported Lord Neaves are supposed to desire that the Marquis of Salisbury or Dean Stanley should be elected.

The illustrations in the November number of Art are quite up to the usual standard of excellence. The subjects chosen are "Diana Lassatra," by Nettleship; "Ioannes Evangelista," by Correggio; and an "Ideal Figure of Art," by T. N. Maclean. Mr. Cave Thomas contributes another chapter on the "Revised Theory of Light."

Macmillan for November has a very good table of contents, a paper on "Sir Robert Peel and the Comte de Jarnac," and a paper on "Prussia and the Vatican," which is of especial interest. "Castle Daly" has reached its twenty-seventh chapter.

Naval and Military.

The Fly, double-screw composite gun-boat, 4 guns, 584 (464) tons burthen, 489 (120) horse-power, Commander John Bruce (1871), is being fitted at Devonport Dockyard, and will shortly be commissioned for the China Station.

The Egeria, composite-sloop, was commissioned at Devonport on the 2nd inst. by Commander Ralph L. Turton, and is being rapidly got ready for sea. She is expected to sail for China in about a fortnight.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has appointed Surgeon-Major T. J. Orton, Army Medical Department, colonial surgeon at the Straits Settlements, with a salary of £750 a year and right to private practice.

inst. to be paid off. The Cadmus was commissioned at Devonport on Dec. 1, 1870, and left England on Nov. 20, 1871. Medals for good conduct and long service, with gratuities of £15 and £10 respectively, have been awarded to John Cocks, leading stoker, and to John Bate, Captain of the quarter-deck.

Information has been received at the Admiralty of the death of Captain E. T. Nott, late in command of the Malabar troopship. The gallant officer entered the navy in 1845, and was employed in the boats of the Hastings at the destruction of a horde of Chinese pirates, and while afterwards acting mate of the same ship commanded a boat at the capture of Prome, and the subsequent operations on the Irrawaddy in 1852.

The German corvette Hertha, which left Kiel on the 28th ult., on a two years' cruise, arrived at Spithead on the 4th inst., and saluted the flag of Admiral Sir Rodney Mundy; she then commenced to take in coal. On the 6th she sailed for China and Japan, calling at Plymouth on her way down Channel.

The German ironclad corvette Ariadne, 6, Captain C. Ruchne, arrived at Malta on the 24th ult., from Plymouth, on her way to China. The gunboat Lapwing, Commander Sir W. Wiseman, arrived on the 23rd, from Plymouth and Gibraltar, on her way to China, and proceeded on the 31st.

The Audacious, Capt. P. Colomb, flagship of Vice-Admiral Ryder, arrived at Gibraltar on the 4th inst., and was under orders to leave again on the 7th inst. for China, touching at Malta en route.

A telegram has been received from Hong Kong announcing the arrival of the Victor Emmanuel on the 4th inst., with supernumeraries on board, all well.

Samuel Bishop, the leading stoker of the Avon on the China Station, has been awarded the medal for good conduct and long service, with a gratuity of £15.

From the annual report of the Royal Naval Scripture Readers' Society, just published, it appears that twelve readers are now employed.

The despatch vessel Vigilant, Lieut.-Commander Ryder, arrived at Port Said on the 6th inst., en route to the China station.

Lieut. G. C. Prater (1873) is appointed to the Audacious, and will proceed to China in the Egeria.

HER MAJESTY'S SHIPS ON THE CHINA STATION.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, NOV. 4.

The news brought by last mail that Mr. Van Daalen, the editor of the Java Bode, had been condemned to one year's imprisonment for having calumniated the Governor-General has been received here anything but favourably. The number of those who sympathise with the articles of Mr. Van Daalen is very small; the general opinion has been, and still is, that his policy was wrong, that it showed a very low tone; but this would have been sufficiently punished by the loss of subscribers. It may be that Mr. Van Daalen used too strong terms, but I fear that his conviction will throw open the door for a great many similar cases. This prosecution has made far more sensation than the news that about one hundred European residents in Java had forwarded an address to the King, protesting against further taxation in Java. There is, I think, no one who approves of the scheme, but the residents have been somewhat too hasty.

The members of the Second Chamber met yesterday for the despatch of business. The several section reports show that the majority is anything but conciliant, anything but inclined to support the Ministry. Several papers are afraid that the Session may again be lost in parlages about political questions. Some of the members declare in the section reports that they regret to observe signs that the Ministry will not be limited to a cabinet d'affaires, and they express fear that no homogeneity exists amongst the Cabinet. It has created surprise that not a word is heard about the Reform question. Many express an opinion that our political condition is most confused, and that it will be advisable to support the Cabinet in order to prevent matters becoming still worse the more because there is no strong majority on either side in Parliament. Some members protest against the financial policy of the Cabinet, and complain that nothing is done to introduce improvements in our very bad system of taxation. They object that our revenue is still dependent upon the contribution of ten millions from India. We built our railways with colonial money, and we ought to be ashamed to obtain our new fortresses from the same source. Of much importance is the reply of the Mimister of the Colonial Department to the section report upon the Colonial Budget. Of course it is very lengthy, so that I can only give you the outlines. In the first place, he urges the necessity that the Chamber should show at once whether they approve the policy of the Minister or no. It is no more a question whether it is necessary or desirable to establish our authority in the northern part of Sumatra. We are there, and we must stay there. If we left Atchin we should greatly injure our authority throughout the Archipelago. The condition of affairs is most grave. The general health of our troops has somewhat improved, but the Atchinese give no proofs of an intention to give in. The Minister cannot yet state positively if it will be necessary to send a third expedition to Atchin, but he thinks it will not be wanted. Up to the 31st July, 2,124 lives had been lost in the different expeditions, and an amount of f.23,614,000 had been expended. The maintaining of the coffee culture is another question. The Minister thinks that it would be dangerous to further curtail the system of consignments. He has a plan for the reorganisation of the East India army, and to introduce other improvements which have become of the greatest urgency. With reference to our Colonial navy, Mr. Van Goltstein states that the supply of men-of-war will be quite sufficient when six paddle steamers of the 2nd or 3rd class, four paddle steamers of the 4th class and nine screw steamers of the 4th class are ready. These supplementary forces will be forthcoming by 1875, or even earlier.

According to the Dagblad, the newly elected M.P. for Hoorn, Mr. Fransen Van de Putte, will reside during the winter in Italy. Within a week or so he will leave the Hague. As soon as Prince Alexander has returned from his trip to Germany he will start with H.M. screw-steamer Leeuwarden for a voyage of six weeks in the Mediterranean.

I regret that I have to record the death of the Old Catholic Bishop, Hermanus Heycamp, who died at Rotterdam. He was born in 1807; his loss is much lamented.

It seems that the plan to establish an East India Brigade at Haarlem will not be realised. The burgomaster of that town communicated in the last sitting of the Council that the Minister was of opinion that it is not desirable to build a barrack for this purpose before the Chamber has given a definitive decision upon the matter.

The Society for the Welfare of the Javanese have again solicited subscriptions to an amount of f.6,000, in order to improve the education of the natives. The managers demonstrate that not enough is done by the State, and that what is accomplished is not done in the best way. I do not believe that the endeavours of the Society will be successful. The Government quite agrees with the argument that the education of the natives must be improved. The Minister hopes that since a new director has been appointed for this department he will be able very soon to report improvements.

In a former letter I told you that at the meeting of shareholders of the East India Railway Company, which was held on the 27th of October, no decision could be taken about the proposed loan and the altering of the statutes because too few shares were represented. Another meeting for the same purpose will be held here on the 24th instant. The opinion in our financial circles is that the plans will be approved of.

Much agitation prevails here about the new canal to the North Sea. The Government does not incline to complete it, and our burgomasters and aldermen are not inclined to grant the promised subsidy of three millions because the canal will not be ready in due time. As matters stand now there is some chance that we shall have no canal at all.

Some days ago the decorations of the Knighthood of the "Military William" Order were presented to Captain Huyer and to Major Cavalje, of the East India Army.

The Government has laid before the members of Parliament a Bill with reference to dogs. If this Bill becomes law everyone who keeps a dog will be obliged to provide the beast with a collar bearing the name of the owner. Wherever a mad dog is seen all the dogs in the whole province must be muzzled for sixty days.

The monument which will be erected on the grave of Major-General Kohler, the Commander-in-Chief of the first expedition to Atchin, is quite ready. It is—the papers say—beautiful. The managers of the Steam Ship Company Java will convey it without any charge for freight.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

There has prevailed a good demand in our market for Colonial Produce. Important parcels have changed hands both in public auctions and by private tender.

COFFEE.—The market is very firm since the auction, and very small lots are offered at auction prices. An advance is demanded for yellow sorts. There is a good demand for export. The quotation is for good ordinary 56½c. to 57½c.

TEA.—The auction of Java held by the Dutch Trading Company went off most satisfactorily; some very small lots only were bought in. The market closes firm.

SUGAR.—Notwithstanding that large lots of beetroot are offered prices are kept up very well. The position of the article is, however, most uncertain, and this, of course, checks business. The small lots which were sold obtained prices varying from f.½ to f.1 above November value.

RICE.—Nothing doing.

SPICES.—Attention has been fixed on the parcels which were offered for sale by the Dutch India Trading Bank. The whole quantity which was brought under the hammer was sold at firm prices. Vanilla meets with an enormous demand, and first quality Bourbon realises f.75 per half kilo.

TOBACCO.—To-day and to-morrow will be offered by private tender

15,749 bales Java. There is still a good demand for export.

COTTON.—Dull, without transactions.

JAVA INDIGO.—There is a steady trade at unaltered prices. For inferior quality there is but a very limited demand. The stock includes 1,480 chests.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Oct. 30, at Texel, from Batavia, Prinses Amalia (str.); 31, at Texel, from Batavia, Jason.

DEPARTURES.—Oct. 28, from Brouwershaven, for Sourabaya, Krimpen van de Lek; Nov. 1, from Texel, for Rangoon (via Liverpool), Mathilde; for Sourabaya, Ida Geertruida; 2, from Texel, for Batavia Anna Sophia.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, NOV. 10.

Contrary to the general expectation, the German Parliament was opened by the Emperor in person and with the usual formalities in the White Saloon of the Palace at Berlin, Prince Bismark being present, who handed to his Majesty the Speech from the Throne, which has been much commented on in a very unjust manner by the foreign press, from not being properly understood. I think what I said in my last letter about the re-organisation of the revived arm of the service called the Landsturm ought to allay any fears of an aggressive policy on the part of Germany; but if any doubts existed of the peaceable intentions of the Emperor and Prince Bismark (who drew up the Speech from the Throne) they must surely have disappeared after a perusal of the last paragraph, in which the Emperor gives a solemn assurance of his wish to remain at peace, and he is not in the habit of tampering with his word once given.

The business of the Session has now commenced in earnest, and among the first subjects for the consideration of the House was the Bill for the introduction of the new German currency in the Province of Alsace-Lorraine, where the circulation of French coins predominate, and there is no fixed relation of value with the German money. It is not intended for the present to prohibit the use of French coins, but the Bill introducing the reichsmark and pfennig fixes their value in francs and centimes in such a way that the franc is to remain a legal tender for all payments at the rate of eighty pfennigs as its equivalent, and five centimes to be equal to four pfennigs. At this rate of exchange French coins may be used in payment of taxes, duties, postage stamps, &c., in all Government Departments. No objection was made to the Bill, and it passed without a division. But though it went off so smoothly per se, it gave rise to a lively debate on another cognate subject that was unintentionally dragged into it. In the course of the debate a member complained of a paragraph in the "explanatory motives" accompanying the Bill that caused a wrong construction to be put on it. The words are, "The German gold coins already in circulation offer some, but not sufficient, replacement of the French gold coins now no longer current." From this he argued that any one not acquainted with the circumstances would conclude that if there was no superfluity of gold coin in the Empire, there was at least no direct scarcity, which was quite at variance with the facts of the case, as the new gold coins were so rare that public opinion believed they were all gone out of the country. He should like to receive some official information to calm down the apprehensions of the public, who were inclined to believe that it was in some way connected with the fixed price for coined silver as compared with gold.

Privy Councillor Michaelis could not deny that complaints had been made of an insufficiency of metallic currency in Alsace-Lorraine, in consequence of which the Government had quite recently sent thither a large supply of gold coin. It was not true that gold to any great amount had been exported, for though it was impossible to keep a check on the exports, the English and French import lists showed how much had been received from Germany, and the amount was quite insignificant Nor was it likely to increase for a long time, because the gold when fully introduced must first be absorbed by the people at home, before large sums could be collected and made available for export, even supposing the rate of exchange to be in favour of Germany, whilst at the present rates it would not pay to export gold.

Herr von Kardoff gathered from the remarks of the Government Commissioner that it was believed that the public were apathetic with regard to the introduction of the gold currency; but this was quite a mistaken idea, for the public were most anxiously waiting for the 1st of January, when the Currency Law would come into general operation everywhere but in Bavaria and Wurtemburg.

Dr. Bamberger protested against the way in which the debate was drifting into a subject for which the House was not prepared to enter into a discussion, and, as it was not on the order of the day, he thought it would be better to postpone any further consideration of the subject till the proposed Bank Law Bill was introduced, when the members would have ample opportunity of expressing their views and opinions.

After a few words of explanation from Herr Camphausen, the Minister of Finance, the subject was dropped and the Bill passed without any amendments in its original shape, and without a division.

The Bundesrath has been deliberating on the expediency of creating a uniform and universal sign to express the word "Reichsmark," and proposes the capital letter M. But this would manifestly cause great confusion, as 20m. may as well mean 20 metres as 20 marks. Besides the letter is already appropriated and in general use to represent metres. The sign made use of here to denote marks, which is something like our "&," is not generally known and understood in the interior, and it would be therefore far better to fix a new and arbitrary sign common to all Germany.

The Prince-Chancellor has sent a circular to all the Governments of the separate states proposing one uniform mode of packing the new coins in bags and rolls, to be observed at all the public revenue offices in the Empire. It would facilitate the control and save much time in counting large sums. He proposes that gold coins be packed in bags of 10,000 marks each, silver ditto in bags of 1,000 marks, nickel ditto of 100 marks, and copper ditto of fifty and twenty marks. For packing in rouleaux it is further proposed to use paper of uniform colour, pink for gold, white for silver, blue for nickel, and grey for copper.

A sensational telegram in The Times of last Monday, purporting to come from their correspondent at Berlin, and stating that the Russian Government have made up their minds at last as to the route for the Siberian railway, and decided in favour of the Orenburg line, requires confirmation, to say the least of it. The original emanates from a private telegraph agency at St. Petersburg, established by a German of the name of Krausner, and appeared in the Berlin evening papers of Saturday, and there is no reason to doubt that the correspondent telegraphed it on to The Times immediately. I may add that though the telegram in question appeared here in the Sunday papers nothing further about it is known, which is the more remarkable, as owing to the close relations of a commercial and financial nature between Russia and this city everything connected with those subjects is immediately known here. In the spring of this year the Russian Government granted a concession to an association of capitalists for the extension of the line from Morschansk—to which town the railway is open all the way from Moscow—to Orenburg, crossing the Wolga by a permanent railway bridge at Ssamara; by the terms of the concession the whole of the works are to be completed and the line opened for public traffic in three years, or the deposited caution-money will be forfeited. The works have been caried on with great energy all the summer on several sections simultaneously, and will be continued till interrupted by the frost. The concession was granted when Count Bobrinsky was Minister for Public Thoroughfares, but shortly afterwards he altered the whole principle of granting concessions, and made such a muddle of it that he quarrelled with the other Ministers, and finding his position no longer tenable resigned his appointment and retired into private life. Being the possessor of very extensive landed property in an agricultural district he is now residing on his estates. After an interregnum of two or three months, he was succeeded as Minister for Railways and Public Works by Admiral Possiet, who must be well known on the Eastern Coast of Asia, having served a long time on that station, where he founded the naval arsenal and dockyard at Vladivostock in Possiet Bay, after the cession of that district to Russia by the Treaty of Peking in 1860. The gallant Admiral has, it is true, entered on the duties of his office, but asked for and obtained a two-months' leave of absence, with the intention of travelling over all the Russian railways and inspecting those now in course of construction, and we have not yet heard of his return to St. Petersburg. My own belief is that the Orenburg Railway has nothing whatever to do with the Siberian line, and is being constructed for a very different purpose; and if it should be extended to Troisk and thence to the Amoor it would be a very roundabout way of going to Irkutsk and China, whereas a continuation from the present terminal station of Nijni Novgorod through Kasan, Yekatherinenburg, Omsk, and Tomsk, would lead thither in almost a direct line.

Herr Zappe, Acting Consul for Germany at Yokohama, has been appointed real Consul at that port.

COMMERCIAL.

Nothing has happened to interrupt the even course of our Produce Markets, which all continue in a calm and satisfactory condition. Of Tea the sales by importers were confined to 100 packages of Kaisow Congou, 200 ditto of Souchong, and 67 ditto of Pekoe,—all at previous rates. Rice appears to be giving way; some transactions in inferior and broken are reported at lower rates, and other sorts might be bought cheaper. Cassia-Lignea is firm, and meets a moderate sale at 65 to 66 marks. Flores is in demand at 110 to 112. Pepper has had a trifling fall, but is now recovering, but is still somewhat lower than last reported. Of Spelter there is none in loco, and is offered at 25½ marks for arrival per rail.

There is an improvement of from ½ to 2 per cent. in the value of most of the shares of the Hamburg banks, but the transactions in them were of limited extent. The following are the last quotations:—Norddeutsche 147½ to ¾, International 103¾ to ⅞, Commerz and Disconto, 83, Hamburg and Berlin 100, Hypothek 117½. Others not quoted.

SHIPPING.

No arrivals to report, and the only departures are the Papa to Hong Kong, and the Cassandra (str.) to Singapore and China.

The Tek-Li, for Shanghai, put back to Cuxhaven from stress of weather, as reported in last letter, has again proceeded to sea.

MR. GLADSTONE ON THE VATICAN DECREES.

The echoes of Mr. Gladstone's article upon Ritualism in the Contemporary Review have scarcely died away, when he again appears upon the field of current controversy in a Pamphlet upon the Vatican Decrees in their bearing on Civil Allegiance. The Pamphlet, indeed, arises out of the article, and is perhaps an illustration of the perils a statesman incurs who indulges in pamphleteering. His words are apt to touch some feeling or interest besides that which he had immediately in view, and a demand arises for explanations and justifications. Valuable, indeed, as the present Pamphlet may be in many respects, we cannot but contemplate with some alarm the mass of reading, if not of writing, which it may possibly entail upon its author. It is described on the title page as "A Political Expostulation." The Expostulation is addressed to English Roman Catholics, and it formally challenges them, in justice to themselves and their country, to demonstrate, if they can, how the obedience now required of them by the Pope can be reconciled with the integrity of their civil allegiance.

But these considerations enhance rather than otherwise the interest of the pamphlet. It deals with a controversy which is agitating Europe, and Mr. Gladstone's interposition will be of importance far beyond the limits of this kingdom. The main scope of the pamphlet is to justify a single passage in the previous article. Referring to the question "whether a handful of the clergy are or are not engaged in an utterly hopeless and visionary effort to Romanise the Church and people of England," Mr. Gladstone had said :—

"At no time since the bloody reign of Mary has such a scheme been possible. But if it had been possible in the seventeenth or eighteenth centuries, it would still have become impossible in the nineteenth : when Rome has substituted for the proud boast of semper eadem a policy of violence and change in faith ; when she has refurbished and paraded anew every rusty tool she was fondly thought to have disused ; when no one can become her convert without renouncing his moral and mental freedom and placing his civil loyalty and duty at the mercy of another ; and when she has equally repudiated modern thought and ancient history."

This pamphlet has called forth a letter from Dr. Manning, in which, addressing The Times, he says :—

"This morning I received a copy of a pamphlet entitled 'The Vatican Decrees in their bearing on Civil Allegiance.' I find in it a direct appeal to myself, both for the office I hold and for the writings I have published. I gladly acknowledge the duty that lies upon me for both those reasons. I am bound by the office I bear not to suffer a day to pass without repelling from the Catholics of this country the lightest imputation upon their loyalty ; and, for my teaching, I am ready to show that the principles I have ever taught are beyond impeachment upon that score.

"It is true, indeed, that in page 57 of the pamphlet, Mr. Gladstone expresses his belief 'that many of his Roman Catholic friends and fellow-countrymen,' are, 'to say the least of it, as good citizens as himself.' But as the whole pamphlet is an elaborate argument to prove that the teaching of the Vatican Council renders it impossible for them to be so, I cannot accept this graceful acknowledgment, which implies that they are good citizens because they are at variance with the Catholic Church.

"I should be wanting in duty to the Catholics of this country and to myself if I did not give a prompt contradiction to this statement, and if I did not with equal promptness affirm that the loyalty of our civil allegiance is not in spite of the teaching of the Catholic Church but because of it."

The Times, at the request of Lord Acton, has published what his Lordship calls a preliminary reply to Mr. Gladstone's public Expostulation. This reply, which is addressed to Mr. Gladstone, is lengthy, and concludes with the following remarks :—

"That opinions likely to injure our position as loyal subjects of a Protestant Sovereign, as citizens of a free State, as members of a community divided in religion, have flourished at various times, and in various degrees, that they can claim high sanction, that they are often uttered in the exasperation of controversy, and are most strongly urged at a time when there is no possibility of putting them into practice—this all men must concede. But I affirm that, in the fiercest conflict of the Reformation, when the rulers of the Church had almost lost heart in the struggle for existence, and exhausted every resource of their authority, both political and spiritual, the bulk of the English Catholics retained the spirit of a better time. You do not, I am glad to say, deny that this continues to be true. But you think that we ought to be compelled to demonstrate one of two things—that the Pope cannot, by virtue of powers asserted by the late Council, make a claim which he was perfectly able to make by virtue of powers asserted for him before ; or that he would be resisted if he did. The first is superfluous ; the second is not capable of receiving a written demonstration. Therefore, neither of the alternatives you propose to the Catholics of this country opens to us a way of escaping from the reproach we have incurred. Whether there is more truth in your misgivings or in my confidence the event will show, I hope, at no distant time."

THE IMPORT TRADE OF JAPAN.

Some interesting remarks on the causes of the decrease which has occurred of late years in the imports of Japan are contained in the annual report of the German Consulate at Nagasaki. It is evident, says the writer, that the Japanese merchants have greatly over-estimated the requirements of the country, in consequence of which there is a superfluity in all the markets of European manufactured and other goods, and prices have fallen accordingly. It is certainly singular that a country of about thirty millions of inhabitants should not be able to consume a greater quantity of European goods than it has hitherto done, and this can only be accounted for by the fact that the majority of the people are very poor, wearing but little clothing in winter and often none at all in summer, besides which the hand-woven Japanese cotton stuffs are very durable and wear a long time, so that many Japanese would rather buy them than European stuffs, though the latter are cheaper. It is also to be remarked that the Japanese take great care of their clothes, and consequently do not often require to buy new ones. The Japanese merchants, too, are very tenacious in keeping down the prices of imported goods ; the competition of Europeans has accustomed them to low prices, and they now do all they can to prevent a rise. The overstocking of the country with European goods of all kinds caused very heavy losses last year, both to foreign and native traders, and has produced a feeling of stagnation and apathy in business which has never been observed before. "An important incident," continues the report, "in the history of last year's import trade was the rumour which was circulated in Japan that the Government intended to issue an edict according to which all Japanese subjects were thenceforward to dress in the European style. The absurdity of this rumour was evident, for much more money is required for European clothing than the majority of the population could afford ; but the Government was just at that time introducing a number of novelties which were equally unexpected, and there were a great many Europeans as well as Japanese who, though they did not quite credit the report, yet allowed themselves to be intimidated by it. This caused a great want of confidence in business ; the Japanese became cautious and reserved, while the foreigners did all they could to sell their goods, as they were not suited either in size or in material for European clothing. At last it became certain that the dreaded edict was not to be issued after all; but the distrust and the fall in prices which it caused remained, and have continued ever since." The report states in conclusion that there is no present prospect of an improvement in this state of things, and that great caution should therefore be recommended to all persons who have business dealings with Japan.

RANGOON AND WESTERN CHINA.

At the inaugural banquet of the Morley Working Men's Conservative Association Sir Charles H. Firth, in proposing the toast of "Her Majesty's Ministers and both Houses of Parliament," said how well the Conservative Ministry was doing its duty, not only to its party but to the nation generally. Even their opponents were giving them credit for the statesmanlike manner in which our affairs were being managed ; and they were bound to do so, for the country could not be better governed by any Ministry. He hoped it would be given to the present Government to open up commerce with more nations than we had at present the privilege of dealing with. He observed with much satisfaction the arrangements which the Marquis of Salisbury had made with the view of finding out whether it was practicable to get a railway between Rangoon and Western China, so that trade with this country (which was at present so much wanted) might be opened up with that great empire. They wanted a Government which would undertake such valuable work as that, and not one which would break to pieces, and alter institutions, and fritter away session after session about things which they cared nothing about. England had been called a nation of shopkeepers. They were, and they were proud to be a nation of shopkeepers ; and one thing which they desired was that Her Majesty's Ministers and the Houses of Parliament would look to the commerce of the country, and not allow Germany to rob us of what we had so long enjoyed and been so proud of. Germany, through its war, had acquired greater prestige, and was carrying its spirit and enterprise into commerce. The Germans were able to produce goods cheaper than we could ; and the French nation, which had been such an admirable customer to us, being crippled in finances, was now obliged to buy in the cheapest market, and that market was Germany, instead of England

THE WAR IN ATCHIN.

The Pall Mall Gazette says :—Referring to the recent discussion in Holland of the policy pursued in Atchin, and General Van Swieten's defence of it, it may be interesting to note, from independent sources, that the actual measures taken for garrisoning the citadel won—which is known locally as Kotta Raja—agree exactly with the moderate proposals originally made, and defended by the General as sufficient. Colonel Pel was left at the Kraton with a force of 2,600 infantry, 600 artillery, and 60 engineers, which General Van Swieten calculated would be enough to hold easily the strong works previously put in order, and to detach a column of one thousand men at any time from them, so as either to dislodge any hostile body showing itself near, or to keep perfectly clear the strip of three miles of ground which intervenes between Kotta Raja and the harbour where the Dutch vessels lie. Colonel Pel's instructions directed him to guard what had been won effectively, including, of course, the all-important communication with the sea ; but to undertake no offensive operation not actually required for his own security, and to use all proper means to make peace with the native Powers. As it is known that a number of dependent chiefs have since voluntarily entered into terms with the Dutch, while the attacks of the war-party among the Atchinese who keep the Sultan from submission have been shattered quite as easily as that of the Ashantees last year on our own post of Abracrampa, it may be inferred that the Dutch are fairly established in Sumatra, and little likely to quit it. It is as well to note, in contradiction of the loose statements of certain correspondents as to the deadly nature of the climate of Atchin, that the greater part of Colonel Pel's garrison are volunteers from the late expedition, and that there has been no difficulty in supplying the vacancies in it by men offering themselves for the relieving parties.

RUSSIAN OPINION OF ENGLAND IN THE FAR EAST.—The Russian press has a very enlightened idea about our relations with China and Japan. The Invalide says that England, having failed to involve Japan in a pernicious war with China, is now trying to humiliate the Mikado by refusing to withdraw her garrison from Yokohama. The Mikado is, however, determined to urge his demand, and, in return for an amendment of existing Treaties, will admit foreigners to the interior. While Japan is so fast becoming an important naval Power, to the great annoyance of the British Embassy, "China," the same semi-official organ continues, "is equally anxious to strengthen her defences. She has already 100,000 men armed with European rifles, her European gunboats have proved a perfect success in a raid against the Yellow Sea pirates, and she has just ordered a fresh supply of Krupp cannon, at the cost of 14,000,000 roubles." The Corea Government have accorded the Chinese sundry commercial privileges, which it is expected will be shortly extended to other nations.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing to the Pall Mall Gazette, with reference to Colonel Gordon's expedition, quotes a letter from the Colonel, dated 2nd of August, in which he says :—"I have done a good stroke of work in getting rid of three large slave stations, though it has given me some trouble. They used to send down 1,000 slaves per annum. It is little by little any good can be done, and to do it you must not spare pains, but go everywhere and see for yourself. The sources of the Nile can wait for a time, as they have done for some hundreds of years ; and human beings are more important than they are." And in another letter :—"I have no high-flown ideas of being able to civilise Africa ; all I can do is to give the blacks peace and security."

THE Nederland Company's steamer Voorwaarts, from Southampton on the 21st September, arrived at Batavia, via Padang, on the 29th Oct., having made a passage of thirty-seven days' inclusive of stoppages.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Sir SAMUEL BAKER,

In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Faky that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates by this mail reach to the 6th Oct.; but via San Francisco we have advices of the arrival of the steamer China on the 7th inst., with Yokohama advices to the 14th Oct. The following items have been telegraphed to the New York papers:—

Takah and Tamita, Japanese consuls, to reside in San Francisco and New York respectively, arrived to-day.

The Government of Korea promised to send to Japan the heads of all persons implicated in the insult of the Japanese Government.

The Japanese Government has purchased an additional number of transport ships to be used in event of a war with China. They have also purchased the French steamer Charles Albert.

A new form of Japanese marriage, by which the ceremony becomes a civil contract, has been introduced by Mori, formerly Charge d'Affaires at Washington. The first marriage under this system is that of Towita, appointed Consul at New York.

Wooyeno left for London, via Suez. This officer has had considerable foreign experience, first as Commissioner to Honolulu to investigate the question of Japanese coolies in Hawaii; next as agent in London to superintend the settlement of Lay's railway loan difficulty; was in 1871 head of the Yokohama Custom-house; was afterwards in the Treasury and Foreign Departments at Yedo, and was appointed United States Minister in 1872 to relieve Mori, but was detained by police business. His last position was that of Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 9th Oct.; the French mail from London August 14 was received on the 29th Sept., and the following P. and O. mail of August 21 arrived out on the 3rd Oct. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

The Chinese officials here gave forth on the 29th Sept. that the negotiations between the Chinese Government and the Japanese Ambassador had resulted in the settlement of the leading questions at issue, leaving details only to be arranged, and that there would be no war. The news is stated to have come to the Viceroy at Nanking. It appears to have become known in Japan, and private telegrams indicate that an impetus has been given to trade by the restoration of confidence in commercial circles. The report has all probability in favour of its truth, but we should like to have it confirmed from Peking before giving it full weight. Nothing has yet transpired publicly from there regarding the progress or result of the negotiations, although we have dates by this day's steamer to the 1st instant.

We hear that the Chinese Government has at last become alive to the advantages of working its mineral treasures, and has given permission to have coal and iron mines opened in the south-west of the province of Chihli, near a place called Pung-ching. The Viceroy of the province, Li Hung-chang, is said to have favoured the scheme, which will probably be carried out under official direction. Foreign machinery is to be employed, and it has been decided to secure the services of half-a-dozen European engineers to superintend operations. This news has since been confirmed, and it is stated that the Viceroy has commissioned Mr. James Henderson—a gentleman who has for a number of years devoted his attention to such matters in the part of China selected for these promising operations, and has gained much practical acquaintance with the mining capabilities and requirements of the province—to proceed to Europe and procure the necessary staff and plant.

We noticed a short time ago that the French corvette D'Estrees had left here for Japan, and that it was intended she should pay the Chusan Archipelago a visit by the way. We presume the intention of calling at the islands was in consequence of the representations sent from Ningpo, regarding the rarity of the visits of men-of-war to that neighbourhood. The D'Estrees did not go up to Ningpo, however; she lay off Chinhai, and attracted the attention of the Chinese there by taking the opportunity for gun practice. Large numbers of people, we are told, congregated along the shore, in some excitement, to watch the corvette; and perhaps her appearance and the practice she engaged in conveyed a salutary hint. The Ningpo officials seem to think, however, that to prevent misapprehension among the people, it is advisable such incidents should be heralded by an intimation of some sort.

Four of H. B. M. ships of the China squadron, under the command of Vice Admiral Shadwell, have arrived at Woosung. They are the flagship Iron Duke, the new corvette Modeste, and the gun-vessels Frolic and Midge. The future movements of the squadron are as yet uncertain, but it is understood that after a short stay at this port each ship will be despatched to a separate station, not, however, yet announced. The squadron left Nagasaki, where it had assembled, on the 4th Oct., and had a pleasant voyage, making the passage under sail with a fair wind throughout.

It is interesting to notice the occasional mention in the Peking Gazette of instances in which foreign facilities are taken advantage of by the Chinese Government for Imperial purposes. We have seen that the use of steamers has been approved for the transport of the tribute rice; an official travelling in haste to his post sometimes ventures to refer to his having taken passage by a foreign steamer; we know that the southern students avail themselves largely of the same means of accomplishing the major part of their journey to attend the examinations at the capital; and now the Gazette of Sept. 17 contains a memorial from the Viceroy of the Two Kwang, the late Juy-lin, in which reference is made to the sending of Government treasure by steamer, in lieu of by land route. In the Gazette of March 25, a Censor named Liu Jui-k'i memorialised against the practice, which had grown up since the Rebellion, of forwarding the periodical remittances of revenue from the provinces to Peking in bank drafts instead of in specie, as the short supply of silver in circulation at the capital led to a disturbance of its monetary affairs. The Censor referred especially to the provinces of Kwangtung, Fohkien, Chekiang, and Szechuen, and suggested that orders should be given to have all the land and miscellaneous revenue from those provinces remitted in specie by the old land routes. The matter was referred to the Board of Revenue, which apparently did not endorse the suggestion as to route, although it could not permit itself so far to depart from the old paths as to recognise the barbarian invention of steamers. The Viceroy has put the matter to the Throne, and asks that the transmission by sea be officially recognised, and that the charge for insurance on the treasure, "according to the rules observed in shipments by foreign steamers," be specially sanctioned. The Government will probably be led to recognise by-and-by that there are even safer and speedier means of transport than steamers. And a time will come, too, when, under a different regime and at a very different stage of national development, the officials will look back with amazement on the primitive practice of remitting Government revenue in sycee packed in hollow tree trunks and laboriously carted from one end of the Empire to the other.

The barque Lady Louisa, from Cardiff, coal laden, arrived at Woosung on the 26th Sept., and was reported by the steamer Kiangse to be aground, with her cargo on fire. Assistance was rendered by boats from the men-of-war, furnished with engines and hose, while the Keechong engine also got alongside and gave timely aid in extinguishing the fire. A copious stream of water having been concentrated on the burning cargo the fire was got under, but not until some 120 tons of coal were either consumed or thrown overboard. The Lady Louisa left Cardiff on the 8th April, and had a very tedious passage as far as Video, which she reached on her 165th day out. It was then discovered that her cargo was on fire, and all efforts to extinguish it were ineffectual. The fire being far below, the crew were set to work to dig a trench to separate the bulk from that on fire in the forward part of the ship, and by the time the vessel reached port they had succeeded in throwing overboard about fifty tons. It is thought that the insignificant sum of about $25 will cover the damage done by the fire to the hull of the vessel.

The Shanghai Yacht Club's programme for the Autumn Regatta has just been issued, and comprises the Autumn Cup, to be sailed for on the 10th October; the Corinthian Cup, 17th, and the Club Cup on the 26th. Houseboat races are also set down for the 17th and 26th.

Among the passengers by the Golden Age, from Japan, are the Hon. B. P. Avery, the new United States Minister to China, and Mrs. Avery.

We observe that Mr. A. Garay replaces, as Consul-General for Spain, Mr. J. J. de Emperanza, who left by the American mail.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 15th October; the P. and O. mail from London Aug. 21 was received on the 26th September, the French mail of Aug. 28 arrived out on the 3rd October, and the P. and O. mail of 4th Sept. was received on the 10th October. The following items of news are from the Overland China Mail:—

The clock, in the tower, is at work again; the hands are doing their work and the hours are rung out. The skeletons of the dials, as yet, are only replaced. Bravo! somebody.

The opening cricket match of the season was played on the 3rd between two picked elevens, not a sufficient number of players turning up to make a twenty-two. At six o'clock the stumps were drawn; one side scoring 108, and the other, with six wickets down, twenty-two.

The steamer Yuen-tze-fee arrived with three men from the German barque Colina, and the mate, second mate, and eight of the crew of the British barque Ida (of Shields), both lost on Zebu, August 29, and on her passage from Saigon to that port to load for home.

We understand that for the present the demolished stones of the Praya wall are merely to be replaced in their former position, the object being to have time to consider the best means to render the Praya more substantial and having more facility to resist the tremendous violence of the typhoon.

We are glad to learn that a fair amount has been subscribed by the Portuguese residents and the majority of the foreign community (who seem to sympathise with those who were sufferers at Macao), to the "Macao Relief Fund," and that the Portuguese Amateurs, who have expressed to the committee their willingness of adding to it the net proceeds of a series of their performances, have at present in rehearsal a favourite piece, entitled A Morgadinha de Mal Flor, which will, if possible, be presented on the 31st of this month. Colonel Smith and the officers of H.M.'s 80th Regiment have kindly placed at the disposal of the Amateurs their band, whenever they shall decide to perform for the benefit of the Macao sufferers.

At the late session of the Supreme Court Mr. Cordes applied for exemption from duty on the jury, on the ground that he was German Consul, and had many duties to attend to. His lordship said that there was no case for exemption, that he would, however, do the best he could. He mentioned, also, that Mr. Newton, the manager of the Gas Company, had applied for exemption, on the ground that if he were absent from the works the town to-night would be in total darkness. As, however, there were sufficient gentlemen to serve without these two gentlemen, they were excused, his lordship remarking that he exempted Mr. Cordes on the ground of the duties he had to perform towards the sailors of his nation, and not on account of his being Consul. His lordship wished it to be clearly understood that the fact of holding a Consular appointment did not entitle a gentleman to exemption from the discharge of his civil duties.

Consequent on the departure of Sir Arthur Kennedy, Mr. Austin assumes the administration of the Government. Mr. C. C. Smith becomes Acting Colonial Secretary, Mr. May Acting Colonial Treasurer, Mr. Russell Acting Registrar-General, and Mr. Mitchell Acting Junior Police-Magistrate.

Tenders are invited for getting off the P.M.S.S. Company's steamer Alaska, which took the ground at Aberdeen during the typhoon. It is hoped to get her afloat on Oct. 24 at the spring tides.

The cotton on board Messrs. Sassoon and Co.'s s.s. China caught fire on the night of the 8th. It was happily extinguished in time to save the ship.

There seems to be but little probability of a regatta this year, all the racing boats having been destroyed by the typhoon. A fire, which destroyed six Chinese houses, broke out on the morning of the 13th in Queen's-road, just below Messrs. Gibb, Livingston, and Co.'s premises. Fortunately these escaped, but the destruction of the houses fired was complete.

The Albay and Leonor wrecks, over which the water has turned black, and emits a horribly offensive odour, are surrounded by hosts of sampans crowded with people. Lounging coolies assemble near the spot by hundreds. In fact all the conditions for starting a first-class pestilence are ready at hand.

The bodies of thirty or forty Europeans are lying on the rocks of the island of Lantao, at a height of twenty or thirty feet above the sea level. They must have been flung to this height by the force of the waves and wind during the typhoon of the 22nd. We are further informed that they are in a position almost inaccessible. We think, however, that some steps should be taken to ascertain the correctness of this report and an attempt, at least, made to give the remains of any bodies that may be on the rocks a decent burial.

In addition to the losses from the typhoon already reported we may note that at Little Hong Kong the picnic house is blown down altogether, with several other houses. On the Kowloong side, at Tai-kok-tsui, about 150 boats and junks were wrecked, and Colonel Pang Yuk's steam launch was broken up. At Mong-kok no lives were lost but several houses are in ruins; at Malan-kok ten junks were wrecked. Nearly the whole lower part of the village of To-kwa-wan is in ruins. At Stonecutter's Island the gaol has been unroofed and irreparably damaged; about 100 junks and boats were driven on shore, and several others foundered off the north of the island.

The conduct of Captain Deane, Superintendent of Police, during the recent typhoon having given cause for complaint, some correspondence, together with a petition on the subject, was forwarded to the Colonial Secretary. The following reply has been received:—

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

HONG KONG, 13TH OCTOBER, 1874.

SIR,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th inst., and to acquaint you in reply that the allegations contained in the petition which accompanied it have been the subject of careful investigation by his Excellency the Governor, who has failed to discover sufficient grounds to justify the institution of a public enquiry into the conduct of the Captain Superintendent of Police.

I have also the honour to inform you that, whilst deeply regretting that any portion of the community should have had their confidence in the direction of the police force shaken, his Excellency feels it incumbent on him to state that at no time in the history of the Colony has the character and efficiency of the police stood higher.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient servant,

J. GARDINER AUSTIN, Colonial Secretary.

The residence in China of the unfortunate gentleman (Mr. Mundy) who was so badly wounded by the Spark pirates, and recently went home was singularly eventful. He arrived, if we are not mistaken, only some four or five months ago, and during his short stay experienced an earthquake, was nearly murdered, and ran considerable danger in a typhoon. The comet put in an appearance also during his stay. We fear his recollections of China will be mildly antagonistic.

The last Government Gazettes contain a notification by the Captain Superintendent of Police requiring the owners or agents of the steamers and sailing vessels sunk during the late typhoon to raise them before the 15th November next. It also contained a recognition, under instructions from the Secretary of State, of the appointment of Mr. Taro Ando as Vice-Consul for Japan at Hong Kong.

Tenders are invited by Government for repairing the public buildings damaged by the recent typhoon, as well as for the supply of rough hewn granite blocks for the Praya Wall.

The appointment of a new Governor General for the Two Kwang continues to be the subject of talk at Canton. From the general drift of the discussions, Chang-yih-li seems to be most popular with the Cantonese. It may not be improbable however that Shen-paow-ching, the present Chief Commissioner at Formosa, may be appointed to the vacant post, for he is very popular with the Cabinet. Since Juilin's death, the Viceroyalty remains unfilled. Properly speaking, the Lieutenant-Governor was entitled to act until the place was finally disposed of, but it is rumoured that the general put in a claim to the acting post, when it was arranged at the suggestion of the other high officials that neither should be locum tenens, and the Viceroyal seal was sealed up so that neither could exercise the functions until a solution of the difficulty could be obtained from Peking.

The following items are from Macao:—We are glad to hear that his Excellency the Governor of Macao is regaining his health, as he has been out driving the last two or three days. We trust that a speedy recovery to his usual health awaits him.

We are informed that the surveyors of the Hong Kong, Canton, and Macao Steamboat Company have been to Macao, and inspected the wreck of the steamer White Cloud, which they report to be badly injured and on shore. They recommend the sale of the vessel as she lies, and state that there will be no difficulty in recovering the engine and boilers.

The China Mail's correspondent writes:—Every precaution has been taken by the Macao authorities to alleviate the sufferings of the people who have lost their all during the calamity of the 22nd and 23rd instants. Food in sufficient quantity is being distributed to all comers at all the parishes. Trees are being cut down in the Campo to make room for one hundred mat-sheds, which are now being raised for the accommodation of all those who have been rendered houseless by the dreadful visitation. To prevent any further attacks from lawless vagabonds the National Battalion has been called out for active duty, for which they are paid by the exchequer. Presents of money have been made most liberally to all the respectable citizens who have lost their all. Dead bodies by thirties and forties are being taken outside the town and burned—cremation being wisely adopted for disposing of such a great quantity of human remains with safety to the living. All Chinese found perambulating the streets at the dead hours of night are shot down. Such are the measures adopted by Governor S. Januario, and for which we are thankful to him. Let his enemies say what they like, but I will follow the maxim Date Cæsariquod Cæsaris est.

The China Mail, in noticing the recent Order in Council constituting Shanghai a port of entry has, the following:—"We trust that the Order in Council will be received with the utmost gratitude that can be awarded to a long-denied right at last conferred as a favour, and that British trade, interests, and prestige in China will gain as much by the grant as they have lost by its being withheld."

The same journal has an article upon "Corea" and the rumour that has been circulated to the effect that all the statesmen hostile to Japan have been imprisoned. If (says the Mail) any such reaction as represented in favour of Japan has really taken place it may doubtless be in part attributed to the figure which China has cut in Formosa matter, and which we may be tolerably sure has been painted in anything but respectful terms by agents in the Japanese interest. What Japan thinks of her new ally we have as yet no means of judging; but we suspect that her Government would much rather that she had remained in her old attitude of insolent dislike.

The deed executed by Messrs. Gustav Raynal and Carl Milisch, trading as Raynal and Co., assigning their property to trustees, for the benefit of their creditors, has been registered in the Bankruptcy Court with the release granted by the creditors.

It is notified that creditors and others having claims upon the estate of Adolph Eimbcke Frederick Frost, and Sue-ah-ki, deceased, must forward particulars to the Supreme Court before the 31st July 1875.

The official account of the average amount of Bank Notes in circulation during the month ended Sept. 30 is as follows:—

The ordinary half-yearly meeting of the Union Insurance Society of Canton has been held at the offices of the Society; T. Pyke, Esq., in the chair. There were present Hon. James Whittall, Hon. P. Ryrie, Hon. R. Rowett, Messrs. Pyke, Hoppius, Behre, Nelson, Captain Cairns, Andre, Deacon, Karberg, Beneke, and Ede.

The Chairman said that the shareholders had no doubt already perused the report, which he hoped they would consider satisfactory under the circumstances which had taken place. The report had been made up prior to the recent typhoon, and some losses had been sustained during it by collision, &c., the extent of which it was impossible to arrive at until the cargo had been discharged. With these explanations he would propose that the report be adopted and the accounts passed.

This proposition was seconded by Mr. Andrè, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Hoppius was then confirmed as a director, and the auditors were re-elected.

The Chairman indicated that a meeting would be called for the purpose of deciding upon the formation of an accumulative reserve fund, and he alluded to the circular which had been issued on the subject. The meeting then terminated.

The circular alluded to is as follows:—

"Dear Sir,—The directors have recently been considering the advisableness of making some alterations in the articles of association of the society with reference to the accumulation and augmentation of the reserve fund.

"They have been informed by some of the largest contributing shareholders that if some provision were made for accumulating the reserve fund more rapidly than can be done under the present system it would very much promote the interests of the society and extend its business materially. The directors fully concur with this opinion, and have much pleasure in proposing to the shareholders the following alterations in the Articles of Association, to take effect from the 1st January, 1875:—

"It is suggested that one-half of the profits should be placed to the reserve fund until the full sum of $250,000 is made up, the other half going to contributing shareholders, who would by that means receive exactly what they would get on their contributions under the present arrangement, viz., two-thirds of three-fourths, or, in other words, one-half. No general dividend would be paid, but the value of the shares would be increased thereby.

"When once the reserve fund has been made up to $250,000, it is proposed that the profits should be divided as at present, two-thirds to the contributing shareholders, and one-third to all shareholders, less a deduction of 10 per cent. to be added to the reserve fund until such time as it should amount to $500,000. These modifications, if adopted, would, in the opinion of the board, give the society great stability, and would secure the increased support of many valuable constituents in England and elsewhere.

"The clauses necessary for effecting these alterations in the Articles of Association will be drawn up by the society's solicitors and arranged in the form of specific resolutions, to be submitted to a special meeting of shareholders, which will be convened for that purpose on the 11th day of December next, and to be confirmed at a subsequent meeting to be held on the 18th idem.

"The directors solicit your support to these alterations, and I annex a form of proxy, which they will feel obliged if you will fill up and return to me at your earliest convenience. If you have no attorney in Hong Kong who is a shareholder, be so kind as to fill up the proxy in favour of the chairman of the special meetings above referred to.

"N. J. EDE, Secretary."

The ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the Canton Insurance Office was held at Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co.'s. The report having been adopted the Chairman proposed that the first dividend of $150 per share for the office of 1873, and the first payment of the reserve two-thirds, amounting to $90,000, or $13.80 per cent. on contributions, be declared; also, that the sum of $50,000 be passed to the reserve fund. The shareholders would remember that it was decided that either $10,000 or more ought to be put to the reserve fund. The past year being so favourable, and the present year not looking so satisfactory, he thought it right that $50,000 should be put to the reserve fund, in place of the minimum, and that was the general opinion of the consulting committee.

Mr. Bellilios seconded the motion, and it was carried.

Mr. Ryrie then proposed that the annual pension of $1,200 to an old and valuable servant of the company, Capt. Ricketts, be continued.

This having been carried, and the consulting committee having been re-elected, a vote of thanks to the Chairman terminated the meeting.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The following items are from the Siam Weekly Advertiser:—

H. M. the Supreme King of Siam, by advice and consent of the Senabaudee and Councillors of State, issued a proclamation by which all princes, nobles, citizens, and subjects of Siam, and foreign residents, Asiatics and Europeans, are forbid possessing to keep on their premises, in their houses, or their establishments the "Gatling Gun."

The Siamese Government has published a gratifying proclamation on the subject of gambling. It shows that the Government is averse to gambling. Though its action relates to youth, and is designed to protect the youth of the country from the dissipation, vice and evil effects of gambling, it may be taken as an unmistakable demonstration of the fixed purpose of the Government to check this fascinating and ruinous vice, that has acquired so tenacious a hold on the people of Siam.

The Privy Council recently held a session, and had under consideration the subject of a Telegraph. Its decision was that it would be better for the Government to construct the Telegraph than to commit the work to a company. This decision will be sent to the Council of State and to the Senabaudee as usual for further action. Votes stood forty-five for and three against.

Naval and Military.

The troopship Adventure, which took out reliefs and supernumeraries to the ships on the Australian station, went on to the Fiji Islands, and would proceed from there to the Sandwich Islands and Japan, but it is not likely that she will embark the marines at Yokohama until they are relieved. No orders have as yet been issued for the despatch of reliefs from Chatham.

We understand that a meeting has been held of the principal officers of the administrative department of the Army, presided over by the Duke of Cambridge, at which it was resolved to abolish what is known as the "Control Department," and to return to the original system of transport and supply, with certain modifications.

The Undaunted, 31, wooden frigate, 4,020 (3,039) tons, 2,503 (600) horse power, is at Sheerness Dockyard, being thoroughly overhauled, to carry the flag of the new Commander-in-Chief of the East Indies, in relief of the Glasgow. The amount of work to be done to her will necessitate her being in hand till February next.

The Egeria, 4, composite sloop, Commander R. L. Turton, has made her six hours full speed steam trial at Devonport, and has since sailed for the China Station.

Commander Ralph L. Turton, who has been appointed to the command of the Egeria, recently commissioned for China, served in the Ariadne, 26, as mate, from December 3, 1859, until promoted to lieutenant, April 24, 1860. On the 1st of the following month he was appointed to the Edgar, 91, Captain James E. Katon, flag-ship of Rear-Admiral John E. Erskine, with the Channel Squadron, and on May 20, 1861, was transferred to the Rinaldo, 17, Captain W. N. W. Hewett, C.B., fitting at Portsmouth for the North American and West Indian Station, in which ship he returned to England, and was paid off in February, 1865. On the 8th of the following June he was appointed to the Arethusa, 35, Captain R. J. J. G. Macdonald, fitting at Sheerness for the Mediterranean, and returned in her to England, and was paid off, January 7, 1869. He commanded the Raven gun-boat at Kingstown from December 11, 1869, until September 8, 1870, when he obtained command of the Pigeon gun-boat fitting at Devonport to replace the lost Trinculo at Gibraltar. He left England on the 1st of the following October in the Pigeon, and arrived at Gibraltar on the 17th, and accompanied, in January, 1871, part of the Eclipse Expedition to Estepona, where the duration was rather longer than at Gibraltar and gave a better chance of obtaining a long series of photographs. He was promoted to commander from the Pigeon, December 29, 1871, and has served as second captain in the Favourite, 10, armour-plated screw corvette, Captain Leveson E. H. Somerset, employed in coastguard service at Queensferry since September 24, 1872.

The acceptance by Admiral Sir A. L. Kuper, G.C.B., of the pension of £300 per annum, lately held by Admiral Sir Robert Smart, will, in connection with the previous retirement of Admiral Sir Sydney Dacres, make a vacancy on the Admirals' List, which will promote Vice-Admiral Sir George St. Vincent King, Rear-Admiral G. T. P. Hornby, and Captain Luard; while the compulsory retirement of Vice-Admiral Erasmus Ommaney will give a step in rank to Rear-Admiral Sir Charles Shadwell and to Captain John Corbet, C.B.

Notice is given to all persons interested, that the distribution of the amount awarded for salvage services rendered to the steamship Hai Loong, in April 1872, by Her Majesty's ship Elk, will commence on the 20th inst. The following are the shares due to an individual in the several classes:—Commander, £81 19s. 4d.; third class, £43 7s. 11d.; fourth class, £28 18s. 9d.; fifth class, £17 7s. 3d.; sixth class, £14 9s. 4d.; seventh class, £10 2s. 7d.; eighth class, £5 15s. 8d.; ninth class, £2 17s. 10d.; tenth class, £1 8s. 11d.

Lieutenant H. H. Edwards, of the gunboat Wizard, has been promoted to the rank of Commander. He served in the Renaud from 1860 to 1863; in the Adventure, troopship, in 1867; in the Insolent, gunboat, which he commanded, in 1868; and in the Leven, gunboat, in 1869 and 1870. All these vessels were at the times mentioned on the China Station.

A monument has been placed in the chapel of Her Majesty's Dockyard, Devonport, to the memory of Commander George Borlase, R.N., and those of the crew of Her Majesty's ship Hart, who died between June, 1870, and February, 1874, by their surviving shipmates of that commission.

The following appointments to the China Fleet have been made:—Mr. James Taylor, second-class boatswain, to the Princess Charlotte; and Mr. W. Ricketts, second-class gunner, to the Vigilant.

Lieutenant W. Grant, of the second battalion of the 6th Regiment, and aide-de-camp to Major-General Street, C.B., in command at Ceylon, is about to be promoted to a company.

Lieutenant J. S. Rothwell, of the Royal Artillery, now serving in Ceylon, has been promoted to the rank of Captain, and appointed to Gibraltar.

A medical board has reported that Major Garnier, of the Royal Engineers, is unfit for service in China. He will therefore remain on sick leave in England pending the decision of the Commander-in-Chief.

Commander John A. Fisher, who served on the China station in the Chesapeake, the Furious, and the Ocean (flagship), h s been promoted to the rank of Captain.

Mr. Cape, now serving as Dispenser at Hong Kong, has been ordered to England, and will be succeeded by Mr. Ewing, the dispenser at Great Yarmouth.

The death of Navigating-lieutenant John F. Barnes, who served in the Havock, gunboat, on the China station, from 1864 to 1867, is announced.

Staff-Surgeon A. Watson has been appointed to the Iron Duke, flagship of Sir Charles Shadwell, and will proceed to join her at Singapore.

Oumra Matsujiro, of Japan, is a candidate for entry at the Royal Naval College at Greenwich, which is likely to be opened to foreigners.

The new flagship of the China Squadron, the Audacious, arrived at Malta on the 14th inst., and will continue her voyage on the 22nd.

A number of engine-room artificers belonging to the Channel Squadron have volunteered for service in Hong Kong Dockyard.

The despatch vessel Vigilant, Lieut.-Commander Ryder, arrived at Port Said on the 6th inst., en route to the China station.

THE P. AND. O. COMPANY AND THE PASSENGERS BY THE CEYLON.

The passengers on board the P. and O. steamer Ceylon write a letter of complaint to the Chairman of the Company, which is published in The Times, in which it is stated that they were detained at Suez for five days because of the non-arrival of passengers and mails from Southampton. A further ground of complaint is stated to be the want of consideration shown by the Company's employés at Alexandria in not making known thearrangements, so as to obviate the necessity for the passengers remaining at so uninteresting and inconvenient a place as Suez. In reply to this communication, Mr. Bethune, the Company's secretary, writes, explaining that the delay was caused by the breakage of two of the blades of the screw-propeller of the outward mail steamer Surat. He admits that if the Surat's accident had been of a preventable character the company might have been held to blame, but in the present case the circumstances were exceptional, and it was therefore impossible to tell what measures were necessary, and the directors considered it best simply to authorise the company's agents to allow all passengers detained in Egypt to remain on board the ship at the company's expense.

COOPER v. THE LONDON DOCK COMPANY.

This was a dispute as to the right to a consignment of silk from Shanghai, under these circumstances:—A firm of Scheidler and Co., at London and Shanghai, entered into an arrangement with a bar' at Amsterdam to ship goods to Shanghai for sale by an agent there, the banker at Amsterdam advancing funds and receiving the proceeds. Several consignments had been made and had once been remitted in bank bills. The agent at Shanghai had then received a quantity of cotton goods, which he had sold, and had the proceeds in his hands. The banker wrote to him to "remit net proceeds" of consignments, and he bought a quantity of silk—the silk now in question—and shipped it on board a vessel for London. Receiving a telegram that Scheidlers had suspended payment, he endorsed the bill of lading to the banker at Amsterdam. While the vessel was on its voyage, and before the banker knew of the shipment, Scheidlers filed their petition in bankruptcy for an arrangement, and the banker afterwards sold the silk, which, on its arrival in the London Docks, was claimed both by the purchaser and the trustee. The Dock Company, indemnified by the banker, declined to give the silk up, and hence this action by the trustee to recover the value. At the trial the trustee had a verdict for £1,200, the question of law being reserved.

On the part of the trustee it was argued that the purchase of the silk was on behalf of Scheidlers, and passed to the trustee; that the agent had no authority to "remit the proceeds" in goods, but in cash; that therefore the consignment to the banker was unauthorised, and possessed no property in the silk, so that the purchaser had no title to it, and the trustee was entitled to recover the value. On the other side it was contended that the agent had authority to remit the proceeds in goods, and had done so, and that therefore the property had passed to the banker, and from him to the purchaser, and that thus the latter and not the trustee was entitled to recover the value. Moreover, it was said that even though the agent had no authority to remit in goods the banker might adopt his act. To this it was answered that there could be no ratification or adoption after the proceedings in bankruptcy had intervened. However, after long argument, the Court decided in favour of the purchaser, on the ground that the banker from whom he purchased had, by selling the silk, accepted it, and adopted and ratified the act of sending it as a remitment of the net proceeds to which he was entitled. Judgment, therefore, for the defendants.

THE DEATH OF MR. GEORGE TOWNEND.—An inquest has been held before Mr. G. H. Hull, coroner for West Surrey, at Byfleet, on the body of Mr. George Townend, of Shrapnell-park, Byfleet, and Mincing-lane, London, tea broker, who died under very peculiar circumstances, on the 6th inst., as recorded in our paper of 9th inst. It appeared from the evidence of the butler of the deceased gentleman that a few days since he was driven by the coachman, in accordance with the usual morning custom, to the Weybridge Station, to catch the early train to London. At five o'clock in the evening he was met at the station by the coachman, and driven to his residence. He had scarcely entered the house when he was seized with violent retching. He complained of great pain, and at his request some warm tea was given to him. He retired to his bedroom, and as he continued to get worse a medical man was sent for. On his arrival he pronounced the case a hopeless one, and the deceased died shortly after eight o'clock. The stomach and viscera of the deceased were sent to Dr. Stevenson, of Guy's Hospital, for analysis. This gentleman said he found the mucous coat of the stomach partially eaten away, but in no place perforated. He found in the fluid in the stomach about the third of a teaspoonful of sulphuric acid. The quantity found in the stomach was not sufficient to cause death, but it was possible that a portion of the acid had been got rid of by the retching. The coroner said the evidence was not satisfactory as determining the cause of the death of the deceased. The inquest was adjourned for the production of further evidence.

ON the 11th inst. there was launched from the building yard of Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co. an iron spar-decked steamer, named the Esmeralda. She is of the following dimensions:—Length, 190 feet; breadth, 27 feet; depth 20 feet, and 660 tons. This vessel has been built under special survey, and has been classed A1 at Lloyds. She will be brigantine rigged, fitted with compound condensing engines of 110-horse power nominal, and with all the latest improvements. She has accommodation for first and second-class passengers, and she has been constructed on the most approved plans for light, ventilation, &c. The ceremony of christening was performed by Miss Nellie Manson, daughter of John Manson, Esq., banker. The Esmeralda has been built to the order of Messrs, Peele, Hubbll, and Co., Manila, and is the tenth vessel built by Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co. for the China seas. She is intended to run between Hong Kong and Manila, in connection with the Pacific Mail Company's steamers, and will be under command of Captain E. Theband, who is well and favourably known in the East. The vessel took the water beautifully, and was immediately afterwards taken to the shear poles to receive her machinery. Another steamer is on the stocks for China.

JAPANESE EMPLOYEES.—The Alta of San Francisco has the following:—By the Pacific Mail Steamship China, which sails to-day, two very bright young Japanese gentlemen, sons of his Excellency Minister Okubo, who is thought to be one of the ablest men in the present Government, return home after an absence of nearly three years, during which they have been studying in the Eastern States. Mr. Samuel M. Bryan also returns to Japan, having concluded, on behalf of the Japanese Government, a new Postal Treaty with the United States, which will go into operation on next New Year's Day. Mr. William E. Parson also goes out under engagement as teacher in the Imperial College at Tokio. He was formerly professor at Harvard University, which position he resigned to accept the present appointment. Mr. E. Gilbert, an English engineer, also goes under engagement to the Department of Public Works, to take the superintendence of the Imperial telegraph lines in Japan. All these gentlemen take their families with them.

THE Commander of the P. and O. Company's steamer Bokhara describes his experience of the recent typhoon while on a passage from Shanghai to Hong Kong. The following passage will perhaps convey some idea of the violence of the gale:—"The barometer at this time (10 P.M.) stood 28·70 (lowest reading), wind about east, storm passing to south by west of us. At 11 P.M. barometer rose to 28·80, the wind blowing in gusts of inconceivable strength, the ship entirely enveloped in spray, rendering it impossible with the roar of the storm to see o hear anything. 11.30.—Ship heading well up to north-east by east put on engines dead slow. From this time till 1 A.M. of the 23rd th gusts of wind continued with undiminished force, but with less fre quency; wind at east-south-east, barometer 29·30, and rising rapidly at 2 A.M. the gale moderated, though the sea continued very high and confused. At daylight proceeded towards Hong Kong, and arrived at 4 P.M. same day."

THE CHINA TRANS-PACIFIC COMPANY.—Under the head of "The Charge of the Light Brigade" the Japan Weekly Mail has an article upon the China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company. The Mail seems to think that the fate which has overtaken the company was inevitable, and a comparison is instituted between the Charge of the Six Hundred at Balaklava and the position of the company at starting, the cannon in the case of the company being represented by the rival Pacific Mail Company. The Mail is severe on the company, although it acknowledges that it has done some good service, inasmuch as it has shown that the expenditure of twenty-five days in crossing the Pacific is wholly unnecessary and has taught the old company a lesson. It admits, however, that we want more speed and less charges, and thinks the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will profit by the lessons taught by the short-lived rivalry.

ON Tuesday next, Dec. 1st, the Aborigines Protection Society will hold a meeting at the Friends' Meeting House, Houndsditch, at 7 o'clock, at which Sir Charles Wingfield, K.C.S.I., will preside. Speeches will also be delivered by the Hon. Evelyn Ashley, M.P.; Mr. Alderman M'Arthur, M.P.; Edward Jenkins, Esq., M.P.; Sir George Young, Bart.; Sir Coomara Swamy, Member of the Legislative Council of Ceylon; the Rev. Dr. Moffat, late of South Africa; N. Achoy, Esq., a Chinese gentleman; Edmund Sturge, Esq.; R. N. Fowler, Esq.; James Heywood, Esq., F.R.S.; Justin M'Carthy, Esq.; Stafford Allen, Esq.; R. Alsop, Esq.; Professor Sheldon Amos, and other gentlemen. The subjects of discussion at the meeting will include the Coolie Trade, Slavery on the Gold Coast, and the Polynesian Labour Traffic. The presence of ladies is particularly desired.

THE Morning Post of Friday in noticing the opening of the Legislative Council of Singapore and the statement of Sir Andrew Clarke on the subject of the relation of the Straits with the native States, says:—The policy that has been followed and that it is proposed still to follow, is not one of aggression upon neighbouring States, but of influencing and assisting them by giving them English officers to aid the rulers, who, left to themselves, are weak and inefficient. It is satisfactory to see how thoroughly the course Sir Andrew Clarke has adopted is approved by the representatives of the colony.

THE ORIENTALIST CONGRESS.—The German Emperor has conferred on Dr. Samuel Birch, of the British Museum, the Order of the Crown, Second Class, in recognition of Dr. Birch's presidency of the late International Congress of Orientalists. The Photographic Group, taken in the gardens of Mr. Bosanquet, can be now obtained from Messrs. Trubner and Co., Ludgate-hill. Messrs. Maull and Co. are taking photographs of all members who apply.

ENTOMOLOGICAL.—J. W. Dunning, Esq., V.P.. in the chair.—Messrs R. E. Bull, F. Fitch, and H. D'Arcy Power were elected Subscribers.—Mr. Higgins exhibited some rare species of Cetoniidæ from Borneo; amongst them were Lomaptera Higginsii, O. Janson, and a remarkable Dynasti form insect, named by Count Castelnau Westwoodia Howittii. Also two smaller specimens, which had been supposed to be females of the last-named species.

Polybiblion announces that the Paris Japanese Society, which was founded after last year's meeting of the International Congress of Orientalists for the furtherance of Japanese, Chinese, Tartar, and Indo-Chinese studies, is in a flourishing state, and has about sixty life members. The young Society also possesses the nucleus of a good library, and its monthly meetings are well attended.

SIR RUTHERFORD ALCOCK, at the meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, on the 23rd inst., spoke upon the subject of the Polar Expedition. He congratulated the society upon the success attending the efforts of their president, Sir Henry Rawlinson, in obtaining from the Government consent to the proposal for another Arctic expedition.

FROM the Bibliographie de la France we learn that at Yedo there are published as many as eighteen periodicals, some of which appear daily and others at intervals of five days. The Nishinshishi, which has the largest circulation, sells as many as 15,000 copies. The others have a much smaller number of subscribers.

STEAMER "CITY OF PEKIN."—A despatch from Rio Janeiro, dated Nov. 7, states that a board of survey held on the steamer City of Pekin recommended that she proceed on her voyage to San Francisco. The damage to the blade of her screw was caused by striking a log or spar in the water.

FATHER TALLIEN, the French missionary who suffered so severely in Japan, and who had lately returned to Paris, died on the 8th inst., it is said owing to the exhaustion occasioned by the fatigue and suffering he had undergone.

THE Dewsbury Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution approving of the steps taken by Lord Salisbury for resuming the survey of Captain Sprye's proposed Western China route.

THE Eastern and Australian Company's chartered steamer Legislator arrived at Brisbane from Singapore on the 9th inst., three days early, with London mail of Sept. 18.

WE understand that a telegram has been received at the Admiralty from Admiral SHADWELL, stating that the Japanese will evacuate Formosa with all despatch, the agreement with the Peking Government being accepted as entirely satisfactory.

WE believe that Sir ARTHUR KENNEDY, whose departure from Hong Kong for England is recorded in another part of our impression, has returned to the Colony without completing the voyage.

THE RECENT SITUATION OF AFFAIRS IN CHINA

THE attitude of the Chinese and Japanese for some time past has been a strange one, and has strongly reminded us of two little boys, who, after a good deal of beating about the bush, square up to and glare at one another, and who, not having been able to get their courage up to fighting point, finally settle their quarrel by shaking hands. As we have believed all along, the difficulty between the two countries has (we are told in a telegram dated Shanghai, Nov. 8) been amicably arranged, and in consideration of the Japanese troops evacuating Formosa, China has consented to pay an indemnity of Tls. 500,000. We heard but recently that another Japanese envoy—OKUBO, Minister of the Interior, and one of the chief organisers of the expedition to Formosa—had gone up to Peking, and, after a somewhat lengthy negotiation, peace has been the result of his mission. It affords us much satisfaction to learn from a later telegram that Her MAJESTY'S Minister assisted in bringing about the amicable arrangement of this miserable squabble, which has too long attracted the attention, in a certain measure, of the whole civilised world. It is an old saying, but a very true one, that it's an ill wind that blows no one good, and we doubt not that many people have found their profit in the uncertain state of affairs in the Far East. A large trade has been done in munitions of war, for the Chinese (as well as the Japanese for that matter) have shown themselves most anxious to procure efficient arms at any cost, and also to improve their drill, musketry practice, &c., at high pressure speed by the aid of the red-haired barbarian; if only a few ironclads (good, bad, or indifferent) had been procurable, they would most certainly have realised a very handsome profit indeed. Apart from their unprepared condition as regards arms, drill, and ironclads, a very serious difficulty has lately menaced the Chinese, viz., disaffection among their troops, the precise cause of which, in the present instance, it is not easy to divine. Chinese soldiers, we know, are often troublesome to their officers and the locality in which they are stationed, owing to their military chest being in a chronic state of bankruptcy, but we never before remember to have heard of any actual insubordination and mutiny.

In view of recent events, which so nearly ended in war, let us take this opportunity of considering briefly the power of China from an offensive point of view—a power which, notwithstanding all she has done of late years to improve her position in military and naval matters, still exists more in imagination than in reality. Less than twenty years ago China did not possess a single vessel of war worth calling by such a name, and her rulers would have shuddered at the bare idea of employing steam machinery as a motive power in the place of their time-honoured and unwieldy sails; her soldiers, taken as a body, were the veriest tag-rag and bobtail that ever a general had to deal with; discipline, as we understand the term, was almost unknown; their arms and accoutrements were of the most primitive nature; but at the same time they had the recommendation of possessing a certain brute courage and overweening self-confidence. Since that time China, as well as her opponent Japan, has lavished enormous sums of money, which, as we have previously remarked, had far better have been devoted to more peaceful purposes, upon arsenals and dockyards. She has built several war-steamers of various sizes, until quite lately under foreign superintendence, of which a Tientsin correspondent remarks,—"We now see that all the wretched wooden men-of-war "built at Shanghai and Foochow can be completely over-"awed by a couple of Japanese ironclads." She has learned to manufacture cannon, shells, rifles, and all the implements of death, in imitation of the most approved European patterns; but how long these dockyards and arsenals will be of any use without their staffs of foreign superintendents, instructors, and workmen is, to say the least of it, very dubious; for, as it is natural to man to err, so is it natural to the Chinese official to let things go to rack and ruin. Considerable bodies of Chinese troops have been drilled and organised on the European model, and, doubtless, they make a tolerably creditable appearance on the review ground; but will this newly-acquired discipline stand the test of service in the field? We fear not; and our fears are the more increased by the conspiracies and mutinies recently prevalent in the various military camps. A diplomatist, of long experience in the Far East, writing recently of these organic changes in the military and naval systems of China, at which we have glanced, expresses an opinion that the Chinese "seek the power of defending "their coasts and territories from the attack of European "forces by sea or land." This most probably has been their hidden intention, but what European who knows anything at all about the Chinese nature will believe for an instant that at the present moment they could do either? Nay, even if they had entered npon a war with Japan, could they have hoped to withstand the first onslaught of their enemies? We think not, for the Japanese were better prepared for war than the Chinese, and they were evidently most active and energetic in making ready for the fray. It is not improbable, however, that China would have gained in the long run, for she had everything in her favour in that respect; her population is more than ten times that of her rival, her resources are practically inexhaustible, and, though her financial position may not be very good, she is entirely unhampered by any external debt. We rejoice exceedingly that peace has been at length secured, and we trust that one good effect may result to China from the fright which she has received, viz., that she will assume the responsibility of governing Formosa as part of China, and repress the lawless tribes, or she may have another indemnity to pay in a few years.

THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANK.

WE are informed that a circular is in course of signature by the London shareholders of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank to the directors at Hong Kong, deploring the present condition of the Bank, and expressing their want of confidence in the present management. They recommend that an inspector be at once appointed to visit the various branches, and report on their position and management, and that the directors take steps for effecting changes where incompetency or wilful disobedience of instructions is found. This is very well so far as it goes, but it does not demand, in a vigorous and decisive manner, that thorough change indispensable to put the Bank once more in order as a substantial working institution. To effect this an accountant of known standing in London should be sent out to examine and report to the shareholders the actual position of the Bank at its head office. It is absolutely necessary that all such commitments as the "Sugar Companies," the "Pier and Godown Company," the steamer Pingon, &c., should be cut adrift and closed. Let there be no room for further talk on these black spots, which have done so much mischief. So long as they remain open confidence will not return, and this, of course, means a gradual slipping away of deposits and business generally. No further light has been thrown on the losses made by the London branch, which are computed at £30,000. Mr. MACLEAN is in charge, but Mr. VACHER is not formally dismissed, but said to be on leave. The shareholders have exercised marvellous patience and good will towards the directors, and it is to be hoped that they will make a good use of the treatment. In effecting changes in the management a spirit of economy should be inculcated, and such extravagant outlays as the Ba k's premises at Shanghai must not be permitted. A more reliable and faithful statement of the bank's operations must be given half-yearly, and losses must not be hidden and covered up from view until they assume such proportions that they become so alarming as to cause a panic. Since 1871 the reports have stated, and the chairman has confirmed them, that ample provision had been made for bad and doubtful debts. Another half-yearly statement such as the last will certainly not be passed over so easily. With a fresh start under efficient managers there is every prospect of the Bank recovering its prosperous condition. We publish in another column an exhaustive and very able article from the Celestial Empire of Shanghai, which has attracted considerable attention. The conclusions of the writer, however, given at the end of the article, are not approved.

THE Woosung Road Company (Limited), which was registered in London a few months since, for the purpose of constructing and working a tram or railway between Shanghai and Woosung—a distance of about 9½ miles—sent out an experienced engineer to survey and report upon the line and make plans and estimates for its construction. On receipt of his report it is hoped that the company may be in a position to conclude a contract for completing the railway and sending out the rolling stock, should no unusual difficulties present themselves. A railway is already made and in working order in Japan, but this is the first attempt at introducing one in China; and although the line is a short one, it is hoped that when in operation the Chinese cannot fail to appreciate the very great advantage of the rapid conveyance of goods and passengers by this means over the old and extremely slow carriage by canal and river or on the shoulders of coolies, the only means now in use. The development of railway communication with the interior of China would lead to the opening up of the great mineral and other resources of the country, afford a new field for the employment of foreign capital, and give a fresh impetus to trade in manufactures and native produce.

AS our readers are probably aware, the port of Southampton has for some time ceased to be the actual terminal point of the P. and O. Company's steamers, the depot being transferred to London. The Company have now issued a circular to their employés at Southampton, in which the formal announcement of the change is made, to take effect at the end of the year. As Southampton will now simply be a port of call and used for the landing and embarking of mails and passengers only, the interests of the town and Dock Company unfortunately are considerably affected. The wisdom of this procedure on the part of the directors of the Company can hardly be questioned. The vessels of the Company now in Victoria Docks are the Indus, Mirzapore, Lombardy, and Mongolia. The Bangalore is to go under repair at the yard of Messrs. DENNY of Dumbarton. The China is repairing at Deptford. The Sunda, Poonah, Deccan, and Avoca, it is expected, will be at work again in a few weeks.

AT the opening meeting of the Geographical Society, on the 10th inst., the President, Sir HENRY RAWLINSON, alluded to the expedition from Burma as one of the events of the coming year which the Society would watch with more than ordinary interest, and from which it expected important results both to geographical research and to trade. The survey, he stated, would be from Bhamo to Talifoo, and an interpreter from the Consular Service was attached to it. From advices we have received from China the interpreter to be detached for this service is Mr. A. R. MARGARY, a gentleman whose name came prominently before the public some two years ago in connection with the wreck of a French vessel at Kelung, and whose personal bravery on that occasion was rewarded by the Albert medal of the first class.

IT is often our unpleasant task to disagree with the policy of our Minister at Peking, and it is therefore with the more pleasure that we notice that the negotiations which led to the amicable settlement of the Formosa difficulty was effected mainly through the aid and counsel of Mr. WADE. This is a fit opportunity for Lord DERBY to recommend that some mark of distinction be conferred on Mr. WADE. The Japanese Government will no doubt find a way of showing their appreciation of the pinnacle to which he has raised them. We shall be glad to see Japan next settling the Korean difficulty, which has so long baffled the Western powers.

WE have been informed that Mr. J. G. MURRAY, of the Consular Service, has at last succumbed to the extraordinary life which he has led for the past five years. He was of course one of the men indicated in our article of May last on the "Incompetency of the Consular Service." With regard to our remarks on the students at Peking we hear that two of the number have been suspended for incompetency or idleness. It is pretty clear from this that our strictures were well founded.

OUR Paris correspondent informs us that a telegram has been received from Mr. JANSSEN, the chief of the French expedition for observing the transit of Venus in Japan, announcing his arrival at Nagasaki. The French Government is fitting out six gunboats destined for service in the China Seas. By order of the French Government, Admiral KRANTZ, the interim Governor of Saigon, has issued a decree suppressing all gambling-houses in the colony from the 1st January next.

WE understand that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce addressed a letter to Lord CANARVON, requesting a copy of the report of the Commission of Inquiry taken at Hong Kong on what is known as the "Hong Kong Blockade Question," and in reply were informed that it would not be desirable to publish it at present; but the matter has the serious attention of Government, and in due time instructions would be sent to Governor KENNEDY and our Minister at Peking.

THE Anti-Opium Association have issued a circular inviting additions to the committee, and giving a copy of the resolution passed at the meeting held at the London Tavern on the 13th inst. The resolution expresses cordial sympathy with the objects of the association, and is a pledge of support to the anti-opium movement.

WE regret to announce that Mr. SAMESHIMA, the Japanese Minister in Paris, is compelled to leave for Japan, owing to ill-health. He will probably leave by the French mail steamer of Dec. 20. During his absence the First Secretary, Mr. NAKANO, will take charge of the Legation.

MR. W. D. SPENCE, and Mr. A. S. HARVEY, of the Consular Service, who lately returned to England on leave, have, we understand, entered at the Temple for the study of the law. Mr. SCOTT and Mr. BRENAN have returned to China, and Mr. WARREN has arrived home on leave.

THE negotiations for the transfer of the steamers Vasco de Gama, Vancouver, and one now building on Clyde to a company, to be founded under the auspices of the Pacific Railroad Companies, are still going on. The boats intended for the Sydney and San Francisco line are also included in the arrangement. Mr. HILL and Mr. IRWIN have left this for New York.

THE STRAITS AND LABUAN.

From the papers relating to Her Majesty's Colonial Possessions, just issued, we gather the following particulars relative to the Straits Settlements and Labuan:—

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

Governor Ord in October, 1873, reports:—

There has been no alteration in the taxes and fees levied in the colony. The balance to the credit of the colony on the 1st of January, 1872, was $464,467, while on the 1st January, 1873, it was $689,602.

The principal works undertaken at Singapore in 1872 were the commencement of the new iron market at Clyde Terrace, improvements to the barrack accommodation of the police by fitting up for them the old Sepoy lines, certain improvements to the prison, and extra accommodation at the pauper institution.

A large expenditure was incurred on the North Sands Lighthouse, but I regret to say without any result. The iron lighthouse and the light are here, and it is hoped that the piles will be driven next fine season.

At Penang, beyond some improvements to the prison, no new works were attempted. A considerable sum was as usual expended in roads in Province Wellesley, to carry out a scheme devised in 1870 for opening up that district.

Digitized by Google

At Malacca no expenditure was incurred beyond the usual current upkeep and repairs.

On the whole, with the exception of the North Sands Lighthouse, the expenditure on public works in 1872 was the same as in 1871.

In imports the increase in Singapore is about 19 per cent.; at Penang it by no means exhibits the rapid increase it showed in previous years, and the imports from the United Kingdom, British Colonies, and coasting show a considerable decrease, but on the whole trade of the place the increase is about 2½ per cent. At Malacca the increase is considerable, being about 22 per cent.

In exports the increase at Singapore is 22 per cent.; at Penang, about 16 per cent.; and at Malacca, not less than 32 per cent. The return represents the trade of the colony as a whole in a very flourishing condition.

Labuan.

Governor Bulwer reports as follows with reference to the coal mines in the colony :—

Now that the colony is left entirely to its own resources, and receives no assistance whatever from the Imperial Government, either in the shape of a grant in aid, or in that of military protection, the successful development of the coal mines of the island has become more than ever a matter of the utmost importance to the colony.

For five and twenty years the story of the Labaun mines has been one of continuous and unqualified failure.

For five and twenty years these unfortunate Labuan mines have passed from company to company, from the control of one board of directors to that of another, from one management to another management, always with the same pretensions and promises at the outset, and always with the same failure in the end, till their very name has become a bye-word, and they have acquired that discredit which belongs to unsuccessful pretensions.

But, though the fact of failure is well known, the causes that have led to it have not been equally well understood, and the discredit that has become attached to the coal resources of this island I have no hesitation in saying is most unmerited.

In truth, it is not the mines that have failed the companies, but rather the companies that have failed the mines, which have never yet had a fair trial given to them. The companies must themselves bear the responsibility of their failures. They all sacrificed their permanent interests for some temporary advantage which also was rather an apparent than a real advantage. The desire of obtaining immediate returns of some sort with as little delay as possible appears to have outweighed every other consideration with them. The deep coal was neglected, simply because to win it required time and a large outlay, counterbalanced by no present return, and the energies of manager after manager, and the resources of company after company, were wasted and frittered away in surface workings and temporary sources of supply, which yielded, indeed, immediate returns,—inconsiderable at the best of times though these were—but which, being temporary sources, soon became exhausted, even when they were not abruptly brought to a close, as it frequently happened, by some mining error or by some ordinary accident, to remedy which proper means were not forthcoming at the time.

THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

(From the Celestial Empire, Shanghai, Sept. 12.)

The Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, which may fairly be ranked as the most important of our local institutions, commenced business in April, 1865, and has now completed the ninth year of its existence. Starting originally as a limited company, with a paid-up capital of two million five hundred thousand dollars, it was incorporated in July, 1867, as the "Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation," with a capital of five millions of dollars. For the first six years of its existence the prosperity of the bank increased steadily, and though its profits were from time to time affected by the dulness of trade and other causes, in 1871 a reserve fund of one million of dollars had been accumulated, and the directors in their semi-annual report congratulated the shareholders on the "continued prosperity of the bank at all points."

Since the year 1871, however, the reserve fund has not been increased, and though during the following year, in anticipation of a bonus being declared, bank shares reached their highest figure in the stock market (77 per cent. cash), there has since been a marked falling off in the value of shares, and the position of the bank with reference to certain advances has more than once been called in question. Recent disclosures have brought to light a state of affairs which, at first sight, reflects but little credit on the bank direction, and calls for more than superficial examination on the part of those interested in the well-being of the institution.

Looking, as we do, upon the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank as a species of mercantile barometer, by which the prosperity or otherwise of trade in China may, to a certain extent, be gauged, attention was first called to the coming storm by a drop of over thirty per cent. in the value of shares during the months of July and August last ; confidence being so much shaken by rumours prejudicial to the interests of the bank that speculators were willing to "sell short" for delivery in February, 1875, at nine per cent. premium. Three months ago bank stock was looked upon as a safe investment at thirty-five per cent. premium, and shareholders, believing the reserve fund of $1,000,000 to be intact, were contented with the prospects of a reduced dividend for the six months ended on the 30th June last, considering the "extreme dulness of trade" to be sufficient cause for an unsatisfactory balance-sheet.

As the time for the half-yearly meeting drew near, vague rumours were circulated of heavy losses made by the bank in exchange, by outside operations in London by the Sugar Refinery, the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company, &c., and at last it was currently reported that there would be no dividend. These rumours were at first put down to the "Bears," but gradually an unpleasant conviction dawned upon shareholders, that the rumours for once were founded on facts—and the half-yearly report was looked forward to with gloomy forebodings. On this report it is our intention to comment as well as on the speech of the chairman of the corporation made at the half-yearly general meeting of shareholders held on the 19th August, with a view to discover the reasons for the heavy depreciation in the stock, and of ascertaining, if possible, by an analysis of the figures, what the present position of the bank may be.

In order to accomplish this properly, we must briefly revert to the working of the Bank since its institution :—

From the foregoing table it will be seen that the bank reached its zenith of prosperity in 1868, when, on a capital of $3,000,000, a profit of $729,680.44 was realised, of which $325,000 was carried to the reserve fund.

During 1869 this fund was increased by $100,000, the profits being affected by "cheap money at home and the unremunerative turn taken by exchanges."

In 1870 the business of the bank was affected by the Franco-German war, and the directors, "deeming it best for the interests of the shareholders to make full provision for all doubtful outstandings," recommended the reduction of the dividend to ten per cent. for the year, and the retention of $268,587,13 out of the year's earnings to meet the depreciation on the previous valuations of the Bank's "securities," &c.

In 1871, the accounts showed a profit for the year of $734,093.94 (on a capital of $4,000,000 for the first half year and $4,500,000 for the second,) out of which a dividend of 12 per cent. was paid, and the Reserve Fund was increased by an appropriation of $200,000, making it amount to $1,000,000.

In 1872, a profit of $616,990.51 was realised—(the capital during the latter half of the year being $5,000,000) and a dividend of 12 per cent. was paid, the directors expressing their regret that they had been obliged to make exceptionable provisions for anticipated "losses on doubtful old outstandings."

Bank shares reached their highest price in August 1872, sales being made at 77 per cent. premium for cash, and at 86 per cent. premium for delivery on 31st December, 1872.

As compared with previous year, 1873 showed an unsatisfactory result; the net profit, "after making provision for all bad and doubtful debts," amounting to $542,387.67, from which the directors recommended a dividend of 10 per cent. for the year, attributing the unsatisfactory profit to the general dulness and unremunerative nature of trade. The Chairman, Mr. S. D. Sassoon, at the first half yearly meeting, held on the 13th August, 1873, said:—

There had been a rumour that the Bank's Reserve Fund had been encroached upon in order to meet losses; he would say that the rumour was quite unfounded, and that the Bank's Reserve Fund, and all the old accounts, so far as the directors knew, were quite intact. With reference to the failures in the China trade, the bank was not affected, and all possible losses had been fully provided for. As regards the Pier and Godown Company, its prospects, as every one knew, were in a very precarious condition. The amount advanced by the bank to it under a mortgage of its property and a bill of sale was about $110,000, but the property about two years ago had cost the Company $290,000, so that any loss on that score would not be likely to occur.

At the second half-yearly meeting, held on the 16th February, 1874. Mr. S. D. Sassoon further remarked on the position of the Bank with regard to the Pier and Godown Company, and said that "The last time he addressed a meeting of shareholders it would be remembered that he alluded to a large sum which had been advanced to the Pier and Godown Company. The directors then considered that the advance was fully covered by the value of the property, it having cost three lakhs to the Company. At the auctions, however, no higher bid than $89,000 was made, and it was not sold, although the directors fully believed that it was worth the money advanced, and that it would yet realise it; they had judged it wise to write off the sum."

This statement, together with the confident tone adopted in the Half-Yearly Report—which was worded as follows:—

"The directors regret that the profits of the six months are unsatisfactory as compared with the previous half-year, and can only attribute the falling off to the general dulness and unremunerative nature of trade. When business revives and again becomes generally profitable, the directors have confidence that previous results will be fully obtained. The prosperity of the corporation continues, and the directors congratulate the shareholders thereon. The deposits have increased $3,100,000 during the year, and the Bank enjoys the full confidence of the public at all points—caused slight reaction in the price of shares, which, however, was not maintained. Early in April, bank stock commenced to decline in value, and in August last, sales were made at 5 per cent. premium."

We now come to the Half-yearly Report, issued to the shareholders on the 12th August, 1874.

As will be seen from the foregoing résumé, nothing had transpired officially prior to the issue of the Report, to prepare the shareholders for such a disastrous catalogue of losses, culminating in the reduction of the Reserve Fund by one-half ($500,000) and the non-payment of the usual half-yearly dividend, the Bank being thus in a worse position than in December 1867, at which date the Reserve Fund, and the profits available for distribution, amounted to over six lakhs of dollars.

We cannot but think that a report announcing such very serious reverses should have entered more fully into details, as it is difficult for shareholders, unless thoroughly conversant with facts, to believe that so large a sum as $609,000 could be lost in the six months under review, absolutely without warning. Making allowance for the extreme depression of trade during the early part of 1874 we can understand the small profit in working accounts, but when we (with the assistance of the remarks made at the general meeting by the Chairman, Mr. W. H. Forbes), analyse the losses incurred, apart from the general working of the bank, we cannot absolve the directors from all blame in the matter of concealing the real position of its affairs, nor can we account for the extraordinary supineness shown by the shareholders present at the general meeting held on the 19th August. We cannot but consider this apathy on their part as blameworthy in the extreme, and prejudicial to the interests they represented.

When the report of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation came into our hands a few weeks ago, it certainly appeared at the first blush that we had before us a frank and open statement, setting forth with impartiality the errors into which the bank had been drawn, and the crowd of misfortunes which had been the inevitable result. We commented upon the document, accordingly, and we noticed that in this both our Hong Kong and Yokohama contemporaries are at one with us. We naturally accepted the report as a formal catalogue of facts which were to be investigated and discussed at the meeting of shareholders, when certain explanations would be asked and given—a procedure which appeared to us not only natural and a matter of course but absolutely necessary under the circumstances for the re-establishment of the bank in the perfect confidence of the public. Instead of this, we are astonished to find nothing but a superficial and rather off-handed address from the chairman, alluding to "the combination of misfortunes" which had led to the present disastrous condition of affairs; laying blame, vaguely, on this servant and on that; alluding with equal laxity of speech to certain recoupments which might or might not be possible in the dim future; assuring the shareholders that the bank scrip was really very much below its intrinsic value, and reminding them cheerfully that there was still half the reserve fund left. This agreeable tirade was received with complacency and applause, the chairman resuming his seat amid continuous cheering; everybody disclaimed any desire whatever to ask a single question; a little mild chaff passed between some of the shareholders about nothing in particular; and upon a motion, put by the chairman, the report and statement of accounts were passed unanimously.

We will now analyse the "unfortunate events" which resulted in the loss of $600,000 in six short months. Passing over the transactions in sterling bills, exchanges, and bullion, which may be classified as legitimate banking business, however unsatisfactory the out-turn, we come to, firstly, the "considerable transactions entered into by the London manager on his own responsibility in bonds and securities, resulting in a heavy loss (variously estimated at from £30,000 to $150,000.) A portion of this loss "may," as the chairman remarked, "possibly be recovered," but the sole consolation remaining to the shareholders whose money has been lost by these speculations is that the Board will doubtless now take steps to prevent the possible recurrence of any such misappropriation of the funds under their control. We think that an expression of opinion from the shareholders on this important matter would have materially strengthened the heads of the directors in dealing with the question at issue. Secondly.—The sugar refinery, the drain down which has been poured no small portion of the profits realised in previous years by the legitimate business of the bank.

Another estimated deficiency has been provided for, to what extent we are not informed, but it is satisfactory to find from the accounts (a statement of which was laid on the chief manager's table for inspection), that the gross sum outstanding in the books of the bank was $335,000, against which the refinery was valued at $400,000.

The most hopeful feature about this account we gather from the comparative statements of local sales of refined sugar at the China Sugar Refinery, from 1st January, 1869, to the 30th June, 1874, which may be summarised as follows:—

From this statement it will be seen that the manufacture of sugar and its consumption by Chinese is steadily on the increase, the deliveries for the first six months of 1874 being considerably in excess of the deliveries for the preceding twelve months.

As a matter of fact, we believe that the refinery is now paying from $3,500 to $5,000 per month (from $42,000 to $60,000 per annum), and may be considered as a good asset for the first time since the account with Watree, Smith and Co. appeared in the books of the bank. Thirdly:—The Pier and Godown Company.—This account, so far as we can gather from the addresses of Mr. S. D. Sassoon, quoted above, stands in the books of the corporation at some $90,000. Though the policy of the board in refusing the $89,000 offered for the property in 1873 may be questioned, there is no reason for anticipating any further loss of importance upon this account. The property is in a good situation, and is now leased, and a fair prospect exists of its eventual sale. Lastly:—The Indo-Chinese Sugar Company.—We are given to understand that the sum set apart to provide for the expected deficiency actually eliminates the account from the books of the corporation, leaving any sum hereafter realised by the sale of the estate to come in as profit.

It is for their reticence on the subject of the probable losses under this head that we blame the directors. They must have known prior to February 1874 that a further large sum would be required to make good the heavy advances made to the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company, which has been for years past in a state of insolvency. No blame could attach to them for losses so incurred, as the advances were made under different management, and by directors (with one exception) not now on the Board; but the necessity for setting aside so large a sum as $275,000 to meet possible losses might have been avoided by a judicious provision for the impending deficit out of the earnings of more prosperous years. We fully sympathise with the existing Court of Directors, who have now to bear the blame which rightly attaches to the manager and directors, with whose consent the advances were made to the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company, the Sugar Refinery, and to the Pier and Godown Company. It must have been an unpleasant task for the Chairman to present to the meeting a statement of accounts comparing so unfavorably with those of previous years; but he must have derived a certain amount of consolation from the fact, which he was able to announce, that "every known loss had been so fully provided for that a portion of the sum set aside might possibly be recovered," which we sincerely trust may prove to be the case, and that at the next meeting the Chairman may find his hopeful anticipations more than realised.

Though we do not approve of the refrain which runs through the late reports of the directors and the addresses from the chair, when referring to these special losses, viz., "they are not likely to occur again," we do believe that at last the shareholders know the worst, and that the proposed withdrawal of $275,000 from the reserve will extinguish the accounts which have for years past proved such a heavy drain upon the resources of the bank. Looking back to the report of the past nine years, it appears to us worthy of notice that the corporation has been remarkably successful in its legitimate banking business, the losses thereby incurred being small in comparison with the extent of its operations. This fact cannot have escaped the attention of the directors, who, it is hoped, having learnt a severe lesson as to the bad policy of assisting in local speculations, will in future avoid business which, in addition to crippling their resources, may involve them in heavy loss, and seriously affect the credit of an institution which it is their duty jealously to protect. Having now attempted to make the present position of the bank clear to our readers, we must leave them to form their own opinion as to its prospects for the future.

A revival in trade is as necessary for its prosperity as for the prosperity of the merchants in China, who are its chief constituents and supporters. Good times for the merchant mean good profits to the Bank, and though trade is now unusually depressed, there are signs that the time is near at hand for the opening up of the vast resources of China to foreign enterprise, and for the employment of foreign capital to aid in their development.

THE ANTI-OPIUM SOCIETY.

On the 13th inst. a number of gentlemen met for breakfast at the London Tavern, at the invitation of the Executive Committee of the new Association for opposing the Opium Trade. About seventy-five were present, including Mr. Alderman M'Arthur, M.P., Dr. J. P. Newman, Chaplain to the Senate, U.S.A., Gen. Alexander, Donald Matheson, Thomas Hanbury, H. Hilton, Rev. W. Braden, Dr. James Legge, N. Achoy, of Hong Kong, and representatives of the various Missionary Societies, Dr. Mullens, E. J. Parke, E. Hutchinson, &c. After breakfast Alderman M'Arthur was called to the chair, and in a vigorous address pointed out the injustice of the opium trade and urged that the matter had been too long neglected in and out of Parliament, and that now we ought to wake up the conscience of the country to grapple with the evil. The subject had been allowed to sleep since Lord Ashley (the present Earl of Shaftesbury) had brought it forward in the House of Commons, till it had been renewed by Sir Wilfrid Lawson. He (the chairman) then voted with Sir Wilfrid's small minority, but he considered the ventilation of the question was very useful, and that it ought to be brought before the House every year. His speech in the House had been made on commercial grounds. Instead of doing the large trade with China we had anticipated, we sent to its 400 millions of population but six million pounds worth of exports, while the Australian colonies with four millions of people took as many as fourteen million pounds worth of our goods. On religious grounds much more might be said. He was sure that they could not expect the blessing of God on their connection with India if they continued the opium traffic. He was quite certain that what was morally wrong could not be practically right. Mr. T. B. Smithies then explained how the meeting was brought about by Mr. Edward Pease, of Darlington, who had offered prizes of £100 and £200 for essays, and thus had brought before him such a mass of facts which had made them feel that something must be done. Our countrymen were very ignorant on the subject. It really was the fact that not only did our Indian Government protect the revenue but that it leased the land to be planted, appointed inspectors to look after the crop, and advanced cash to the Indian farmer.—The temporary Secretary, Mr. F. S. Turner, then read letters expressive of their sympathy with the objects of the meeting, from Edward Pease, of Darlington, Henry Richard, M.P., and J. Hudson Taylor, of the China Inland Mission. Letters from Dr. Duff, Charles Thompson, and other gentlemen were mentioned, but for lack of time not read. The Secretary then read a brief paper to give an account of the present state of the opium trade to those friends present who were not informed as to its details. He explained the production in India, the Bombay pass duty, the nature of the monopoly and its contribution to the Indian revenue. He pointed out how the Indian Government had clearly and emphatically recognised the pernicious effects of opium consumption in India, and how the monopoly had been defended on the ground that it is a protection to the natives of India against the fatal seductions of the drug. He asked if the drug changed its nature by crossing the water, or if Chinese constitutions were poison-proof? Passing to China, he maintained that opium smoking is an ever-increasing, ruinous vice, that the popular voice of China condemns it, and that our import of the foreign drug is only maintained by force. This last statement he supported by reference to the letter of Prince Kung and the foreign board of Peking to Sir R. Alcock, demanding to be released from the obligation to admit opium. An animated discussion followed, in which Drs. Legge and Newman, Donald Matheson, Gen. Alexander, and others took part.

Mr. Ng. Achoy, of Hong Kong, who is now studying for the Bar at Lincoln's Inn, said: I have to ask your indulgence on one point. Being a Chinese, I should prefer to express my sentiments in my native language, but as this would be unintelligible to many of you, I shall speak the language of your country, and in doing so if I cannot convey my idea so clearly to you as you think I might, I hope you will pardon me for my limited knowledge of your language. There cannot be, I presume, two opinions about the desirability or rather the necessity of abolishing the opium traffic, because of the injurious effects produced by the use of opium. The whole nation of China has been demoralised by it. Its evil influence extends to all classes of my countrymen, from the highest to the lowest; the rich and the poor, the educated and the ignorant, nay, from the prince down to the peasant, all are under its sway. If you go to the official circles, you will find many mandarins rendered sluggish and indolent from the effect of opium smoking. If you turn your attention to the family circles, you will see innumerable victims to this vice, who present a melancholy spectacle; they have become weak and enervated both in mind and body. The injurious effects are not confined to the smokers alone, but their offspring are sufferers also. There is a marked difference between the children of the opium smokers and the children of those who are not; the one are weak and sickly, while the other are healthy and strong. But this is not all; opium smoking leads to the commission of crime; instances have been known of opium smokers selling their parents, wives and children, and there have been innumerable cases where men have been led to steal and commit robberies from want of means to purchase opium to satisfy their craving. (Several voices called out—What, then, is the remedy?) The speaker continued: I am not here to suggest means, especially as I am a foreigner; but this I must say, that if England was able to afford to pay an enormous sum of money, such as £20,000,000, for the emancipation of slaves about forty years ago, surely she could now afford to forego a smaller sum of £6,000,000 a year by ceasing to cultivate the poppy in India. But this sum will not be wholly lost, as the land hitherto used for growing poppy will be turned to the production of cereals and other useful articles, which will bring something to the Government. There is another reason why the opium trade should be discontinued, that is, it creates an ill feeling between the two nations—I mean England and China. The lower class of my countrymen are under the impression that opium was first introduced into China by the English people, and though this has been found not to be true, yet are not the English people responsible for the large importations of this drug carried to China? This is the chief cause for the hostile animus manifested by my countrymen against foreigners, and if you want this hostile feeling to be eradicated, and permanent friendship established between the two nations, first of all let this injurious opium traffic be abolished. In conclusion, I must remark that I am very much pleased to see so many benevolent people in this country taking so deep an interest in this question; and I can assure you that I am expressing the sentiments of my countrymen when I say that if encouragement is needed you may count on their hearty support and co-operation.

A resolution was unanimously adopted expressive of sympathy with the objects of the meeting, and pledging the gentlemen present to support it.

Monetary and Commercial.

Tenders for £550,000 in bills on India were received on the 18th inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were, —To Calcutta, £343,300; and Bombay, £206,700. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 10¾d. will receive about 5 per cent.; above in full. These results show a further increase in the demand for the means of remittance to the East, chiefly due, it is understood, to large exports of cotton to this country.

The Coffee Trade of Costa Rica is flourishing, for not only are the planters there realising double the prices of three years ago, but they are exporting largely in excess of previous years. Last year 11,250 tons of Coffee were exported, against 6,875 tons in 1872. The value of last year's crop was £1,180,000, whilst the estimated cost, all including charges until on board ship, was only £781,000. Of this quantity the largest portion by far is shipped to Great Britain; California comes next as a customer, and France and Germany next.

We understand that an entirely new description of Tea is now being imported from South America, where it is extensively used by the natives. It is said to be of very good quality, though possessing a rather peculiar flavour, not unlike the Ceylon Tea, and the cost of it is so low that it will be sure to meet with a ready sale in England, so soon as tea-drinkers become accustomed to its flavour. It is very small in size, similar somewhat to Gunpowder Tea, and is of a deep black colour.

The dividend to be recommended at the annual meeting of the P. and O. Company on the 4th December is 2½ per cent. for the six months ending 30th Sept. last, with the payment of 2 per cent. from the underwriting account, making, with 2½ per cent. dividend paid in June, a total of 7 per cent. for the year.

The Oriental Gas Company (Limited) has declared a dividend of 5½ per cent. for the half-year, payable on the 4th prox. The report gives a satisfactory account of the progress made in that time.

The directors of the Anglo-Egyptian Bank recommend in their report a distribution of profits amounting to £3 per share, free of income-tax, making, with the pound paid in June last, a dividend of 20 per cent. for the year.

At a Court of Directors of the Bank of England it was arranged to recommend to the proprietors Mr. Henry Hucks Gibbs, the present Deputy-Governor, for Governor, and Mr. Edward Howley Palmer, of the firm of Dent, Palmer, and Co., as Deputy-Governor, at the election in April next.

A sum of £160,000 in Japanese gold coin was received by the P. and O. steamer Mongolia on the 16th inst. This amount has been sold for transmission to France at 76s. 4⅜d. per oz.

The Market for Bar Silver has been very firm during the week, and all the arrivals have been sold at 58d. per oz., and an increased price would have been paid had there been any amount available. A limited amount of Mexican dollars by the French Packet was sold at 57d. per oz. for shipment by the steamer leaving yesterday for China.

The bullion per P. and O. steamer Pekin, from Southampton Nov. 19, was—in gold, to Galle, £2,000; in silver, to Singapore, £23,780; to Shanghai, £940. Total in gold, £2,000, in silver, £24,720.

Shareholders in England of the Canton Insurance and Union Insurance Companies are complaining at not receiving their copies of the reports issued in Hong Kong in September. The report of the Canton was noticed in our issue of the 9th inst., and reports of meetings of both companies were received by the mail which arrived in London on the 11th.

At the time of the issue of the Amoor Steam Navigation Company's bonds by Messrs. Schroeder and Co. we took exceptions to them as a good security, at which they, in common with all interested in their issue, were very indignant. It seems now that we were right in our conclusions. A meeting of the bondholders was held at the Cannon-street Hotel, at which the majority of them decided that in view of the position of the company, and to prevent its affairs coming to a standstill, it would be advisable to forego the payment of the coupons now becoming due and to join in some scheme for promoting the interests of the undertaking generally.

Messrs. John Pook and Co. announce that the partnership heretofore existing between John Pook, Alfred Lawrence, and Charles Pook, under the style of John Pook and Co., has, so far as the said Alfred Lawrence is concerned, been dissolved.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Messrs. Arthur Capel and Co. report:—We have again had a very quiet market for the week. The demand is still inactive, and has been chiefly supplied from the public auctions, which in many instances have ruled rather in favour of buyers. The common Foochow teas, per Diomed, have met with a slow sale, they being but little in request, with the exception of those with good water. The public sales have comprised 17,755 packages for the week, the whole of which have been sold without reserve.

Congous.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings have sold at full prices, some from recent arrival having realised 9d. per lb. Broken-leaf kinds sell slowly at previous prices. Fair to good common, free from dust, sell readily at former rates. Fair Kaisow kinds show no change. Good medium to fine have been in demand at fully previous prices. In finest nothing has been done. Pak Lin kinds, ex-Diomed, have been readily taken at very full prices. Black-leaf kinds: Common to fair have sold, at public sale, from 11½d. to 1s. 1d. per lb., showing but little change. Fair to good medium sell slowly at last week's prices. Good to fine and finest have been without special enquiry, prices remaining much as before. New-make Congous: Sales of common have been made from 11d. to 11½d. per lb., showing no change. Fair kinds have sold rather lower at public auction. Good to fine sell with difficulty rather below former prices. Oolongs have been sold, at public sale, from 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 5½d. per lb., for fair to good kinds, being rather easier prices. Souchongs: Common have been sold at 11⅜d. to 1s. per lb., good to fine have sold from 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d., being previous prices. Scented Teas.—Canton Capers have been dull of sale privately, the Trade supplying their wants at auction, where prices have again been rather easier for common and fair kinds. Good to fine remain firm. Foo Chow kinds show no material alteration. Canton Orange Pekoes have sold at about previous prices; some fine at public sale realised 1s. 8d. per lb. Foo Chow kinds remain much as last week, the enquiry being limited. Green Teas.—The market continues dull, and the quantity offered at public auction is still large, prices consequently show some weakness, especially for Ping Suey kinds, which are now selling at very low prices, being again about 1d. to 1½d. per lb. lower. Finest Moyune have been better maintained, but common to medium kinds have sold rather lower.

SILK.

Messrs. Kilburn, Kershaw and Co.'s Circular says:—Since the date of our last the market for China Silk has remained very quiet, and business has been on the smallest possible scale. Continental demand has for the present almost entirely ceased, owing to the large "direct" importations into France, and our home manufacturers do not seem anxious to buy more at present, notwithstanding prices remain fairly steady for all but the very common description of Tsatlees, importers being generally firm holders of the little Silk which is now coming forward, not sold to arrive. In Canton Silk Tsatlee Reel continue very scarce, and commands full rates. Japans are very quiet. Deliveries are fair, but not equal to expectations, being from the 1st to 18th inst. as follows:—China, 1,850; Canton, 328; Japan, 317; Bengal, 110; total, 2,605 bales.

Coffee.—Only limited quantities of Ceylon have been placed on offer at the public sales, and a better demand having been shown a slight recovery from the decline which occurred last week has been established. The closing prices of plantation Ceylon are, triage and ordinary, 80s. to 98s.; small to low middling, 100s. to 107s.; middling to bold coloury, 107s. 6d. to 115s.; peaberry, 125s. to 129s. 6d. Small sales of Native have been made, realising for small 76s. 6d., bold 96s., peaberry 107s. per cwt. The sale is reported of 1,300 bags Manila at 87s. to 87s. 6d for good ordinary mixed quality.

China Preserves.—Of 250 cases Ginger offered a few cases only were sold at 8⅝d. per lb.

Colombo Root.—Small sales reported at 10s.

Gums.—Benjamin: Siam, dark block, £9 15s.; drossy ditto, £7 5s.; Sumatra, seconds, £8 10s. to £8 12s. 6d. Guiacum: drossy lump, 4d. Damar Singapore 53s. 6d. per cwt.

Hemp.—In public sale 100 bales Manila good roping have been sold at £35 to £35 15s. per ton.

Japan Wax.—Small sales reported at 56s. per cwt. for fair to fine saucers, showing a further slight decline.

Musk.—In public sale Tonquin, first pile, has realised 43s. to 44s. 6d. second pile 17s. to 22s. 6d. per oz.

Pepper.—Black: Penang has been sold at 6⅝d. to 6 3-16d. on the spot, and at 6d. afloat (October sailing). White: Singapore has realised 8⅝d. to 8¾d., Penang 8¼d. per lb.

Rice.—The market is quite but steady at unchanged quotations.

Sugar has continued dull and inactive. Towards the close there has been more demand for common qualities at steady prices, but only moderate sales have been effected, including 220 baskets date Penang, fine dry, 19s.; 10,000 bags Ilo Ilo, unclayed Manila, at 18s.; and 420 packages washed Java at 24s. to 27s. per cwt.

Spices.—Cloves are dearer. Four cases Penang sold at 2s. 2¼d. to 2s. 2⅜d.; 5 bags Amboyna at 1s. 9d. Nutmegs: 64 packages sold at previous prices; Penang, 74 nuts to the lb., at 3s. 8d.; 108 ditto, 3s. 1d.; limed, 2s. 9d.; Java limed, 2s. 11d. to 3s. 1d. Mace: 22 packages chiefly sold—ordinary Penang, 2s. 7d. to 2s. 10d. Cassia Lignea: 190 cases unworked, part sold at 59s.; stained, 58s. to 58s. 6d.; and 90 bundles Cassia Vera coarse Singapore, 25s. to 26s. Cinnamon: 20 bales Ceylon sold at 1s. 3d. to 2s. 2d. 300 bags chips were bought in at 4¼d. to 5¼d.

Tapioca.—700 bags East India bought in at 2⅛d. to 3⅝d., 120 bags pearl sold, bullets, 20s. to 21s. 6d.

Tin.—The demand has continued good, but in the absence of speculation there has been a decline in Straits and Banca of about £1 per ton during the week. Closing quotations are as follows:—Straits on the spot, £93 to £93 10s.; afloat, £93; Banca, £101; Billiton £95 per ton.

CASUALTIES.

BATAVIA, NOV. 12.—The Gerrard Pieter Servatius, from Newcastle to Sourabaya, with coal, has stranded, and will become a total wreck Caseward (? on the East Coast of Java.)

NEW YORK, NOV. 2.—The Mary Ann Wilson, from Kobe, was thrown on her beam ends during a heavy typhoon, Oct. 2, in lat. 40 N., lon. 153 W.

NEWPORT, NOV. 14.—The Belted Will, from London to Shanghai, was in collision off Dungeness, received but slight damage, and proceeded on her voyage.

The Rosina, Hansen, arrived at New York, from Singapore, reports that from 19th to 23rd Aug. she experienced continual W. gales off the Cape, during which she lost and split sails, and sprung a leak above water line.

The Menchikoff, arrived at San Francisco, from Hong Kong, reports that she experienced a hurricane on Sept. 15, which washed everything movable from decks, lost provisions, some bulwarks, and had one boat stove, flying gib, mainsail, and mizen stay sail blown away.

The Anne Dymes (off. No. 47,366), of London, Jones, from Akyab, to Falmouth, with rice, spoken on the 17th June in lat. 32 S., lon. 28 E., and has not since been heard of; has been posted by the committee of Lloyd's as a missing vessel.

HONG KONG, NOV. 18.—The Ningpo (Brit. str.), hence to Shanghai, struck on a sunken rock or reef near Breaker Point, and has put back here with damage to rudder post; she must go into dock for repairs and survey; cargo reshipped (? by the) Chinkiang. The Juno sailed on the 19th Oct. for Swatow and Chefoo, with sugar, but has since put back here strained severely, having encountered heavy gales on the 23rd, during which she sprung a leak; she will be sold, not being worth repairing; her cargo is slightly damaged, and has been reshipped by the Norman.

The Norman Court, Shewan, arrived from Foo-chow-foo, reports that she experienced a heavy W. gale for three days off the Cape of Good Hope, which she rounded 28th Sept.; she crossed the line 15th Oct., and encountered W. gales thence to St. Mary; on the 6th Nov., in lat. 30 N., lon. 27 W., during a very heavy gale from N.E. to N.W., she had jibboom carried away and boat, bulwarks, &c., stove.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID, Nov. 14, Quang Se (str.), from London to Colombo, &c.; Sumatra (str.), from London to Java; Ajax (str.), from Liverpool to Singapore, China, &c.; 16, Leyte (str.), from Glasgow to Manila.

THE LOSS OF THE "CHUSAN."—The Board of Trade enquiry into the loss of the steamer Chusan at Ardrossan has been concluded. From the evidence it appeared that a telegram was despatched at Waterford from Captain Johnston to Messrs. Baring Brothers, London, which was as follows:—"Steamer too weak. Do not consider it safe to proceed. Shall I return to Glasgow? Have written. Wire reply. Ship making water in sea-way." Baring Brothers subsequently wrote Captain Johnston as follows:—"We have received your letter of 12th inst., and also letters from Captain King and Mr. De Courcey May, and we have telegraphed the substance of your communication to Mr. Cunningham, Boston, from whom we shall doubtless hear in due course. As captain of the steamer and representative of the owner's interests, you should know best what to do, but we should think that it will be best to stay where you are for the present." The telegram and letters were put into Court. The Court unanimously decided that the loss was in no way attributable to the conduct of the ship's officers, whose certificates they accordingly returned.

LIGHT SHIP FOR THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT.—Last week there was a trial of the Japanese twin screw-steamer named the Meiji-Maru, built by Messrs. Napier and Son, Glasgow. The dimensions of the steamer are as follows:—Length, 242 feet; breadth of beam, thirty feet; depth, twenty-two feet; burthen 1,000 tons B.M.; mean draft, twelve feet nine inches. She is fitted with two engines, each pair having cylinders of thirty and fifty-four inches diameter with a stroke of three feet. The trial was made in the presence of the Japanese Charge d'Affaires, Captain Brown, who is to command the steamer, Mr. Shillingford, Inspecting Engineer to the Japanese Government, and Captain Crockett, who has superintended the building. The results of the trial were satisfactory, notwithstanding that the weather was unfavourable, the steamer attaining a speed of thirteen knots with both screws and of eight knots with one screw only. The engines indicated 1,450-horse power. She will be despatched to Japan by Messrs. Matheson and Co., who have had charge of her construction.

ANOTHER addition to the fleet of mail steamers plying regularly between Amsterdam and Java, owned by the Stoomvaart Maatschappy Nederland, sailed from Glasgow on the 12th inst. for Amsterdam. The steamer is named the Prins Hendrik, and is a vessel of 365 feet in length and 37 feet beam, and measuring 3,000 tons. Her builders, Messrs. John Elder and Co., have supplied her with engines of 400-horse power. She is the third steamer Messrs. Elder have launched for this line during the past six months. The line was started in 1871 with four steamers of similar dimensions from this yard.

OFFICIAL advices from Paris state that in the ten days ending with the 10th inst. thirty-one ships passed through the Suez Canal. The transit revenue collected by the Suez Canal Company in the same period amounted to £26,000.

THE Glen Company have chartered the steamer State of Virginia, and she takes the berth for the Straits and China.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Sir SAMUEL BAKER,

In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Faky that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

The present French mail brings advices from this port to the 13th Oct.; and by the Pacific mail we have news one day later, viz., to the 14th Oct.; the French mail from London, 14th Aug., arrived out on the 3rd Oct., and the following P. and O. mail of August 21 was received on the 7th Oct. The following summary of news is from the Japan Herald:—

An important assembly of about fifty of the nobles and ex-daimios, convoked at the instance of the Government, met in deliberation on the 8th Oct., at the Emperor's residence, on the subject of the complication between China and Japan. The momentous question of peace or war was debated, and a resolution in favour of peace was adopted. We commend the assembly for the wisdom of its resolve, for a war with China must in the end have proved disastrous for Japan. We are as yet without any reliable information as to the progress of Okubo's peace mission to Peking. Beyond the fact of his having had an audience, and presented his credentials, nothing appears to be known, and inaction seems still the order of the day. Both parties continue despatching forces to Formosa, and making purchases of warlike material. The Japanese have also just bought another steamer to add to their already large fleet of transports. The number of deaths amongst their troops in Formosa appears to have been exaggerated, but the amount of sickness must be very large. One steamer, which arrived from there a few days ago, alone brought seven hundred invalids, which must be a very large percentage of the total number of troops there. The Government have issued a notice to the Chinese residents in Japan, informing them that they will be allowed to remain here in the event of war breaking out.

The drunken insolence of Japanese soldiers at Yedo is again attracting attention. Not long ago a lady, the wife of one of the foreign employés of the Government, was insulted, and a formal complaint was made through the British Minister. On the 4th Oct. Mr. de Bavier, Consul-General for Denmark, whilst returning from a walk to Meguro, was stopped on the road by a couple of drunken soldiers, one of whom took off his hat and insisted on Mr. de Bavier saluting him, which, as a matter of course, was refused. The soldier then used insulting language, and, laying hands on Mr. de Bavier, prevented his passing on. Having at length extricated himself, Mr. de Bavier went to an adjacent police station, and gave the two men into custody.

The men were armed with side arms, and it was fortunate that the partly assailed so far contented himself as to take the course he did, for had he struck his assailants, very unpleasant consequences might have ensued.

Two important law cases are before the Courts here. In a case before the Japanese Court, a claim is made against Mitsui's Bank (the largest in Japan), for interest, &c., on account of their alleged refusal to discount $68,000 worth of their notes, payable "on demand," when presented to them; whilst the other, in H.B.M.'s Provincial Court, is brought against the Oriental Bank, to recover the amount of charges, &c., on a quantity of goods hypothecated to them, and held to their order. Neither case is yet concluded.

The railway between this town and Yedo, although now open for some two years, has been until now free from accidents. On the 11th October, however, whilst nearing the station at Yedo, the engine and leading carriage of a train, from some unexplained cause, got on the wrong line, and were eventually capsized. Luckily the injuries caused were very slight. The engine driver was injured in the legs, and the fireman scalded; but beyond bruises these were all the personal damages sustained.

The Japanese, not content with the prices ruling for silkworms' egg cards (the demand for which is extremely limited, whilst the supply is exceptionally large), have commenced burning a large quantity, with a view of raising the value of the remainder. Their efforts are, however, likely to prove abortive, as the graineurs have already filled nearly the whole of their orders.

Burglaries, in a slightly modified form, still continue, and a committee has been appointed to bring the subject to the notice of the Government. One thing is certain, that the dissatisfaction prevailing is calling attention to the present very unsatisfactory state of the Municipal Government of Yokohama, and will probably result in some change.

A correspondent of the Gazette sends an account of the execution of Tazaki Hidechika, who so barbarously murdered the late Mr. Haber, the Acting German Consul at Hakodadi.

It was agreed by Minister Von Brandt and the Japanese authorities at Yedo that Tazaki Hidechika should be executed privately within the prison walls, believing that the ends of justice would be best promoted by this course, as the prisoner might, if any opportunity was offered, exhibit unseemly bravado. The prisoner was carried to the place of execution, guarded by twelve policemen. Inside and in one corner of the prison enclosure was a kind of small court surrounded by a high wall and fence. At one side sat the witnesses, consisting only of the three foreign Consuls and several native officers. In the middle was a trench about six inches deep and three feet in length. The murderer was soon brought in blindfolded, and made to kneel on a mat, by the side of the trench; an officer then loosed his cords and tucked the clothes down about the neck, laid bare one knee, and arranged the hair, during which time prisoner occasionally mumbled something, apparently addressed to the executioner, giving directions about his clothes. He looked pale, but did not seem much concerned. Two executioners stood by with their swords, which were dipped in water. First executioner advanced and struck, missing his aim and hitting below the neck, close to the shoulders; the body fell forward, with the head in the trench, seeming to suffer much. A second blow was struck, and then the assistant executioner advanced and delivered a heavy blow, which being unsuccessful, a fourth attempt to sever the head from the body was made but failed. One executioner then took the head by the hair, and commenced to saw the head off with his sword in a most horrible manner, but was stopped by the chief officer. Water was thrown on the face, and, in order to show the face to the witnesses, the head not being entirely severed it was necessary to partially lift the body up with it. The body was covered with a mat, and Tazaki Hidechika had met his due reward. The time occupied by the decapitation was about two minutes. As the head was not severed from the body as per sentence and according to Japanese custom, the question may be raised as to whether the failure was intentional or not, as Hidechika may have preferred to suffer more to having his head cut entirely off; as to the Japanese idea of disgrace I am ignorant.

Among the passengers arrived by the Shanghai steamer, we observe the name of Major Kinder, the Director of the Mint at Osaka. It is understood that changes of importance are contemplated in this establishment, and that Major Kinder's connection with the Mint terminates in February next.

Mr. A. Gibson, solicitor, son of the Rev. H. Gibson, rector of Tyfield, Essex, has been permitted to practise in H.B.M.'s Provincial Court. Mr. Gibson is understood to have taken a high position on his examination.

Training for the Autumn Races, which take place on the 5th Nov. and following days, is now going on, and absorbs considerable attention. The celebrated racing pony Typhoon has been sold at auction by Messrs. Mitchell, Cope, and Co., and realised $800.

The markets are comparatively quiet. A slight demand has sprung up for cotton goods, and the principal other feature is a rise of about $20 per picul in silk.

Count Fe d'Ostiani had his audience of the Mikado on the 2nd October, for the presentation of his credentials as Italian Minister.

A strong shock of earthquake, lasting between twenty and thirty seconds, occurred on the 7th October, about 5 A.M.

A performance in aid of the Hospital has been given by Chiarini's circus troupe, which was well attended.

It is said that another Exhibition will be held at Kioto, to commence on the 1st March next.

A return rifle match between Hong Kong and Yokohama will shortly take place.

The proposed International Boat Race has fallen through.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 16th Oct.; the French mail from London August 28 was received on the 12th Oct. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

The week has been unproductive generally of local events of any importance, and on the Chino-Japan difficulty in particular the reports from the north throw no fresh light. There seems to be unanimity of opinion, however, on the main point—that there will be no war. But the Japanese are still in Formosa, and their Ambassador at Peking, where the negotiators on each side seem to be waiting for the other to break ground on the question of indemnity.

The presence at Shanghai of H.B.M. squadron on the Asiatic Station has added to the social life of the place. A capital match at cricket was played last week between a Navy Eleven and the Shanghai Cricket Club, and was won by the latter. The band of the Iron Duke was in attendance at the cricket ground, and fine weather favoured the amusement.

H.B.M. gun vessel Frolic followed the Midge up to Shanghai on the afternoon of the 6th Oct., and next day the Modeste, the newest and handsomest corvette in the British navy, also came up. She is not ram-built, like the Briton and Druid, and her lines are much finer than those of either the Cadmus or the Thetis. She is, in fact, a model in her outline, and to a sailor's eye is particularly pleasing. The Frolic sported Admiral Shadwell's flag on her arrival, but it was shifted to the Modeste on the 8th Oct., with the customary time-honoured observances. The stay of the squadron here will, as at present arranged, extend to a fortnight, time enough, it is to be hoped, for the interchange of those courtesies for which Britishers abroad are ever famous when the army and navy are concerned. The Dwarf left on the 13th Oct. for a week's stay at Chinkiang, and is charged, we believe, with some special duty on the Yangtsze. The Frolic left for Ningpo on the 14th, where she will remain for a week, and then return to Shanghai, prior to taking up her station for the winter, which will probably be Hankow. It is understood that, after coaling, the Midge will proceed to Ningpo and relieve the Frolic; so that the Ningpo residents will have the reassuring presence of a gunboat for some time. The Growler is expected daily from Amoy.

Admiral Shadwell, accompanied by his secretary, has paid a visit of inspection to the Temperance Hall. Mr. Grimmer, the manager, conducted the visitors over the building. The admiral was epecially pleased with the permanent boarders' apartments, while the cleanly, healthful, and orderly appearance of the dormitories set apart for seamen and other temporary occupants, also met with his unqualified approbation. The library, reading-rooms, and dining-rooms were also inspected; and as the admiral's visit was quite unlooked for, it is gratifying to know that he saw the hall in its every day condition. He spoke in terms of great praise of the establishment and maintenance in Shanghai of so excellent a place of resort for the men of the fleet, and hoped that nothing would be permitted to interfere with its continued success. Such testimony as this cannot fail to be pleasing to the Temperance Society generally, showing as it does that their efforts to provide a counter-attraction to the public-house are approved by those whose position enables them to perceive both the need and the usefulness of such an organisation.

The Russian gunboat Sobol arrived from Tientsin on the 13th Oct. on her way to Vladivostock, via Nagasaki, to winter. She will remain here about ten days, to make some slight repairs, before proceeding on her voyage northward.

The Hon. B. P. Avery, U.S. Minister to China, accompanied by E. T. Sheppard, Esq., U.S. Consul at Tientsin, has left for the North. H.B.M. Consul, Mr. Medhurst, has returned from Chefoo and has resumed charge.

We hear of several contemplated changes in H.B.M. Consular Service. Mr. W. King, Vice-Consul in charge at Kiukiang, goes home shortly on leave, and Mr. W. Stronach, Acting Vice-Consul, Shanghai, will go to Kiukiang; Mr. Watters, Tientsin, replacing Mr. Stronach. Mr. Davenport, Vice-Consul for this port, has had his leave extended. Mr. Alabaster, lately Acting Consul at Ningpo, is temporarily attached to the Supreme Court. Mr. Bristow takes charge of the shipping-office.

The steamer Cavador Castle came up to Shanghai on the 8th Oct., from Woosung, where she had been detained for two days by want of water on the bar. When she arrived there, she drew 21 feet 5 inches, and had to be lightened to the extent of 250 tons, to enable her to cross on a draught of 19 feet 10 in.

The French barque Union, stranded on the Block House Spit, has been got off, and Messrs. Boyd and Co.'s steamer Lever towed her to Shanghai. It is said the barque has sustained no material damage by her prolonged stay on the mud.

A melancholy disaster, involving the loss of a Chinese gunboat and all on board, is reported from Taiwan. The vessel is the transport Ta Yak, No. 15, of 600 tons, which foundered in a typhoon on the 29th September, while lying at anchor at Un Ping, Taiwanfoo. Fortunately the Ta Yak had landed her troops, but as it was, the loss of life was very serious, all the crew—seventy in number—excepting the captain, who was on shore on a visit to the Chinese Commissioner, having gone down with the vessel. Three steamers were at anchor in the roads at the time of the disaster, but none of them could render any help, as the sea was running mountains high, and breaking right over the vessels. One of them, the Chi Ngan, slipped both anchors and ran for shelter to the Pescadores, while the An Lan, No. 4, ran down south. Immediately on the arrival of the news at Foochow, Mr. Giquel despatched Captain Farrow with carpenters, divers, and all the necessary apparatus for raising sunken vessels, hopes being entertained that the Ta Yak may be raised. The Tchin Hang, which brought the news to Shanghai, also took from Foochow officers and a full crew for the Haiching, which has been running for the China Merchants' Company for some time, but is now to be put in commission for Government use. Subsequent advices via Hong Kong, report that the Chinese gunboat An Lan, referred to above, was driven on the Formosa coast, ten miles below Taiwan, and became a total wreck. The crew managed to save themselves.

The barque Farningham arrived on the 9th Oct. from Freemantle, seventy-eight days out. She left the day previous to the sailing of the Nardoo from the same port, and the latter arrived at Shanghai on the 10th September. The Farningham not having been heard of for some time apprehensions were felt as to her safety. As she lies at present near the harbourmaster's hulk, she presents a sorry sight, with her mainmast "fished" and her bulwarks gone fore and aft. Though her decks were swept by successive seas, not a drop got below, and were she not a strong and taut craft she could hardly have come so safely through the rough weather she met with.

The return of fine weather has again brought the racecourse into good order, and enabled owners of ponies to make occasional use of it during the training season. So far there has been little opportunity for testing the merits of ponies. The entries for the various events do not come up to those of last autumn meeting, and are particularly short in the steeplechase and hurdle races, but on the whole they are considered satisfactory. The Griffins contain forty-one entries, and the Consolation forty-eight.

A Naval Court has been held, at the English Consulate, to investigate the circumstances attending the foundering of the barque Argonaut, during a typhoon off the East coast of Formosa on the 1st Oct. The testimony adduced showed that captain, officers, and crew made almost incredible efforts to save the vessel, but the continued fury of the elements, lasting from the 27th September to the day named, proved too much for them. They had to abandon the vessel, but did not do so until she had become a perfect wreck and was fast sinking. Just at that time, a French barque hove in sight, bore down and took them off in safety. The Court were unanimous in giving the highest commendation to Captain Sanderson and his crew for their efforts to save their vessel; and Commander Grant, of H.M.S. Midge, the President, was requested to bring the gallant and generous conduct of the French Captain to the notice of the Board of Trade.

At the U. S. Consulate-General, before Mr. Seward, Consul-General, the case of "Sit-Ming-Cook v. R. W. Wade," for assault, came on for hearing. The facts of the case are so nearly similar to those detailed in our lengthy reports of the cases heard in the English Police-court, in re Orme, that it would be waste of space to repeat them. The present case was settled by Mr. Wade paying the expenses incurred by the complainant.

Miss Carry George's Dramatic Company continues to perform daily, and its capabilities have been well brought out in the pieces lately given. The acting is always careful, and in most instances really of a high order; and the success with which nightly changes of programme are put through is not a little creditable to the management. Numerically weaker, the Company seems to us as a whole stronger in talent than that of which several of its members formed part last year, and well deserves the support of playgoers.

A gentleman who recently visited Woosung sends us the following note regarding the works in progress there. Being interested in the science of fortification, and desirous of inspecting Chinese works, the writer tried to find the new Woosung forts, but seems to have been unable to discover anything more formidable than the entrenched camps recently formed for the accommodation of soldiery, and the river embankment works which we referred to some months ago;—

From the Lighthouse there seemed some indication that the Chinese had not been idle during the past twelve months, and I can assure you I contemplated what appeared to be a fortification with no little interest, but I was doomed to disappointment, as you will see. About 400 yards from the river, inland, has been erected an earthwork enclosure, 300 feet by 400 feet, the height being about ten feet, width at bottom six feet, and at the top two feet; the top of the wall has embrasures about a foot wide and the same depth, and some three feet apart. The Chinese live inside the enclosure in tents, and the place is in a filthy condition. There is a very liberal display of flags; I never saw so many in so small a space before. I imagine it is intended to have a ditch cut around the place. The men, as far as I could see, are not armed. Another enclosure by the side of this, a little farther inland, needs no description, as it is similar in all respects. Workmen are employed driving piles along the edge of the river and filling in with earth; of course this simply means improving the embankment; what may be done after the embankment is made good I do not know. At one place, for a length of about 100 yards, piles are driven in three tiers abreast, the space between them being filled with earth and stones. Perhaps the intention is to erect a fort above this, but there is no present indication of it.

An application to Li Tsung-hi, the Viceroy at Nanking, on behalf of the proposed Reading-room and Polytechnic School for Chinese, at Shanghai, made by a Chinese member of the Committee, has called forth from his Excellency the handsome acknowledgment, giving a subscription of Tls. 1,000. Countenance so liberal and favourable from the high officials of the Empire must materially strengthen the hands as well as the funds of the promoters, and encourage them to go on hopefully with their laudable enterprise. We expect soon to hear that the Committee have secured a suitable local habitation in which to carry out the objects covered by the name already chosen for the Institution.

Our correspondent writes on the 1st Oct. from Peking:—

The Japanese Ambassador is still here, discussing the Formosa matter with the Tsung-li Yamen. Little of a general nature, and nothing positively, is as yet known regarding the said discussion, but it is believed that it has not got beyond the question of the sovereignty of the island. The Japanese have taken up the position that aboriginal Formosa does not belong to China, and to this they seem inclined to stick, while the Chinese of course assert that their territorial rights extend over the whole island. I question much whether the negotiations have yet settled that point; but at the same time, from all one can hear, the Japanese seem to maintain the position simply in justification of their action, and, that being conceded, with a view to getting an indemnity for the expenses of the expedition. I don't think they mean to argue a right to annex or colonise, and thus there is every probability that war will be averted. The attitude of their Ambassador, and the diplomatic delay to which he has apparently been a party, are just the opposite of what was expected when he was despatched on his mission, and plainly indicate a desire to have the affair patched up. It is now believed here that the Japanese are feeling their way slowly and cautiously towards an indemnity, and if that were settled the whole thing would be over. The Chinese, it is believed, expect to be called on for an indemnity, but I fancy the amount the Japanese may ask for will depend on circumstances.

Among Legation on dits, I may mention that his Excellency M. Geoffroi, the French Minister, is likely to go home very soon, the Comte de Rochechouart again becoming Chargé d'Affaires. The Hon. Mr. Avery, the new Minister of the United States, is expected in a week or two; and Dr. Williams, who has been Chargé d'Affaires since Mr. Low's retirement, will leave for America early in the coming year.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 22nd October; the French mail from London Sept. 11 was received on the 20th October. The following items of news are from the Hong Kong Daily Press:—

We deeply regret to have to announce the sad news of the death of Lady Kennedy, which reached the colony on Oct. 20, through the Governor of Singapore. The sad news has cast a general gloom over the colony. In the death of Lady Kennedy all have to lament a friend, as there was no one with whom she came in contact to whom she did not extend some kindly words and pleasing courtesy. To her largeheartedness and magnanimity the colony owed more than was perhaps generally known of its social pleasantness—as the example she set of the graciousness which should ever characterise those in exalted position went far to remove many of those little heartburnings and estrangements which are too apt to arise among small communities. The memory of one who has thus fulfilled the difficult duties of her high station must be long cherished. All must feel that the late Lady Kennedy has nobly filled her mission, and has reaped the last and greatest of all human rewards, the respectful and affectionate remembrance of all who have known her. It may be hoped that the consciousness of this fact will be some slight consolation to Sir Arthur Kennedy, in whose sad bereavement all in Hong Kong feel the deepest sympathy.

We learn by our correspondence from Tientsin that there is no longer any doubt that the Chinese intend to open some of the rich coal mines in the North, and to have them worked according to foreign principles. It appears that the Viceroy of Chilhi has now given orders for the purchase of the necessary machinery, and that Mr. Henderson, an American gentleman, has been engaged to procure the necessary plant and to engage miners in the United States to set the work going. This is undoubtedly a very satisfactory step in advance, and in one point of view it is of good augur from the very slowness with which the Chinese have been induced to adopt it. This deliberation shows that they have very carefully and accurately calculated their chances, and the likelihood of their succeeding in the steps which they have adopted is thus increased by the consideration that they must have made careful provision for the difficulties which might arise. It is evident that a noticeable change must have taken place in the Celestial mind to enable it to depart so far from recognised traditions, and it is to be hoped that the step which is now announced may be taken as a good augury for future progress.

We learn from Korea that a sudden move has been made against all the statesmen hostile to Japan, who have been seized and thrown into prison, and a strong desire has arisen, for the first time for many years, to cultivate friendly relations with the Japanese. This extraordinary movement does not owe its origin to any force from within, but to the teaching of a Japanese, who has persuaded some of the most influential Koreans of the superiority of Western knowledge over that of the Chinese, and of the advantage which would accrue to them from the acquisition of it.

A fire broke out in the verandah of the house over the Western Avenue of the Central Market on the 19th Oct. The occupants appear to have been cooking in the verandah, and some sparks caught a quantity of old rags and mosquito curtains there. Fortunately the verandah was brickwork, else the few buckets of water which did put it out would have been useless. There should be some measures taken to prevent the Chinese from cooking in verandahs and hanging up all sorts of greasy rags and other combustible materials there. One Chinese has been fined by Mr. May, for "chin-chining Joss" with fire in his verandah.

Messrs. Douglas Lapraik and Co. propose to start a steamer from Foochow every Sunday morning, so as to catch the mail at Hong Kong. It is arranged to despatch a steamer for Hong Kong every alternate Thursday. This is a graceful effort to meet the wishes and convenience of the community.

It is proposed to raise a subscription at Foochow in aid of the sufferers by the late terrible catastrophe at Macao. Mr. A. A. da Silva, of Messrs. Hedge and Co.'s, has undertaken to collect and forward contributions.

The Gazette notifies that Mr. Justice Snowden will act as Deputy Judge of the Vice-Admiralty Court.

Telegraphic communication with Saigon and Singapore has been re-established.

The Typhoon.

The heads of the various Government Departments have been busy in the preparation of official reports upon the late disastrous typhoon. The following is the report forwarded by the Captain Superintendent of Police :—

I have the honour to forward, for the information of H.E. the Governor, the following particulars as to deaths and losses caused by the Typhoon of 22nd and 23rd September, 1874, on the Island of Hong Kong and in British Kowloong. The bodies of 17 Europeans and 604 Chinese have been recovered by the Police, and by them buried, or by the friends of the deceased. Over 200 houses have been destroyed or rendered uninhabitable, one house was also burnt. Two steamers, Aibay and Leonor, have sunk in the Harbour, and the Pacific Mail Company's steamer, Alaska, valued at $250,000, is on shore near Aberdeen, and will with difficulty be got off. About eight ships are supposed to have been lost. The destruction of Chinese junks and small boats it is impossible to estimate. At Stonecutter's Island about 100 were stranded; at Shau-ki-wan 37 large junks and several house boats; at Aberdeen about 100 junks and sampans; at Stanley no boat was left when the typhoon was over.

The telegraph posts were blown down in different parts of the island, so as to prevent all communication. The majority of the lamp posts also lost their lanterns, and the gas works were so damaged that gas could not be supplied to the street for two nights. The roads were almost impassable from the obstruction caused by the fallen trees. The loss of personal property is also great, nearly every person complaining of some loss or damage. The details that I have given above are of necessity meagre; the number of bodies recovered in all probability represents only one-third of the actual loss. In many cases the junks and ships have gone down with their crews on board, and are thus probably buried in their vessels.

The Registrar-General reports as follows:—

The number of deaths occasioned by the typhoon which have been registered is as follows:—Chinese.—Drowned: Male adults, 419; female adults, 152; male children, 93; female children, 48; killed by falling houses, male adults, 52; female adults, 15; male children, 12; female children, 5; total deaths, 796. The above refer to Chinese, among whom, of course, the greatest number of deaths occurred. I may take this opportunity of reporting to his Excellency the great aid given by the Board of Direction of the Tung Wah Hospital in the late serious emergency. The board hired boats and engaged men through whose instrumentality as many as 193 bodies of those enumerated above were buried. Further, they hired the Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy steamer, and one of the members of the board searched the neighbouring headlands and inlets, where they buried several other bodies of their countrymen, as well as those of two Europeans. The energy displayed and the good work done by the board deserves, I think, some recognition from the Government.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The Siam Weekly Advertiser gives the following items :—

A proclamation has been issued for the information of slaveholders and slaves, that his Majesty, in concurrence with the Saanabaudee and the Councillors of State, requires that henceforth all holders of slaves, one, two, nine, or ten persons, or families, must take note of the children born of slave parents. All such children born after April 12th, 1868 and 1869, male or females, must be taken to the proper authorities, and the names of those born in 1868 must be recorded on the back of the bond papers, stating their age at the time of the record, every bond paper must have such a record, if the children were born in 1868, if born previous to that year, no record need be made of such.

On the 18th Oct. the British steamer Paris passed up by Bangk'olem point, from Saigon. This is a fore and aft steamer, and is designed to run regularly between this port and Hong Kong, so that henceforth the firm of Messrs. Windsor, Redlich, and Co. will be the agents of two steamers that will ply regularly between this port and Hong Kong. The steamers Danube and Paris, we hope, will keep us in semi-monthly communication with Hong Kong.

If the steamer Asia forms another line, and is eventually aided by a sister steamer, under the management of the firm of Messrs. A. Markwald and Co., there is no reason why we may not soon be in weekly communication with Hong Kong.

We are assured in the Government Gazette that the great pest and demoralising vice of the country, gambling, is under consideration, and will soon receive prompt and efficient action.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 29th October; no later mail from London had arrived out. We take the following items of intelligence from the Straits Times :—

At the meeting of the Legislative Council on the 5th Oct. the question of contributing towards a land line of telegraph to connect the British lines in Burmah with the Dutch lines in Sumatra, and passing through the native States on the Malay Peninsula, was considered, when the Council resolved to encourage the project on condition that the united contributions from this Colony and the native States under its protection should not exceed £16,000. The telegraphic scheme also embraces an extension to Siam, but we learn that the King's Privy Council at Bangkok has decided in favour of the construction of the Siamese portion of the line by that Government. It is obvious that this telegraph line must prove of great benefit both to this Colony and to the native States, and with the substantial encouragement which this Government is prepared to extend to it, and the prospect of being relieved from the cost of the Siamese part of the line, the projectors should be able to carry out their design without much difficulty.

The Hon. Mr. Shelford also brought before the Council the question of the seizure, some time ago, of the British steamer Sri Malacca, while trading between Malacca and Langkat, by Tunku dia Oodin, who had declared a blockade of the Langkat river. The steamer was, it appears, trading with and under a pass from the Sultan of Salangore, and had obtained her cargo and her clearance from the Sultan. The legality of the seizure, under these circumstances, by the Viceroy of Klang and Salangore, who is a vassal of the Sultan, was seriously questioned.

Among the passengers for home by the last mail was Mr. W. R. Scott, who, as an unofficial member of the Legislative Council and a municipal commissioner, has taken a prominent part in our local politics and in all questions of public interest, and has enjoyed the respect and confidence of all classes of the community. The vacancy in the Council caused by his retirement will be filled by Mr. H. W. Wood, than whom no more fitting selection could have been made, or one more certain to receive the hearty approval of the public.

At the meeting of the shareholders in the Chindrass Mining Company, Limited, the following resolutions were proposed and carried unanimously :—

That the capital of the Company be increased to $150,000.

That no call be made above $10 per share, and that one month's notice be given of each call.

That the thanks of this meeting be given to Mr. Davidson, the Chairman, Mr. Buckley, the Managing Director, for his services at Chindrass, and to Mr. Cumming and the other Directors in Singapore for the services they have rendered to the Company.

The Gazette contains the text of a short Act of Parliament, passed on the 30th July, 1874, by which offences committed at any place in the Malay Peninsula south of the 9th degree N. latitude, or in any island within twenty miles of the coast, by any person resident in this Colony within six months previous to the commission of such offence, shall be amenable to trial in our Criminal Courts as though the offence were committed within the Colony.

The steamer Eastern Isles has left with a staff of the Telegraph Company's people on board, to endeavour to pick up and repair the Saigon cable, which has been suddenly interrupted. We understand the break is only some twenty miles out, and though communication is not yet restored, it is probable the repair will be very shortly effected.

On the 5th Oct. the official journal of Manila published a Government Resolution to the effect that the provisions of a decree issued in October, 1868, according to which materials imported from foreign countries into the Philippines for public works, such as railways, tramways, roads in general, navigation and irrigation, canals and water works, and also for the benefit of harbours, lighthouses, and private buildings of general utility, should be duty free, are to be put in force.

No less than thirty-five shocks of earthquake were felt at Manila on the 16th Sept., between 10 A.M. and 2 P.M.; and six more during the following night. A panic, says the Comercio, arose in consequence amongst the population of that city, and precautionary measures were taken against accidents, of which, however, scarcely any happened.

The Sarawak Gazette publishes the following news item :—A telegram has been received from London announcing the birth of a son and heir to H.H. the Rajah and Ranee on the 26th ult. A salute was fired in Kuching on receipt of this important intelligence, and official communications were sent to the different outstations, where the happy event will be celebrated in like manner.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—Business in Imports, with the exception of Cotton Yarn, had been on a fair scale. The lower qualities of Grey Shirtings had been most in demand : 7lbs. T-Cloths, Indigo Shirtings and Cotton Sateens, had been saleable. Velvets had again improved, but Taffachelass closed weaker. In Woollens, there had been a good demand for Black Lustres ; and Cloth—especially Presidents—had been rather more enquired for. In Metals, the market for flat and round Iron had been weak, but a slightly better enquiry had existed for some sizes of Nail Rods. Quotations : G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., 38½ yds. 39 in., $1.95 to $2.17½ per piece ; do. 8¼ lbs., $2.35 to $2.67½ ; do. 8 lbs. 45 in., $2.40 to $2.60 ; do. 9 lbs., $2.90 to $3.10 ; T-Cloths., 6lbs., $1.50 to $1.65 ; do. 7 lbs., $1.90 to $2.05. Drills, English, 15 lbs., 40 yds. 40 in., $3.30 to $3.40. G.E. White Shirtings : 60 to 64 reed 40 yds. 35 in., $2.50 to $2.75. Cotton Yarn : No. 16 to 24, $34.50 to $38.00 per picul ; No. 28 to 32, $36.50 to $39.75 ; No. 38 to 42, $41 to $46. Camlets, SS (Assorted), $18.00 to $19.00 per piece. Plain Orleans and Lustres : 40 to 42 yds., 32 in., $6.50 to $8. Figured Orleans : 30 yds. 31 in., $4.75 to $5.50.

SHANGHAI.—There had been an improvement in the market, although two or three articles had slightly receded in price, and the value of others had remained stationary ; whence the improvement had sprung, and whether it would be maintained, were points equally difficult to determine at the moment. In reference to the source, various opinions were hazarded, and amongst them stand—reduced stocks, enhanced rates at home, a scarcity in the interior of the particular goods required, a desire to get supplied of such before winter sets in, and speculation. Advices from the River Ports were as unsatisfactory as ever, while those from Tientsin and the North reported no change. It was evident, however, from the business done here during the week, and the prevailing excitement, that more encouraging native information had been received from the interior, and this, aided by the continuance of the demand from Japan, had tended to strengthen the market for manufactured goods generally.

FOOCHOW.—The only sale had been one of 500 pieces of Mexican T-Cloths 7 lbs. at $2.12½ per piece. Lead was quoted $8.25 per picul.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Business had continued moderately active, and settlements of 6,000 piculs during the fortnight were reported. Buying had been fairly general, but no change had been made in quotations. Arrivals had failed to keep pace with the demand, and stocks were somewhat reduced. The Ambassador sailed for New York on the 30th Sept., with a cargo, from this port, of 709,969 lbs. The P. M. steamer Japan left on the same day, with 315,785 lbs. for New York, 250,201 lbs. for San Francisco, and 11,950 lbs. for Boston, &c. The New Republic, for New York, was engaged full. Export from 1st May to date 10,241,073 lbs., against 5,974,259 lbs. in 1873-4, and 6,827,413 lbs. in 1872-3.

HANKOW.—Messrs. Drysdale Ringer and Co.'s Report says :—Our Tea season is now pretty well over, and as the export figures will be the only thing of further interest ; arrivals for the three weeks since issue of our last, dated 15th Sept., are 11,000 chests, against 10,000 for same period last year. There is only low common tea to come down from the country now, and the quantity is estimated by teamen at not over 10,000 chests. We think this will prove too low, however ; our total arrivals are at present 20,000 chests over same time last year and still 30,000 chests short of the then total export. Settlements have been :—767 chests, 2,984 half-chests at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2¾d. per lb.; 1,685 chests, 2,910 half-chests at 11¼d. to 1s. 1d. per lb.; Toong-shan Teas have commanded Tls. 17½ to 18½, other kinds ranging from Tls., 12.60 to 13½ for Shuntam packed to Tls. 16½ for Ping-kongs and Wun-kais per picul. Export to date per Customs returns :—

KIUKIANG.—Black Teas : One chop Kiukiang packed, 420 half-chests, had been settled at Tls. 15.25. The equivalent of about 3,000 chests had come to hand during the interval. Total arrivals, 175,055 chests. Green Teas : Total arrivals, 73,740 half-chests. Stock, 3,000 half-chests.

SHANGHAI.—Black : There had been a quiet market, and few fresh arrivals. Prices were unchanged. Settlements : 6,762 chests at Tls. 15⅜ to 24½. Stock : 7,000 chests. Green : A fair business had been done at previous rates, the demand running chiefly on Moyune kinds, at Tls. 33 to 40. Settlements : Fychow and Moyune, 16,950 ½-chests. at Tls. 28½ to 41½ ; Pingsueys, 2,267 do., Tls. 27½ to 40 ; Stock 68,500 ½-chests. Export to Great Britain to date (exclusive of lost Cargoes).—

FOOCHOW.—Messrs. Westall, Galton, and Co.'s Weekly Letter says : —During the past week a fair amount of business has been passing, settlements in Congou amounting to 14,002 chests, which have been taken, to a great extent, for the Continental market. Settlements for the week are :—Congou, 14,002 chests ; Souchong, 407 chests ; Oolong, 14,935 ½-chests ; Flowery Pekoe, nil ; Scented Teas, 2,046 boxes. Congou : Prices in the better grades have been well maintained, but teamen are more anxious to realise the lower kinds. The market in teas under Tls. 15 short shows, in some cases, a drop of half a tael, and closes with a downward tendency. Dust and broken leafs continue to command attention at last mentioned rates. Souchong : Only a small business has been doing in this description at former rates. Flowery Pekoe : No transactions. Oolong : The market for America was opened on Oct. 10, and a fair amount of business has since resulted. All information is derived from private sources, as none of the purchases have been reported. The favourite chops only have been taken, and it is generally understood that the prices paid are as follows :—Tong Lee and Wung Mow, Tls. 29.75 and 27.75 respectively ; Tong Mow, Tls. 28.5 ; Sou Yuen, Tls. 32.5 ; Tong Shing, Tls. 27.5 ; Kum Wo Kut, Tls 26.25 ; and Chong Mow, Tls. 29. Scented Teas : A small quantity only has changed hands at higher prices. The export to Great Britain, the Continent of Europe, and the Cape of Good Hope is 45,771,997 lbs., against 37,951,965 lbs. at same time last year. To America, 301,937 lbs., against 757,800 lbs. To the Colonies, 10,971,088 lbs., against 10,520,409 lbs. last year. Departures are :—For London, October 14, Ulysses (str.), with 637,000 lbs.; 15, Glenartney (str.), with 1245,000 lbs.; 17, Olympia (str.), 61,495 lbs. For the Continent, October 17, Olympia (str.), 500,446 lbs.

AMOY AND TAMSUI.—Ooloongs had continued in demand, and the total settlements were reported as 134,200 half-chests, leaving a stock of less than 30,000 half-chests. Prices had been firmly maintained, but as teamen seemed more inclined to realise, lower values were hoped for. The departures for New York had been screw-steamers Glenfinlas, Anita, Auguste Reimers, and Piociola. The Helena had been chartered for New York. Latest advices from Tamsui reported a quiet market but no change in prices.

CANTON.—Considerable activity had been displayed for this period of the season, and higher prices had been paid for Scented Capers.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The active demand lately prevailing had continued, and a large business had been done at gradually advancing rates,—quotations at the close being about $15 to $20 per picul, higher than last reported. Arrivals had been about on a par with settlements. Settlements from 1st July to date, 3,900 bales ; against corresponding period —Season 1873-4, 4,500 ; 1872-3, 7,000 ; 1871-2, 5,500 ; stock, 500 bales old and new Silk. Silk-worms' Eggs : Total arrivals, since the beginning of the season, 1,450,000 cards ; against 480,000 last year, at the same date. Total settlements estimated at 400,000 cards, the bulk of which had been bought at from $0.25 to $0.50 for annual Green. Some marks, which were the objects of special enquiry, had realised from $0.60 to $1.00. The native dealers, in order to raise prices, had resolved to destroy a portion of the stock, and actually commenced doing so.

SHANGHAI.—Since last mail a fair amount of business had been transacted at a further advance in prices, and holders of medium chops were very firm for full rates. Prices reported paid are :—Gold Lion Chop, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4, Tls., 380, 360, 340 and 320 per picul ; Incense Chop, 367½ ; Dancing Bear, No. 2, 330 ; Kukee's "Chin Jan" and "Kin Hock" 350 and 320 ; Blue Elephant, 330 ; Yellow Elephant, 305 ; Bird Chop "Kin-ling," 317½ ; Red Peacock, 320 ; Common Tsatlees, 250 to 270. Settlements since last mail had been fully 2,500 bales, making total to date, 48,500 bales. About 2,000 bales had arrived during the week, and the unsold stock was estimated at 10,500 bales.

Miscellaneous.

THE WRECK OF THE "CHUSAN."

The Liverpool Journal of Commerce offers the following remarks upon this disaster:—

Anyone who paid the most casual attention to the evidence adduced in connection with the loss of the steamer Chusan, at Ardrossan, on the morning of the 21st ult., would be prepared for the judgment at which the court of inquiry arrived. There was nothing to show that the captain and officers had not done everything in their power to guide the vessel into a haven of refuge. The certificate of the chief officer was, accordingly, very properly returned. But although the court has come to this decision, certain matters were elicited in the course of the investigation which cannot fail, in view of the occurrence of a similar catastrophe, to be attended with advantage, and the inquiry has not therefore gone for nothing. And in the first place there was much questioning as to the build of the Chusan; as to whether she was a vessel capable (after the results of the survey at Waterford had become known) of proceeding from that port to Glasgow for repairs, not to speak of attempting a trip to China at this season of the year. The Chusan, it appears, was built for river traffic in China, and was therefore wanting in many of the specialities of a thorough sea boat. It is not the first time, however, that river craft have crossed the seas in safety, but in order that this may be accomplished it is necessary to take many things into consideration, and more particularly the season of the year. At this season of the year bad weather may be expected before reaching Gibraltar, after entering the Mediterranean, and for the remainder of the voyage after emerging from the Red Sea. The Chusan, we find, had only gone from the Clyde to Waterford, where it was found that seven of her frames were cracked. She was ordered back to the Clyde for repairs, and on the way, according to the evidence of certain witnesses, the vessel shook in a manner which said very little for her rigidity. In the midst of the gale she became unmanageable, and the rest is only too well known. She was a total wreck, and seven of the crew, including the captain, were drowned. As to the vessel herself, there was a certain conflict of evidence. Captain Lodge, a marine surveyor, who had discovered the cracked frames at Waterford, said the Chusan was quite fit to go back to Glasgow, but quite unfit to go to China. He would have considered it a very imprudent thing to send a vessel like the Chusan to China at the latter end of October. On the other hand, Mr. Harrington, consulting engineer of French Lloyd's, had examined the fore part of the wreck, and pronounced the Chusan to be excellent, both as regards material and workmanship. In his opinion the vessel, when she left Glasgow, or when she arrived at Waterford, was fit to proceed to China "with careful management," and he could not understand how it was that when she had plenty of sea room in the Firth of Clyde she would have become unmanageable. Mr. Thomas Scott, also a consulting engineer, was of Mr. Harrington's opinion, that the loss could in no way attributable to default in workmanship or material. But so far from being able to go from Waterford to China even "with careful management," the result proved that she could not attempt the voyage from Waterford to Glasgow without being completely at the mercy of the wind and waves, so that in the face of all the evidence adduced the wreck can only be set down as having been attended by special circumstances over which no one had any control, and for which there is no one to blame. The investigation was marked by the introduction of another element which also demanded some clearing up. Imputations were thrown out against those having the management of the lifeboat and the rocket apparatus, and the inference was that but for some remissness in all probability all on board would have been saved. Certain it is that only one coastguardsman was at Ardrossan on the eventful morning, his four companions being absent at drill. The rocket apparatus could not, therefore, be worked, although it is admitted that by this means all might safely have been brought ashore. There was a long delay in launching the lifeboat, and, notwithstanding that it was propelled by ten oars, it could not for nearly an hour make any headway against the storm. One arrangement, which will doubtless be remedied in future, was, that the coastguard had charge of both rocket apparatus and lifeboat, so that the solitary man on duty on the morning of the 21st ult. had a task imposed on him which he was unable to discharge. The responsibility will hereafter be divided, and along with this decree we may expect that at Ardrossan there will be an enrolled lifeboat crew, and that the coastguardsmen will not be called away for drill at the very season our coasts are usually visited by the equinoctial gales.

THE CHINESE IN CALIFORNIA.

Advices from Washington to the 16th inst. state that Congressman Page has received from California interesting affidavits of Revs. Otis Gibson, R. L. Simmons, and Ira M. Conduit, all for many years resident in China, and now engaged in missionary work among the Chinese in San Francisco, for the Methodist, Baptist, and Presbyterian Churches, certifying that they have personal knowledge that a regular system of importation and traffic in Chinese women for purposes of prostitution exists in China and California, and that at least nine-tenths of all the Chinese women in California are owned, bought, and sold for vile purposes, there being three thousand of them in San Francisco alone. These affidavits were forwarded by Mr. Ester, late Speaker of the California Assembly, to be brought to the attention of Congress by Mr. Page, with a view to securing Federal legislation to prevent further importations of this kind, it having been held by the United States Courts in California that the State laws enacted for the purpose were unconstitutional. President Grant, in a recent conversation on this subject, expressed the opinion that such importations are in violation of the spirit of the treaty with China, but he did not say he believed the treaty was directly violated thereby, nor did he give any assurance, as has been incorrectly stated, that he would call attention to the subject in his forthcoming Message.

THE French Journal Officiel has the following:—It is known that the Mikado of Japan is earnestly endeavouring to cultivate European habits and customs in his country. He has lately decided that each year a certain number of children belonging to the first families of the Empire shall proceed to Europe for their education. After some wavering in his choice between London, Berlin, and Paris, he has at length decided in favour of the latter city. M. Debruyere, a French gentleman, who has resided several years at Yedo, is commissioned to organise a new school, and he has taken an hotel on the Boulevard Saint Michel. The Japanese children will devote their attention chiefly to scientific subjects. At the end of four years some of the students will attend the lectures of l'Ecole Central, while others will proceed to England for naval instruction. Some young Japanese are expected in Paris before the end of the year.

A P. AND O. STEAMER IN COLLISION.—A collision has taken place off Dover between the steamer Abbotsford, outward bound from Antwerp for Philadelphia, and the P. and O. Company's steam ship Indus, en route from the Thames to Southampton to receive the heavy Indian mails, with which she was appointed to leave Thursday. Serious damage was done to both vessels. The Abbotsford put into Dover, but the Indus continued her course and reached Southampton. She will have to tranship her cargo and dock to make good repairs. The Kashgar was sent from London to take out the mails.

THE Earl of Camperdown, who was the junior Naval Lord of the Admiralty under Mr. Gladstone's Administration, has left England for India, where he intends devoting several months to examining, not only the resources of the continent, but those of the Straits Settlements, and he may possibly extend his journey to China and Japan.

THE Pall Mall of the 26th inst. contains an appeal from Sir Rutherford Alcock on behalf of the Convalescent Hospital, in which he has taken a great interest.

The Times prints an interesting account from Mr. W. W. Mundy of the Spark tragedy.

THE gun boats Mayenne and Entrecasteaux are now fitting at Cherbourg for the service of the King of Annam.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 18.

After an eight days' debate the Budget for the East India Colonies was carried last Friday, almost unanimously. Mr. Van Goltstein has proved himself a very apt politician. He knew how to gainover Mr. Nierstrasz, and the next day he spoke in such a sense that he was applauded by the "Left." It is of course impossible that steering in such different ways can be maintained, but it cannot be contradicted that it has been so far successful. There has been only one victim of the debate, viz., Mr. Levysohn Norman, the general secretary, who was sent out to investigate the agrarian questions, and who was recalled simply because Messrs. Nierstrasz, C. van Nispen and some others wished it. These gentlemen were so proud of their Parliamentary victory that they urged the necessity, that the Minister should give an explanation of the policy of Mr. Van de Putte regarding Atchin. Mr. Van Goltstein, who, as a private member, was one of the leaders of the opposition against the war, declined to grant this request. "I have," he said, "accepted my portfolio under the condition that I am not to be called upon to discuss accomplished facts, and I must therefore decline to enter upon a debate." This declaration caused, of course, much satisfaction amongst the Liberals, who at once saw that the Atchinese policy would be continued and on the other hand the Conservative members were disappointed and angry. Mr. Nierstrasz was so incensed that he voted against chapter II. of the Budget. This, however, was rather a protest, a mark of disapproval than a vote of distrust. So much is certain, that a very large majority backed the Minister, who will continue the policy of Mr. Fransen Van de Putte, but in a more moderate manner. Only upon two matters has a difference of opinion been shown between him and his predecessor, viz., the questions of the heerendiensten and that of slavery in some parts of our colonies. In the course of the debate Mr. Van Goltstein, however, showed that he will follow the way of Mr. Van de Putte in these matters. For the moment he is not convinced that it is necessary to abolish these institutions. A good deal was said about the bad state of lower class education in Java. The Minister wishes to be as neutral in this matter as possible. Mr. Nierstrasz spoke with much warmth on behalf of the navy and the army in Java, and hoped that many improvements would be introduced. The Minister agreed that something ought to be done, and he will direct his attention to the subject. Mr. Nierstrasz proposed to add to the Budget a postscript in behalf of the East India brigade, which was carried by thirty-eight against thirty-four votes. The amendment of Mr. de Ros to put at the disposal of the Government for this purpose an amount of f.300,000 was withdrawn. You will remember that immediately after the first expedition to Atchin had proved a failure, Mr. Fransen Van de Putte made the proposal to form such a brigade, which would be established at Haarlem. Mr. Van Goltstein, however, was desirous of sparing the money which the Chamber voted to spend for this purpose till the war with Atchin should be brought to an end. He will then establish such a brigade in a healthy part of Java.

It is very doubtful whether the other Ministers will meet with the same success as has Mr. Van Goltstein. Most difficult will be the task of Mr. Heemskerk. The Liberals wish him to give a definitive declaration about his policy regarding the Education question; but this the Minister declines. He demonstrates that the members of the Chamber must wait for the Bill, by which he will propose to alter the existing laws. This answer is anything but satisfactory.

Some time ago I told you that an admirer of General Van Swieten had forwarded a sum of f.100 to the paper het Nieuws Van den Dag to form the basis for a fund to purchase a sword of honour for presentation to the "victorious" general. There were, however, no other subscribers, and General Van Swieten took the wisest part and declined the honour. Our students, however, forwarded to him an address, and now there is a proposal to send him an address from the inhabitants of this town. It would be better to leave the poor general in peace.

The Samarang Locomotief has stated that the late Dr. W. Bosch left some papers referring to some scandalous facts about the East Indian Government, and that they would be published under the editorship of an eminent man. This statement is now most officially contradicted.

AMSTERDAM, NOV. 25.

Strange things happen sometimes in our Parliament. After a hot battle on the introduction of the question if we should maintain the silver standard of coinage or substitute a golden one, the majority decided that we are to have no standard at all—for there is really no other form of expression which can be given to the decision, which grants to the Minister power to suspend the coinage of silver for private account. Many are astonished that Mr. Van der Heim succeeded in carrying his Bill. The majority consisted of absolute supporters of the Cabinet and advocates of the gold standard. Several days were occupied with the question, and thus it was not until the day before yesterday that a beginning could be made with the general discussion upon the Budget. It seems that the Chamber will have a hard nut to crack with the Minister of the War Department, Mr. Weitzel. The majority is ill disposed towards him, because he became a member of this Cabinet after having served with the last, while, moreover, an opinion prevails that he is most active in small matters, whilst important questions are left untouched. His budget leaves an impression that he despairs of success in the work of organising our army in such a way that we shall be competent to defend our independence. His Bill about the militia has been since 1873 in status quo. His fortress system is now ready on paper, but it seems that it will cost such an enormous sum that even our military members stand aghast. But there is still another handle offered to the Opposition. His memorandum replying to the "section report" does not satisfy anybody. It is quite clear that the Minister is angry, but it is much easier to show anger than to defend a bad measure. But it will soon be his turn before the Chamber, and it is quite impossible to predict what may happen.

Mr. Haffmans opened the general debate upon the Budget, and criticised the financial policy of the Ministers. He was of opinion that it was unadvisable to place so much money at the disposal of the redemption fund, and he maintained that our public works should be constructed by means of loans, so that the next generation should have to pay something towards the enormous benefits which we provide for it. He showed that from 1852 to 1873 we diminished our public debt by 223,000,000, and we paid during that period 140,000,000 for our railway system. The only other speech of importance was that of Mr. Kappeyne, who demonstrated that the Liberal party was inclined to wait quietly for the issue of events, if Liberal principles were fairly used by the Cabinet. Several other members delivered some more or less remarkable speeches, which, however, had no effect. Only two sittings were occupied in the general discussion, and the various "chapters" of the Budget are now under consideration.

Some time ago I told you that Mr. Rueb, a sugar broker at Rotterdam, had published a pamphlet, to demonstrate that our sugar trade was swamped by that of England, le grand entrepot sucrier du monde. I find now that he is backed by an India commercial house, which, in the Economist, shows by figures that we lose terrain with every month. The only thing to preserve our trade is to abolish the sugar-tax, as England has done.

To-day a meeting was held here of shareholders in the East India Railway Company. A proposal was brought forward to negotiate a loan of f. 6,000,000 at 4½ per cent., to be repaid in ninety years. This amount will be devoted partly to repay former loans, and for the other part to augment the material. The proposal was carried unanimously. Mr. E. H.'s Jacob acted as chairman.

Mr. A. C. Claessens, who started twenty-seven years ago to Java, and is now appointed Catholic bishop there, arrived some days ago in good health at Sittard, where he will be consecrated.

A fortnight ago our largest ironclad was launched here from the Government yard. The vessel, however, is of such enormous dimensions that it is impossible for her to pass the sluices. She will thus be obliged to lay in our harbour till the new canal to the North Sea is complete.

Prince Alexander returned the day before yesterday from his trip abroad.

Literature.

The Straits of Malacca; Indo-China and China; or, Ten Years' Travels, Adventures, and Residence Abroad. With upwards of Sixty Illustrations. By J. THOMSON, F.R.G.S. London: Sampson Low and Co. 1875.

Mr. Thomson has, we think, acted very wisely in following his costly and elaborate "Illustrations of China and its People" by the more-generally accessible account of his experiences and labours in the East contained in the volume now before us. No one this time will be inclined to grumble at the price; 546 pages of printed matter, four maps, and sixty wood engravings, large and small, for four dollars and a half—even without counting an elegant and uniquely-embellished binding, which reflects infinite credit on the publishers—is a really marvellous example of the cheapness with which books can be produced by the appliances of modern skill. The author has divided his narrative into fourteen chapters; the first three treat of the Straits Settlements and the inhabitants there in all their various nationalities; in the fourth we are carried off to Bangkok, and shown some of the wonders and glories of the people of Siam; chapter five describes Camboja and its ruined temples; the succeeding chapter gives us some account of Saigon and Lower Cochin-China; and the rest of the work refers entirely to the Celestial Empire, to the habits of the Chinese, and to the towns, temples, and scenery to be met with in the "Flowery Land." We must, however, not omit to notice chapter eleven, which is devoted to a record of Mr. Thomson's trip in Formosa, and which supplies, as far as we are aware, the only detailed account of that island that has been produced in the present day.

Mr. Thomson's book is everywhere characterised by painstaking accuracy and thoughtful care. Written, as it evidently has been, for the amusement and instruction of the general reader at home, we are not entitled to find fault if—as is actually the case—we may turn over page after page without discovering any new theory broached, or indeed any facts supplied which were not already pretty generally known among those who have visited the East and resided in any particular locality described. But this, at any rate, we may safely affirm, that the wide area over which the writer's travels extended must always embrace some one or two places with which the oldest Eastern resident has not been brought personally into contact. Thus there must be few men who can boast that they have paid long visits to Bangkok, Camboja, Saigon, Formosa, and Peking.

Mr. Thomson, it should be remembered, is an artist by profession, not a writer. Hence, as we might expect, it is in his descriptions of the aspects of nature, the exterior of temples, and so forth, that his best passages occur. Thus, of Malacca, he says—and not unhappily:—"It is a quaint, dreamy, Dutch-looking old town. . . A spot where nature seems to sit at every man's doorway; drowsy as the placid sea, and idle as the huge palms, whose broad leaves nod above the old, weather-beaten, smug looking houses. Here nature comes laden at each recurring season with ripe and luscious fruits, dropping them from her lap into the very streets. . . . It is withal a place where one might loiter away a life dreamily, pleasantly, and uselessly." But there are also some descriptions of the characters he fell in with which the author has touched off in a no less successful strain. Mrs. Cheng, spouse of the master of a Chinese river boat, is a case in point; of her it is related:—"Our captain was Cheng-show, or rather his wife, a lady who had a great deal to say, both for him and herself; who stood no more than four feet high, and yet talked about half as much again as any other woman twice her size. Of a truth she was the wonder of her sex, the great female phenomemon of the modern Chinese age! Thus, when we ascended the first rapid, there was Mrs. Cheng to be seen, well to the fore, at one moment nursing her baby; at another, the child had been tossed into a basket, and the mother was fending her boat, with a long pole, from destruction on the rocks. Then to her brat again, or to cooking, cleaning, or husband-baiting; to each and every pursuit she was found equal, as fancy prompted or necessity compelled."

Many descriptive passages of equal merit are to be found in the work; one more such indeed we cannot forbear quoting, because the comparison contained there is as true as it is clever. Speaking of the Hospital at Tientsin, where the Sisters of Mercy were brutally murdered, the author relates that the breach in its walls through which the ruffians dragged their victims has now been plastered up with mud; "a fitting type," he adds, "of the unsatisfactory way in which the Chinese sought to atone for an outrage perpetrated almost within sight of the Governor's Yamen."

When Mr. Thomson was in Siam he seems to have had more than one interview with the late Monarch of the country, an eccentric old character. It is rather funny to find the King exclaiming, when he learned that his visitor was born in Edinburgh: "Ah! You are Scotchman, and speak English I can understand; there are Englishmen here who have not understanding of their own language when I speak." The explanation of this really is that the King, from paralysis, had an impediment which prevented his articulating quite clearly, and he used to make up his sentences beforehand with long-winded misapplied words which he dug out for himself in English dictionaries. Hence few but those familiar with his particular style could follow him. Thus he once called a passage in a letter which he could not make out, a "gloomily lurking, murky sentence;" and he compared a man in a passion during the hot season to a "cruel-oiled elephant;" by which he meant an elephant savage in the rutting season, and secreting oil (as their wont is at that time) in the temporal glands.

The most interesting portions of Mr. Thomson's book are to be found in those chapters where he describes the Chinese; indeed, the style of the author improves conspicuously as he progresses in his task; and we advise readers who may find the first two or three chapters somewhat dull to resume the perusal at the seventh chapter. If we were forced to name the best written, the most valuable, and most attractive passages, we should point to those which describe the habits of the beggars, the Chinese detectives, and life among the extremely poor. The last chapter of the book, which relates to Peking and its neighbourhood, is excellent throughout, and few who read the account of the Peiho inundations will fail to realise the wickedness of that despotic yet impotent and imbecile dynasty which has seized upon the Chinese Government and yet confines its care over the people to the collection of taxes levied on the industries of that unhappy land.

We have said that Mr. Thomson's work is cheap; indeed it is, for the illustrations are beautiful, and the size of the work is great; but we are bound to add our opinion that had the less attractive early chapters been cut down, and those subjects omitted where the author's recollections were not so fresh and vivid, as still cheaper and even more readable book would have been the result, and the writer would have profited by a more extended sale. The "people's edition" is the edition that pays.

Histoire de l'Eglise de Corée. Par Ch. DALLET, Missionnaire Apostolique. 2 Tomes. Paris: Victor Palmé. 1874.

The world already owes a large debt of gratitude to Catholic missionaries, who, going about their work in an unobtrusive manner, have accumulated vast stores of knowledge respecting the unknown regions of the earth, and have in various ways communicated the same to their fellow men, and this debt is still further increased by this history of the Korean Church. Who knows anything about Korea? asks Père Dallet. Geographers themselves hardly know its name; no savant has busied himself with it, and no traveller has been able to explore it; the expeditions which have of late years been attempted in order to make the laws of humanity respected by its Government have failed miserably, and the country is to-day more obstinately isolated than ever. Notwithstanding that Korea, more than any other kingdom of the Far East, has remained a sealed book to the outer world, still for eighty years past the standard of Christ has been planted there, and has survived an almost incessant series of persecutions. Père Dallet informs us that his object in the volumes before us is to recount the history of the Korean Church, its providential origin and rapid development; to make known the missionaries who have evangelised it, the country which has been the theatre of their labours and of their martyrdom, the character of the people to whom they have preached, and the difficulties of all kinds which they have had to overcome; to recall the sufferings of the perse cuted Christians and the cruelty of their executioners; to publish the deeds of the martyrs, and to rescue from oblivion some of the examples of heroic virtue which have shed lustre on the Christian name. He commences with an elaborate introduction on the history, institutions, manners and customs of the Koreans, subjects on which the world at large is profoundly ignorant. The following are some of the chief points touched upon in the fifteen introductory chapters;—the physical geography of the country, its products and population; its state of vassalage to China; its government and civil and military organisation; matters connected with the administration of the laws, public examinations, &c., and the social condition of the kingdom. The character of the Koreans and their ancient religion and superstitions are also dealt with, and a chapter is devoted to some elementary information respecting their language, which is almost entirely unknown to Orientalists. The information embodied in the introduction is derived to a great extent from numerous letters from missionaries, and although, as Père Dallet observes, this portion of his work presents some inevitable gaps, yet, such as it is, it possesses a value which is unique in its kind, since the missionaries are the only Europeans who have ever sojourned in the country, who have spoken its language, and who have been able, through living with the natives for many years, to acquire a real knowledge of their laws, character, and customs. Although the information on all these subjects is as exact and accurate as possible, still we are warned not to forget that the position of the missionaries, who were always in hiding and almost always being hunted down, did not admit of their verifying, in certain cases, the statements which they received, and that it was not in their power to compare the manners and customs of the different provinces.

Père Dallet tells us that this history of the Korean Church is based upon the letters of the missionaries, and the native accounts of which they forwarded translations, for there were no other materials available. We suspect, therefore, that the details of the occurrences previous to the arrival of European priests must be accepted with a certain amount of reservation. The history is divided into two main portions; the first deals with the period from 1784 to 1831, that is, from the introduction of Christianity to the appointment of a Vicar Apostolic; and the second of the period from 1831 to 1866, viz., from the arrival of Monsignor Bruguière to the martyrdom of Monsignor Berneux and others, and the abortive French expedition consequent thereon

It may be interesting to notice that the seeds of the Catholic religion were planted in Korea in a somewhat curious manner, and that the Church in that country mainly owes its origin to the fact that in 1784 a native of an enquiring turn of mind, named Ni Tek-tso (afterwards known as Pierre Ni) accidentally met with some elementary books on religion in the Chinese language, which the Korean ambassadors had brought from Peking among a number of works on science and mathematics.

M. Edmond Planchut contributes to the Revue des Deux Mondes of Nov. 15 a paper entitled "Formose et l'Expédition Japonaise," basing his observations partly on documents recently received in Europe, and partly on notes which he himself collected during a ten years' sojourn in the Far East. In view of the events which have so lately attracted attention to that portion of the Chinese Empire, his article, though somewhat rambling in its nature, will, doubtless, be read with interest. In the first part he describes the island, its inhabitants, products, &c., and details the manner in which, a few years back, the aborigines were brought into contact with foreigners. M. Planchut incidentally has occasion to speak of Amoy, and we are somewhat surprised to find that he considers it the chief town in the province of Fohkien. The second part of his article is devoted to the Japanese Expedition, and he discusses at some length the causes which led to its despatch, giving also a detailed account of its progress, and the circumstances which attended it. Having contrasted the conditions of the Chinese and Japanese armies, to the disadvantage of the former, he concludes with a hint to the latter, which we shall not be surprised to hear of their adopting. After having behaved gloriously in Formosa, he says, Japan may sooner or later make a fresh essay of her power in Korea, where her honour has also grave injuries to avenge. The Koreans are not less barbarous or less hostile to foreigners than the Boutans were, who are crushed for ever; and if Japan had the glory of triumphing over the former as she has done over the latter, she will be the only nation of Asia which has fought in the cause of progress and liberty.

We have received Nos. 302 and 303 of the Wan Kwoh Kung Pao (Chinese Globe Magazine), a periodical which is doing good service by disseminating among the Celestials a knowledge of western countries and their civilisation. Besides a variety of information respecting Europe and America, the numbers before us contain articles on the Transit of Venus and the Comet, and instalments of Dr. Williamson's Natural Theology and the Rev. T. Richard's Philosophy of the Plan of Salvation. They also, each of them, give seven numbers of the Peking Gazette, and several items of intelligence relating to China and Japan.

Trubner's American and Oriental Record for this month contains a very complete notice of the recent meeting of the International Congress of Orientalists in London. We notice the firm are publishing the following works:—"The Wheel of the Law;" "Buddhism Illustrated from Siamese Sources," by the Modern Buddhist; "A Life of Buddha," and an account of the "Phra Bat," by Henry Alabaster; the "Romantic History of Sakya Buddha," by the Rev. Samuel Beal; and the "Life and Works of Mencius," by Dr. Legge.

The Oriental for November is a very excellent number, although India again claims nearly all the papers of interest. There is, however, some "Gossip about Ceylon," and a chapter on "Home Rule," a subject, by the way, which has been thoroughly aired in the daily papers, one would think. Mr. Seward on the Government of India is the subject of a paper, while the Administration of Sir George Campbell in Bengal is the theme of another.

The China Review for July and August contains a paper on Chinese Coinage, entitled "The Shroff's Mystery," a History of the Peking Gazette, Tales from the Liao Chai Chih Yi, and a continuation of the paper on the Japanese and China. There is also a very interesting chapter on Formosan Dialects and their connection with the Malay, while Baron Richthofen's lecture on Railways to China, given at the Berlin Geographical Society, is produced.

A pamphlet has just been issued by Mr. G. W. Jones, the author of "Jones's Plan of Universal Penny Railways." It is entitled "The Million on the Rail," and is dedicated to the shareholders of the Midland, London and North-Western, and Great Northern Railway Companies. Mr. Jones in his pamphlet shows the expediency of encouraging the third-class passengers to travel, and his arguments are supported by statistics.

An interesting reminiscence in connection with the recent meeting of the Oriental Congress is afforded by a photograph which has appeared of the group of members and friends assembled at the house of Mr. Bosanquet, at Enfield, the treasurer of the Congress. The photograph is by Mr. R. L. Farr, of Enfield, and the portraits given are remarkably good.

Mr. Thomson's work, "Illustrations of China," is the subject of an elaborate review in the Pall Mall Gazette of Nov. 11th. This work was noticed in our own columns some twelve months since. The thorough appreciation of the work which the writer evinces will, however, do much to atone for the delay.

Messrs. Macmillan and Co. have published a translation of Baron Hubner's travels, under the title of "A Ramble Round the World."

THE DUTCH IN ATCHIN.

IN spite of the long-winded pomposity of Parliamentary debates at the Hague, it is not very difficult to see that the Dutch have for a long time made up their minds as to the policy they intend to apply to Atchin, and as to the mode in which that policy is to be carried out. True, there is a show of party opposition; the men in office are a little pressed by the men out of office to come forward and deliver on the floor of the House a full disclosure of those precise arrangements, political and military, for executing their plans, which very possibly even the Administration itself has not yet fully resolved upon; but such attacks as these are as insignificant as mosquito bites; the question discussed is not whether the Atchinese shall be left to their independence and an honourable retreat effected, there is no dispute of this kind; delenda est Carthage is a proposition to which all yield assent; the only disagreement arises as to the means and method most proper for securing the object sought, and, after all, it is chiefly from the point of view of costliness or economy that each politician looks at the competing schemes. From the eight days' discussion on the Colonial Budget which the Netherlands Government has just brought to a close, the general conclusion we gather is that no third expeditionary force is to be got ready and despatched for special service in Sumatra. The troops at present operating against the Atchinese, if kept up to their existing strength, are judged sufficient for completing the subjection of the still resisting provinces. Of the actual strength and condition of the Atchinese we know next to nothing. Their communications with the coast seem to be pretty effectually cut off, or at any rate their chiefs have given up the notion that it will answer their purpose to send information of their own doings to Penang; and this being so the only sensible course is to take it for granted that the Dutch have been at the pains to ascertain for themselves the full extent of the power for resistance which their enemy still possesses, and that hence they know well enough that the resources and spirits of the Malays have very nearly reached low-water-mark. We have before pointed out that if this is the case the wisest plan in the interests of the Dutch, the Atchinese, and general commerce alike, would be to put a quick end to a lingering mischievous warfare by one or two vigorous strokes. What would the British public have said if two English regiments were still fortifying themselves beyond the Prah, casting up entrenchments at Coomassie, and waiting till the King of Ashantee and the remnant of his forces should turn up on some side or other, and, as the French would say, "resume aggressive operations?" To keep the land out of cultivation and trade at a standstill for the sake of a temporary saving of say £150,000 may seem good in the eyes of the statesmen of Holland, a worthy sequel to the policy of those early settlers who burnt the spice trees on some islands so that those on the rest might rise in value, but it will not find favour or bring credit to its inaugurators with the public at large.

Our last news from the seat of war tells us that the Atchinese persist in continuing the struggle, and that the health of the Dutch troops is very unsatisfactory. The real danger, however, is lest, while the little Netherlands army is slowly pushing its way inland foot by foot, now occupying "seven forts and three bridges" (what sort of "bridges" we should like to know, three bamboo poles perhaps), now erecting a battery to command "the river" (or, as we should say, a reach in it), the Atchinese may one of these days surprise them in force, and by the sheer superiority of numbers inflict an absolutely overwhelming defeat. The Malays are pretty crafty, and at any rate they seem determined to fight to the last. Should such a catastrophe as this take place Mr. VAN GOLTSTEIN and Mr. NIERSTRASZ may league together in unholy alliance; but not all their intrigues nor all their eloquence will save the ruling party in Holland from a fall; and what then will be said of the sagacity of those who, from narrow motives of economy, and although their East India revenues admit of a large margin for expenditure, yet are now seeking to spare all outlay and to reduce the forces in Atchin to the lowest possible strength?

It is rather amusing to find, among other items of intelligence, some enthusiastic friend proposing to present the "Victorious" VAN SWIETEN with a sword of honour, and offering f.100 out of his own pocket for that purpose. Alas! not one single additional subscriber has added his name and contribution to the "presentation list." Those who are too zealous in our service often expose us to the most bitter humiliation! Well might VAN SWIETEN break silence and exclaim, "Save me from my Friend."

THE BURMAH, SIAM, AND STRAITS STEAM CO.

THE Burmah Steam Ship Company (Limited), which was established in 1871, are now building on the Clyde other two steamers of 300 and 400 tons respectively for service between Rangoon, Penang, and Singapore. The Company's steamers call at Tavoy, Mergui, and Malewan on the Pak-chan—the utmost limit of British Burmese territory, and thence on to Rendong, Ta-Kopa, and Tongka, in Junkceylon, all Siamese ports. They are of considerable importance, as the head-quarters of the Straits tin-mining operations. Tongka alone has a Chinese population of over 100,000 people, employed chiefly at the mines. Ta-Kopa and Rendong, though smaller, are also important places, and a large trade is springing up in rice, &c. These ports, although little known, present a wide field for enterprise, and their trade may at present be considered as only in its infancy. Captain BOWERS, who is well known in Burmah, is superintending the building and despatch of these two boats, and is well able to carry the Company to a success, in spite of a rather unworthy opposition on the part of a well-known established Company, to whose interest as well as policy it would have been better to have encouraged Captain BOWERS in his undertaking. If it had not been for the forbearance and assistance given by the P. and O. Company when they first started, perhaps they would not have been so successful to-day, but that great Company fostered and assisted the young enterprising firm, and the result is a fleet of vessels second to none afloat. The days of monopolies and exclusiveness in trade have gone by, and those great commercial problems are daily being worked out on the sea as well as on land, and no firm or Company shall say to its neighbour, "You shall not "go here or trade there, because this is my beat, and I "was here before you." The whole of British India and the ports round the Malayan Peninsula all the way to China still want facilities for the transport of emigrants and goods backwards and forwards, and in these seas steam vessels are particularly favourable for the advancement of commerce and to highly commercial and intelligent races like the Chinese and natives of India, who are willing to avail themselves of steam in preference to the old lumbering sailing ship, subject to the calms and the capriciousness of adverse monsoons and light winds. The transition from the inconveniences and delays of the one to the despatch and regularity of the other is readily seized upon by those quick-witted traders, and a trade has sprung up within the last ten years that we only see the beginning of as yet. The Chinese, with that quick perception peculiar to them, see the advantages of steam, and have a large fleet of steam vessels working round the coasts, rather expensively, perhaps, but they possess the faculty of combination and the knowledge of markets. Entering into competition with us in steam as well as other branches of industry, we shall find it a hard matter to hold our own with them at no distant date.

THE PRINCE OF KUNG IN DISGRACE.

BUT three years ago an acute observer of the Chinese political world made use of the following significant expression in speaking of the Prince of KUNG to a traveller, who during his visit to Peking had had an interview with his Imperial Highness :—"When the young Emperor be- "comes old enough to take the reins of government the "position of the Prince will become critical." Whatever may have happened before or behind the scenes we have no means of telling, but, as our readers are aware, this prophecy has been literally and publicly fulfilled within a little more than eighteen months of the time mentioned. Incited probably by evil counsellors, who desired war with Japan and were opposed to the rôle which the Prince played in the negotiations consequent upon the Formosa difficulty, the EMPEROR, by an edict published in the Peking Gazette of Sept. 10, degraded his uncle by depriving him of his Imperial princedom, with hereditary succession for ever, and reducing him to the rank of a secondary prince; and to make the disgrace more complete, he further visited the supposed sins of the father on the son, and deprived him, too, of his title. And all this was owing to the youthful occupant of the Dragon Throne not relishing the sound advice which he had from time to time received from his experienced relative, or, to quote the words of the edict, because "whenever speech has been "held by us with the Prince of KUNG, his language "has been marked by manifold shortcomings of de- "corum." This foolish and puerile action on the part of the petulant Son of Heaven was the cause of much talk, not to say consternation, at the Chinese capital, and there is no knowing what disastrous consequences might not have ensued, had not wiser counsels fortunately prevailed. The Empresses Dowager used their influence with the offended monarch to such good purpose, that this ill-advised edict was revoked on the following day, and the Prince and his son were forthwith reinstated in their honours and titles as quickly as they had been deprived of them. The EMPEROR bases his change of mind on the Prince's previous good services to the State, and yields to the "benign mandate," as he terms it, of the Empresses Dowager with as good a grace as possible; but at the conclusion of the second edict he endeavours to save his dignity by warning his uncle to behave more carefully hereafter. "It behoves the Prince,"—so runs the Imperial command,—"to respond to "the desire of his Sovereign to convey a salutary admoni- "tion, and for the future to be more and more dili- "gent and careful, contributing largely toward relief "from difficulty and embarrassment, to the end that "his trust be worthily discharged." It is lucky for China that her ruler, under the influence of maternal pressure, has found out that second thoughts are best, for although the Prince of KUNG is, perhaps, not a man of extraordinary intellect, and is not very advanced in his ideas respecting the necessity which exists for radical reforms in the general adminstration of the Celestial Empire, still he has shown that he is gifted with sufficient sagacity to steer the bark of State in safety through the perils which every now and then beset it, and furthermore, which is a very important qualification for a man in his position, "he possesses,"—to quote the words of the authority cited above,—"in the "highest degree the precious talent of knowing how to "choose able men, and to employ each one according to "his capabilities."

PROPOSED SURVEY OF THE INDIAN SEAS.

WE understand that a survey of the coast and harbours of India has been decided on. Commander A. D. TAYLOR, late of the Indian Navy, and a practical surveyor, has the duty entrusted to him by the Admiralty of organising and conducting the survey, and as Captain TAYLOR has had much experience in India, it is believed that the survey could not have been committed to better hands; he will be assisted by experienced surveyors from the Imperial Navy, so that he will commence with a staff of officers well qualified to undertake the duties at once. It is proposed that the first survey undertaken shall be of the mouths of the Ganges and Brahmaputra, to be followed by the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, the Sittany River, the Gulf of Cambay, and the Chittagong Coast, &c. We may congratulate the India-office on having decided upon the commencement, or resumption, of this important work, for its neglect hitherto is almost incomprehensible. There is not a single harbour of refuge throughout the whole coast of India; the coast is badly surveyed and lighted. Although it has been proposed to light the Basses Rocks for the last thirty years, it has only just been accomplished, while the miserable light at the southern extremity of Ceylon is a disgrace to our Indian executive. Even at Calcutta ships have to lie at moorings instead of docks, subject to all the danger of tides; and the shipping trade of the East suffers considerably by reason of all these serious inconveniences.

THE information recently received with reference to the Chinese Government and the coal and iron mines in the province of Chihli is extremely satisfactory. Foreign machinery is to be used in the development of the mineral resources of the district, and Mr. JAMES HENDERSON, a gentleman whose devotion to this subject our readers must have had ample evidence of in our columns, is entrusted to procure the necessary staff and plant. It is gratifying to reflect that Mr. HENDERSON has at length overcome the obstacles which the caution of our own officials and the obstinacy of the Chinese have hitherto thrown in his way. Mr. HENDERSON has arrived by the present mail,

THE proposed alteration in the allowance for retirement in the Consular Service, which we noticed some time since, cannot, we understand, be carried into operation until an Act of Parliament has been passed to alter and amend the regulations now in force. Considering the reductions made of late years in the salaries of Consular officers, we are glad to notice this proposal. It is intended that the Act should have a retrospective effect so far as to cover retirements made after Lord DERBY'S Circular, issued last February. In framing the Act we trust that Chaplains will not be forgotten.

ADVICES from the flourishing colony of Queensland state that a movement is on foot to import Chinese immigrants for the purpose of introducing labourers accustomed to tropical and semi-tropical agriculture, in addition to their general services among the colonists. It originated among certain planters and others connected with the production of sugar, which promises to be a staple article of commerce, not only for home consumption, but for export to the neighbouring colonies, where the climate is not suitable for the growth of the sugar cane.

THE report of the French Consul at Manila, announcing the seizure of the French vessel L'Avenir, by a Spanish frigate, in the Sooloo Seas, has been published in the Paris papers, the grounds alleged being the sale of arms, &c., while the ports of Sooloo are under notice of blockade by the Spanish Government. The French Minister of Marine has warned French trading vessels to abstain from trading with these ports.

THE proceedings of the Oriental Congress are, we understand, to be edited by Professor DOUGLAS, and published by Messrs. TRUBNER and Co. We are glad to note that the catalogue of works at the British Museum on which Professor DOUGLAS is engaged has now reached to the letter N, and we may expect its completion in a few months.

THE provision made in the Treaty with Siam concluded at Calcutta, as to a Vice-Consul being placed at Chengmai, is not likely to be carried out until the return of Consul-General KNOX to Bangkok.

WE have good authority for stating that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has given his approval to the policy pursued by Sir ANDREW CLARKE at Singapore, in regard to the native States.

WE understand that an Order in Council will shortly be brought out, altering and amending the procedure now in force in the Consular Courts of China and Japan.

Balance carried to the renewal fund	41,016 7 0

In the last annual account the general reserve fund amounted to £432,123 16s. 10d., at which it still remains.

THE COMPANY'S FLEET.

The tabular statement prefixed to this Report contains, as customary, particulars of the tonnage, horse-power and present station of the Company's Fleet, and shows that its total tonnage has been increased since the last annual report by 4,000 tons.

The Thibet, sister ship to the Teheran, was launched at Dundee in August, and has since made a satisfactory passage to Bombay. The Geelong, Malacca, Avoca and Sunda, having received new boilers and machinery, on the compound principle, are again on the active list; and the Deccan is being fitted at Newcastle with engines of the same type. The China has been supplied with new boilers, and her refit will be completed next month. The Kashgar, one of the two vessels built by Mr. Laing, of Sunderland, and purchased by the Company, has performed one voyage to India and back; she left again for Bombay on the 26th instant. The Surat, which has been lengthened forty feet and fitted with compound engines, sailed for Calcutta in October; and the lengthening of the Poonah by eighty feet is making good progress. New engines and boilers will be ready for her when she comes out of the shipbuilder's hands. The compound engines for the Bangalore have been finished for some time, so that the necessary alterations can be effected whenever a suitable opportunity occurs for withdrawing the vessel from the active list. A satisfactory offer having been made in Japan for the Madras, that vessel has been sold, being no longer equal to the requirements of the service; and it is probable that one or more ships of a similar class may be disposed of in the same way.

PPOPRIETORS' UNDERWRITING ACCOUNT.

The directors are happy to state that this account is free from any total loss, although it is charged with several cases of minor damage, amounting altogether to £15,948 14s. 3d. The principal of these cases are the collision of the Geelong with a vessel named the Glimt, immediately outside the harbour of Hong Kong, and the stranding of the Bokhara upon an unknown rock, also in the vicinity of Hong Kong. The account is also charged with the sum of £5,903 13s. 9d. for insurance effected at Lloyd's and in the offices on the Company's steamers, while going to and coming from the shipbuilding ports of the United Kingdom. The number of coasting voyages entailed through sending vessels to be repaired, and placing new ships at Southampton, has been such as to render insurance to a considerable extent advisable.

A further and more important item is the charge for insuring the steamers while on the voyage between London and Southampton, amounting to £13,131 5s. As explained more fully in the succeeding part of this report, the Company's mail steamers have, during the past year, regularly discharged and loaded the bulk of their cargoes in London, touching at Southampton on the homeward voyages for the purpose of landing, and on the outward for embarking, passengers and mails, and also for coaling. The continuation of the voyage to London necessarily involves additional risk, and until such time as the Company's officers could be generally accustomed to this local navigation, the directors have considered it prudent to effect insurance on this part of the voyage. By the end of the present winter the ships will have run to London sufficiently long to enable the directors to judge whether the practice of insuring against this risk should be continued, or whether the Company should undertake it. Deducting these charges, the underwriting account shows a credit of £95,016 7s., from which the directors recommend a payment of 2 per cent., amounting to £54,000. The balance of £41,016 7s. the directors have found it necessary to carry to the renewal account.

RENEWAL ACCOUNT.

In accordance with the promise contained in their Annual Report for 1873, the directors have now included a statement for this account in the returns presented to the Proprietors. It will be seen that the expenditure debited to this account during the past year has amounted to £128,197 12s. 0d., and that after crediting the above-named sum of £41,016 7s. 0d. from underwriting account, a debit balance of £8,199 8s. 10d. is carried over to next year.

The total amount charged in the accounts of this year for ordinary and extraordinary repairs is £326,656 17s. 2d., and although considerable sums must be carried to renewal account during the current year, owing to the number of vessels now laid up, and shortly to be laid up, for new machinery and improvements, the Directors have every hope that the expenditure for ordinary repairs will be diminished.

With a view to this result, the Directors have, since they received the sanction of Government to the steamers using the Suez Canal, commenced to reduce their various repairing establishments abroad, and to concentrate their work as much as possible in England.

SUEZ CANAL.

The Directors have alluded in their two preceding reports to the fact that they had made a proposal to the Postmaster-General to convey the Southampton or heavy portion of the Eastern Mails vid the Suez Canal, upon the basis of a general improvement of the Mail Service. The proposals of the Directors were first submitted formally in a letter dated the 5th March, 1873, but it was not until nearly eighteen months afterwards that a new Contract was arranged for the purpose of enabling the Company's steamers to use the Canal for the conveyance of the Mails. This Contract was approved by the House of Commons on the 5th August, 1874, in lieu of the Contract of 1870, and to remain in force for the same period as that Contract, viz. until February, 1880. It would be impossible for the Directors, within the limits of this Report, to explain the various and complicated phases through which the negotiations passed before a settlement of this question was effected. They have, therefore, considered it necessary to circulate a copy of their correspondence with the Government on the subject, in order that the Proprietors may see that the best arrangement possible has been made for their interests.

The Directors feel confident on this point themselves, but at the same time they do not conceal from the proprietors their opinion that the Company has been hardly dealt with in this matter, and they have repeatedly stated this opinion both to the late and to the present Government.

CHANGE OF TERMINUS FROM SOUTHAMPTON TO LONDON.

Although, under the Coutract referred to above, the Mail Terminus continues to be Southampton, the Directors have found it necessary, for cargo purposes, to continue the voyages of the steamers to London, and their intention is shortly to consolidate the work in London, and to reduce their establishment at Southampton to one of very small extent.

The reasons which render the discharge and loading of the Company's steamers in London necessary are twofold. First, that much, if not the greater part, of the cargo shipped by the Company's vessels would not be sent by them if they continue to discharge and load in Southampton ; or, if shipped, it would be so only at reduced rates of freight. Second, that upon the low rates of freight now received by the Company they cannot afford to pay the Railway and Dock Companies for carrying goods to and from Southampton, although since the Company's steamers began to come to London, the Railway and Dock Companies of Southampton have offered comparatively moderate rates for the purpose.

This change in the Company's operations is of course not accomplished without disadvantages ; but the Directors feel confident that in the present state of the Company's business, and of daily competition with Canal steamers, it is necessary to give shippers all the advantages in loading and discharging cargo which can be obtained from opposing lines.

CAPITAL AND DIVIDEND.

The paid-up capital and debentures remain the same as last year, viz., £2,700,000 and £800,000 respectively. The Directors propose in the course of the ensuing year to make two calls of £5 each upon the new shares, viz., on the 1st April and 1st July, which will increase the paid-up capital to £2,900,000, leaving £600,000 of capital unpaid. It is necessary to make these calls in order to continue the improvement of the Company's fleet. The last call was made in April, 1868, and, as the Directors have repeatedly mentioned in their reports, the Company's business has since that date undergone a complete revolution, entailing the necessity of an entirely new class of steamers for its work.

The estimate made of the Company's operations for the half-year has been borne out by the subsequent accounts for twelve months, and the directors are unable to recommend a Dividend at a higher rate than that paid in June. The difference in the result of the present, as compared with last year's operations, arises mainly from two causes—first, the reduction of £40,000 per annum in the subsidy received for the Australian Mail Service ; and secondly, a large additional expenditure in Suez Canal dues, arising from the Company's steamers having regularly used the Canal during the past twelve months.

Summing up the operations of the whole year under the circumstances explained in this Report, the directors are enabled to recommend a dividend of 2½ per cent. for the six months ending 30th September last, and a payment of 2 per cent. from the Underwriting Account, making, with the dividend of 2½ per cent. declared in June, a total of 7 per cent. for the year.

The amounts payable under this Report will therefore be as follows :—

Dividend	2½ per cent.
Underwriting Account	2 „
Together ...	4½ per cent.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES ALLAN.

The Directors deeply regret having to announce the death of their esteemed colleague, Mr. James Allan. Mr. Allan was connected with the Company from its earliest commencement, having been the first secretary, and subsequently appointed to succeed the late Mr. Francis Carleton as a managing director in 1849. During this long period Mr. Allan had the entire and well-merited confidence of the Board. His zeal and labours in the interests of the Company must be well known to many of the proprietors, but it is the duty of the Directors to place on record their high appreciation of his character and attainments, and their personal sense of the loss which the Company has sustained by his death.

Mr. Allan had, as previously made known to the proprietors, retired from the active duties of a managing director, and the two remaining managing directors, Mr. Bayley and Mr. Sutherland, will continue to perform, as hitherto, the duties of that office.

THE ANTI-OPIUM SOCIETY.

The following is a full report of the address delivered by Mr. F. S. Turner, the temporary Secretary of the Anti-Opium Society, at the meeting on the 13th inst. :—

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen,—It falls to me, as temporary secretary of this movement, to give a brief outline of what the opium trade is, especially for the sake of those friends who, in these busy days, have not had an opportunity of making themselves acquainted with its nature. I will make my tale as succinct as possible, and pray the forbearance of those who know the facts already. Time forbids my entering upon the past history. I will keep to the present state of the trade. All the opium that reaches China from abroad, with an insignificant exception, arrives from India. All the opium exported from India, with, as far as I know, no exception, goes to China and Chinese settlements in the Straits and Islands. The trade therefore concerns India and China. Let us glance at India first. In India there are two great opium-producing regions ; one in British territory, one in the Native States. The opium from the Native States, called in commerce Malwa opium, goes west to the sea, and is shipped from Bombay. Our British opium is grown in Bengal, and passes out at Calcutta. Our British Indian Government has nothing to do with the production of Malwa opium. It simply guards its own interests by the exaction of a pass-duty of Rs. 600 per chest. This Bombay pass-duty brings in something over two millions sterling, more than a quarter of our opium revenue. In Bengal it is very different. There we hold a rigidly-exercised monopoly of the trade. From the time the seed is put in the ground to the time the finished article is sold for export, it is Government property. The system is this. Government determines beforehand how much opium it will produce. On the part of the ryot the cultivation is voluntary, nominally so at least. If willing to grow he gets his land registered, a licence is given, money is advanced. He sows his seed. More money is advanced. He harvests the juice, takes it to the Government factory, and receives the balance due. Henceforth Government officials watch over the opium and prepare it for sale. A small proportion, about one-twentieth part, is sold in India to licensed dealers. The great bulk is specially prepared and packed for the China market. It is brought down to Calcutta and sold by auction by a Government official. That closes our Indian Government's connection with it. The profits of the sale form our Bengal opium revenue. They average about 300 per cent. on cost of production. In the year ending March, 1872, 49,695 chests of Bengal opium were sold in Calcutta for export. In the same year 39,225 chests were shipped from Bombay. The net revenue for that year was £7,656,000. Important questions arise as to the working of the monopoly in India, its effects upon the ryots, its tendency to restrict the use of the drug in India, or otherwise. These I must leave, hoping that gentlemen personally acquainted with India will take them up. One thing only I notice. It has been clearly and emphatically recognised by the Indian Government that the consumption of opium is a vicious indulgence, highly injurious to the people. The minute of the Board of Revenue of Bengal in 1859 defends the monopoly on the ground that its abolition "will deprive the Government of all power of checking the local consumption of the drug." So we are every year manufacturing about 8,000,000 lbs. weight of a confessedly noxious drug, which we desire to keep from our own subjects, for sale to a foreign land !

We must now follow the opium to China. Does the drug change its quality on the sea ? or are Chinese constitutions poison proof ? We shall see. There are curious and difficult questions with regard to opium in China. Why does it exert so fatal a fascination for Chinese more than all other people ? Who first introduced the poppy ? Who first invented smoking ? It is a little hardy to assert that we taught the Chinese opium-smoking, when neither we nor the Hindoos have yet acquired the art. The Chinese have grown the poppy for generations in their western provinces My own investigations point to the conclusion that cultivation and importation began about the same time, and have increased pari passu. The latest estimate I have seen by the Chinese Imperial Customs makes the quantity of native opium rival that of the imported. This, however, is a mere vague estimate. But as regards England's connection with the opium trade, all these perplexing questions are beside the mark. Two facts, and two only, settle the moral character of our opium trade. The first is, that the use of opium is fearfully injurious to the Chinese. The second is, that we are compelling them to admit our opium against their will. Now, if proof be demanded for the first fact, I will not attempt to work upon your feelings by harrowing descriptions of isolated cases. I find my proof in the universal testimony of the Chinese people. They are of age, ask them. They are the only opium-smoking people on the face of the world. They have tried it now for three generations. They ought to know. Ask them. Sir, I do not think on any matter subject to human testimony you could find such another instance of perfect unanimity of testimony. The Emperor condemns it. The officials condemn it. The people condemn it. The opium-smokers condemn it : they most loudly and bitterly of all. Ah ! well they know, about whose souls the fatal serpent-coil of the fascinating poison has wrapt its adamantine folds. Well do they know who come crowding round the missionary begging for some medicine to release them from the habit they feel is dragging them to poverty and death. Never during eleven years in China did I hear one single Chinese commend or even so much as excuse the opium-pipe. I think you might traverse China from the Great Wall to the Southern Sea, from the mouth of the Yangtsze to the Passes of Thibet, without hearing from 400,000,000 lips one word in favour of opium. It is popularly one of the triad of vices : gambling, opium-smoking, debauchery. You ask why, if there is such a unanimous condemnation of the vice, why do they buy opium, why do they grow it ? Why do men sin ? Sin is pleasant at first. There are plenty of people in China, as in England, who will minister to any vice for money.

One hears opium-smoking compared to the drinking customs of England. These analogies are perilous things, and always require to be measured with the facts before they can be trusted. People say alcohol is a stimulant ; opium is a stimulant ; here there is moderate drinking and drunkenness ; surely in China only excess in the use of the opium-pipe is evil, a moderate usecannot be harmful. So I should have reasoned from analogy, but the facts conduct to a different conclusion. Opium appears to possess such qualities that its regular use becomes a slavery ; after a while it is no more a pleasure, but a physical necessity, and increasing doses of the drug must be taken to appease the inexorable demands of the tyrant craving. Now, without entering into medical discussions, without even taking for granted that the Chinese popular notion of opium is absolutely correct, we have this fact before us, that the Chinese people regard the habit as a ruinous vice. Drinking has no lack of defenders amongst ourselves. The majority agree that it is excess, not use, which injures. It is not so with opium. I do not think that such an idea as the possible moderate use of opium has entered a Chinaman's mind.

My second point is, that we are forcing our opium upon China. Good people in England, who have no practical acquaintance with the politics of the Far East, may be surprised to hear this. They thought that the trade was now a legal one. So it is : opium was introduced iuto the tariff of the Treaty of Tientsin in 1858. But what was the basis of the Treaty of Tientsin ? Nothing but our superior military power. There was no pretence of willinghood on the Chinese side. When that Treaty was made, it required another war to get it ratified. Not till our troops had taken the gates of Peking, destroyed the Emperor's summer-place, and driven him to take refuge in Tartary, did the Chinese finally yield. The simple fact is, we are all along forcing ourselves into China—our ambassador, our consuls, our merchants, our missionaries ; the whole foreign intercourse with China, without exception, has been based upon and is maintained by force; and opium in this respect is only one most offensive and objectionable item in a totality of relations supported simply and solely by the British fleet and army. But if the Chinese are compelled sorely against their will to admit us and our commerce according to so-called treaties, which are our declarations of the terms on which we choose to hold intercourse with China, they may object to one part of this intercourse more than another. And they do so specially and in set terms object to the opium trade. They have expressly and emphatically demanded to be released from their treaty obligation. They have complained that opium is destroying their country, and that they cannot put their own laws in force against the native-grown opium, because they are compelled to admit our Indian opium. They appeal to our justice, our mercy, our sense of religion. They intimate the probability of this opium trade leading to another war. Oh! such a despatch as that, written by Pagan statesmen to a Christian ambassador makes one's heart sink with shame. There is no reply. There is no excuse. The dishonour weighs us down. We feel that as a country we have sold justice and humanity, religion, peace, goodwill among men, the very honour of our God and our Saviour Christ, for gold. That terrible pile of eight million golden sovereigns: it has outweighed every consideration of true political expediency, of righteousness, of philanthropy. But is it yet too late to repent, and to endeavour to retrieve our lost character, and, if it may be, avert that impending retribution which we cannot but believe God has in store for such iniquities as this?

It has been my task to set before you the opium trade as it is, not to suggest the remedy. Until we feel the evil, until the national conscience is aroused, and the people of England demand that this iniquity shall be no more, what hope is there of remedy?

MARINE INSURANCE.

The subjoined letter, drawing attention to the unsatisfactory state of marine insurance business, has appeared in The Times, with the signature "Underwriter."

"Sir,—Attention has been drawn of late through your columns to the unprofitable results which have attended the operations of marine insurance business during the past three or four years. Will you allow me, in as short a space as possible, to point out to what extent this has really been the case, also to state some of the causes to which it may be attributed, and to suggest some remedy for such a state of affairs? To give some adequate idea of the losses which have been incurred lately by marine insurance companies it will, perhaps, be best to give some facts respecting their shares. Indemnities, which were in 1870 120½, are now 104; Marines are still worse; in 1870 they were 91, they are now 46½; Oceans, which touched 30, are now 8½; Universals have fallen from 15 to 8¾; and Thames and Merseys from 19 to 8½. Of the other companies, some are at a discount. Of the companies established since 1871, the Realm and Trident have been obliged to close their doors, while the rest are quoted at various rates of discount. The condition of underwriters at Lloyd's has been precisely similar. What, then, have been the causes which have been at work to bring about a state of affairs so uniformly disastrous? The first to which I will draw attention is the sudden developement of steam traffic which followed the opening of the Suez Canal. During the last few years, but especially in 1871 and 1872, the number of steamships turned out of all our shipbuilding yards was unprecedented. The construction of sailing ships came almost to a standstill, and steamers began in nearly every trade to take their place. Unfortunately, sufficient care was not given to the construction of these vessels, the great aim of their designers apparently being to see of how little iron they could be constructed. This object was fostered by the foolish competition between Lloyd's Registry and the Liverpool Iron Registry books, the latter of whom reduced their standards very largely, a mistake which I am happy to say they have since rectified; but the mischief was done, and we had turned out a large fleet of steamers utterly unfit to meet the ordinary perils of the sea. This great and sudden out-turn of steamers created an equally sudden demand for steamship captains and officers, and there being of necessity no adequate supply, a large number of them were sent to sea under the command of men who had probably never been in a steamer before—certainly not in command of one—and who thus, from no fault of their own, were quite ignorant of steam navigation. These steamers, badly built and badly commanded, were readily insured by almost all our underwriters at from six to eight guineas per cent. per annum. A large number of them were very soon lost, either through their own inherent weakness or the incompetency or recklessness of their officers. Of those which still remain, the majority have had to be almost rebuilt at the expense of underwriters. Thus from this cause alone the losses of underwriters must have been enormous. Again, the size of some of these steamers enables them to bring very large and valuable cargoes; and as they, as a rule, carry their own advices, losses are frequently announced by telegraph long before underwriters know the extent of their lines and have time to re-insure their excess—a circumstance greatly aggravated by the system of writing 'steamer or steamers' policies.' It is said that the steamers Arcturus, Woosung, and Queen Elisabeth took over a million and a quarter out of their pockets.

"I now come to consider for a moment the risk of collision, which it will be very easily seen increases very much out of proportion to the increase in the number of steamers. For instance, if the number of steamers in existence be increased tenfold, the chances of collision are increased very nearly a thousand times. Further, as a steamer will generally make three voyages where a sailing ship used to make one, the risk of loss to underwriters under this head becomes increased to an extent almost impossible to calculate. Turning from steamers to sailing vessels, I cannot see any diminution of losses in this quarter. Indeed, it is to be feared that we are entering upon a fresh source of loss here from the system of building large iron ships, which have an unfortunate tendency to lose their masts in the first heavy gale they encounter—a fault, I presume, which arises from some defect or other in their construction. I think, Sir, that I have shown that, whatever be the cause, losses have increased during the last three or four years to an extent hitherto almost unheard of, and I cannot see that they are at all likely to diminish—at any rate, for some time. What, then, is to be the remedy for so serious a state of affairs? In a word, premiums must be raised to a point at which they will remunerate underwriters. In 1870, when steamers were only in their infancy, and when the premiums current at the beginning of this year got fixed, none of the risks to which I have alluded were present to the minds of underwriters. Consequently, the existing scale of premiums was not framed to include them, and does not do so. So that underwriters are subject to fresh sources of loss, for which they receive no premium whatever. Nothing can be plainer than this, that if this continues to be the case, marine insurance business must remain unprofitable, and the year 1875 must show as serious a loss as any of its predecessors.

"Hitherto combination among underwriters for the purpose of raising premiums has been impossible, owing to the number of competitors for the business. Since the close of 1870, when marine insurance business looked all couleur de rose, no fewer than seven new companies and innumerable agencies of foreign companies have been started in London. Three of these companies and a large number of agencies have been already obliged to close their doors. The result of this was premiums reached a point at which it was utterly out of the question that they should be remunerative. Since the beginning of this year, however, they have been steadily advancing, and will, doubtless, continue to do so if underwriters will only support one another. How they are to do so will be the question asked. I would venture to suggest that some of the leading companies should take the initiative and call a meeting, at which all underwriters in London should be represented. These representatives should agree upon a course of united action best calculated to meet the present emergency. It may be objected that, even were the companies to combine, Lloyd's underwriters would not follow their example. Of course Lloyd's will always write a little below the companies; but I am certain that not only they, but underwriters all over the country, would be only too glad to raise their rates in proportion."

Naval and Military.

The Fly, double-screw composite gunboat, 4 guns, 584 (464) tons burthen, 489 (120) horse power, Commander John Bruce (1871), sailed from Plymouth on the 27th inst.

It has been decided by the Lords of the Admiralty that a "foreman in charge" shall be appointed at the Hong Kong Dockyard, and the names of foremen in dockyards at home who would be willing to take the post have been sent to the Admiralty, and the selection made by their lordships will shortly be announced. The salary of the foreman in charge will be £450 per annum.

The Lords of the Admiralty have given permission for two officers of the Japanese navy to visit Chatham Dockyard, when they will be conducted over the departments open to foreigners by one of the dockyard officials.

Admiral Sir Rodney Mundy, whose term of service as Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth expires next March, is, it is reported, to be succeeded by Admiral Sir Alexander Milne, the First Naval Lord.

Dr. Richard Denton Mason, C.B., who has been gazetted Inspector-General of Hospitals and Fleets, served in the Sanspareil, on the East India and China station, from 1856 to 1858.

Rear-Admiral Lord John Hay, C.B., has accepted the post of second in command of the Channel Squadron, vice Admiral Hancock, whose term of service has expired.

The Victoria Cross has been conferred upon Capt. Mark Sever Bell, of the Royal Engineers, for gallant and distinguished conduct during the Ashantee war.

Staff-Commander J. G. Dathan, who served in the Encounter and Imperieuse on the China station, from 1859 to 1863, has commissioned the Fox storeship.

Vice-Admiral Ryder the newly-appointed Commander-in-Chief for China, left Malta on the 22nd inst. in the Audacious.

Captain Mayne, R.N., C.B., the eldest son of the late Sir Richard Mayne, has been nominated to the command of H.M.S. Invincible.

The corvette Cadmus, recently returned from China, was paid off at Devonport on the 26th inst.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tone of the Manchester Market has been steady, though the transactions do not extend beyond a moderate amount. There has been no variation in the attitude of producers, who are very firm in requiring the full quotations in any orders placed before them. No change is thus perceptible, but the tendency if anything is to hardening prices.

An issue is announced of £200,000 Russian Six per Cent. Land Mortgage Bonds, at the price of £88 10s. per cent. The bonds are stated to be emitted under the authority of the Imperial Minister of Finance by the Saratov-Simbirsk Land Mortgage Bank, established for the purpose of granting advances against mortgages of real property.

The directors of the London and River Plate Bank have resolved to recommend a dividend of 7½ per cent. for the half-year ending 30th September last, making, with the interim dividend of 5 per cent. paid in June, equal to a distribution of 12½ per cent. for the year.

The Royal Bank of Scotland announces a dividend of 9½ per cent. per annum, being ½ per cent. more than last year. The sum of £20,987 is carried forward, besides the "rest" of £500,000.

Official statistics just published show that the value of the rough mineral produce of the United Kingdom during the year 1873 was nearly 59½ millions sterling, of which more than 47½ millions was the value of upwards of 127 million tons of coal. Manufactured metals during the same period are set down at about 21½ millions.

Reports have been issued by the liquidators of the Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Company, the British Indian Submarine, and the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Companies. All the concessions, properties, and liabilities have been transferred to the Eastern Telegraph Company, and the affairs of each fully wound up.

Mr. Jonathan Heyworth, cotton manufacturer, of Wheatly-lane, Spen Brook, and Barrowford, near Burnley, has suspended payment, and made an assignment in favour of his creditors. It is reported that the liabilities are £22,000.

Bar Silver has increased in value, and all that could be got ready for shipment by the French steamer of the 21st inst. and by the P. and O. steamer leaving yesterday was sold at 58½d. per oz. Mexican Dollars to the amount of about £5,000 from New York have been sold at 57d. per oz. The market is now bare of supplies.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

The depression in the Produce Markets has continued, the demand for almost all leading articles being limited; transactions have been unusually small, and the tendency in prices has again been unfavourable to the importer.

TEA.

The market still continues in a very quiet state, although, owing to the smaller quantity offered at public auction, there has been rather more business by private contract. Prices on the whole show but little alteration, though there has been a rather lower range for common to fair Foochow Congous. In the public sales only 6,327 packages have been offered, the whole of which have been sold without reserve. The deliveries for the week as compared with last year are as follows:—

Home Consumption	2,094,000	1,886,000
Coastwise	855,000	815,000
Total delivered	3,546,000	3,191,000

Congous.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings remain in good demand at last week's prices. Broken-leaf kinds have sold rather lower, the quantity on offer being larger; common to good common have also given way ½d. to ½d. per lb., owing to the same cause. Fair Kaisow kinds show a decline of ½d. per lb. Good medium to fine have been well maintained, but sales, ex Norman Court, have been only to a limited extent, importers holding for extreme rates. Finest remain dull of sale. The sales of Pak Lin kinds have been at fully former prices. Black-leaf kinds: Common to fair show no alteration. Fair to good medium are only in moderate request; good to fine remain firm, as also finest, few of which are now in first hands. New-make kinds: Common remain as before; a few parcels of fair have sold at rather lower prices, good to fine showing no change. In Oolongs there has been no material change, but the demand is limited. Souchongs have been sold at about last week's prices.—Scented Teas: There has been no change in Canton Capers; about 4,300 packages are to be sold without reserve to-morrow, which will try the market. Foochow kinds remain slow of sale. Canton Orange Pekoes; new-make kinds have sold ½d. per lb. lower. Fair to good show no change. Foochow kinds; fair to good have sold at last week's prices; fine at rather lower rates.—Green Teas: There is no improvement to notice in the demand. Further public sales have shown increased depression for all but the finest kinds of Moyune Gunpowder, which sold at very full rates. Ping Suey kinds remain difficult of sale, even at the low range of prices established.

SILK.

The market has been extremely quiet, and the prices of some descriptions have undergone a decided reaction from the highest rates of last month. In China Silk very little business has been done, and a decline of fully 6d. per lb. has taken place in the medium and lower classes. Canton Silk is without change. Japan Silk has been difficult of sale, and prices have given way from 6d. to 1s. per lb. Deliveries, 1st to 25th inclusive:—China, 2,678 bales; Canton, 420; Japan, 420; total, 3,518 bales.

CAMPHOR.—Business continues very limited, and prices rule easier and are almost nominal; 2,500 tubs Japan and 200 cases China have been sold privately at 75s. per cwt. Of 47 cases Japan offered in public sale a few only were quitted at 80s. per cwt.

CUTCH.—The market has been quiet, but prices have ruled firm. The sales do not exceed about 500 boxes fine Pegue at 27s. to 28s., chiefly at the former price.

COCOANUT OIL.—Fine Cochin has been firmly upheld at £43 10s. to £44, and a sale of very middling quality has been made at £40, but Ceylon has again attracted most attention, and has ruled in sellers' favour, more especially for arrival, 60 tons September shipment having changed hands, pipes £38, puncheons and hogsheads at £38 10s., since when 50 tons in pipes, October-November shipment, have realised £39. The demand on the spot has also been good, and 220 tons old oil in pipes have been sold at £37 to £37 5s., with some puncheons and hogsheads at £38, also a small lot in hogsheads at £38 10s., and of 112 pipes offered by auction, 36 pipes very fine sold at £37 10s. to £37 15s. per ton.

CHINA PRESERVES.—At auction of 633 cases 63 casks Ginger 150 cases 15 casks sold at about previous rates, at 6¼d. to 8⅝d. (including Chyloong brand), the remainder being withdrawn or bought in at 6d. to 7d.; 21 casks Cumquats were withdrawn.

CUBEBS.—No business done.

CARDAMOMS.—Market dull and quotations nominal.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Fine quality still in request; of 84 bags offered in auction about half was sold at 10s. per cwt. for low wormy quality.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market quiet but steady at previous quotations.

EBONY.—In auction of 46 tons (233 logs) Ceylon 19 tons of new import sold, good fair large at £13 per ton.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed has been quiet, and about 20 cases have been sold at 8s. 6d. to 8s. 7½d., closing at 8s. 9d., at which about 20 cases have been sold, but closes with firmer holders, and buyers afloat at 8s. 3d. Cassia dull and very plentiful; small sales at 4s. 7d. to 4s. 8d. Nutmeg quiet; 5 cases partly sold at 8d. Lemon Grass firm; 10 cases retired. Cinnamon scarce, and fine much wanted, a single case sold at 6s. 5d. per oz. Large stock of leaf, and of 26 cases few sold at 3d. for fair. Citronelle has been dealt in to a considerable extent; about 300 cases have changed hands privately, chiefly at 1 11-16d., more recently at 1⅝d.; 80 cases at auction retired, but subsequently quitted.

GAMBIER.—A decline of 3d. per cwt. was accepted in the earlier part of the fortnight, at which there has been rather more demand, and about 1,500 bales have changed hands at 25s. 9d. to 26s. ex warehouse and ex quay, chiefly, however, at 26s.; also 50 tons just arrived at 25s. 6d., 25 tons near at hand at 25s. 4½d. ex ship, and about 150 tons for arrival, price not reported. At auction 163 bags, 116 broken bales, and 8 tons loose free cubes were chiefly sold, 1st class at 43s. 6d. to 44s.

GALLS.—China are very scarce, and rule firm at £3 2s. 6d. per cwt.

GUMS.—Benjamin steady, and of 27 cases offered the bulk sold. Sumatra seconds fair, at £8 10s. to £8 17s. 6d.; Siam ordinary to middling dark block, £7 5s. to £9 15s. Copal is unchanged, but about 1,000 cases have changed hands at up to 24s. for fair, and holders are very firm. Of 211 cases at auction, half sold at the previous value. Damar firm. Of 304 cases at public sale, a part sold at 54s. to 55s. for good Singapore. Gamboge steady: 12 cases offered and retired.

GUTTA PERCHA.—Market dull, and no business reported.

GALANGAL ROOT.—Market firm; of 144 bales and mats offered, about one-half was sold at 24s. 6d. to 25s. per cwt. for rather lean to fair quality.

HEMP.—Only a moderate inquiry has prevailed for Manila, and the sales on the spot do not exceed 1,000 bales, mixed, below fair to fair at £31 10s. to £33, fine at £38 5s. to £38 10s.; for January to March delivery there are sellers at £32 basis fair current. In auction, of 133 bales offered, 90 bales good roping sold at £35 to £35 15s.

INDIA-RUBBER has been in small supply, and the market has been steady, notwithstanding that business has been quiet; 19 cases Borneo sold without reserve at 10¼d. to 1s. 2d. per lb.

JAPAN WAX has been more firmly held, and there is consequently less offering; of 266 cases at auction, over one-third sold at 56s. per cwt. for fine large hard saucers; fair at 52s. to 53s.

MUSK.—The market has been firm; public sales have embraced 57 caddies and tins Tonquin all sold, good selected well shaped pods at 43s. to 44s. 6d.; rough and bally, middling to good, 17s. to 22s. 6d.; wet pickings 22s. to 28s. Of 10 tins Grain offered three only sold at 47s. 6d. for good.

STRAW PLAIT.—Of 261 bales China offered about one-half sold, extra fine white at £54, fine £31, very good £23 to £27 5s., "O" quality £22 15s., No. 4 to No. 2 at £10 5s. to £16 15s.

SHELLS.—Mother o' Pearl: With the exception of about 20 cases Manila sold at £11 15s., nothing of consequence has been done since the public sales of 6th instant. Macassar are scarce and wanted. Tortoise: No business done; value nominally unchanged.

SOY.—Market firm; 10 casks China have been sold at 1s. 6d. per gallon.

STICKLAC.—The market for Siam continues quiet but is steadier, the downward tendency having been arrested; 150 cases fine quality have been quitted privately at £5 10s. per cwt.

SAPANWOOD continues scarce and in request; at auction of 22 tons offered five tons from Singapore (Gambier damaged) sold at £11 per ton.

TIN has been in better consumptive demand, but this has not proved sufficient to warrant an advance in prices. Yesterday the bi-monthly sale of the Dutch Trading Company took place, when 20,100 slabs Banca realised 57¾ to 58¾ florins, average 58.40, parity of £102 per ton, laid down here. Since the announcement of this result the market is stiffer, and a fair quantity of Straits has changed hands at £93 for arrival. Closing quotations are as follows:—Straits on the spot £93 10s. to £94, afloat £93; Banca £102; Billiton £95 per ton, showing an advance of about 20s. per ton for Straits and Banca.

CASUALTIES.

The Dharwar, Freebody, which arrived at San Francisco Nov. 1, from Zebu, reports that on the 3rd and 4th Sept., in lat. 18 N., lon. 12 E., she encountered a heavy typhoon, when she lost sails, steering gear, binnacle, &c.

The Island Belle, Camm, arrived at Plymouth from Batavia, reports that on Sept. 12, in lat. 36 S., lon. 29 E., she experienced heavy gales from N.E. with tremendous seas, one of which broke the boats to pieces, carried away bulwarks, and stove in main hatches.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID.—Nov. 22, Glenroy (str.), from London, to Singapore, China, &c.; 24, Navarino (str.), from London, to Colombo, &c.; Cassandra (str.), from Hamburg, to Shanghai.

At SUEZ.—Nov. 22, Galley of Lorne (str.), from China, &c. to New York; United Service (str.), from China, &c., to London.

At TABLE BAY.—Dahlkarlsa, Merlin, and sailed, Oct. 18, for Batavia.

THE "Nederland" Company's steamship Prinses Amalia, Captain Fabritius, sailed from Southampton on the 24th inst., for Batavia, &c., with a full cargo, 140 cabin passengers, 280 troops, and the Dutch mails and specie.

THE Amboyna, a screw steamship of 700 tons, with engines of 155-horse power, has cleared out from Port Glasgow for Batavia and Sourabaya. This steamer has just been built by Messrs. Blackwood and Gordon for the Netherlands-India Steam Navigation Company, and is intended for their line to Java, vid the Suez Canal.

THE steamer Lotus, Captain Castle, while off Sukatra Island, lost two blades of her propeller; expected to make the voyage with the other two. Twelve hours, however, after leaving Port Said they also broke short off; the vessel then proceeded under canvass to Malta, and was put on the pontoon, when the broken propeller was replaced by a spare one on board, causing a detention of seven days. Left Malta on the 10th inst., and in consequence of tubes leaking had to call in at Gibraltar, causing a further detention of twenty-four hours.

Sir SAMUEL BAKER,

In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Faky that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

The Tientsin correspondent of the North China Herald writes as follows :—

We are still without news from Peking as to the progress of the negotiations in the Formosa difficulty. Supposing any result to have been arrived at, which it is generally believed there has, it seems strange that if it be satisfactory to one of the parties, the public should not have been made acquainted with it. I infer from the cautious silence maintained that the officials of either country do not care to plume themselves upon the results of their diplomacy.

Li Hung-chang, the Governor-General of Chihli, left his yamun on the 11th Oct. in an unusually private manner for an official of his high station, for the Peitang forts, proceeding there by the town of Luhtae, which lies forty-seven miles north-east from Tientsin, on the Peitang river, and about twenty miles from the forts. The Chinese gunboat Chin Hae left her anchorage here on the 5th Oct., and it was supposed she had gone to these forts with ammunition. The Emperor is at present absent from his capital on a sporting trip, but will no doubt be interested in hearing this on his return from the southern hunting grounds, on the 16thOct .

On the 12th Oct. a meeting of the landrenters of this Settlement took at the British Consulate,—in accordance with a circular issued by Mr. Mongan, Her Majesty's Consul, some days previous—for the purpose of passing the accounts of the Council for the last eighteen months ; of passing the estimates for the next six months and of electing a new Council. After the accounts and estimates had been passed, the landrenters proceeded to the business of electing a new Council. One of the Landrenters said, unavoidable causes having made it necessary to postpone the usual annual landrenters' meeting till six months of the present financial year had already passed, thus leaving only some five months more for a new Council to hold office, the question arose, should one be elected ? He was of the opinion that the best course to pursue was to decide that the present acting Council should continue to hold office during the remainder of the term. This opinion having been favourably received by the other land-renters, a resolution was passed that the present Council continue to hold office till the next annual meeting, in April, 1875. The business of the meeting having been thus concluded, a vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, Consul Mongan, for the able manner in which he had presided over it.

After the meeting of landrenters was over, a meeting of the race committee took place. They met to decide upon proposals laid before them in respect to certain events at the approaching Autumn races, and upon certain details consequent thereon, all of which were satisfactorily arranged. There is every prospect of large fields, and, on all the three days, splendid races. As there are six racing stables, besides some three or four [illegible] who are training single ponies, and as the course is an excellent one, we calculate upon having considerable competition and good sport.

A decree in the Peking Gazette of Sept. 28th orders the unfortunate Li Kwang-chao, whose "log-rolling" enterprise in connection with the rebuilding of the Summer Palace has recently been noticed, to be decapitated, after a term of imprisonment.

The death of his mother compels the Governor of Kiangsu (Chang, Futai) to go into retirement. We have not heard that his successor has been appointed.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 23rd Oct.; the P. and O. mail from London Sept. 4 was received on the 16th Oct. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

A committee meeting of the Chinese Polytechnic Institution and Reading-room has been held. The favourable reception and liberal support the scheme has met with in China is being emulated at home. From that quarter chiefly contributions suited to the polytechnic character of the institution are expected, and the committee have resolved to take premises at once for their reception, and for carrying out generally the objects they have in view.

The ninth half-yearly meeting of the China and Japan Marine Insurance Company has been held at the offices, in the Nankin-road, Mr. R. W. Little in the chair. The attendance of members was large, 1,373 shares being represented. The Directors' report was very brief, its principal feature being the intimation that, owing to severe losses during the past six months, it was impossible to recommend a dividend. The balance sheet, made up to the 30th of June last, showed a balance in hand at that date of Tls. 51,663.70 beyond the paid-up capital and the reserve fund. The meeting adopted the report and statement of accounts with very little comment. The election of Mr. H. Sutherland on the Board of Directors was confirmed; and a resolution by Mr. Macgregor, seconded by Mr. Carmichael, was passed, asking the directors to take steps to obtain the sanction of the shareholders to a reduction of the capital. This was done, with a view to give a less total to provide for dividend, and was agreed to, after what amounted to a protest from Mr. Wainewright, the legal adviser of the company. The Chairman, in reply to a question by Mr. Groom, said the question of opening a branch office in London had been before the directors, but nothing had as yet been decided. This concluded the business.

The ordinary half-yearly meeting of the North-China Insurance Company has been held at the offices, Keangse-road, E. H. Lavers, Esq., in the chair. Twenty-seven directors and shareholders were present, representing 346 shares. The report and statement of accounts were very favourable. According to the deed of settlement, a dividend could not now be declared, but it is believed that at the close of the year's business a dividend equal to those of former years will be paid. The applications for shares in the new company are far in excess of requirements.

A meeting of the performing members of the Philharmonic Society has been held, to pass the accounts for the year, and to elect a new committee, the old one having resigned. The financial condition of the society is not very flourishing, we regret to learn, there being a deficit of Tls. 400, caused in the first instance by the purchase of the new piano, for which Tls. 500 were paid. Had last season been financially as successful as the previous year, the greater part of the debt would have been cleared off by this; but unfortunately there was a great falling-off in the number of subscribers, and the receipts only sufficed for current expenses. It was settled that the committee should endeavour to carry on the society as heretofore, and with that object they are at once to take steps to ascertain the amount of support which the undertaking is likely to meet with this winter. Should the result be unfavourable it will be necessary to wind up the society for the present, and sell the piano to pay the existing debt, for which the members of the retiring committee have made themselves personally responsible. The meeting, which was very thinly attended, terminated by a vote of thanks to the members of the late committee—Messrs. Tate, Schmidt, and Brandt. We sincerely trust the public will not let a valuable institution like the Philharmonic Society die for the want of support.

At a meeting of officers of the S.V.C., the Autumn Rifle Meeting was fixed for the 13th, 14th, and 16th Nov., being about three weeks later than the usual time, so as to take it out of the way of the races and regatta. It was resolved that the programme should be restricted to competitions open to the whole Volunteer force; any company prizes will therefore have to be arranged for by each company, to be shot for on days other than those appointed for the meeting. It was decided that third prizes should be abolished, and the value of second prizes greatly increased. The competitions are—on 13th November, the National Rifle Association Medal, at 200, 500, and 600 yards; and the Municipal Challenge Cup, at 400, 500, and 600. November 14th the Officers' Cup, at 200 and 500; the Ladies' Purse, at 700 and 800; and the Consolation, at 200 and [illegible] the 15th, the Companies' match, for teams consisting of the five men of each company who have shot best in the [illegible] competitions, ranges 200, 500, and 600 yards. The Champion Gold Cross of the meeting is given to the volunteer who makes the highest total in any competition, except that for the Consolation. A round sum of $5 has been fixed as entrance fee for the meeting, and each company taking part in the [illegible] match pays an entrance of $25. With the exception of [illegible] slight alterations in detail, the conditions of the meeting will, we believe, be the same as before.

At the meeting of the C. C. S. N. Company the report and accounts to 30th June were passed, the directors re-elected, and Messrs. C. Rivington and Gipperich appointed auditors. The accounts show a net profit on working of Tls. 17,629.08, out of which a dividend for the half year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum has been paid, leaving Tls. 1,379.08 to be carried forward.

The Glengyle has arrived from Swatow, whither she proceeded after landing the troops from Chinkiang at Foochow. Her freight, as a troopship, consisted of 2,400 men and thirty-three horses, besides a number of guns and a large quantity of ammunition. Immediately after disembarkation, which was accomplished by means of boats, and without any accident, the men started for Amoy, their destination.

The steamer Tunsin reports having seen the C. M. S. N. steamer Yungching, freighted with troops for Formosa, aground on the Centaur shoal. Both the Yungching and Haiching ran on the shoal, but the latter remained on the bank only about twenty minutes, and was able to render assistance to her less fortunate companion, which did not get off for eight hours, when the Haiching, with the help of a rising tide and a stout hawser, succeeded in getting her afloat, and both steamers proceeded on their voyage. The Tunsin also passed the Leeyuen, full of troops, off Woosong the same morning.

At the S.Y.C. Regatta, Mr. Hill's yacht Nimrod was first in the race for the Corinthian Cup; the Houseboat prize was won by Mr. Mackenzie's new boat Swallow, and the ships' boat race by Mr. J. Tregaskiss's boat Ellen. At a meeting of the Committee of the Shanghai Yacht Club, held on Tuesday, a protest entered against the Corinthian Cup being given to the Nimrod, on the ground that she did not fulfil the condition of being manned by members of the Club only, was allowed, and the prize goes to the Lillie. In the Club Cup handicap, on Monday, the Nimrod is to give 15 minutes to the Wave and Lillie, and 35 minutes to the Fearless.

A public tea meeting and entertainment given at the Temperance Hall, in connection with the Shanghai Temperance Society, was very successful. Quite a number of ladies volunteered their indispensable aid on the occasion, and an interesting programme was secured for the entertainment after the cheerful cup had been emptied. Admiral Shadwell presided at the entertainment, and lent his aid cordially in furtherance of the good cause. Several members of the A.D.C., in addition to other gentlemen, gave their services in singing and reading, and addresses were delivered by Revs. Messrs. Muirhead and Barrett. There were a great many sailors and marines among the audience.

A house coolie in the service of Messrs. Sayle and Co. has met his death in a peculiar and unfortunate way. He came downstairs to a room where another coolie, his cousin, was polishing knives, with a teapot which he wanted to clean. A little dispute arose about the cleansing materials, in course of which the coolie with the teapot struck the other on the head. The latter endeavoured to shove him off with his hand, but as he held in it a sharp-pointed dessert knife, he inflicted a severe wound in the abdomen. The wounded man did not make much of the matter, and his friends called in a native doctor. As more serious symptoms betrayed themselves, however, Dr. Johnston was sent for, but the man died shortly afterwards. The coolie who occasioned his death was taken to the city, where he will be detained until the other relations of the deceased, who reside at Ningpo, can be communicated with.

A melancholy accident has happened on board the steamer Hong Kong, which is lying at the Shanghai and Honglew Wharf, whereby Mr. Walter Coop, third officer of that vessel, lost his life. Mr. Coop was superintending the taking on board of a quantity of ballast, and was in the act of going down the forehatch ladder, when he stumbled and fell headlong into the lower hold, a distance of about thirty feet. He sustained a severe fracture of the base of the skull, which rendered him instantly insensible, and after remaining in an unconscious state for four hours, he died. The deceased belonged to London, and was twenty-nine years of age and unmarried.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 29th October; the P. and O. mail from London Sept. 18 was received on the 26th October. The following items of news are from the China Mail:—

The Registrar-General has published his quarterly returns of births and deaths in the colony for the periods from 1st April to 30th June, and from 1st July to 30th September last. In Hong Kong and the four out-districts, in the June quarter, 393 births and [illegible] deaths were registered, 36 of the former and 37 of the latter occurring among persons other than Chinese. The births are those of 18 boys and of the same number of girls. 13 deaths were of non-residents. The remainder were thus distributed as regards nationality, viz.: British, 12; Portuguese, 6; Indian, 5; Malay, 1.

The births among the Chinese were those of—boys, 197; girls, 160; total, 357. The death were—boys, 287; girls, 324; total, 611.

The death rate for the quarter amongst the British and Foreign community was 23·04, and amongst the Chinese, 21·14 annually for every thousand persons. For the whole population of the colony the rate was 21·24 for every thousand persons.

During the September quarter a total of 473 births was recorded, 44 of which—in the proportion of 21 boys to 23 girls—occurred among the English or Foreign portion of the community. Among the Chinese the births were as follow:—Boys, 255; girls, 174; total, 429.

The number of deaths registered is, owing to the casualties which resulted from the late typhoon, far in excess of any returns yet issued, and renders it impossible to draw any accurate conclusion as to the death-rate of the colony. The total number registered during the quarter amounts to 1,574. Of these, 60 were among the English and foreign community, and were distributed among the following nationalities:—British, 14; Portuguese, 11; Indian, 5; Malay, 2. The remainder (28) were those of non residents. The deaths among the Chinese were as follows:—Males, 940; females, 574; total, 1,514. Among the English and foreign community 11 deaths were the result of the typhoon, as far as can be ascertained, while to the same cause may be attributed 760 deaths among the returns of the native community.

The following are the estimates for 1875:—

The flags of the men-of-war and merchant shipping in harbour, as also at Government-House, official residences, and the Peak, were flying half-mast high, as a token of respect to the memory of the late Lady Kennedy. The Administrator of the Government might properly send a telegram of condolence to Sir Arthur Kennedy, to await him either at Singapore or Penang, expressing the sympathy of the community. We are sure the colonists would heartily acquiesce in this.

Dr. Elmore, the Peruvian Minister to China and Japan, left per Menzaleh. Dr. Elmore intends to establish the Peruvian Mission in Japan, after which he will return to Peking to ratify the treaty with China.

The change made some months since by the naval authorities, in abandoning the Melville and taking over the Seamen's Hospital at Mount Shadwell for the use of the squadron, appears to have resulted most satisfactorily. The building is admirably arranged, and Dr. Loney, R.N., the medical inspector in charge, has effected many inexpensive but much needed improvements, especially in the drainage system, upon which some years of service had begun to tell. We do not find in the official reports any notice of the damages sustained by this building in the late typhoon. We are however glad to learn that, notwithstanding its exposed position, the hospital and houses were very little injured, thanks to the good service of a very efficient staff of native employes brought over from the Melville, who cleverly shored up every door and window against the violence of the gale, and stood to their work all night like men.

We regret to learn that there is not the remotest probability of the White Cloud being got off the beach where she is stranded, bottom upwards, at Macao. Measures are being taken, however, to get the machinery, which is but little injured, out of her.

The official reports of the damage done by the typhoon at Macao gives the following:—

The total numbers of Chinese bodies found in Macao and its dependences amounts to 4,000; total number of Portuguese killed by typhoon, 20.

Losses by Chinese from typhoon	$300,000

HONG KONG, OCT. 29.

Trade continues in a very depressed state, and there is a prevailing feeling that the glory of the colony has departed. House rents, which form perhaps the dearest proportionate item in the annual expense of ordinary people, and out of which the most successful colonists have made the best part of their makings, have fallen much during the last two years. A house in the Caine-road, which eighteen months ago would have let for $150 a month, now fetches only $60. Houses in Wyndham and other streets, which used to command a rental of at least $60, can now fetch only half that sum, or less. What is necessary to make Hong Kong what she used to be is a war between China and some of the Western Powers, and then would people flock to the island of fragrant streams for safety and shelter, and then would the hearts of householders be made glad and their purses heavy. The sufferers by the dulness of commerce are the banks, even more than the householders. The Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, in particular, which has propped all sorts of failing concerns, has suffered a long continued phlebotomy. Confidence in the bank appears to have revived, but, at the same time, shares are lamentably low. At the commencement of this year they stood at sixty and seventy per cent. premium, now they are at three only. In fact, just before the last meeting, matters appeared really shaky. Several gentlemen, professionals, mostly with small balances, talked seriously of transferring their accounts, but were persuaded to defer such action at least until after the meeting. It only wanted the slightest impulse of alarm to induce all the Chinese constituents of the bank to withdraw their funds, and the result, though it could not have been fatal, would have been very serious. At present it is hoped that the bank will recover its partially lost position ere long.

Governor Kennedy, who was summoned home by a telegram announcing the dangerous illness of Lady Kennedy, learnt her death at Singapore. He will not proceed home, but will return by the next mail, arriving about the 3rd proximo, to Hong Kong. It is rather odd that the Colonial Secretary, Mr. J. G. Austin, should have been appointed Acting Governor. He was at one time Governor of Honduras, where he perpetrated such a muddle than an order was made that he was never again to be intrusted with the administration of any government.

Mr. N. B. Dennys, of the China Mail, upon whom a German university has recently conferred the title of Ph. D., and whose name is well known in connection with Anglo-Chinese literature and research, has just published a "Hand-book of the Cantonese Vernacular of the Chinese Language." The work is compiled somewhat after the Ollendorfian system, is very handsomely got up, and contains 210 octavo pages. It is specially adapted for the use of those who wish to acquire enough of colloquial Cantonese to enable them to carry on their business and household arrangements in the native language. That it is a work of merit is guaranteed by the fact that the Government have made it their hand-book for interpreters, police, and government schools.

As a natural outcome of the stagnation of trade, to which I have above referred, there are rumours of difficulties among several commercial firms. Mr. Glasse, of the Victoria Dispensary, Hong Kong, is the latest failure.

JAVA.

The Indier states, in an article commenting on the failure of the attempt to establish direct steam communication between Java and Australia every five weeks by means of the N. I. S. N. Co.'s steamers, that, after deducting the subsidy of 30,000f. pe voyage granted by the N. I. Government, the company lost 60,000f. on each of the two experimental trips. The failure is ascribed in the first place to the refusal of the Australian Government to relieve the company from the payment of harbour, light, and anchorage dues. Besides the rates of freight were too low to be paying; thus it did not pay to convey Java sugar to Australia at the rate of thirty-five shillings a ton for freight. Flour from Australia was conveyed cheaper by small sailing vessels, which arrived in Java some ten days later than the steamer, so that in order not to return empty the latter had to take in cargoes of coals, for which no freight was paid. Between the Australian ports, the competition of rival steamships was too great. The passengers conveyed were at the rate of from two to three per voyage; this was partly caused by the knowledge of the prevalence of cholera in Netherlands India deterring the Australians. The conclusion come to by the Indier is, that until circumstances become more favourable, the mercantile community of Java must be contented with the Singapore-Queensland line of steamers.

The editor of the Indier says that when he wrote the article he had before him the statement of the receipts and expenses attending the two trips. He says, besides, that "the directors of the N.I.S.N. Company here, not certainly from personal good will, but with an eye to the various interests concerned, supplied us with information and explanations, and have desired us to intimate that every person taking an interest in the subject can be supplied with all the details at their office."

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 5th November; the French mail from London Sept. 25 arrived out on the 25th Oct., and the following P. and O. mail of 2nd Oct. was received on the 1st November. We take the following items of intelligence from the Straits Times:—

The Legislative Council has not yet resumed its sittings, and the only matter of interest in connection with the Government has been the prosecution of the inquiry, by the Executive Council, into the condition of the public service. The Hon. the Attorney-General has been under examination before that body with respect to the annual retainer of $1,000 paid him by the opium farmer, and has concluded his statement in defence. The proceedings in this inquiry are, we understand, to be forwarded in extenso to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, until when they are not to be published locally. According to latest advices peace and quiet have prevailed in the native states, and the British officers at present acting as residents are exerting a salutary and beneficial effect over them. We understand the Hon. J. W. W. Birch, our Colonial Secretary, is likely to be selected as Resident at Perak. Should this prove true, a new appointment must be made to fill Mr. Birch's position here, and it is quite probable Colonial-office patronage will be again exerted for this purpose, though undoubtedly the office could be more efficiently filled by an officer of local experience, possessing a knowledge of the language, manners, and customs of the people.

The British ship Dewa Gungadhur, Captain Turner, which arrived here on the 29th ult., from London, reports that on the 10th September, off the Cape of Good Hope, she fell in with the burning Dutch ship Susanna Johanna, Captain Hulshoff, and took off the entire crew, twenty in number, who were landed safely at Anjer. The Susanna Johanna was from Newcastle, with a cargo of coals for Atchin, and the fire arose from spontaneous combustion in the cargo. The crew saved nothing, and were only able to procure two half-casks of water from the burning vessel, the Dewa Gungadhur being so short of water as to necessitate the expedient of distilling it from the cooking utensils.

The arrivals via the Suez Canal have been the Aurrera on the 22nd Oct., from Cadiz and Liverpool, Nestor on the 26th from Liverpool, Penedo on the 27th from London, Normanby from Glasgow and India from Lisbon on the 31st, Glaucus from Liverpool and Glencarn from London on the 1st Nov., and Sylvia from Hamburg on the 2nd. She departures homeward have been the Emiliano on the 24th, for Cadiz and Liverpool, Ulysses on the 25th and Olympia on the 27th for London, and Galley of Lorne on the 30th Oct. for New York.

The Government Gazette notifies the appointment of Captain H. Douglas as a Justice of the Peace and Sitting Magistrate of Police at Singapore, in place of Capt. Walshe, absent on leave; the resignation of his seat in the Legislative Council by the Hon. W. R. Scott; and the appointment of Mr. James Charles Mitchell as Senior Sworn Clerk in the Supreme Court, the provisional appointment of Mr. H. W. Wood as a member of the Legislative Council, and of Mr. R. W. Hullett, of Singapore and Mr. T. D. Hewett, of Penang, as Justices of the Peace. Certificates of Naturalisation have been granted to Lim Eng Ho, Tng Keng Chang, Shaik Awab, Khoo Oye Hoot, and Lim Boon Tat.

The Netherlands Vice-Consul at Penang has notified H.E. the Governor that the following ports in Atchin are open for trade:—

On the West Coast.

All the States between Trumon and Waylah, and likewise the Ports Patti and Kluang.

On the North Coast.

Gegeang, Ayelaboo, Pa sangan, Telok Samoi and Endjing.

On the East Coast.

Edi Besar, Padawa Ketjel, Padawa Besar, Pasci, Kertie, Perlak, Samiang, Sunghy Tjoe and Sunghy Riah.

It is impossible not to admire the thorough and yet rapid manner in which the town road repairs are now being carried out. Commercial-square and Battery-road have, within a few days, undergone a marked improvement in the metalling of the roadways, which are to be further improved by the construction of side-drains to carry off the water which hitherto, during heavy showers, has contributed so much to the destruction of the surface, and rendered the square almost impassable for foot passengers. Further, we understand the streets will no longer be allowed to be littered daily with the sweepings from the godowns, but that the municipal regulation requiring the refuse to be placed in receptacles on the edge of the verandahs will be strictly enforced.

PENANG.

In a recent issue of the Penang Gazette a comparison is made between the activity displayed and the energy shown by the trading coasters and the easy indolence and apparent indifference to freight which is found on board the steamers of the British India line. The Gazette thinks that a little less dignified majesty and a little more of participation in the business of the coasting trade would be more in unison with the feelings of the shareholders of the company. Some healthy competition with the "interloping" steamers would do no harm to the company, but would, on the contrary, by developing the trade benefit themselves and their patrons. It would seem that while this company are treating everything and everybody with supercilious contempt, and maintaining prohibitive rates of freight and passage on every available occasion, native shippers are getting suspicious of the tender mercies of a wealthy company, and are giving their business into the hands of the "interlopers." The British Indian Company evidently regard their subsidy in the light of a premium on inactivity and a stimulus to additional arrogance.

We take the following from the Penang Gazette:—

The Straits Observer is about to be resuscitated. The first number of the new series of it will, we are told, appear in Singapore, under the editorship of a gentleman who for a long time was connected with this paper, and ably discharged the duties of editor.

Chang Keng Quee, a Chinese Resident of Penang, has been appointed "Captain" of the Canton and Fokien Chinese at Larut, and it is stated furthermore that this personage has been invested with certain magisterial powers giving him summary jurisdiction over all the men belonging to the above two clans. To the uninitiated it appears strange that such appointments are not apparently called for in Penang, Singapore, or Malacca, although in Java they have been found of great use. While not going into the pros and cons of the question as to the advisability of the creation of such offices as "Captain" of Chinese Clans, we feel bound to remark that an experiment of this nature might have been more judiciously tried in one of the three British Settlements. The idea so far as we can learn is both a practicable and good one, but the question again arises, Why has it not been tried before in British territory.

The situation in Atchin continues unchanged. The capture of Langkruk by surprise is a blow to the enemy, but they do not allow themselves to be discouraged; whenever a position has been wrested from them they construct fresh forts round it. Our troops are uninterruptedly busy clearing the ground before the Kraton. But this is an extremely difficult work, and progresses very slowly. Our position is becoming in the meantime of such a nature that it is impossible for the enemy to break through it. During the last few days, no intelligence has been received. The enemy is certainly becoming less active now that the puasa has set in. An attempt to surprise Bital failed, from private advices. This point may cost blood yet. This position was formerly occupied by General Van Swieten, but he saw fit to abandon it. The state of health at Atchin is not more unfavourable, although fresh cases of cholera appear.

CEYLON OF THE FUTURE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

COLOMBO, Nov. 5.

In my last I made some remarks on Ceylon of the past and Ceylon of the present, but had not then time to touch on the future. In treating of the past and the present I traced the progress of this little island since it was first occupied by the British—occupied only as a mere military dependency. Indeed, in this light alone was it at that time looked upon by our Government, and it was then considered the key to India. But those days have long gone by. It is true it had then its cinnamon gardens, the produce of which was a Government monopoly, and paid a very heavy duty. In fact it formed a large part of the island revenue, which, in 1837, did not exceed £371,994. What was then the state of its coffee—its now great staple? Of that product only 30,000 cwts. were exported—four ships at that time took all its crop. One large steamer of the class frequenting the port now could take, at one trip, all the island then produced. How stands the case now? We frequently see forty large vessels at one time in our roads, and generally two or three steamers are at once advertising for passengers and cargo. We export during the year one million hundred weight of coffee, worth at least £4,000,000 (four millions sterling). A railway connects the principal sea-port with the interior, carrying up, besides passengers, food for our coolies, and manure for our plantations, and carrying down the coffee those plantations produce. I do not notice the other articles of transport here, although they all doubtless assist to form our exports, because coffee, our staple, is four-fifths of the whole. The railway in question, connecting, as it does, Colombo and Kandy, was opened for traffic in 1868, and cost the Colony one-and-three-quarter-million sterling (£1,750,000). Another quarter million is now being expended on a continuation of this railway to Nawalapitiya, which is expected to be opened in another month. All the debt on these two railways when completed will be about £600,000, which is being paid off as the debentures fall due out of a fund set apart yearly from the railway earnings—the rest having been all paid out of island revenue, and it is in contemplation to lay down another hundred miles of railway, now considered necessary to meet the great and growing wants of the country. The inauguration of this railway extension and of the Colombo breakwater will be the chefs d'œuvre of Mr. Gregory's reign. May both be well and expeditiously executed, and may our good Governor live long to contemplate the benefits he will thus have conferred upon the island at large, and to enjoy the reputation he will have so well earned! Yet another great scheme is now being forced upon his notice, although for it cannot be claimed benefits anything like so great, general, or extensive. It is a scheme of waterworks for Colombo. This island capital has got its gas, and now it wants its water. The town and suburbs are well lit. The gas was supplied by a company, and the municipality, as well as private residents, pay for what they require. Not so, however, is the wish of a portion of the Columbians, with the municipality at their head, with regard to water. They want about £200,000 expended for their benefit, to bring them a good supply of wholesome water. But they would like the Government and the public to pay for it—not the public of Colombo only, a great part of which would prefer their present scant supply and no fresh taxation—but they would impose taxes on trades and professions, duties on exports, and tolls on produce passing along their streets to be shipped. Silly and shortsighted policy! The up-country planters, whose produce has made Colombo, will never submit to have it taxed in order that Colombo may have water. Besides this, a railway or tramway is now nearly completed from the railway terminus to the wharf, and when completed all produce from the interior will pass along it, and will not use the Colombo roads or streets at all; consequently will not wear them, and certainly will not pay for their maintenance. If the harbour to be is to bring such an access of shipping to the port as will more than drink up our present supply of water, it will surely then become the duty of whatever power benefits by their dues to supply them with water. If the Government are to receive the dues, let them provide the water; if the Municipality, let them provide it. In any case, the residents in the interior have no right to be called upon to provide Colombo with either a luxury or a benefit. This port is already increasing greatly in population and importance; and when the breakwater is made, what a bustling, trading, shipping, coaling, calling port it will become! The ships of all nations will come there. The eastward bound from all countries will visit Lanka's capital. Trade with the West, and commerce from the farther East will be interchanged there. Already by its coffee alone, or almost alone, the exports and imports of Ceylon are now not under ten millions sterling; and it has become the third coffee-producing country in the world.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—There had been little or no improvement in the position of the market. Grey Shirtings, medium qualities especially, had been in better request, but holders had had to make some further concession in price to effect sales.

SHANGHAI.—The better feeling mentioned in our last report has been fairly maintained, and the market generally had a more healthy tone. Cotton goods: Grey Shirtings; the inquiry for common qualities had continued, and prices were firmer, though without quotable change. T-Cloths had advanced somewhat in value, the demand being principally for common. At the commencement Mexicans were not wanted, but had since been taken at low rates. White Shirtings were without alteration. There had been more inquiry for Drills, partly speculative, and slightly higher rates had been paid. In Fancy Cottons there was no change to note in prices, but the market was strong, and there had been a fair business. Velvets had met some demand, and prices were somewhat higher. Woollens: Long Ells had improved in value, CPH Scarlet having been sold to arrive at Tls. 7.4.0, while the same mark Assorted had fetched Tls. 7.6.2½. Lastings and Figured Orleans were quiet, but had increased in value. Camlets were in more inquiry, and prices had advanced; there was also some improvement to notice in Spanish Stripes.

HONG KONG.—The arrivals during the interval, besides the mail steamers, had been the s.s. Braemar Castle, Glenfalloch, and ship Beemah, bringing full supplies of Manufactured Goods for this market and the north. There had been a very quiet fortnight in imports, the only inquiries being for special chops of Grey Shirtings and Woollens. The market had not yet recovered from the glut of sea-damaged goods thrown upon it lately, but there were signs of a return to its normal state. In the meantime holders showed no disposition to accept lower prices than were current before the typhoon, and there was consequently little alteration to notice in values.

CANTON.—Lead: In the absence of sales quotations were nominally the same as last reported—viz., LB $8.20, and WB $8.35. Quicksilver was in some demand, although there had been no sales on the spot.

BATAVIA.—The demand for Dutch Staples had somewhat improved, but the position of English Staples continued very unsatisfactory; stocks were excessive and demand almost nil. For Fancy Goods the season was drawing to a close. Yarns generally were dull of sale.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead's Report says:—The improved demand for Piece Goods noticed in our last was of short duration, and market has again become very quiet. The moderate enquiry for 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings has been freely met at $2.15 to $2.17½. No improvement in T-Cloths, only 6lbs. and 7lbs. enquired for. White Shirtings of fine qualities have been placed to a fair extent at about late rates. Grey Yarn: Lately a slight advance was obtained, but this has been lost and the market closes at about $112. Turkey Red Cambrics have been in better enquiry, but to make sales low prices have been accepted. Iron continues depressed and prices have a drooping tendency; holders are very anxious to realise stocks, but purchases are only on a small scale. Copper Sheathing is being moved at former rates. Yellow Metal has met with rather more enquiry lately, but prices are unchanged. Zinc Sheathing moves very slowly. Roll Zinc is in no demand. Pig Lead continues without enquiry.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

KIUKIANG.—Black: All arrivals had gone forward to Shanghai on native account. Export from commencement of season to 14th October, 1874, 21,403,791 lbs.; 1873, 18,901,892; increase, 1874, 2,501,899. Green: Arrivals during the fortnight, 21,644 half-chests, all of which had been shipped to Shanghai on native account. Export from commencement of season to 14th October, 1874, 5,187,064 lbs; 1873, 4,407,317.

HANKOW.—Messrs. Evans, Pugh, and Co.'s Report says:—A small business has been transacted, settlements amounting to only 3,700 chests. Bulk of the business has been in common Oopack—Nipcarsees—at from Tls. 13¼ to 14, and these kinds show an advance of half a tael per picul. Shantams on the other hand may be quoted as much lower, quotations being Tls. 11½ to 12½ per picul. Export of Hankow Tea is 52,710,000 lbs., against 52,422,000 lbs. to date, and 54,500,000 lbs. for total of last season. As the season is now so nearly at a close, we shall discontinue the issue of this Report. Quotations are:—For second and third crop Oopacks, Tls. 13¼ to 16½, against Tls. 14⅜ to 15⅜ at same date last season; Oonahms, Tls. 11½ to 12½, against Tls. 11 to 11½. Settlements to date are:—332,814 chests, against 330,615 chests in 1873; shipments on native account, 219,330 chests, against 199,075 chests; contracts, 8,171 chests, against 12,005 chests; stock is estimated at 2,383 chests, against 772; total, 562,695 chests, against 542,467 chests in 1873.

SHANGHAI.—Black: There had been but little change in the market. Supplies had been small, and business had been restricted in consequence. A fair demand had continued throughout the fortnight, and prices were the turn stiffer. The stock on offer was reduced to a small compass, and was of indifferent quality. Settlements for the fortnight, 10,770 chests; reshipments on owners' account, 1,530; stock, 6,780 chests. Green: The fortnight's business had been about on a par with that of the previous interval. The decline which was apparent then, in some few purchases only, had been generally established, teamen being willing sellers at Tls. 1 to 2 lower. There was considerable demand for the English market, which had helped to check the downward tendency. American advices were far from encouraging, and most buyers for that country still kept out of the market. The following were about the prices paid: for country tea, Tls. 25 to 41 per picul; Pingsuey, Tls. 26 to 40; settlements, 40,839 half-chests; reshipments, 220 half-chests; stock, 78,290 half-chests.

AMOY AND TAMSUI.—Further purchases of Amoy Ooloongs had been made, and the settlements aggregated upwards of 139,500 half-chests. Prices were quoted $2 to 3 lower, but teamen were unwilling to accept the decline. The s.s. Galley of Lorne had sailed for New York and the s.s. Tartar was loading for the same port. Latest advices from Tamsui report prices as unchanged, although the further arrivals of the Autumn crop were not satisfactory in quality. The total export of Formosa Oolongs to date to all quarters was about 2,740,000 lbs.

CANTON.—Messrs. Deacon and Co.'s Report says:—We have to report less business doing in all descriptions of Tea. Former prices are pretty well maintained as a rule, although in some instances they exceed the ideas of some of the most sanguine holders, and the irregularity displayed is absurd. Congous: At this port one or two small lots have been taken, but having been privately contracted for nothing is known about either quality or price. Business has somewhat recovered itself at Macao since the late typhoon, and shipments are now going forward in small quantities. Scented Teas: Capers are still in fair demand at former prices, medium to good medium are selling at Tls. 20 to 23, and of these descriptions settlements are the largest. Orange Pekoes have also had some attention, and the market is cleared of all those classed from good common to finest. For new-make kinds there is no demand, and the prices asked show that Teamen are still very firm. We summarise sales with prices as follows:—Scented Caper, 10,000 boxes, at Tls. 15 to 23 per picul; Scented Orange Pekoe, 6,000 boxes, at Tls. 19½ to 27 per picul.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The excitement on this market consequent on the advices from Europe had continued, and buying at gradually advancing quotations had been kept up on a large scale, but latterly the exaggerated ideas entertained by holders as to values, combined with the marked inferiority of the silk at present offering, had to some extent caused a falling-off in the settlements. The advance in values varied from Tls. 15 to 20, but holders were looking for a still further improvement, and the market closed with much firmness. "Gold Lion," Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 had been sold at Tls. 395, 375, 355, and 335 respectively. "Donkey," Nos. 3 and 3½ at Tls. 407½ and 382½; "Dragon," No. 3 at Tls. 400; "Cock and Worm," No. 3½ at Tls. 382½; "Red Peacocks," at Tls. 330; Kukee's "Chin-Jan," at Tls. 357½; "Vun-sing" and "Choey-sing," at Tls. 297½ and 277½; and Fatmay's No. 2 Haining, at Tls. 337½ and 340. Tls. 420 for Koofongsing's and "Chick's" No. 3 Tsatlee is said to have been offered and refused. Settlements for the fortnight Chinas, 5,500 bales. Total settlements since 1st June, 51,500 bales, against 1873-74, 36,500 bales; 1872-73, 40,300 bales. Comparative unsold stock 1874, 10,000 bales; 1873, 6,500 bales; 1872, 4,500 bales.

CANTON.—We learn from Messrs. Deacon's Circular that unwonted activity has prevailed during the fortnight, induced by receipt of telegraphic news announcing a "speculative demand" and rather improved tendency in the London market. 600 bales were settled in the first week, $320 per picul having been paid for No. 4 Tsatlee, since then 420 bales have been taken at gradually advancing rates, and purchases have been made up to $340 per picul. All sorts have been in request, and every description may be quoted $20 to $25 per picul higher than last reported. The market has been nearly cleared of good Silk, and desirable parcels are now to be obtained with difficulty, holders at the close are asking $345 to $350 for No. 4, and should purchases continue to be made, a still higher range of prices may be looked for. Loong-kongs have also been in demand, and 100 bales of good sorts are included in settlements. Long-reels: 300 piculs are reported to have been bought by Parsees for the Indian market. Re-reels: About 300 boxes have changed hands for shipment to America. Stock is considerably reduced, owing to limited arrivals—say: 700 bales Tsatlee, 100 bales Loong-kong, 150 bales Cumchuck and Lacklow, 100 bales Kow-kong, and 500 bales inferior kinds.

LONDON: MONDAY, DEC. 7, 1874.

THE POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTION OF SHANGHAI.

LAST August a circular was widely circulated by Messrs. JOHN BOURNE and Co., of Mark-lane, London, stating that they were authorised to announce the formation of a committee in Shanghai, of which the British Consul was chairman, which proposed to bring under the eyes of the Chinese the resources of European science, especially as illustrated by the condition of our arts and manufactures, and inviting European producers of all kinds to send specimens of their wares to China, where an extensive market will probably be found for such as are suitable. The rumours of war with Japan, however, which shortly after this arrived threw a damp upon the project both in Shanghai and at home, for persons in China were so much absorbed by the momentous question of peace or war that they had little time or thought to expend upon industrial questions, and European manufacturers could not be expected to send their goods to a foreign port, which might perhaps be besieged or taken by the enemy, and where, under such circumstances, business could not be expected to result. Under circumstances so unpropitious, Messrs. JOHN BOURNE and Co. refrained from pressing the undertaking upon public attention, as in fact they could not recommend anyone to forward articles for exhibition in the conjuncture which had arisen. At the beginning of the present month, however, it came to be pretty generally known that there would be no war—that the crisis had passed, and that peace would be preserved. So soon as this intimation was confirmed, it became possible and advisable to move in the Polytechnic affair. The first step taken by Messrs. JOHN BOURNE and Co. was to address a circular to all the exhibitors at the South Kensington Exhibition, then about to close, stating that instead of taking the articles shown at South Kensington home, the exhibitors might find their account in sending them to China, which was a new field, and one that was practically inexhaustible. Several of the exhibitors, we understand, have responded to this invitation, though, if it had been possible to issue it earlier, the success would have been greater, as in many cases another appropriation had already been made of the goods. They next addressed the P. and O. Company, explaining the nature of the undertaking, and asking them to carry out to Shanghai, carriage free, any articles presented to the Polytechnic—articles sent for sale or return being chargeable with freight in the usual manner. This request was immediately granted, and articles have been sent to Messrs. JOHN BOURNE and Co. for presentation, which will be forwarded free of expense from the Victoria Docks in London. To give weight to the undertaking in England, it has been suggested to the committee in Shanghai the expediency of forming an influential committee of co-operation in London. Meanwhile, they await from Shanghai information as to the space available for exhibits, and the rules under which the Exhibition will be held. These will no doubt be similar to the rules observed in such cases; but it is necessary that they should be officially settled or ratified. With the aid of a good committee of co-operation in this country the success of the undertaking may be made very great, and even without that sufficient progress has already been made to render success sure.

CHINA AT PEACE.

SAVE only on her north-western frontier, where she is likely to have occupation for some time to come, if she persists in her endeavours to recover the large tracts of territory which the Ameer of KASHGAR has wrested from her of late years, it would almost seem as if China had managed to cope successfully, in one way or another, with all her enemies, and had now a fair chance of being left in peace and quietness for a time. So far as we are aware, her southern and western frontiers are now undisturbed, and on the east she has bought off the Japanese at the cost of a few thousand taels, and with the loss of not a little dignity and prestige. We have heard nothing for some time of any Nien-fei, those thorns in the side of many a provincial governor, but scarcity and famine, brought on by inundations or bad harvests, may at any moment, especially during the winter months, fan the slumbering flame of rebellion and bring them to life again; and when once such a movement as that gets headway, it is very difficult, as past experience has shown, to trample it out again. Lastly, a St. Petersburg telegram, which we reproduce in another column, announces that on the north-eastern frontier, in Northern Manchuria, where Chinese territory marches with that of Russia, the disturbances have now ceased. The rebels of Chungussen, it would appear, alarmed at the bare approach of a Chinese force—a fact at which we must own to some astonishment—and hemmed in by Russian troops which have been concentrated on the river Usuri for the maintenance of order, have thought better of it, and are said to have quietly dispersed. Let us hope that the Peking Government, having now no rebellion on its hands, may turn its attention to more peaceful arts, to dredging important harbours and lighting the dangerous coast more thoroughly, and set to work in earnest to promote the development of the internal resources of the country, about which so much has been said and so little done, owing to the determined opposition which has always been shown in high quarters to any departure from the time-honoured rule of obstructiveness.

CHINESE EMIGRATION TO QUEENSLAND.

FOR the past twenty years the sugar cane has been successfully cultivated in the environs of Brisbane, the capital of the colony of Queensland, aswell as the cotton plant. The progress of these plantations, although gradually increasing, has been slow, so that hitherto they have been more experiments than otherwise, by settlers not practically conversant with their culture. Latterly, however, the attention of experienced planters from the West Indies and America has been drawn to the colony, and after examination, they are of opinion that the soil and climate are admirably suited for the growth of the sugar cane and cotton plant, and the extension of plantations almost unlimited, provided that labourers accustomed to work in the fields under a tropical sun can be had at wages which will render the pursuit profitable.

While the question was being mooted where to find the most suitable class of labourers, a merchant at Amoy was in communication with his correspondent in the colony, advising him to consult the colonists as to importing immigrants from that treaty port and Swatow. The proposition met with general approbation, many of the leading colonists putting their names down as subscribers to an association, which afterwards received the sanction of the Queensland Government, and Mr. F. BAUER was appointed agent for Chinese immigration. That gentleman has issued a circular on the subject, describing the superior capabilities of the natives from these maritime districts of the Kwang-tung province over the ordinary coolies from the Canton districts, in which he only does justice to the sturdy industrious fisher-farmers of the coast. Appended to these statements is the form of an agreement to be used in the engagement of these labourers by the Queensland colonists. The terms are similar to those under which the Chinese are engaged to work at the sugar plantations in the West Indies, and contain the following stipulations:—The rate of passage is set down at £16 per man, one half payable on giving the order for an immigrant, and the balance on his arrival, before he quits the vessel.

Digitized by Google

The form of the agreement is as provided by treaty, which does not permit of any alteration. The period of service is set down at five years. The immigrant is bound to work six days of nine and a half hours weekly, and the wages are fixed at seven dollars a month, to be paid at the expiration of each month. Food is also to be provided for the labourer on the scale of eight ounces of meat, or an equivalent quantity (not specified) of fish, and 2½ lbs. of other articles not specified, but which must be wholesome and good. Free medical attendance is also to be provided; and at the expiration of the five years, or in case of incurable sickness, fifty dollars to pay a return passage to China are also stipulated for, as well as a suit of clothes and a blanket yearly. Other clauses provide for the immigrant's protection in various ways, and give facilities for his applying part of his wages for the support of his family in China if he should see fit to do so. Altogether the terms of the proposed agreement are liberal and most favourable for the labourer. Nevertheless, will they hold out a sufficient inducement to the coolies of the Amoy and Swatow districts to abandon their homes and families for five years? It is true that a large amount of the Chinese emigrants to the Indian Archipelago and the Philippine Isles have been from those districts, but then there are no restrictions as to time or place, while the married men emigrated with their families. In saying this we are not intending to throw cold water on the project with such a laudable object in view, but simply to point out that a similar attempt to induce the cotton cultivators in the Shanghai district to emigrate to Queensland failed in consequeuce of not encouraging family emigration. However, we wish success to the movement, and will watch its progress with much interest should it come into operation.

THOSE of our readers who take an interest in Archæological research will be well pleased to learn that the Governor of Ceylon has received the sanction of the Secretary of State to the prosecution of much more extended explorations of the ancient remains scattered over the island than any that have hitherto been carried on. A gentleman versed in Pali lore has been selected for the work, and we believe the task of exploration and illustration will be prosecuted with energy. We are glad to be able to announce this fact, as there is a wide field for research in Ceylon, promising results almost as extensive and fully as interesting as any explorations in Nineveh or Egypt. It is to be hoped the result of all this outlay and labour will some day be allowed to see the light, for the instruction of students of ancient history.

IN our Hong Kong news of the last issue a paragraph appeared from a Hong Kong paper stating that Mr. HENDERSON, who had been authorised by the Chinese Government to proceed to England, was an American. This is not so; our friend, Mr. JAMES HENDERSON, who has safely arrived in this country, is a well-known Britisher.

CUSTOMS REPORT ON THE TRADE OF CHINA.

The Customs Gazette for the quarter ending June, 1874, supplies the following statistics of the trade of the various ports as compared with the corresponding period in 1873:—

TIENTSIN.—The tonnage figures are rather higher than last year, and most of the imports show an increase, nearly all cotton goods being higher. The revenue for 1874 is Tls. 104,026, while in 1873 it was Tls. 80,331.

NEWCHANG.—The tonnage figures are considerably higher. In imports cotton goods are lower, while sundries are higher. The revenue shows an increase, the figures being Tls. 73,818, as against Tls. 56,570 in 1873.

CHEFOO.—The tonnage figures are higher, as are many of the imports. The exports show no important change. The revenue shows an important increase, the figures for 1874 being Tls. 80,378, against Tls. 63,816 in 1873.

HANKOW.—The tonnage figures are considerably higher, the "entered" being 103,098 tons this quarter, as against 73,038 in 1873, while the "cleared" is 102,433 tons, against 75,256 last year. The imports show no marked change, while the exports are very slightly lower as a rule. The revenue shows a decrease, the figures this year being Tls. 588,540, against Tls. 664,922 in 1873.

KIUKIANG.—The tonnage figures are higher. The imports are nearly all higher, while the exports present no material change. The revenue figures are in excess of last year; the totals being, 1874, Tls. 244,451; 1873, Tls. 234,917.

CHINKIANG.—The tonnage figures show a marked increase this quarter. In imports grey shirtings are higher, but there is no important alteration in other goods. In exports the changes are trifling. The revenue is slightly lower, the figures this quarter being, Tls. 33,283, as against Tls. 39,587 in 1873.

SHANGHAI.—The tonnage entered this quarter is 315,842 tons, against 296,133 in the same quarter in 1873, while the "cleared" is 308,037 tons, against 276,080 last year. The import of opium is almost the same as in the corresponding quarter last year, while the import figures of shirtings are rather higher. There are many fluctuations in the various descriptions, but no serious falling off. The exports are, as a rule, about the same. The revenue figures this quarter are, Tls. 825,264, against Tls. 794,531 last year.

NINGPO.—The tonnage figures show a slight decrease. The imports and exports show scarcely any change, while the revenue figures are Tls. 104,844, against Tls. 113,367 last year.

FOOCHOW.—The tonnage, "entered" and "cleared," is almost the same as last quarter. The import of cotton goods is higher, but in other descriptions there is no important change. Exports are slightly higher. The revenue shows an important increase, the figures being Tls. 422,015 this year, against Tls. 211,183 last year.

TAMSUI (FORMOSA).—The tonnage this quarter is nearly four times as much as in 1873. The imports are nearly all slightly higher, while the export of coal is considerably lower. The revenue has increased from Tls. 28,669 in 1873 to Tls. 33,283 in 1874.

TAKOW (FORMOSA).—The tonnage figures are nearly the same. The imports and exports as a rule are higher, and the revenue shows a slight increase.

AMOY.—The tonnage figures show a slight falling off. Most of the imports are higher, although the change is not important. In exports hemp bags show a falling off, while kettysols are higher. The revenue has increased from Tls. 80,101 in 1873 to Tls. 107,932 in 1874.

SWATOW.—The tonnage is nearly the same as in the corresponding quarter of last year. The import figures are nearly all higher, while the exports show no great change. The revenue is higher, the figures this year being Tls. 193,679, against Tls. 174,980.

CANTON.—The tonnage figures remain very much the same as in 1873. The imports, as a rule, are higher, although not to any great extent. The exports are about the same. The revenue this year is Tls. 227,930, while last year it was Tls. 218,570.

MEETING OF THE P. AND O. COMPANY.

The annual meeting of the P. and O. Company was held on the 4th inst., at the Company's offices in Leadenhall-street; Mr. P. D. HADOW in the chair. The SECRETARY (Mr. A. M. Bethune) read the notice calling the meeting, and the report of the directors (which appeared in our last issue) was taken as read.

The CHAIRMAN said the report submitted that day was of more than ordinary interest to the proprietors, and the questions were of a gravity greater than usual. As a natural consequence, the period under review had been one of unusual labour and anxiety to the board of directors, who had endeavoured, as hitherto, to conduct the Company's affairs in the best interests of the shareholders generally, and he trusted the board would receive upon that occasion, as they had upon so many previous ones, the hearty and liberal support of the shareholders. Upon former occasions he had compared the results of one year with another, and following up the wholesome custom he would proceed by commenting upon the report and accounts generally. At the outset, however, he felt bound to say that it had been the desire of the directors to make the report as full and explicit as possible; it was of more than ordinary length, and he could add nothing to it. Those shareholders who had read it carefully through would be thoroughly conversant with the position of the Company. In the present capital account, as compared with that of 1873, there was an increase of £300,000; the assets of this year being £4,736,000, against £4,412,000 last year. On the other hand, the Company's stock in ships was greater. There was also a large increase in the stock of coals and other stores, making a difference of £194,000. Then, on the other side, there was an increase in the liabilities of £340,000, so that the reserve fund was left at the same amount at which it had stood last year. With regard to the revenue, the gross expenditure of the Company for 1874, as compared with last year, was £42,000 in excess. That was owing to an increase in the price of provisions and various other things. The increased earnings of the year had amounted to £16,887, and that deducted from the sum just mentioned made a difference of £23,000 against the past year, which was nearly equivalent to a falling off of one per cent. in the dividend they now proposed to the proprietors. In the receipts of freight for goods there was an increase of £74,000; on the other hand, there was a slight decrease in their passenger money, amounting to £26,000, owing to rather fewer people travelling to India, and also to the great competition existing on the part of independent steamers. With regard to the mail contract, there was also a decrease of £35,000, owing to the new contract coming into force. There was also a small loss of £2,800 upon the Italian Government mail contract, in consequence of the receipts this year being for twelve instead of fourteen months, as in the account for 1873. The result of those figures showed a total increase of earnings of £16,800. In the increased expenditure there was an increase in the cost of victualling passengers, also in the Canal duties, which latter amounted to £56,800, the Company's ships going now uniformly through the Suez Canal during the whole of the year. There was also shown an increase in the discount account, and one to a considerable amount—£2,300—in the repairs account, exclusive of the extraordinary repairs account, alluded to in the report. A slight increase was also apparent in the interest on debentures, owing to a small portion having been again renewed, amounting to £4,000. Then on the other side of the account there were shown a decrease in the amounts of coals consumed of 10,784 tons, representing a saving of £56,000; in wages and port dues a net decrease of £27,087; in the transit dues £18,897; in office expenses £4,000 (and he hoped next year there would be a further decrease); and in the moneys paid to the South-Western Railway a decrease of £11,697, which was owing to the Company now bringing their ships up to London instead of stopping at Southampton. Now the result of those figures went to show that during the past year the company had incurred an increased expenditure amounting to £40,137, as against an increase in earnings of £16,800, showing a balance of about £23,000 less than in the previous year. As regarded other matters, they were so fully stated in the report that it was not necessary for him to touch upon them further. The proprietors would have seen that the Company had increased its tonnage by 4,000 tons during the year. They had supplied various ships with new boilers, and in other respects made them perfectly suitable for the Canal traffic. In the report the sale of the Madras upon advantageous terms had been noticed; since the close of the financial year they had succeeded in selling another vessel at a very good price, seeing that she had become useless for the purposes of the Company's traffic. The Board intended to preserve that policy of selling all ships until they had got rid of them all, and until they had a fleet adapted in every respect for the exigencies of the new class of traffic that had sprung up since the opening of the Canal. (Hear, hear.) With regard to the underwriting account, they had again to congratulate the shareholders upon the fact that the Company had not sustained a single loss during the past year. He desired now to repeat that which he had said on previous occasions, that under Providence they owed a deep debt of gratitude to their commanding officers, to whose zeal, activity, and prudence this exemption from loss was mainly due. (Hear.) One of the items charged against the underwriting account was in respect to a collision between one of the Company's steamers and a Norwegian vessel outside the harbour of Hong Kong, and the other referred to the stranding of the Bokhara upon a sunken rock, also in the vicinity of Hong Kong. The total charges against that account amounted to only £15,948. The balance of the account, after giving the proprietors 2 per cent., was carried to the Renewal Account. He would not detain the meeting long upon that renewal account with which the report dealt, he thought, completely. In the year 1867, when the company entered upon the new contract with the Government, it had just issued the new capital, and at that time the fleet represented 82,000 tons, whereas at the present time the fleet comprised 122,000 tons, and during that time twenty-two steamers had been added to the fleet at a cost of £2,000,000. All that had been done without calling upon the shareholders for a penny, and during all that time the shareholders had received a very fair dividend for the money embarked in the Company. Had the board given the shareholders a larger dividend the fleet would not have been in so good a position. (Loud cheers.) He thought that the shareholders would give the board credit for having acted with prudence and foresight. (Renewed cheers.) Having described the negotiations pending with the late Government for the carriage of the mails through the Suez Canal and the failure, he proceeded to say that the negotiations had to be opened with the present Government, which ended, near the close of the session, by the Company being allowed to take that route for the mails by submitting to a reduction of £20,000 in the subsidy. There had been a partial separation from the port of Southampton, which the Company had used for so many years, but the opening of the Suez Canal had revolutionised the traffic, and the Company had no alternative but to bring their ships to London for merchandise, but they would still continue to use Southampton for the embarkation of passengers and mails. He then referred to the great loss the Company had sustained by the death of the late Mr. J. Allan, who had been connected with the Company from its earliest commencement, having always had the full confidence of the board. He was a managing director since 1849, and was a very kind friend to all in the employment of the Company.—Mr. THURBURN seconded the resolution for the adoption of the report.

Captain BAIN criticised the accounts at some length, and contended that the board ought not to pay any dividend, and read a very verbose statement tending, in his opinion, to bear out his argument.—Mr. DAVIS complained that a gentleman holding only £10 in the company should endeavour to damage the property by making such statements as had been put forward that day. He thought that the shareholders were to be congratulated upon having such able officers as they had. He considered that the Government had behaved very shabbily and unhandsomely in reducing the subsidy when the Company was allowed to go through the Suez Canal. He regretted that there had been a partial severance of the connection with Southampton, and believed that the only mistake the board had made was in bringing the vessels to London. The Company had run to Southampton for thirty-four years, and had not lost £500 by mishaps during the whole period.

Mr. GLIDDON supported the adoption of the report. It was natural that there should be some tinge of regret in removing from Southampton, but as they had been told it was an absolute necessity, and therefore the board were right. He rejoiced to find that in every particular where economy was practicable there had been a reduction. Alluding to the reduction of the subsidy, he said that every consideration had been thrown overboard in order to get the credit in Parliament of having screwed £20,000 out of the Company.—Mr. HOVENDEN wished for more detailed accounts.—Mr. BADDERLING desired to know at what time the new fleet would be complete.

The CHAIRMAN said he could not pledge the board as to the time when the entire reconstruction of the fleet would be completed. A very great deal had been done, but nearly every day there were various improvements cropping up, and the board could only keep the fleet up to the highest standard in order to meet the requirements of modern traffic. He could not tell what the shareholders might expect when the whole fleet was reconstructed; he could only say that when it was completed this Company would be on a par with all others engaged in the trade, and might expect a better return.

Mr. JONES was very pleased with the dividend, which he thought almost wonderful when the difference in the price charged for carrying was considered. He thought something might be done in the way of obtaining a better supply of coal at a lower price. The Chairman said that the Company was using much larger quantities of Indian coal than before, and also Australian coal, but the difference in price was more than compensated for by the extra amount consumed consequent upon the inferior quality of the coal.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted, and the dividend declared. Votes of thanks were unanimously accorded to the Chairman and directors, to the commanders and officers, and to the secretary and staff, and the proceedings terminated.

SUICIDE NOT MURDER.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Some months ago the Straits Times treated its readers to an invective against Lord Stanley of Alderley for having called attention to a charge which had been publicly made against Sir H. Ord, of having received presents during his Governorship. According to the editor of that journal, his lordship had uttered a "cowardly and base" libel, founded on mere "hearsay and frivolous grounds," and was deserving of "exceptional punishment." I took the liberty of mentioning in your columns the somewhat comical fact that the statement thus stigmatised had first appeared in the eloquent editor's own paper, if not editorially at least without a word of dissent or objection; and I gather from the last number of the same paper which has reached me that the editor did not feel happy when he found himself caught in so flagrant a predicament. He has sought, indeed, some comfort in his misfortune in reflecting on the shocking combination of "animosity," "ignorance," "iniquity," and "Jesuitism," and so on, which manifestly characterise that "superior person" who showed him up. So far as it relieves a mind in trouble, such language is natural and harmless, but I fear I must add, it is irrelevant; and I cannot allow him to escape under its clatter from his unpleasant fix. His explanation is that he did not write the libel; that it was written by a resident in good faith and ready to take the consequences; and that it was inserted under a solemn sense of obligation to give publicity to everybody's "views" and most "divergent opinions." It is true, the editor believed that the "views and opinions" in question, as he now euphemistically styles them, were neither more nor less than a false and scandalous libel; but this consideration does not seem to affect his notions of duty and obligation. So far, nobody is to blame, according to him; not the writer who writes in good faith and is ready to pay damages or go to jail for the publication; nor the editor who disseminates the poison without labelling it, under his own exalted sense of duty. There never were such a pair of innocents since the two nuns in "Tristram Shandy," who saved themselves from the sin of swearing at their mule by dividing the utterance of the bad words, each pronouncing only one syllable.

With this picture of Arcadian simplicity, however, I have no concern. Whether the editor wrote, or suffered another to write, the supposed libel in his paper is immaterial to the matter in hand, and it is equally unimportant whether the writer was malicious or honest, though I have no doubt of his good faith. What the editor has to establish is that he is not only entitled to publish what he knows to be untrue and scandalous, but afterwards to abuse those who repeat his scandalous publication in enquiring whether it is true. He cannot alter the simple fact that he grossly attacked a member of the Legislature as a libeller for having reproduced in the House of Lords a statement which was printed and published in the editor's own paper, if not editorially, at least without a word of dissent or objection, and, as he tells us in addition, with the fullest belief that it was untrue; and not all his protestations that he did not write the libel, but repudiated it by silently lending it his means of circulation, nor yet all the armoury of the scold can save him from the exceeding discomfort of finding himself skewered on the little spit on which he fancied himself securely roasting very different game.—I am, &c.,

Naval and Military.

The Fly, double-screw composite gunboat, 4 guns, 584 (464) tons burthen, 489 (120) horse power, Commander John Bruce (1871), which sailed from Plymouth on the 27th ult. for the China station, had to put into Falmouth in consequence of the stormy weather, but she proceeded on the 30th ult. The following are the names of the officers of the Fly:—

Commander, John Bruce; Lieutenant, W. C. C. Forsyth; Sub-Lieut., Duncan M. Ross; Nav.-Sub-Lieut., Edward W. Wild; Surgeon, Edward T. Lloyd; Assistant-Paymaster, in charge, George V. Rashleigh; Engineer, William Bremner; Boatswain, second-class, George Vosper; Assistant-Engineer, first-class, Frederick C. Rogers; Assistant-Engineer, second-class, John E. Medley.

The corvette Cadmus, recently returned from China, was paid off at Devonport on the 26th ult. A serious matter has had to be investigated on board this ship. It is the custom for ships before coming into harbour to disembark their powder and live shells in the Sound. This order was supposed to have been adhered to by the officers of the Cadmus, but when in the harbour, and returning to the gun wharf her guns, shot, and empty shell, several live shells were found mixed with the empty ones. Had one of these fallen heavily during removal, a terrific and disastrous explosion would probably have occurred. An inquiry into the matter resulted in a court-martial being held, when the gunner, Mr. W. J. Toull, was tried on two charges: 1st. Negligently performing his duty on the 7th ult. by not inserting the proper plugs in six filled shells before they were removed to a lighter alongside waiting to receive them. 2nd. For placing in a deal box four signal lights without cover, &c. Mr. Toull pleaded "Guilty," but in consideration of the high character given by his captain and the excellent testimonials he produced, the Court only adjudged him to be severely reprimanded and dismissed his ship.

The Audacious, flag-ship of the China Squadron, reached Suez on the 3rd inst., on her passage out. During the stay of the Audacious at Malta the Commander-in-Chief, the Hon. Sir James R. Drummond, entertained Vice-Admiral Ryder and staff at dinner, at the Admiralty House, and Vice-Admiral Ryder gave a return dinner on board the Audacious, Rear-Admiral Inglefield, the captains of the Channel Squadron, and the respective staffs of the flag officers, being amongst the guests.

The Admiralty, since the recent lamentable loss of life at Ardrossan, by the wreck of the steamer Chusan, have become impressed with the necessity of increasing the complement of some of the Coastguard stations on the coast of Scotland and elsewhere, and volunteers from H.M.'s ships at the home ports are to be called for to meet such increase.

Arrangements have been made between the India-office and the Admiralty for the appointment of six navigating officers to the Glasgow, flagship of the East India station, for the purpose of completing the marine survey of India.

The Rinaldo, screw sloop (recently returned from the China station), has been examined at Portsmouth, to ascertain if she could be fitted for the Arctic Expedition. It has been found, however, that she is too weak for such service.

Surgeon-Major T. Moorhead, M.D., who is to relieve Deputy-Surgeon-General A. Crocker, in medical charge at Hong Kong, is about to be promoted to the rank of a deputy-surgeon-general.

Captain George S. Nares, of Her Majesty's ship Challenger, has been selected to command the Arctic expedition, and will return to England from China by the first mail.

The sloop Egeria, Commander Turton, reached Malta on the 1st inst., and was to sail next day for China.

Lieutenant H. P. W. Nicholls, of the Royal Engineers, has been ordered home from Ceylon.

THE CHINESE COOLIE TRAFFIC.

On the 1st inst. a meeting of the Aborigines' Protection Society was held in the Friends' Meeting-house. There was a large attendance; the chair was occupied by Sir H. Wingfield, and the appointed speakers included the Hon. Evelyn Ashley, M.P., Mr. Alderman M'Arthur, M.P., Mr. R. N. Fowler, M.P., Mr. A. M'Arthur M.P., Sir C. Swamy, member of the Legislative Council of Ceylon; and Mr. Ng. Achoy.

The object of the meeting will be best understood from the text of the resolutions, which were carried unanimously:—"That the protection of the aboriginal and other native populations which acknowledge the authority or are subject to the influence of Great Britain is a duty imperatively binding on the British Government; and that having regard to the lamentable state of affairs existing in various parts of the globe—especially to kidnapping in the South Seas, the enslavement or cruel treatment of natives in South Africa, the practice of slavery on the Gold Coast, and the abuses which are proved to exist in connection with the Indian and Chinese coolie traffic—this meeting trusts that Her Majesty's Government will persevere in its efforts to secure justice for the coloured races." "That the chairman be requested to forward a copy of the foregoing resolution to the Earl of Carnarvon, Secretary of State for the Colonies, and at the same time to express to his Lordship the thanks of this meeting for the steps he has taken to suppress the iniquities of the Polynesian labour trade." "That this meeting desires to thank the Earl of Kimberley, the late Secretary of State for the Colonies, for his despatch prohibiting coolie ships from refitting in the harbour of Hong Kong—a despatch which dealt a death-blow at the Macao slave trade, leading as it did to the immediate suppression by the Portuguese Government of that nefarious traffic; and this meeting, believing that the Chinese who are employed as indentured labourers in Cuba and Peru are to all intents and purposes treated as slaves, and that any promises of greater protection to them would prove wholly illusory, earnestly hopes that Her Majesty's Government will, by every legitimate means in its power, discourage the immigration of Chinese to those countries, except on the basis of free labour."

The Hon. E. Ashley bespoke the attention of the society to the treatment of the native races of India by Europeans. He quoted a passage from a report made to the Governor of Bombay some years ago, by the Commissioner of Scinde, Lieutenant-Colonel Jacob, who said that throughout British India men were made to work for no pay or insufficient pay, and that the condition of the peasantry was thus reduced to one of slavery. Sir C. Swamy, in the course of his speech, complained in general terms of the contempt of white men for the coloured races; and the Chinese gentlemen warned the meeting that the coloured races would not be beaten so easily in the future as they had been in the past. After Mr. Ashley had left the meeting two gentlemen rose in the body of the room and declared that, having themselves lived many years in India, they believed the picture quoted to be a very exaggerated one, and that there was practically no more oppression in India than was to be found in England. These declarations were received with cheers. In his opening remarks the chairman referred to the recent inquiry in the Mauritius by a commission, whose report, he anticipated, would condemn very strongly the colonial laws and regulations affecting the coolies. He traced the evils existing there to the desire of the employers to make the coolies renew their engagements, and so prevent their becoming free labourers. This and other references to the Mauritius brought up a gentleman who described himself as a member of its Legislative Council, and who with great earnestness and fluency contended that coolies were much better off in the island than in the country they left, and complained that their importation, under regulations sanctioned by the British Government, was described by the term "coolie traffic," which was also used to designate avowed kidnapping. If this were called the coolie traffic, that which went on in the Mauritius ought to be described as "immigration from India." The annexation of Fiji was referred to in terms of congratulation by the Chairman, and was spoken of more fully by Mr. W. M'Arthur, M.P., who rejoiced that rumours of disorder in Fiji had been contradicted. The chief had gone to Sydney, and the last report from Fiji was that the manufacture of sugar was making excellent progress; a first shipment of about a ton had been made to Sydney. Cotton-picking was nearly over, and the crop had proved highly satisfactory to the planters both as to quantity and quality. We had reason to be thankful for the settlement, which had averted an impending calamity. As slavers were now adopting the French and German flags, he hoped our Government would enter into arrangements with the French and German Governments to put all slavery down. He did not wish to interfere with a healthy labour traffic so long as personal freedom was secured.

Mr. Ng. Achoy's speech was as follows:—Mr. Chairman, ladies, and gentlemen, in rising at the call of your worthy chairman to say a few words, I am not quite sure if the topics I am about to touch upon are not already familiar to most of you. And I may say you cannot expect otherwise when you call upon a native of the Celestial Empire—as the Europeans generally apply that term to China—to speak. Probably some of you are aware that we Chinese are conservative people. I use the word conservative literally, and not in the popular sense generally understood in this country, which applies to one of the great political parties. When I say my countrymen are conservative, I mean that they are strict adherers of their old customs and manners, and staunch supporters of their ancient institutions; that they are proud of their fatherland, and are quite content to remain in their own country. Indeed, our motto is something to this effect: happy is the man that was born in his own country, spends all the days of his life in his own country, and will die in his own country. I need scarcely remark that I cannot enjoy that happiness, because I I have left my country and come all the way to England. But coming from such a conservative country as I have you cannot expect me to deal with the various questions put forth for discussion to-night, and I shall therefore confine my remarks only to one qestion—i.e, the coolie traffic—which came to my knowledge. Now coolie trade in China, with a very few exceptions, is nothing less than a disguised slave trade. I may, perhaps, say it is worse than slave trade, because the latter, where it is carried on, is well known to all. Every one knows what a slave is, and the evil consequences of slavery; whereas coolie traffic is calculated to mislead people. It assumes a false form, its real character is not so apparent and the magnitude of its evils is not so generally known. Until a few months ago, Macao, a Portuguese settlement at the entrance of the Canton River, has been the chief depot for the coolie traffic. Barracoons were established everywhere in that port, and coolie agents were sent round to different adjacent places and to the interior of China for the purpose of recruiting coolies to supply the market. The means used by the crimps to entice the unwary people were various, and the speaker here entered into some details as to the tricks invented by them to entrap the coolies. Once fallen into their hands, the chances for the coolie's release were very little. His consent was often extorted from him by intimidations, threats, and ill-treatment, and if the coolie still refused to emigrate after such treatment, another person was sent to answer his name and sign the contract for him but on the day of embarkation the unwilling coolie was sent on board with others, under a guard of soldiers. Not only the ignorant and simple people were easily entrapped and decoyed away from their homes, but the educated and intelligent men were liable to be forcibly carried off. The speaker here gave some instances from his own knowledge. This deplorable state of things has now ceased to exist, and the coolie traffic in Macao has been stopped since March last, and I hope for ever. And here I may take the opportunity, on behalf of my countrymen, of thanking the chairman and the several members of Parliament for having taken such a deep interest in the coolie question, and for bringing the subject before the Parliament, and also the members of this society for their indefatigable exertions in exposing the evils of this nefarious trade. I must not omit, amongst others, the name of Sir John Smale, Chief Justice of Hong Kong, who is one of the bitterest enemies to the Macao coolie traffic. I believe that it was mainly owing to the efforts of such men, combined with the influence of the several Christian nations brought to bear upon the Government of Lisbon, that that desirable object was brought about. But though it has been stopped, it would do well to keep a vigilant watch over Macao. For many years the coolie traffic has been a great source of revenue to that colony, and of great profit to the coolie agents, and that the stoppage of this trade must be a serious blow to that colony. It may not be at all improbable that the coolie agents would exert their utmost influence to get the order of Lisbon cancelled, with a view to revive the trade. In fact, it was rumoured some time ago that an attempt was being made in that direction.

Therefore it is necessary to keep an eye on that colony in order to prevent the coolie traffic being revived. Now though the coolie trade in Macao is put an end to, there remains something to be done in another direction. I mean the coolies in Cuba and Peru, where they are treated with great cruelty and unparalleled inhumanity. I have been told they are made to work from morning to night without cessation, they are not allowed sufficient food, and they are illtreated and beaten without just cause. When the time of their contract expires they are not permitted to be free, but are immediately taken up and compelled to serve another long term of service. Thus they are actual slaves. Why, the convicts in England are in a better situation than they are! It puts me in mind that the afflictions endured by the Israelites in ancient times under the Egyptian taskmasters, which called forth the vengeance of God and their deliverance by Moses, were nothing when compared with the present sufferings of my countrymen in Peru and Cuba. Something, therefore, must be done and ought to be done to alleviate their sufferings and lighten their burdens, and I appeal to the members of Parliament and to this society, who have hitherto done so much good in the cause of humanity, that they will take this matter up and urge it on the attention of H.M.'s Government to use their influence and interference on behalf of those sufferers. Before resuming my seat, there is another topic, Sir, upon which, with your permission, I wish to touch; though the subject has no direct reference to the coolie trade, it is still closely allied to it. I refer to the Chinese emigrants in California, who, I hear, are placed under hardships and disabilities. When a Chinaman arrives in San Francisco, before he is allowed to land, he has to pay a capitation tax. While resident there he is denied the privileges of citizenship. He has no vote, and worst of all, his evidence is not received in a Court of Justice. Therefore, if a man murders a Chinaman in San Francisco, in open day-light, in the presence of, say, one hundred Chinese, the testimony of all these eye-witnesses will not be taken, and the murderer will be allowed to escape scot-free. Last year a law was passed there which required a certain space of room for the abode of each Chinese under a heavy penalty, and if a house was found to contain more Chinese than the dimensions of the house would warrant, according to that law, the extra number of Chinese would be brought up, fined and imprisoned. By the operation of this law hundreds of my countrymen in San Francisco were imprisoned. The leading Chinese there were terrified at this, and fearing that the influx of emigrants brought over by each Pacific mail steamer would only increase the number of prisoners in gaol, they sent a telegram to the Chinese merchants in Hong Kong, earnestly entreating them that they would warn the future emigrants against the danger they were running into, and persuade them not to emigrate. Now, in order that the injustice of such conduct on the part of Americans in California might be more apparent, let me reverse the case for a moment. Supposing the Chinese Government were to impose similar restrictions on the American residents in China, supposing they were treated in the same way as my countrymen in San Francisco are, would they quietly submit to such treatment? and would the American Government tolerate it? Certainly not. I make no doubt they would declare war against China if the oppression was not at once removed; and why then do they impose hardships on others which they themselves would not like to bear? Such conduct is unfair, and contrary to the principle of justice. In bringing this subject before the meeting, I wish attention would be drawn to the grievance, in order that influence and pressure might be brought to bear upon the Government in California, with a view to remove the restrictions under which my countrymen there are labouring.

AT the Bedford Institute, Spitalfields, on the 25th ult., Mr. Edmund Wheatley, of the Imperial Maritime Customs, delivered a lecture called "To China and Back in Sixty Minutes." The lecturer dealt chiefly with the humorous side of Chinese life, and exhibited a number of native pictures, curios, &c. Reference was also made to missionary work and temperance effort among sailors.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, DEC. 2.

We have had a very busy Parliamentary week, and a concatenation of events. Mr. Kappeyne has delivered a speech, setting forth the Liberal programme. He resuscitated a mass of old and well-known measures, which the Liberals have tried for several years in vain to realise. This eloquent speech made scarcely any impression, at least in the Chamber, being actually received with hilarity on the benches of the Left. It may be that his programme-speech was made in earnest, but it looks very doubtful since that the speaker has always been the stumbling-block of the Liberal Cabinets. The second item of interest was the debate upon the motion of Messrs. Van Eck and Bredius, to avoid war by international arbitration, which was carried by thirty-five against thirty votes. This motion was based on the same principle as that which was brought forward by Mr. Henry Richard in England, by Mancini in Italy, and Jonas Jonasson in Sweden. The Minister for Foreign Affairs protested against the tenor of the motion, because it expressed something more than a wish, more than a declaration of approval, of the principle of arbitration, the Government being urged to take the initiative in its adoption. In the first clauses of the motion the Minister was invited to endeavour to establish arbitration as the means to settle international disputes, and secondly it was urged that no treaties should henceforth be concluded by Holland, without making arbitration a sine qua non. The time—Mr. de Villebois said—to address such an invitation to the Government was not opportune. He recalled all that had happened from 1856, when the commanders-in-chief of mighty armies met in Paris and approved of a proposal to settle disputes by arbitration until 1874, when the plenipotentiaries of the large Powers met again at Brussels, not to affirm the protocols of 1856, but to draw up new rules for war. And during this period we have had in 1859 a war with Italy, in 1864 a war with Denmark, in 1866 a war between Prussia and Austria, in 1870-71 a war between Germany and France. Of course he did not speak of our own war with Atchin. Can it now, he went on to say, be desirable that a Dutch Minister of Foreign Affairs should take, under such circumstances the initiative in introducing the principle of arbitration? He referred to the objections made by Mr. Gladstone to the motives of Mr. Richard and to the reserve shown by Visconti Venosta. Like his predecessor, the Minister is willing to co-operate with the promoters of the motion, but he is opposed to taking the initiative. The defenders of the proposal showed no great eloquence, and this, perhaps, caused the majority to be so very small. Moreover, I am quite convinced that those who supported the motion do not dream of any practical result; they regard it merely as a national cry for right against force

More amusing was the incident brought on the tapis by Mr. Kerens; this member very seldom participates in debates, but when he rises from his seat every member listens. He spoke for only a few seconds, but when he sat down an outburst of laughter followed. Even the Minister for Foreign Affairs had the greatest difficulty in maintaining his gravity. Et pour cause, Mr. Kerens had proposed that our Government should appoint an ambassador to Don Carlos, because large profits could be made by our traders in supplying the Carlists. The Minister took the trouble to answer this foolish demand by stating that Holland had already a representative at Madrid. Another item was a most eloquent speech of Mr. Kuyper, the leader of the anti-revolutionary party, who suggested that a law should be framed in order to settle the questions in dispute between capital and labour. He further wished that the Royal resolutions of 1815 and 1852 about the Reformed Church should be revoked. The Minister refused it, and sharply protested against any attempt being made to settle that vexed question of capital and labour by law. Mr. Wintgens blamed Mr. Kuyper for having used the Holy Bible as a basis for his theories in the Chamber; and was of opinion that this was "playing with petroleum." The Budgets of the Departments of Justice and Foreign Affairs have been approved of, and the debate about that of Home Affairs has been opened. Let me add that in the course of the debate the Minister de Villebois contradicted officially the report that the Government had forwarded a "memorandum" to Berlin about the Old-Catholics. Perhaps you will remember that a copy of this (said to be) "official" document was published by the Vaderland.

In the First Chamber the East India Budget was debated yesterday. Mr. Hartsen demonstrated that the Liberal policy had had no success in the last few years, and had led to no results of any importance. Messrs. Van de Putte and Cremers took part in this debate. Mr. Van Goltstein defended his Budget, and declared that he will carry out the policy of his predecessor, but in a more moderate form. The several chapters were approved of unanimously.

It has created a good deal of astonishment, not to say indignation, that Mr. C. P. K. Winckel (who was banished from Java because he had criticised the acts of the Governor-General) has asked for pardon in a most humiliating way. Of course Mr. Loudon has granted it. The words of Mr. Winckel's memorial were such that every one was of opinion that it was a bad joke published by the papers. Some of our journalists in Java behave themselves in a very strange manner. Mr. Winckel has shown himself a coward, and Mr. Van Daalen, after having published the most scandalous articles, defends himself before the Court on the plea that it was not his intention to affront or insult the Governor-General. The journalists of Java do not seem to possess the courage de leur opinion, they don't seek to represent public opinion, but look for success in the publication of personal abuse, and when they are punished ask most humbly for pardon. These remarks are in accordance with the general tone of the press here.

General Van Swieten has again been annoyed by addresses of congratulation. It is, indeed, too bad to trouble the General with such absurdities.

I have to record a phenomenon in literature. An anonymous lady, only sixteen years old, has written a drama in the German language, der Sturz des Hauses Alba, which is pronounced to be excellent by the general voice of our critici.

In the village of Ginneken (North Brabant) a monument has been inaugurated, in the presence of the King, on the spot where the bones are buried of our brave soldiers who defended the citadel of Antwerp.

At the meeting of shareholders in the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, held on the 4th inst., the report and accounts were unanimously adopted, and the dividend declared. There was an average attendance of shareholders, and the discussion which took place was of a character most complimentary to the board. The chairman regretted that the dividend was not more, but thought that the full explanation given in the report already published would be sufficient.

The general meeting of the shareholders in the four telegraph companies amalgamated under the title of the Eastern Telegraph Company (Limited) was held at the Offices in Old Broad-street on the 3rd inst., under the presidency of Mr. John Pender, M.P. Three of the companies were formally completed in their liquidation, but the fourth was not quite completed. The report and accounts of the Anglo-Mediterranean, the British Indian, and the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta were then adopted.

Tenders for £550,000 in bills on India were received on the 2nd inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, £370,500; Bombay, £176,500; and Madras, £3,000. Tenders on all Presidencies at 1s. 10⅛d. will receive about 30 per cent.; above in full. Compared with the last occasion, a reduction of 1 per cent. is apparent in the rate, a result due to the recent relapse in the Eastern exchanges and the large shipment of silver to India on account of the German Government.

The directors of the London Chartered Bank of Australia will recommend a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum for the half-year ending the 30th June last. According to an abstract of the bank's operations, the balance of profit and loss is £40,140 4s., and the amount carried forward £9,104 12s. 9d.

The directors of the National Provincial Bank of England have declared a half-yearly dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and a half-yearly bonus of 7 per cent., being at the rate of 22 per cent. per annum.

The directors of the Bank of British North America announce a half-yearly dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

The Northern Assurance Company announce a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

The liquidators of the Bank of Hindustan, China, and Japan (Limited), Messrs. Allen, Engledue, and Macnair, will be prepared on and after the 8th inst. to pay a further return of 10s. per share upon all the fully paid-up shares of the bank.

There have been large arrivals of Bar Silver, amounting to £222,660, and this, coupled with the rise in the rate of Discount, made the market so flat that a reduction in price to 57⅞d. per oz. had to be submitted to before the total could be placed. The demand for India was not sufficiently active to absorb the whole amount, and a considerable portion was therefore bought for Spain. The West India steamer brought about £200,000 of Mexican Dollars, the market was, however, depressed, owing to the China Exchanges being reported lower, and only a portion of this amount was sold at 56½d. per oz., about two-thirds remaining unsold.

The ordinary half-yearly meeting of the Ceylon Company (Limited) will be held at the offices of the Company, Palmerston-buildings, Old Broad-street, on the 15th instant, for the purpose of declaring an interim dividend.

The Eastern Telegraph Company's traffic receipts for the month of November amounted to £33,060, against £35,096 in the corresponding period of 1873. The traffic receipts of the Eastern Extension, Australasia, and China Telegraph Company (Limited), for the month amounted to £17,728, against £17,454 for the corresponding period of 1873.

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Batavia, Oct. 10, state that the Laurens Coster, Zweede, from Pangool, had lost all her anchors, and was to replace them at Batavia.

A mutiny broke out during the evening of Nov. 23 on board the Nancy Pendleton (Amer. ship), Pendleton, soon after the vessel had left Penarth Dock, for Galle; it is said that several shots were fired by the officers, and one or more of the crew (coloured men) killed.

The Deerhound, Shearer, from London to Shanghai, has put back to the Downs, with loss of an anchor and sixty fathoms chain, and making much water, having been ashore on Greatstone Point at midnight; she was got off at 1 P.M., with the assistance of two steam tugs; is now at anchor, and has engaged twelve extra hands to assist at the pumps, and will probably return to the river as soon as the weather moderates (the above vessel has since been docked).

The Mirzapore (str.), bound to Calcutta, &c., was ashore at 6.20 A.M., Nov. 28, in the lower part of Gravesend Reach; vessel expected off this tide (the above steamer passed Dover Nov. 29).

GLASGOW, Nov. 28.—The stranded dock Sourabaya, which drove ashore at Ardmore Point during the late gale, has now been partially discharged, and Liverpool divers have already succeeded in stopping up some of the holes made in her bottom; should moderate weather continue an attempt is expected to be made next springs to float the vessel.

Advices from Manila, Oct. 15, state that the whole of the cargo of the Avenir (str.), which was seized off Ilo Ilo, has been confiscated and sold, although the vessel herself has been released (she left Manila, Oct. 4, for Macassar).

SINGAPORE, Nov. 30.—The Inverary, from Hong Kong, to Callao, has put in here leaky, having been ashore; she will discharge for survey.

The Amboyna (str.), Vaneck, from Glasgow, to Java, with a general cargo, put in to Falmouth, Dec. 1, with two boats smashed, decks leaky and other damage.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID.—Nov. 26, Gunga (str.), from London, to Singapore and Saigon; Montgomeryshire (str.), from London, to Singapore, China, &c.

At SUEZ.—Nov. 26, County of Sutherland (str.), from Java.

BELFAST.—Dec. 2, the Fewntin (? Terentia), Glasgow to Singapore, is reported to have put in this lough yesterday.

At MAURITIUS.—Oct. 18, Euphrem, from Monte Video, and sailed 30 for Galle.

The following vessels have been posted by the committee of Lloyds' as missing vessels:—Alejandro, Lorondo, which is reported to have sailed from Newport to Hong Kong on the 6th Feb. last, and the Hiawatha, Umness, which is reported to have sailed from Rangoon for Holland on Feb. 15 last.

Off ASCENSION.—Oct. 13, G.P.K.F., from Batavia to Amsterdam.

At ST. HELENA.—Oct. 23, Olivia Davies, Mantle, from Singapore, and sailed, 24, for New York; Nov. 2, Faith, Lloyd, from Whampoa, for London; 5, Golden Spur; 8, Tim Whiffler, Cotter, from Ilo Ilo, for London; 9, Janet Fergusson, Ritchie, from Manila, for Boston; 10, Dunbar Castle, Alston, from Ceylon, for London; 12, Java, Almgreen, from Sourabaya, for Falmouth; 18, Catherine Scott, from Ceylon, and sailed, 19, for New York; 17, Buston Vale, Anderson, and sailed, same day, for London; 14, Lepanto, Staples, from Batavia, and sailed, same day, for Boston; 12, Howden, Ditchburn, from Singapore, and sailed, same day, for Liverpool; 28, Dartmouth, Perrie (in charge, the master (Pizzy) having died at sea), from Shanghai, and sailed, same day, for London.

At SIMON'S BAY.—Catalina, Bengolia, and sailed, Oct. 31, for Batavia.

At ALGOA BAY.—Oct. 24, Gustav Adolphe, Oehlmann, from Hong Kong.

At TABLE BAY.—Canaan, Manson, and sailed, Oct. 25, for Java; Albert, Reid, and sailed, 24, for Galle.

Off ST. HELENA.—Nov. 7, Jessie McDonald, Sievewright, from Macao, and sailed, 8, for London.

The Lotus (str.), arrived at London, from China, &c., reports: Left Malta, Nov. 12, experienced a heavy gale from S.W., with a tremendous sea, and was obliged to ease the engines for six days.

A SCREW STEAMER, named the Groningen, has been launched on the Tyne at Low Walker, being a pioneer vessel for a new service between Rotterdam and Java. The Groningen is a vessel of 3,000 tons, her principal dimensions being—Length over all, 350 feet; beam, 37 feet; depth, 27 feet. The machinery is of the best description, on the compound surface condensing principle, with cylinder 43-in. and 81-in. by 45-in. stroke.

MESSRS. CAIRD AND CO. have launched from their yard at Greenock a screw steamer named the Sindora, of 1,134 tons, for the Netherlands India Steam Navigation Company. She is 255 feet in length, 37, moulded, in breadth, and 17 in depth. She has a partial awning deck, had her engines fitted in when launched, and is classed 100 A at Lloyds'.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Sir SAMUEL BAKER,

In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Fakys that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY,

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

NAGASAKI.

Invalided soldiers from Formosa have arrived in considerable numbers at this port; 600 men came per Madras, and the remains of all that have died on Formosan soil were expected per Delta. The heavy loss is attributed to fatigue, great heat, aud the unfavourable climate they have had to encounter. Fifteen died in the Madras during her passage. This steamer went on to Tientsin on the 14th Oct. Nothing definite seems to be known at this port with reference to the negotiations going on at Peking.

Thievery is still rife in the settlement. From the house of Mr. de Souza a quantity of winter clothing, jewellery, bronze ornaments, and cash were stolen. On the night of the 12th Oct. a native godown was entered by breaking a hole in the wall, and in order to cover their depredation, the burglars set fire to the premises, whereby much damage was done, and an adjacent building had to be pulled down to prevent the flames spreading.

The Austrian corvette Friedrich, from Shanghai, and the German corvette Arcona, from Australian waters via Yokohama and Kobe, had arrived. The former was to leave shortly for Yokohama, and the latter was expected, after coaling, to proceed on to Chefoo.

The Japanese ram Adzuma-kan, three guns, arrived in harbour on the 13th Oct. from Yokohama, having there undergone thorough repairs, and donned a new coat of paint. Her destination is unknown.

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 30th Oct.; the French mail from London Sept. 11 was received on the 26th Oct. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

Two days have been devoted to the Shanghai Rowing Club's Autumn Regatta, which took place on the Soochow Creek, and was in every way a success. So far as they could arrange matters the committee did their best to make the Regatta attractive from a holiday point of view, in addition to its object as examination day in the school of muscular Christianity. The season of training having given place to that of dining, the club put a period to the former, and opened the latter with their customary festive reunion. Between sixty and seventy members and their friends were present, under the presidency of the genial and witty captain of the club, Mr. R. W. Little, who was supported on either hand by the officiating judges at the late regatta, Captain Thomson, R.N., and Mr. I. B. Eames. The dinner-table was tastefully appointed, and the menu set forth an appetising array of viands. When dinner was over, a comprehensive toast list was rapidly got through, the oratory of the oarsmen being both happy and brief; whilst some capital songs, mostly humorous in their character, filled up the intervals between speech-making till midnight, at which time the party broke up.

The last race of the Shanghai Yacht Club for the present season has taken place. It was for the Club Cup, and was a handicap. The course was round a stakeboat in the seven mile reach, and back to the police hulk. Four yachts were entered, but only three came to the buoy—the Lillie, the Wave, and the Fearless. The Nimrod could not muster a crew in accordance with the Club rules, and so did not put in an appearance. She was, however, so heavily handicapped that, had she raced, the chances were at least two to one against her winning. She was to have given the Fearless thirty-five minutes, and the Lillie and Wave fifteen minutes each, the two last named giving the Fearless twenty minutes. They got away at a few minutes past twelve, the Wave being the first to cant from the buoy; but the Lillie, having the windward position, was really first round, though she failed to improve her start upon the Wave, which left the centre buoy, the Fearless slipping from leeward of both. The wind was hardly sufficient to assist either, but the tide was now running up at a fast pace, and speedily carried the yachts out of sight of the starting point, a scud of rain, which shortly afterwards came on, assisting their disappearance most effectually. The first to round the stakeboat was the Wave; 2nd, Lillie; 3rd, Fearless. Approaching the seven-mile reach the Fearless overhauled the two others, and then ensued some nice handling of the craft. From this time the Lillie came to the fore, and won easily. But as the round was not completed within eight hours of starting, there is no race.

A letter from Nanking, in the Shunpao, gives some particulars of the assassination, about three weeks ago, of a military mandarin at Szechow, in Anwhei province. The officer was in command of two camps of about 500 men each. As he was riding out one day, accompanied only by an unarmed servant, he was accosted by a man who held up a gold bracelet to attract his attention. The man begged the officer's acceptance of the trinket, and while the latter was looking at it, suddenly drew a knife and struck at him. The officer warded off the blow with his hand, on which he received a cut. The servant then rushed forward, but the assassin gave him also a cut on the hand, and he fled. The diversion, however, enabled the officer to draw a weapon from his belt, and become the assailant instead of the assailed. The assassin fled, the officer in pursuit, till a bridge, narrow and slippery as Chinese bridges usually are, was reached, where the officer's horse fell. The assassin was immediately upon his victim, stabbed him repeatedly, finally cut his throat, and then escaped, leaving him dead. The servant reported the occurrence to the Chehsien, who held an inquest and informed the higher authorities. The correspondent seems to be unable to throw any light on the motive for the crime, but from what he says, it appears that the servant has been suborned to declare that his master committed suicide in a fit of insanity.

In the absence of other local topics interest is now being concentrated on the races, which begin to-morrow, and upon the probabilities of which several of our correspondents have been exercising their prophetic souls. The broken weather since training began has been unfortunate for sporting men, to whom that time is a season of enjoyment of which the races are the wind-up. We are glad to hear, however, that the races promise to be good, both in point of sport and of attendance, and that one element of pleasure not always obtainable in Shanghai, the presence of a band, has been secured for the meeting.

A few nights since, at about midnight, H.M. gun-vessel Frolic was returning from Ningpo to Shanghai, and when near Gutzlaff the crew were beat to night quarters. During the firing a large steamer was observed hovering around, as if curious to know what the unusual uproar was about, but disinclined to approach too closely. The report of the Frolic's heavy 7-inch gun, chiming in with her final broadside of lighter artillery, appeared to decide the matter, for the stranger put his helm up, and, clapping on steam, was soon lost to view. It seems that when her captain saw the flashes of the Frolic's guns, he was under the impression that an engagement was being fought between a Chinese and Japanese gunboat, and went to see if it were so.

The minutes of meeting of the Consular Body touch on several matters of public interest, notably the Woosung Bar question. Mr. Medhurst's caustic criticism on behalf of the consuls, of the report got up on the burlesque survey gone through by expectant prefect Kao and the magistrate of Paoshan, to which we have more than once referred, will be read with much interest. The latter seems to have had the desired effect of inducing a resurvey, and there is other evidence that the Chinese are not being allowed to sleep on the matter, although it is difficult to awaken them thoroughly to the necessity, and the advantages to China, immediate as well as ultimate, of taking steps to remove the bar. Progress is reported in the matter of sanitary regulations, a new and properly controlled slaughter-house has become possible, and the ill-success of attempts to get indemnified for damages arising out of the French concession riot, the question of proxy voting, and other business was brought up. The meeting saw no reason for interfering with the new examiners' shed at the Custom-house—nor do we see any.

A special meeting of members of the Shanghai Gymnasium has been held, at the Main Guard, to discuss the advisability of having an autumn meeting for athletic sports. The rain prevented a good attendance. Mr. W. E. Stephenson was called to the chair, and, after briefly stating the object of the gathering, said that of course it was a matter of vote, and called for a show of hands, which was given in its favour.—The Chairman next moved that a committee of six should be added to the permanent committee, for the purpose of fixing the date, arranging the programme, and all other necessary business. He suggested that Messrs. Voelkel, Pryer, J. A. Maitland, Groom, Bromley, and Harvie should be the names selected, and they were agreed to without discussion. There was no other business, and the meeting broke up.

The French barque Juthia, Captain Garnier, from Nagasaki, coal laden, reports having encountered severe weather on the 20th, 21st, and 22nd Oct., when about half way between Nagasaki and Shanghai. On the morning of the 20th she had a fresh breeze, which much increased towards noon, and necessitated the carrying of small sails only. At midnight of the 20th the vessel sprung a leak, and when the pumps were sounded at 2 A.M. of the 21st, sixty inches of water were found in the hold. The wind increased from the north, and the vessel shipped heavy seas. All hands were ordered to the pumps, and the vessel's course was altered for Foochow. The water rose to seventy-two inches at 10 A.M. of the 21st, the hull lying very deep in the sea, and the vessel steering badly, while water came pouring in at the scuppers. As it was feared that the ship was sinking, several tons of cargo were thrown overboard, but the endeavours to lessen the depth of water were so far discouraging that it was deemed prudent to provision and get ready the boats, to abandon the ship if necessary. About 4 P.M. the unintermitted working of the pumps was found to have gained on the water in the hold to the extent of four inches, a happy discovery, which raised the spirits of the nearly worn-out crew, and induced them to redouble their effort to still further reduce it. This they succeeded in doing on the morning of the 22nd. Later in the day, the well showed favourable indications, while at the same time the weather moderated. At noon the pumps were nearly dry; the wind changed to the N.E., and the vessel's course was again set for Shanghai. The Saddles were sighted at 4 P.M. on the 22nd, and on the following day a pilot was engaged, as well as three coolies to assist in working the ship—the crew having been exhausted by sixty-four hours' continuous work at the pumps.

The British ship Lucerne, which left Shanghai for Newchwang, struck on the Ariadul Rock, and has been stranded near the south bank of the Yangtsze to prevent her sinking. She has five to six feet of water over her at high tide. A large junk has been sunk on the right bank of the river, about half way between Tatung and the upper end of Williamette Cut, at about a ship's length from the shore.

We hear that the Quanglong property (lately occupied by Messrs. Smith, Archer, and Co.) has been sold to Chinese capitalists for Tls. 50,000. It is with no little regret we have to add that we understand it to be the intention of the purchasers to remove the existing buildings, and to cover over the fine compound in which they stand with Chinese houses.

Miss Carry George's Dramatic Company continue to give performances, at the Lyceum, with fair success. There was a very large audience present at Miss George's benefit, every part of the house being well filled. The performance was under the patronage of Admiral Sir Charles Shadwell, K.C.B., and the members of the Amateur Dramatic Club.

The United States frigate Hartford has arrived from Nagasaki, and will probably stay here for several months.

The following items of intelligence are taken from the Budget and News Letter:—

A meeting of the officers of the S. V. C. has been held at the Club, at the instance of the Defence Committee of the Municipal Council. The officers were asked to discuss the advisability, or the contrary, of exchanging the present Artillery howitzers for Gatling ordnance, that the Council might have the assistance of their collective opinion on the subject. Some conversation elicited the important fact that many of the officers had not had any opportunity, or at all events any adequate opportunity, of examining a Gatling gun; and they were not therefore in a position to say whether that style of weapon would be a desirable exchange for their present heavy howitzers. That some more portable artillery than the latter was desirable was generally agreed. It was eventually decided that officers should take an opportunity of familiarising themselves with a Gatling gun on board the U.S.S. Monocacy, at present in harbour; after which another meeting will be held, to come to some decision on the subject.

Besides the routine business disposed of at the meeting of the Municipal Council on the 19th October, we observe that a letter from Admiral Sir C. Shadwell was read, acceding to the request of the Council that they might be allowed to purchase 8,000 rounds of Snider-ball cartridge, which will accordingly be furnished by the Iron Duke. It was also agreed at the meeting to accept the terms proposed by Mr. E. M. Smith relative to the conditions under which the Council might proceed to make the road from Kiangse to Honan-road through his property. The new road is only to cost Tls. 300, which we hope is not erring on the side of economy. It will be twenty-three feet wide.

On the 26th Oct. the tide, assisted by a brisk N.E. breeze, rose to a height that we have not seen equalled for a considerable time. The two arches of the Garden-bridge springing from the abutments at either end were filled with water, a part of the river-side gravel walk on the N.E. front of the public gardens was submerged, and for a short time, at the very top of the tide, the pontoons at the ends of the jetties on the Bund floated higher than the jetties.

The steamer Braemar Castle has been released from her somewhat unpleasant position on the bank near that great enemy of Shanghai, the Woosung bar, having anchored below the shipping on the 26th Oct. A large portion of her cargo had to be discharged into lighters to effect her release. She has just completed her discharge of cargo at the Hongkew Wharf.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 5th Nov.; no later mail from London had been received. The following items of news are from the Hong Kong Daily Press:—

The provincial authorities at Foochow are making strenuous exertions to put their miserable forces into something like naval and military shape, but until they can instil a smattering of warlike ardour into the long-robed gentlemen in command, the handful of Japanese in Formosa need not, we think, feel at all apprehensive of defeat. A proclamation has been issued by General Lin—in command of the naval and military forces on the coast of Fuhkien—which, while most properly dealing severely with the crimes of petty officers and men, seemingly ignores the gambling, opium smoking, and squeezing practices to which the officers commanding are frequently addicted.

H.M.S. Victor Emmanuel, the new Commodore's flagship, which sailed from Plymouth on the 5th July, arrived on the 4th Nov. She brings, among other officers, Commander Hon. E. S. Dawson, to join the Thistle; Commander Robert H. Harris, for the Elk; Lieut. E. P. Hocker, for the Avon; Lieut. A. H. O. P. Lowe, for the Thistle; Lieut. C. H. Herring, for the Curlew; and Lieut. Aston E. H. M'Murdo, for the Dwarf. By an arrangement no salutes were fired, and for the sake of peace and quietness it would be very satisfactory if the arrangement were adopted as a general rule.

In honour of the birthday of the King of Portugal the amateurs of the Club Lusitano have given a very excellent dramatic entertainment. The Portuguese national anthem was played on the opening of the performance. The piece of the evening was A Morgandinha de Val Flor, or the heiress of Val Flor, a drama in five acts, which was admirably acted throughout. The chief character was sustained by Dr. Magalhaes, who showed himself to be a most talented actor in addition to his other well known accomplishments. Between the acts some excellent pianoforte pieces and songs were given. The house was crowded, and among the audience were a large number of the general community who had been courteously invited by the amateurs.

We are informed that the Foochow Race Club propose to have a meeting early in January. It is understood that the Amoy residents will enter more than the usual number of ponies, their own meeting being impossible in consequence of their course being required by the Chinese Government for military purposes.

A robbery has been committed at the house of Mr. Algar, house agent, &c., in Hollywood-road. The thieves made off with two watches and some loose cash, which had been left in an open desk.

We understand that Mr. Wright, the present Commissioner of Customs at Foochow, has been promoted to a higher post, and that Mr. James H. Hart will succeed as Commissioner.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 12th November; the French mail from London Oct. 9 arrived out on the 9th November. We take the following items of intelligence from the Straits Times:—

The defects in our quarantine regulations have been most lamentably illustrated in the case of the steamer Milton. The Milton anchored in our roads on the 30th Oct., with between 1,200 and 1,300 Chinese passengers from Swatow on board. That port was, so far as we can learn, healthy at the time of the vessel's departure, and no case of sickness occurred on board during the voyage. Part of the passengers were to land at Singapore, and the rest to be taken on in the vessel to Penang. Everything went on well, and the landing of the passengers was proceeded with until some 500 had got ashore. Those still on board, numbering upwards of 700, glad of any change in diet after their voyage, bought and ate freely of the fruit offered for sale in the boats which crowded round the vessel, and purchased water for their own use from the Chinese sampan water-boats, which possibly impure in the first instance, and afterwards mixed with the sea-water which unavoidably washes into the water boats on their way to the vessel, speedily began to affect their health, and seven or eight of them died from an attack of disease pronounced by the Principal Medical Officer to be cholera. We understand there was a difference of opinion among medical men as to the nature of the disease, some of them considering it merely choleraic diarrhœa, but the Principal Medical Officer maintained that the disease was unmistakably Asiatic cholera, and at once ordered the vessel, with all the remaining 700 passengers on board, into quarantine, where she has now remained for more than a week.

The propriety of such a proceeding is certainly open to grave doubt, the more so when we know its fatal results, and it may be gravely questioned whether it has been wise to entrust any such momentous discretionary power, involving the loss of so many lives, to the unsupported opinion of a single medical officer. The ship, as ordered, went outside the harbour limits to the quarantine anchorage, and there disease has been developing among the luckless passengers who have been needlessly exposed to the danger of infection. Day after day disease and confinement have been doing their work, and one after another has sickened, died, and been buried on the island opposite, until we learn that there have been no less than fifty deaths, and that twenty more are lying helplessly ill, some evidently past recovery. The agents of the vessel, in order to relieve her from further detention, and with a desire to render a service to the passengers, have themselves undertaken the expense of constructing sheds for the accommodation of the coolies. This, however, involved considerable delay, although pushed forward with all haste. There was still, however, no provision for the sick; no hospital in which to place them, and no one to attend to them on shore; and these, some twenty in number, were retained on board the ship, where some of them died. Those who are landed on the island have at last, by private energy and determination, been removed from the deadly influence to which they were so long needlessly exposed, and in a healthy and well-chosen location on a hill-side, with plenty of good water, will probably soon be restored to perfect health.

A theatrical performance has been given at Government-house by the officers of H.M.S. Charybdis. A capital stage had been prepared at one end of the ball-room, and looked quite business-like with its foot lights, curtain, and other theatrical appendages. The piece selected was Mr. F. G. Williams's original farce entitled "My Turn Next." Where all did the best—and did that best right well—it would be invidious to draw comparisons between the various actors or actresses, who each and all showed by their performance the painstaking labour that had been bestowed on the rehearsals. Suffice it to say that no hitch occurred from the commencement to the end of the piece, that the interest taken by the audience was unflagging throughout, and that the curtain fell at length amidst rounds of well-deserved applause. The theatrical performance concluded, dancing commenced in the ball-room, and was continued with animation till past midnight.

We recently called attention to a number of counterfeit dollars of the new Mexican coinage, which had been put in circulation here. Last week a Malay went into a shop in the Rochore district, and bought a hat, for which he paid a new Japan dollar. After he had left the shopkeeper detected that the dollar was a counterfeit, very fairly executed, but of very base metal. He kept quiet, however, and in the afternoon another Malay came in to buy a pair of shoes, for which he tendered another Japan dollar of the same description. This man was given in charge. Subsequently a Kling money-changer went to a Chinaman's shop, where he had been in the habit of purchasing quantities of coppers, and asked for ten dollars' worth of small change, for which he paid in dollars, five of which were counterfeit. The counterfeits were of the old Mexican coinage but of new appearance—were very neatly coined, had a clear though slightly sharp ring, and were of full weight. The money-changer was arrested by Inspector Richardson, and both he and the Malay who passed the Japan dollar were brought before the Police Magistrate, who committed them for trial at the next Session. One of the counterfeit Mexican dollars was afterwards chopped in two, and the metal was found to bear a very close resemblance to silver.

A few days since Mr. Lim Seng Chye, a Chinese trader residing, in Kling-street, on awaking discovered his iron money chest standing open, and knowing that he had locked it the previous night, made immediate examination. He found it had been opened by means of its proper key, which he kept in an almeirah close by, and calling his servants, found that a young Hokien, some twenty years old, who had only been some three weeks in his employ, as a clerk, was missing. There had been taken from the box five $100 notes, one $20, two $10, and ten $5 notes, and some $30 in old coin; some watches and jewelry kept in the box were left untouched. None of the doors were open, but there were marks of feet on the window sill, from which it was evident the thief had escaped by jumping out of the window. The numbers of the notes will be ascertained, and may afford a clue to the detection of the thief.

Lieutenant-General de Raasloff, accompanied by his military secretary and aide-de-camp, arrived here in the Messageries Maritimes steamer. The Governor sent a carriage to meet the General, who, accompanied by his staff, drove to Government House, where they will stay until the departure of the mail for

Hong Kong. General de Raasloff is proceeding to China as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary for Denmark, and is entrusted with a special mission. Mrs. Seward, wife of the United States Consul-General at Shanghai, arrived by the same steamer, and is also partaking of the hospitality of Government House.

The Sarawak Gazette has the following items :—

The Sarawak steamer Royalist, Capt. Kirk, arrived from Brunei and Labuan on Oct. 22. Passengers, his Lordship the Bishop of the diocese, the Hon. J. B. Cruickshank, the Resident of Sadong, the Resident of Muka, the Datu Bandar of Kuching, Mr. W. Sinclair, Haji Usop of Sibu and the Malay writer. The steamer left for Singapore on the 26th ult. Passenger, Mr. R. B. Goodenough.

A Correspondent writes :—Two years have passed since my last visit to Labuan, and I did not expect to find much change, as events in this part of the world do not move on at railroad speed ; still I must say in some things Labuan has been much improved. The new coal wharf, a thoroughly well built and substantial work, reflects great credit on the gentleman who planned it, and who superintended the building. Steamers now can come alongside at any tide, and be loaded in a few hours ; a good stock of coal was on the beach but not covered in, a squall having carried away the sheds. Government house was looking its best, the grounds being in capital order, showing a great contrast to what it appeared a few years ago ; the roads and bridges were in fair order, and very substantial stone drains were being made near the prison.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

Yokohama.—Rather less demand had been apparent for most goods. In Cotton Yarn medium qualities were difficult of sale, but best spinnings of Nos. 28 to 32 commanded higher rates. Shirtings were without much animation, and for T-Cloths there was less inquiry. The stock of Cotton Sateens was exhausted, and rates were firmer, but Velvets were hardly so easily saleable. In Woollens, an improvement in Crape Mousselines and Blankets and more inquiry for Black Presidents were the only changes to note. The market for Metals had been extremely quiet during the fortnight, and no transactions in Nail rods were reported. In Bar Iron a few sales had been made of sizes that dealers just happened to want.

Shanghai.—The expectations engendered by the activity prevalent during the fortnight terminating on 21st Oct. had been dispelled, or at least shaken. Before the last English mail had closed almost every evidence of the previous excitement had disappeared, and the quietness then manifest had since reigned supreme. A moderate inquiry had existed for the better classes of 8¼-lbs. Grey Shirtings, for common 7-lbs., for ordinary 64 Reed White Shirtings, and the like grades of 15-lbs. English Drills, as also for Velvets, but the entire business has fallen far short of what it ought to be at the season. In Lead a large speculative business had been done, and under its influence prices had risen considerably. Tls. 6.00 per picul had been touched for L.B. on time, but the dealers get their small requirement supplied to the full at quotations.

Foochow.—Sales are reported of 500 pieces 8¼lb. Grey Shirtings at $2.72½ per piece, and 500 pieces 7lb. Mexican T-Cloths at $2.12½ per piece. Lead was quoted $8.25 per picul.

Manila.—Plain staples had been freely offered by importers, and the tendency of the market during the fortnight had been in favour of buyers. Suitable styles of Coloured goods were in fair demand, and prices were somewhat firmer.

Saigon.—Market very dull ; scarcely any business had been effected. Stocks were very large.

Batavia.—Messrs. Houghton and Co. report no change in the import market, the demand for the native New Year having been supplied, so that no change was looked for for some time to come.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

Yokohama.—Settlements continued much on the same scale as last reported, business for the fortnight amounting to 6,000 piculs, the bulk of which comprised the better grades ; prices had been well supported, and the market closed firm. This season's settlements for Yokohama alone amounted to date to the large total of piculs 100,000, or an equivalent of fully 12,000,000 lbs. of fired tea. The P. M. S. China, despatched on the 14th Oct., carried from this port, 313,997 lbs. for New York, 202,074 lbs. for San Francisco, 18,327 lbs. for Boston, and 7,300 lbs. for Montreal. The barque Jessica, loading at Hiogo for New York, would complete her cargo here, and was engaged full. Quotations :—Common, $27 to 29 per picul ; good common, $31 to 34 ; medium, $35 to 38 ; good medium, $39 to 41 ; fine, $43 to 46 ; Finest, $48 to 51 ; Export from 1st May to date ; to New York, 7,795,189 ; San Francisco, 2,325,015 ; Boston, Chicago, &c., 662,567 ; total 10,782,771 lbs.

Shanghai.—There had been a quiet market during the week. There was no change in values to note, but fine Greens were firm. Settlements :—Black, 3,307 chests at Tls. 15 to 22 ; stock, 3,800 chests. Green : Fychow and Moyune, 14,416 half-chests at Tls. 24 to 40 ; Pingsueys, 444 half-chests, at Tls. 23 ; stock, 79,200 half-chests. Export to date, as compared with that of last season (exclusive of lost cargoes) :—

Black	61,152,024 lbs.	against	53,507,970 lbs.
Green	5,496,540 „	„	6,742,979 „
	66,648,564		60,250,949

Foochow.—A large business had been done on this market during the week. A great proportion of the settlements, however, had been made for the Continent. Buying for the colonies had been on a limited scale. Congou : Settlements, 23,900 chests at Tls. 5 to 21, and a small lot of boxes at Tls. 22 to 23. The lower grades had been commanding full rates, but the demand had been chiefly for flavoury kinds, which showed an advance of half a tael. Arrivals, 9,700. Souchong : Settlements, 1,500 chests at Tls. 15 to 25½. Arrivals, nil. Oolong : Settlements, 330 half-chests at Tls. 18 to 27. Stock, 48,470 half-chests. Arrivals, 3,000 half-chests. Scented Teas : Settlements, 2,300 boxes at Tls. 12 to 20, showing no change. Arrivals, 2,300 boxes. Flowery Pekoe : No business reported. Arrivals, nil. Exports to Great Britain, the Continent of Europe, and the Cape of Good Hope, 47,187,190 lbs., against 41,816,263 lbs. at same time last year. To America, 864,675 lbs., against 757,800 lbs. To the Colonies, 10,971,088 lbs., against 11,256,655 lbs. last year.

SILK.

Yokohama.—For some time after date of last report the market was quiet, the high rates attained having apparently checked buyers. Towards the close however one house had taken several hundred bales, ank dealers were demanding another $10 to $20 higher. The purchases of the fortnight were estimated at 1,200 bales, but probably only a portion of them would be settled in time for this mail. Meantime there was very little stock on the market. Settlements since last report, 900 bales. Settlements, from 1st July to date, 4,800 bales ; against corresponding period—season 1873-4, 5,680 bales ; ditto, 1872-3, 7,140 bales ; ditto, 1871-2, 6,340 bales ; stock, 300 bales. Silkworms' Eggs : Total arrivals at this port, since the beginning of the season, were 1,550,000 cards, and there was a stock of about 150,000 in Yedo. The native dealers had publicly destroyed by fire nearly 500,000 cards, and intended burning more. After an interruption of ten days, business was resumed, when holders were found to be willing sellers at from $0.40 to $0.60 for annual green and white ; so far the wilful destruction of stock had not produced much effect on prices. Total settlements were estimated at 600,000 cards, against 700,000 last year at the same date.

Shanghai.—The receipt of telegrams advising a quieter market in London, and the firmness evinced by Chinese to hold their silks for full rates had checked business, and settlements since departure of English mail had not exceeded 1,000 bales (inclusive of 300 bales, chiefly re-reels, purchased for America), making total settlements to date, 52,500 bales. The settlements consisted of the common kinds of Tsatlees at Tls. 270 to 310 per picul ; Hangchow Tsatlees Tls. 250 to 295 per picul ; coarse Taysaams, Tls. 230 to 250 per picul ; Sewings (Long Reel Taysaams), Tls. 230 to 280 per picul, and inferior Laeyangs (Skeins) at Tls. 215 to 225 per picul. It is reported that Blue Elephants had been settled at Tls. 347½ per picul, Beautiful Woman, No. 2, at Tls. 360 per picul, and Pagoda, No. 2, at Tls. 357½ per picul ; the latter, however, is said to have been rejected on inspection. At the close of the mail Chinese were eager to sell, but refused to accept the decline in quotations that the excessive export, increased stock, and inferiority of the Silk warranted. The unsold stock also is about 12,000 bales. The North China Herald says :—The excessive export direct to the Continent, and the pernicious sales to arrive, can have but one result—depressing the London market ; and purchasers here would have done well to have more carefully considered these very important points ere paying the late excessive prices, which can only result in a serious loss. The fictitious profits supposed to have been made on sales to arrive have yet to be secured, and it remains to be seen whether these shipments, arriving in all probability on a dull market, are accepted on Shanghai classification. Experience of previous years, taken on the whole, gives little hope of satisfaction to the seller.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

Japan—Nipon, South Coast.—Sunken Rock off Oo-sima.—The following information has been received from Captain St. John, R.N., commanding H.M.'s surveying vessel Sylvia, relative to the Kami-Seh rock, lying off Oo-sima, south coast of Nipon, and heretofore reported as having 4½ fathoms on it, viz.: The rock lies N.E. ¼ E. distant 1 9-10 miles from Oo-sima lighthouse, and has 16 feet on it at low-water springs, with 17 and 19 fathoms close to. Note: Itsimo-sima just touching Omi-saki rock, bearing W. ⅛ N., leads well south of the Kami-Seh rock.

China, East Coast—River Han.—Sunken Rock in Port of Swatow.—Information has been received from Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Shadwell of the existence of a sunken rock lying off Kakchio, port of Swatow, and recently been examined by Commander Cameron, H.M.S. Hornet. This rock (Madras rock) has eight feet water on it at low water springs, and lies with—Bottefurh rock bearing E. by N.; English Consulate flag-staff, S.E. by E. ⅛ E.; extreme of Western Pier, S.E. by S., distant 1⅛ cables.—Hydrographic-office, Admiralty, 1874.

THE MAILS.

PRESENT INWARD MAIL.—MARSEILLES, DEC. 9.—The Messageries Maritimes Company's steamer Iraouaddy, with the inward French mails, from China and Japan, arrived here to-day at 1 A.M. She brings 112 passengers and a general cargo, including 1,104 bales of silk, 33,350 packages of tea, and 748 packages of sundries for London, which part of her cargo will be forwarded to its destination per company's steamer Indus, due in London on or about the 22nd of December.

NEXT INWARD MAIL.—SUEZ, DEC. 12.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Australia arrived here at 1 P.M. yesterday, and the Teheran at 9 A.M. to-day, from Calcutta and Bombay respectively, with the homeward India, China, and Australian mail.—ALEXANDRIA, DEC. 13.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Malta, with the homeward India, China, and Australian mail, left at 10 A.M. for Brindisi, where she may be expected on the 16th inst.

HEAVY PORTION OF LAST OUTWARD MAIL.—GIBRALTAR, DEC. 8.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Mirzapore (from Southampton 3rd inst.), arrived at 7.0 and left at 11.0 A.M. for Port Said. Experienced fine weather. All well.

SHIPPING POSTSCRIPT.

ARRIVALS NOT IN THE TABLES.—Dec. 10, at Liverpool, from Rangoon, Mandalay (str.); 11, at London, from Colombo, &c., Burmese (str.); 13, from Foochow, Forward Ho; 10, off Dungeness, from Batavia, Rotterdam; 11, Koning der Nederlanden (str.); at Falmouth, from Bassein, Hannibal; at New York, from Ilo Ilo, Helena.

DEPARTURES.—From Cronstadt, for River Amoor, Nicoline; Dec. 10, from Cardiff, for Singapore, Glencora; for Batavia, Sapphire; for Yokohama, Thornaby (str.), Victoria; 8, from Maasluis, for Java, Harrington (str.); Nov. 9, from Portland O., for Hong Kong, Elizabeth Dougall; 26, from New York, for Yokohama, Jas. Conoile; Dec. 11, from London, for Penang, Singapore and China, Ben Ledi (str.); for Chefoo, Tientsin, and Newchwang, Ousuri; Nov. 27, from Boston, for Batavia, W. Pendleton; Dec. 13, from Falmouth, for Batavia, Robertus Hendrikus (after repairing); 12, from London, for Colombo, &c., Colombo (str.).

STEAMER PASSED THE SUEZ CANAL.—Previous to Dec. 10, Fleurs Castle (str.), from London, to Singapore and China.

SPOKEN.—Stranger, for Batavia, Oct. 14, 40 N., 13 W.; W. Fermeza, from Singapore, Sept. 11, 29 S., 4 E.; Sophia, Cardiff to Galle, Oct. 27.; Tennessee, Java to Rotterdam, Sept. 21, off the Cape; Waterloo, Batavia to Amsterdam, Oct. 31, 29 S., 59 E.; California, Cardiff to Galle, Oct. 19, 39 S., 27 E.'; Mystic Belle, New York to Java, Oct. 23, 40 S., 21 E.; Alhambra, Manila to New York, Oct. 11, 28 S. 58 E.; Monarch, Cardiff to Galle, Sept. 10, 24 S., 35 W.; 7408, (Maryat's code), showing No. 3 under P., Amsterdam to Batavia, Nov. 2, 5. N., 24 W.

CASUALTIES.—Portsmouth, Dec. 10.—The State of Virginia (str.), Moodie, from London, to Singapore and China, has put into Spithead, with condensing pipes out of order. Batavia, Dec. 10.—The Radama, from Hong Kong, to Callao, has put in here leaky, having been ashore in Gaspar Straits. Foochow, Oct. 27.—The Atalanta (str.), Petersen, of Hamburg, Hong Kong, to Shanghai, was towed in here yesterday, with damage to machinery. The whole of the damage will be repaired while the vessel lies afloat; she will not have to discharge. Shanghai Oct. 29.—The Lulu, Spencer, which arrived, 25, from Keelung, had encountered a typhoon, during which she lost foretopmast and had sails blown away and split. The Braemar Castle (str.), Marshall, arrived here from London, grounded on the south bank inside the bar, 25, but floated off next day; ten lighters were sent down from this port to her while aground, but only two were made use of. We learn by telegram from Hong Kong that the steamer Mongol, belonging to the London, China, and New York Steamship Company, went down off the Nine Pin, fifteen hands lost; she left Hong Kong on the 11th inst. for Yokohama. The Burmese (str.), jettisoned 287 casks and barrels coffee and ten or twelve tons coir. The Glenisla, Watts, London to Penang, lost an anchor and sixty fathoms chain in the Downs during the gale Dec. 10; they are being replaced. Advices from Mauritius, Nov. 13, report that the Prinses Amalie, Timmermann, from Amsterdam to Batavia, put in there Oct. 7, with damage, has been trimmed by the stern to repair the leak in her bow—cargo uninjured.—Rotterdam, Dec. 11.—A telegram from the master of the Maasluis, arrived at Atchin from Newcastle, states that the coals heated very much on the voyage; and that a portion of them had to be thrown overboard. Plymouth, Dec. 13.—The Min (str.), from London to Yokohama, &c., arrived here, had cabin flooded, and received other damage. The outward P. and O. steamer Lombardy, from Southampton, with the heavy Bombay mails, had to put into Plymouth on 10th, through stress of weather, and has returned to Southampton to repair damages.

MISCELLANEOUS.—At Port Said, Dec. 10, Prinses Amalia (str.), from Texel, to Batavia; at Mauritius, Oct. 20, Sea Ripple, Wash, from Singapore; Octoire, Butal, and sailed 16 for Anjer; Iside, Ferreto, G. A. Wurren, Ellis, and sailed 21 for Batavia; Adeline, Cox, and sailed 22 for Colombo; Pandita, Courtois, Alfred Gronow, and sailed Nov. 2, for Galle; Meridien, Bernard, and sailed 6 for Galle; Lord of the Isles, Petrie, and sailed 12 for Anjer; Silver Stream, Webber, and sailed 13 for Java; Ophie, Custer, and sailed 13 for Anjer; Liguria (str.), Gandolfo, from Java, and sailed Oct. 31 for Falmouth, after repairing. At Reunion, Chateaubriand, Herbert, and sailed Nov. 6 for Saigon. At Port Said, Dec. 11, Cheops (str.), Duke of Lancaster (str.), from London to Colombo, &c.

THE City of Tokio is again back at New York, having performed a satisfactory trip to Aspinwall. The steaming time was less than eight days each way.

Mr. Prynn, acting foreman at Chatham Dockyard, has been selected to proceed to Hong Kong as foreman in charge of that yard. There were volunteers from all the yards for the appointment. The salary is £450 a-year, and the appointment is a new one.

Colonel R. H. Bolton, Madras Staff Corps, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, has been appointed an Assistant Quartermaster-General of the Madras Army, vice Lieutenant-Colonel F. Dawson, and is succeeded as Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General by Major N. Swanston, Madras Staff Corps. Major Swanston commanded K Company Sappers and Miners in the North China Expedition in 1860, and was present at the actions of Sinho and Tangku, the capture of the Taku Forts, and at Peking from October 6 to 26 (medal with two clasps).

The officers and ship's company of H.M.S. Cadmus, recently paid off at Devonport, have solicited permission from the Admiralty to be allowed to place a tablet in the dockyard chapel at that port, as a memorial of esteem for their shipmates who died during the ship's commission in China. It will be remembered that the officers and ship's company of the Hart received permission from their lordships to erect a similar memento of kindly feeling and respect.

We have to announce the death of Staff-Surgeon W. T. Wilson, late of H.M.S. Iron Duke. This officer was at the Admiralty last week, apparently in the enjoyment of excellent health, applying for employment, and died within a few days afterwards of a sudden and painful attack of illness, brought on by the severity of the weather, which has been very trying to old Indians.

Captain Alexander Buller (1869) is appointed to the command of the Modeste on the China Station. Capt. Thomson, now of the Modeste, is transferred to the Challenger, in the place of Capt. Nares, who is ordered home to take command of the new Polar Expedition.

Her Majesty's ship Lapwing, Commander Sir W. Wiseman, Bart., on her way to join the China command, was at Suez on the 16th ult., and was to leave the same day for her station.

COURT OF EXCHEQUER.

BROWN V. HOLT.

This was an action brought to recover compensation in damages for severe personal injuries the plaintiff received when a consular passenger from Hong Kong to England on board the defendant's ship Priam. The plaintiff had to sleep in the fore-hatch with two other seamen, who were also consular passengers. When in the tropics a section of the hatch was rigged up in order that more air might find its way down the fore-hatch, and the plaintiff alleged that the defendant's seamen in lowering a jib did it so negligently that the block struck the erection and sent the section edgeways down the fore-hatch upon his head, fracturing his skull and otherwise severely injuring him. The defence in substance was, first, that the erection had been put up contrary to the captain's orders; secondly, that the fore-hatch was a fit and proper place for the plaintiff to sleep in within the 212th section of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1868; and, thirdly, that the plaintiff had been guilty of contributory negligence. This was the second trial. On the first occasion the action was tried in February last, when a special jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff with about £250 damages, leave having been then given to the defendants' counsel to move for a new trial. The result was the setting aside of that verdict and the present renewal of these proceedings.

The jury after an absence of about one hour returned a verdict for the plaintiff—damages, £475. The counsel for the defendant tendered a bill of exceptions to the learned judge's summing up.

UNITED STATES.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has begun an action against the Union Pacific Railroad Company. The two companies made a stipulation that one should not adopt a rate of freight below the other, and that the Union Pacific should send so much freight a month over the Pacific Mail, whose ships were to be in readiness to take it. The Pacific Mail allege that they have abided by their agreement, but that the Union Pacific has failed to fulfil its part of the contract. There was a clause providing that each should be entitled to dissolve the contract on thirty days' notice. The Pacific Mail gave the notice, and the Union Pacific refused to come to an accounting, although it is alleged they were debtors to the former company; hence the suit.

An official notification states that in accordance with a notice received from the Post Office Department of Great Britain the postage on newspapers mailed in the United States and addressed for transmission via Southampton to the East Indies, Hong Kong, China, Japan, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, and Labuan, has been reduced from six to four cents for each newspaper, if not exceeding four ounces in weight, a further rate of four cents being chargeable for every additional four ounces or fraction of four ounces.

THE CONSULAR REPORTS ON THE TRADE OF CHINA.

A Blue-book has been issued from the Foreign-office, containing the reports from Her Majesty's Consuls at Tientsin, Chefoo, Newchwang, Hankow, Kiukiang, Ningpo, Foochow, Amoy, Swatow, and Canton on the trade of those ports during the year 1873. Shanghai and Chinkiang are not given. The following is a summary of the reports:—

TIENTSIN.

Mr. Consul Mongan estimates the total value of the trade in imports, exports, and re-exports at Tls. 21,868,135, equal to about £6,560,440 10s. The imports of foreign origin are returned of the value of Tls. 8,885,021, while the net value of the trade of the port, ascertained by deducting the re-exports, is set down at Tls. 17,203,533. The total for 1872 was Tls. 16,999,448; the figures for 1873 therefore show an increase of Tls. 204,105, or £61,231 10s. The increased value of the imports last year are to be placed to the credit of the native goods and produce, while the foreign imports on the other hand fell from Tls. 10,444,756 in 1872 to Tls. 9,768,679; this decrease in value having been caused chiefly by a greatly diminished importation of T-cloths. Referring to this diminution Mr. Mongan writes:—

The chief cause of the falling off in T-cloths in 1873 was, most probably, an excessive importation of this staple in 1871 and 1872, it having been imported last year more largely even than grey shirtings. In other respects the figures given in the above table indicate a healthy condition of the piece goods trade. But, if goods that are sold by weight continue to be over-sized by the manufacturers in England for the purpose of increasing that weight, disastrous results to our import trade with China may be anticipated at no distant date, and already, indeed, Chinese merchants are deterred from entering the market in consequence of this fraudulent practice. A correspondent of the North China Herald, for instance, writing lately from Peking, of Manchester goods at the capital, says:—"The storekeepers here are afraid of buying the trash which rots in their shops. In a short time there will be no sale here at all for British cottons. The hotel-keeper showed me sheets of washed grey shirtings which he said had lost half weight, and they certainly were most miserable flimsy rags, which tore at a pull." The values of the woollen and miscellaneous imports in 1873, taken together, are in advance of the corresponding values in 1872, and the woollen goods especially show a decided upward tendency. Of these the fabrics most in demand were lustres and Orleans, then lastings, Spanish stripes, and camlets.

The year 1873 was a bad one for the importers of opium, though the value of the actual quantity of drug imported exceeded that of the previous year. Prices were, on the whole, unfavourable, and when the last steamer left in December, the estimated stock of Malwa on hand was 1,300 chests, whilst only 13 chests of Persian had found buyers (at about 300 taels per chest of 100 catties) out of the small quantity of 37 chests imported during the year, the drug being of very inferior quality. The quantity of Bengal opium (Patna and Benares) brought annually to the Tientsin market is comparatively small. Its net value last year was only 93,111 taels, whilst that of Malwa was 2,197,485 taels. Patna sold throughout the year at an average of 453 taels, and Benares at one of 446 taels per chest of 120 catties, indicating the small demand which existed for both these kinds of opium.

Less treasure was imported, but a good deal more was exported, in 1873 than in 1872. The number of British subjects and other foreign residents at Tientsin and Taku was 151.

CHEFOO.

Mr. Acting Consul Cooper's report gives the total estimated value of merchandise exported in foreign vessels in 1873 at £681,612. The re-exports amount to £93,880, making a total movement of merchandise to the amount of over £2,450,000. Treasure to the amount of £813,742 was likewise exported. He remarks the features of foreign trade during the year 1873 have varied but little compared with the three previous years. A falling off in foreign imports is discernible, and is attributable to the following causes: the plentiful harvest in this, the mountainous half of Shantung, which in ordinary years does not produce sufficient cereals for the support of its inhabitants, has hindered the arrival of the usual grain junks, of whose return cargo foreign imports formed a considerable item; and, secondly, the increased cost of foreign goods shown chiefly in the items of coarse cottons and bar iron, which a very small increase of price induces the natives to manufacture in such quantities as to prevent the sale of the imported articles. Nail rod continues to do well, 3.75 taels (about 22s.) being obtainable for the best marks. It is much used for shoeing beasts of burden, and no native iron of an equal quality can compete with it in price. The heavy deductions that have still to be made on many sales of shirtings and other Manchester goods on account of damage arising from mildew affect injuriously their import. Over 6,000 tons of coal have been imported during the year.

Mr. Cooper says:—

With the exception of coal and iron, the mineral resources of the province are still untouched. The authorities and people both seem well aware of the hidden wealth of their hills. The lower orders at times complain that they have to starve while, if a mine were allowed to be opened, a demand for labour would at once arise, and food become easily attainable. The governing class may be tempted to obtain funds to enable them to establish an arsenal by taking off the interdict, but the thought that by so doing they will accelerate an influx of foreigners among them is more than sufficient to overcome their inclination, so universal is the belief and so convinced are they that all revolution of the existing state of things or material progress will bring on them endless trouble and disaster.

NEWCHWANG.

Mr. Acting Consul Harvey reports that although the total trade of the port is less than it was in 1872, the net value of foreign goods imported exceeds that of the previous year by the sum of 141,161 taels. It is also to be noted that the ground gained in 1872 on the general trade has not been entirely lost, as the total value of the trade for 1873 is 629,351 taels above that of 1871. Such being the case, there need be no discouragement in the fact that last year shows a decrease of 598,284 taels, as compared with 1872. The decrease is solely in the amount of Chinese produce imported or exported in foreign vessels, which only affects British interests by slightly reducing the amount of the carrying trade, whilst an increase has taken place in that factor of the trade—the importation of foreign goods—which alone directly concerns Imperial interests, or is of other than purely local importance. In imports there is an increase of nearly 300 piculs of opium, and a marked increase in all cotton piece goods except T-cloths. The enormous importation of this latter article in 1872—out of all proportion to previous arrivals—produced the impression that the market must be overstocked, and caution was exercised accordingly. It was found, however, that the demand was sufficient to carry off the whole of the new stock, and that a much larger quantity could have been disposed of if to hand. Other cotton goods show an increase of over 50,000 pieces compared with 1872, that in drills being the most remarkable. In consequence of the adulteration now practised of the materials with which cottons are made up at home, it is right to note in this place that foreign sellers are often compelled to make allowance on the price contracted for, and that buyers are much more suspicious than they used to be.

Upon the subject of coal Mr. Harvey remarks :—

It is to be regretted that the export duty on native coal, evidently meant to be prohibitive, should be so high as 0·672 taels per ton, against 0·050 taels per ton on the import of foreign coal. This difference is just sufficient to prevent its entering into competition with Japanese and Australian coal in the southern market. I am glad, however, to say that the attention of the Chinese has been more or less directed to this coal district, and that the Governor-General of Chihli sent two men to Penhsihu on a special mission to examine and report. An effort was also made by an enterprising native to improve the process of working these mines, and for this purpose he invested 1,200 taels in a foreign pumping apparatus. Unfortunately, however, it has proved a failure, as the stream of water thrown out was so small that the old system of removing the water by coolie labour was found to be more expeditious and less expensive.

HANKOW.

From the tables appended to the report of Mr. Consul Hughes it appears that the total value of the foreign produce imported was Tls. 10,631,403. There is no remarkable feature in connection with the export trade. With reference to opium Mr. Hughes writes :—

The increase in the import of opium is not, it is said, an evidence of increased consumption. The import of opium into Hankow, though greater than that of 1872, is less than that of former years, and is said to have received an impetus owing to the greater strictness of the officials of Canton, from which province considerable quantities of smuggled opium had been in former years sent to the mart of Seang Tan in Hoonan. But little opium reached Seang Tan direct from Canton during the past year, and the demand had to be supplied from Hankow. On the other hand, it is a fact that there is a diminution in the quantity of native opium reported for the le-kim duty, and this circumstance would at first sight appear sufficient to account for the increase in the import of the foreign article. But the statistics on the subject are likely to mislead. Probably only a small proportion of the native opium which passes this place is reported to the authorities, while every pound of foreign opium is duly recorded.

With regard to the shipping Mr. Hughes says :—

The trade on the river, so far as it is carried on under foreign flags has for several years past been chiefly conducted by the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, whose vessels, sailing under the American flag, and built after the model of American river steamers, have hitherto proved to be far more suitable than any other class of vessels. During the year 1873 the first serious effort was made by a British company to contend against this supremacy. For this purpose two vessels, which had been already plying on the river, were purchased, and four were ordered to be built in England, two of which arrived during the year. A brisk competition resulted in the reduction of freights to almost nominal rates, but after heavy losses the two companies have since agreed upon uniform rates of freights and passage. One consequence of the steamer competition was that steamers not belonging to the rival companies had to withdraw from the river. The small sailing-vessels known as "lorchas" had also difficulty in finding remunerative employment. The number of such vessels cleared under the British flag from Hankow amounted to 41 in 1874, against 59 in 1872, and 90 in 1871.

KIUKIANG.

Mr. Vice-Consul King reports that the trade again shows improvement. The total of the net trade of the last three years is as follows: — 1871, Tls. 9,800,699, or £3,062,718 ; 1872, Tls. 11,270,026, or £3,756,675 ; and 1873, Tls. 12,113,415, or £4,037,805.

Upon the subject of opium we find the following remarks :—

The increase in the importation of opium is part of a general one in the trade throughout China, for I learn that shipments from India are larger than ever in spite of the increased native production. At this port the importation of Malwa opium for the last seven years from 1867 has been, piculs 2,202, 1,923, 1,905, 2,110, 2,063, 1,934, and this year 2,366. In the province of Szechuen, which I visited in the autumn, the cultivation of the poppy appeared to be general, and the consumption of opium almost universal. There it is an article of consumption rather than of trade, and the Government derives no revenue from it. From time to time the officials fulminate more or less severe orders against the cultivation and sale, but, from all I could learn, no prohibitive measures are put in practice.

Remarking upon the operations of tariffs Mr. King says :—

During the last four years the whole trade of the port has increased gradually from £3,142,228 to £4,037,805. The people are richer, the inclination to trade is great, demand is steady, and prices are such as to admit of business, but the determined opposition of the Governor of the Province to the transit system, both as regards imports and exports, is so great that trade is restricted in some articles and destroyed in others. Although, as I stated last year, the Chinese Government theoretically and ostensibly allows natives to take goods of foreign origin into the interior under transit pass, yet, owing to this actual and covert opposition, not one single pass has been applied for by them this year for merchandise calculated by weight, so impressive was the lesson read them by the confiscation case of 1872, when a large cargo of lead was condemned by a manipulation of false weights at a war-tax barrier.

It is almost unnecessary to point out how this militates against the welfare of the port and of the province. The import business being small, few foreigners reside here, and from this fewness of merchants there is no market for native produce, which has to go elsewhere for sale, and so one cause has reacted on the other till it is now almost forgotten what a thriving port Kewkiang once was. The state of trade here now shows undoubted signs of improvement, or rather capability and desire for improvement after years of steady decline ; and I look upon the present as a critical time when the trade may, if fostered by Government, and pushed by enterprise, resume its former state ; but, if abandoned, as it now is, to the deadening effects of provincial repression, and by those who formerly caused its success, it will soon become confirmed as a mere port of call for steamers.

NINGPO.

Mr. Consul Alabaster reports a falling off in the value of the trade for the year 1873 of over 2,000,000 taels, or roughly £600,000, although by the common report the year is to be considered an averagely prosperous one, in contradistinction to the preceding one, in which the returns showed an advance of nearly 3,000,000 taels, or £1,000,000 on 1871.

The chief increase in foreign imports is that noticeable in opium, which has increased from 5,000 chests in 1870 to over 7,500 in 1873, paying the Chinese Government over 220,000 taels in duties. In opium, and in the carrying trade nearly alone, foreigners can, under present conditions, compete with the native merchants ; and though the raft which tides the community over its time of difficulty may have rottenness in it, there is no possibility of safely abandoning it for the moment. The other chief foreign imports are cotton piece goods, of which 751,469 pieces, valued at £460,000, were imported, showing an increase on that of 1872 of 80,000 pieces.

Referring to the exports Mr. Alabaster says :—

In the export trade the resident foreigners have little share, the neighbouring market of Shanghai, with its banking and other facilities, attracting the teamen thither ; while in the cotton, drugs, and wine exported to the coast ports and Straits' markets, the foreigner has little chance of competing with the native merchants ; nor do I see any possibility of this being otherwise, as the Chinese must necessarily be at an advantage in dealing with their own countrymen, in their own produce, over foreigners ; and neither the wine nor the cotton, nor the oilseeds, nor the drugs, which the country produces in great abundance, are likely to form matter for direct export to foreign countries.

In the returns the staple of the Ningpo trade, green tea, shows a large falling off, consequent on the disastrous year of 1872, in which the supply had been expanded far beyond the limits of demand. Rendered cautious by their losses, the native tea speculators confined their operations, at the commencement of the season, to the narrowest limits ; very fortunate for themselves, as although the American market somewhat recovered itself during the year, the demand in England was most injuriously affected by the raid made by the analysts against so-called adulterated teas.

The following refers to the shipping trade :—

Tonnage shows an increase, but this is owing nearly entirely to the competition between the old established Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, whose vessels run under the American flag, and a newly started native company, whose boats fly the Chinese flag ; and although the passenger traffic temporarily increased numerically with the low rates charged by the new company, the year has been unfavourable to shipowning interests. In other branches of trade the Hong Kong steamers still call in here about once in three weeks on their way to Shanghai, the opium consumption affording them sufficient freight to make the deviation from the direct route profitable ; but although the majority of these vessels at present fly the British flag, they are getting entirely into the hands of Germans and Americans, with the gradually growing, and more or less well-founded opinion, that English vessels are, in China, subjected to more troublesome regulations, and receive less efficient support, than those of other nations. It will not be long before our shipping fees show a still further diminution.

LONDON: MONDAY, DEC. 14, 1874.

THE CHINESE COOLIE TRAFFIC AND THE ABORIGINES' PROTECTION SOCIETY.

AT their meeting on the 1st inst., report of which we published in our last issue, this society emphatically maintained that the protection of the aboriginal and other native populations which acknowledge the authority or are subject to the influence of Great Britain is a duty imperatively binding on the British Government. The responsibility thrown upon this country by the tenor of this resolution is a serious one, but it is one which we have never shown ourselves slow to accept, and we doubt not that Her MAJESTY'S Government will, in course of time, effect the objects advocated at this meeting, both in our own possessions and in those other countries where we may further the cause of humanity by means of good advice and judicious counsels. The cause of the Chinese coolie has certainly not been neglected by English people, and it is entirely owing to their exertions that the nefarious trade of Macao has been prohibited, and, we hope we may soon be able to say, entirely stamped out. Our aid is now further invoked on behalf of the so-called "indentured labourers" in Cuba and Peru, who, it is said, are to all intents and purposes treated as slaves. The Chinese immigrants, too, in California, though there is no pretext for saying that they are slaves or even indentured labourers, are undoubtedly treated in a disgracefully unfair manner, but perhaps they may derive some crumbs of comfort from the passage in which President GRANT, in his Message read to the United States Congress on December 7, alludes to them, though we are inclined to fear that the legislation which he invites will not be of a favourable nature. Probably the most interesting speech at the meeting of the Aborigines' Protection Society was that of Mr. NG ACHOY, of Hong Kong. He put the matter plainly and openly, stating that the coolie trade in China, with very few exceptions, is nothing less than a disguised slave trade, and, in fact, really worse than that, owing to its being carried on under false colours. He gave those concerned in the suppression of the Macao coolie trade all credit for their humane exertions, but though the business has been stopped, he thinks, and wisely, too, that it would be well to keep a vigilant watch over Macao. He next calls attention to the condition of "the coolies in Cuba and Peru, "where they are treated with great cruelty and unparal- "leled inhumanity," and of whom he says that "the convicts in England are in a better situation than they are." It is certainly high time that something was done to impress upon these two importers of Chinese labour the duties of humanity, and the obligations of civilisation. The remainder of his speech Mr. NG ACHOY devoted to the hardships and disabilities of the Chinese emigrant to California. On his arrival he is obliged to pay a capitation tax before he can land; he is denied all civil rights; he has no vote; and, worst of all, his evidence is not received in a court of justice. "Therefore," says the speaker, "if "a man murders a Chinaman in San Francisco, in open "daylight, in the presence of, say, one hundred Chinese, "the testimony of all these eye-witnesses will not "be taken, and the murderer will be allowed to es- "cape scot-free." Furthermore, the Chinese in California are subject to all sorts of harassing local laws and regulations. "Supposing the Chinese Government were to im- "pose similar restrictions on the American residents in "China, would they quietly submit to it?" asks Mr. NG ACHOY, "and would the American Government tolerate it?" These pertinent questions require no answer, and it behoves our Transatlantic cousins to reform their ways, or their iniquitous treatment of the Chinese, to whom they owe so much in the Far West, will become a bye-word among civilised nations. Mr. ACHOY'S remarks on this head are not mere reckless assertions, for they are fully borne out by the statements of intelligent and observant travellers with regard to what they have noticed in San Francisco and other parts of California. The objects of the Aborigines' Protection Society are most laudable, and we earnestly hope that their endeavours in the cause of humanity may be crowned with the success which they so well deserve.

SETTLEMENT OF THE FORMOSA DIFFICULTY.

MORE than three months ago, even in the face of apparently adverse telegraphic intelligence, we ventured to give expression to a decided belief that the questions at issue between China and Japan were on the eve of a pacific solution, and that, after all, there would be no outbreak of hostilities between the two countries. As our readers are aware, subsequent events have shown our vaticinations to have been correct. After a vast amount of diplomatic negotiation at Peking and elsewhere, which, originating in a demand on the part of the Japanese for satisfaction for the murder of some shipwrecked mariners by the savage tribes on the Formosan coast, and needlessly aggravated by the foolishly shilly-shallying policy of the Chinese, has been going on more or less continuously since the summer of 1873, and during the progress of which the Japanese, driven in a great measure by the force of circumstances, despatched a small body of troops to Formosa, and having landed with comparatively little opposition, proceeded to take the law into their own hands, and to punish the offending tribes of aborigines, with whom their own so-called rulers were afraid to meddle, the whole difficulty, which ought to have been settled most easily and amicably at the outset, has at length been brought to a termination, by the Japanese agreeing to withdraw their expeditionary force from the island on the payment by the Chinese of a pecuniary indemnity of 500,000 taels, and without their preferring any demand for the annexation of any portion of the territory which they have been holding by right of conquest. We have not, of course, at present had time to receive any detailed information in regard to the precise causes which have led to this settlement of what at one time promised to be a somewhat hopeless and inextricable imbroglio, but, as far as we can judge, they would appear to have been of a twofold nature. The Chinese, no doubt, felt that, as we but recently pointed out, they were not sufficiently well prepared to go to war, and that a succession of inevitable defeats at the hands of a power like Japan would for many reasons be most disastrous to them at the present moment; and they were, therefore, probably disposed, after a little beating about the bush, to give in to almost any terms, provided that they could get off without any cession of territory, and with the sovereign rights which they claim over the island of Formosa unimpaired. The Japanese, on the other hand, doubtless found themselves in an awkward position, for, although they might have proved victorious at the commencement of a struggle with their powerful and unwieldy neighbour, they had the good sense to perceive that they could not hope to overcome her in the long run, owing to the manifest superiority of the Chinese in all the material resources necessary for the successful conduct of a protracted war. They had punished the aborigines of Formosa for their cruelty to their fellow-countrymen, and had thus avenged their massacre, and vindicated the honour of their country; but they had begun to find the war an expensive matter in more ways than one, for not only was it a very serious drain on their pecuniary resources, but sickness was already thinning their ranks to an alarming extent, and, as a contemporary states, one steamer which arrived in Japan at the beginning of October alone brought home from Formosa seven hundred invalids, which must be a very large percentage of the whole number of troops there. All these reasons combined, we have no doubt, had great weight with the authorities at Yedo, and peaceful counsels began to prevail where but recently so eager a desire for war had pervaded all classes of the population alike. "An important assembly of about fifty of the nobles and ex-daimios," we are told, "convoked at "the instance of the Government, met in deliberation on the 8th October at the Emperor's residence "on the subject of the complications between China "and Japan. The momentous question of peace or "war was debated, and a resolution in favour of peace "was adopted." We cannot, of course, pretend to say whether the conclusions arrived at by this species of Privy Council had had any effect on the course which the negotiations at Peking were taking, or whether indeed OKUBO was informed of them; but, however that may be, they are deserving of notice as indicating the undoubtedly altered condition of public opinion in Japan. We congratulate the Japanese on the results which they have achieved, and which are mainly to be attributed to the confidence inspired in them by their new-born civilisation, although, at the same time, as we remarked on a previous occasion, we think that they did wrong at the outset in invading a portion of the Chinese Empire without a formal declaration of war. With regard to the Chinese, we hope that they will learn wisdom from the lesson which they have received, and that, profiting thereby, they will forthwith proceed to set their house in order, for if they do not, they will assuredly find that much trouble will befal them, both from within and from without, and that, too, at no very distant period.

Since the foregoing was in type we have received a telegram from Hong Kong announcing that the Japanese troops evacuated Formosa on the 3rd Dec.

SOME months since we noticed the appointment of Mr. ANDREW CASSELLS, of the firm of Messrs. PEEL, CASSELLS, and Co., Manchester, to a seat at the India Council. We now learn that a selection of a similar kind will be made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. ARBUTHNOT. The policy adopted by Lord SALISBURY in this respect is conducive to the welfare of the mercantile interests of India, and will meet with general approval.

WE learn by telegram that the expedition which has been charged with the completion of the survey of Captain SPRYE's land route from Rangoon to Kiang-Hung—to which reference was made in our issue of the 26th Oct.—has started from Rangoon. The expedition is accompanied by Colonel HORACE BROWNE, Dr. ANDERSON, Mr. NEY ELIAS, and also by Mr. MARGARY, who has proceeded from China to join the expedition.

M. DE GEOFROY, the French Minister at Peking, has obtained leave of absence, and the First Secretary, M. le Comte de ROCHECHOUART, will be in charge of the Legation during his absence. We are pleased to note the promotion to Paris of Mr. F. O. ADAMS, formerly Secretary of Legation at Yedo, and at present at Berlin.

SIR RUTHERFORD ALCOCK ON CHINA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—The long and interesting article in Macmillan's Magazine on the subject of China and Japan, from the pen of Sir Rutherford Alcock, which you reproduced in your paper of Sept. 11, calls for careful consideration, since its prophecies and theories are of a very sensational and startling character.

I venture to offer one or two remarks merely on matters of detail; matters, however, which affect more or less directly the argument of the whole. Here, for instance, is a loose and absolutely misleading paragraph:—"Dockyards, arsenals, foundries, and all the plant necessary for building and floating, and the sailors for navigating large class iron steamships, actually in full work in Chinese and Japanese hands in 1874." I wrote near the close of Oct., 1874, and it is surely strange that, supposing Sir Rutherford to be correct in his terrifying statement, the Chinese Government as a matter of fact should not possess to-day a single iron war-ship of any kind; and that the two which the Japanese do possess, should have been purchased by Japanese money, not built by Japanese skill. The navigating powers of the officers of the Chinese fleet may be respectable, but the fighting qualities of their sailors do not stand very high in the estimation of those who have boarded their vessels. English newspapers and magazines are continually repeating this wholly erroneous statement as to the ironclads, and home-built iron vessels of the Chinese fleet. Sir Rutherford's hint, also, as to the possibility of Eastern conquest-waves rolling again over Europe, because, forsooth, China, and Japan are labouring to purchase ironclads and breech-loaders, and to adopt our Western improvements, ignores the fact that Western war science is also ever advancing; and to imagine that semi-civilised Powers cannot merely adopt but use effectively at one jump the most perfect forms of Western war material, is contrary to all experience. The iron will run into their inexperienced hands, and the fire flash back on the clumsy manipulators, causing internal rebellion, not foreign aggression.

Such waves of conquest, also, require a martial people, such as the Tartars were of old, not a peace-loving nation like the Chinese, to whom the Militia system just now introduced into Japan, because of the war-panic, is viewed with astonishment and alarm. It is absolutely untrue to assert that as at present constituted China or Japan could launch into Europe "an army larger than the greatest power of the West maintains." Sir Rutherford's remarks about the treaty offensive and defensive between Russia and Japan are singularly interesting at the present day. We are hourly listening for the declaration of war between China and Japan; but still the news comes not. Is it, then, Japan has kept her last diplomatic threat till the last, and has made China pause with the terrible prospect of Russian armed intervention?

My last quarrel with Sir Rutherford is for his so lightly repeating and perpetuating the oft-repeated libel against Christianity, namely, that it is "a principle of revolt subversive of the established rule." What does this mean? At whom does the writer aim? Does he refer to the blasphemous caricature of Christianity preached by the Tai-pings? Surely not. Or does he refer to what he mentions below, "religious propagandism under French protection?" I have nothing to say in defence of such propagandism; but surely the writer of this article should have been more careful to discriminate between propagandism and propagandism. Christianity when preached according to the Christian Bible teaches emphatically and without exception "honour to the King, submission to the powers that be, prompt payment of custom and tribute, and careful observance of the 'five relations' so much set by in Chinese eyes." Is this a revolutionary creed? Sir Rutherford's sneer is simply an echo of the old cry of the East India Company against mission work in India, that it would create discontent and revolt. That cry of alarm has died away, and is succeeded by the recognition of the great civilising and controlling power of Christian work in India, from the Governor-General himself and his Council.—I remain, &c.,

Literature.

The first portion of the narrative of the "Life of the Prince Consort," prepared from documents and other materials placed by Her Majesty at the disposal of Mr. Theodore Martin, is published by Messrs. Smith, Elder, and Co. As a faithful picture of much of the private and public life of the Prince the volume abounds with interest and subject for reflection. The volume teems not only with illustrations of the rare good sense and good taste of the Prince, but adds further evidence to that already existing of the deep interest which he felt in the welfare and institutions of his adopted country. The present instalment of the work carries the biography as far as the birth of the Princess Louise in 1848.

The majority of the papers in the December number of the Oriental are continuations. Thus, "Sir George Campbell and his Administration of Bengal," the "International Congress of Orientalists," a "Day in Camp and Cucherry," "Notes from the Journal of a Tour in the North of China," "Japan Visited by an old China Resident," and "Gossip about Ceylon," have all been previously noticed. There are some useful "Notes on the Land Tenures and Revenue Assessments of Upper India," and a chapter on the late Dr. Archibald Campbell. The annexation of Fiji also forms the subject of a paper.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's address to the Margate Church Institute upon "Some Current Fallacies Respecting Supernatural Religion" is reproduced in the current number of Macmillan. There are some very interesting "Notes on Rome," by Captain Burton; a paper by Mr. Tom Hughes, called "Ismalia;" a review of the Greville Journals; and a letter to the editor on Prussia and the Vatican. These, together with some minor papers, a sonnet by Mrs. Brotherton, and some lines, "In Borrowdale," by T. H. Ward, make up an excellent number.

The opening pages of this month's Geographical Magazine are devoted to the Arctic Expedition and the Austro-Hungarian Expedition. The editor has a paper on the Emigration question, entitled "From China to Peru," in which he expresses his conviction that every guarantee entered into on the part of Peru will be fulfilled to the letter. The Tamraparni system of irrigation in Southern India, together with the usual reports on the Geographical Societies, are valuable contributions. There is also a capital map of Franz-Joseph Land.

The Athenæum, in noticing Mayers's "Chinese Manual," says, "All who have been compelled from time to time to make researches in Chinese biographical dictionaries and encyclopædias, will fully appreciate the benefit Mr. Mayers has conferred upon students of Chinese by his present book. In the choice of the material he has shown a wise discretion, and the great variety of sources from which it has been collected bears testimony to the industry and learning of the compiler."

Messrs. Partridge and Co. have recently published a series of "Wall Papers" intended for gratuitous circulation in China. They contain in the centre a large engraving of a Bible subject, and on either side a description in Chinese, rendered in the words of the Bible. The Chinese characters are photo-lithographs, and therefore resemble written characters, a circumstance which makes them doubly valuable in the eyes of those for whom they are intended. Messrs. Partridge and Co. have also issued a neat little volume of "Music for the Nursery." This work, which contains many simple airs suitable for children, is revised by Mr. Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim. It is pictorial as well as musical, and will be no doubt highly appreciated by the little ones.

In the Gentleman's Magazine for December "Olympia" occupies a large share of the pages. In addition to the second part of the "L. S. D. of Literature," and a further instalment of a "Rambling Story," we are given a paper on "Dublin Political Satire and Satirists Forty Years Ago," which is most entertaining. Mr. Robert Buchanan contributes a poem from the Irish called "Midian Uara," while the "Table Talk" is as usual very pleasant to read.

We hear that Mr. W. E. Griffis, who has been for some years engaged at the Imperial College at Yedo, and who is now in England on leave, is preparing a book on Japan.

Miscellaneous.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.

The Academy reports that telegrams have been received from a large number of stations, announcing the measure of success which has fallen to the lot of the observers sent out by different nations; and certainly, so far, astronomers have not much to complain of in the matter of weather, as will be seen from the following table of the results at the stations from which news has been received up to the present time:—

Complete Success.	Partial Success.	Failure.
Cairo	Ispahan	Shanghai
Thebes	Wladiwostok (Siberia)	Madras
Suez	Adelaide	Blagowesck-tschenk
Bushire	Hobart Town	Omsk
Roorkee (N. W. Provinces, (India)	Robe, Victoria	Orenburg
Calcutta	Possiet	Uralsk
Kurrachee	Habarowka	Kazan
Nagasaki (Japan		Astrachan
Hiogo (Japan)		Kertch
Melbourne		Tiflis
Tschita		Erivan
Jalta		Naktritchevan

At Cairo Captain Ord Browne and Mr. Newton got good observations of internal contact at egress, though they differ by four seconds in the time noted. Captain Browne remarked a ring of light surrounding the black planet, which may have been caused by the atmosphere of Venus. Both he and Mr. Hunter at Suez obtained a good many measures with Airy's double-image micrometer of the distance of Venus from the sun's limb before internal contact, and of the length of the cusps after, observations which are nearly as valuable as those of the actual contact. Mr. Hunter also observed the latter phenomenon well, the clouds, which had been very threatening, clearing off just before the critical time. Captain Abney at Thebes was very successful with his photography, obtaining a good series of fifty photographs of Venus, at intervals of a second, with the Janssen revolver slide, so that a photograph has been secured of the actual contact, which besides its intrinsic value is of great interest from the fact that there is no trace of the black drop which was such a trouble to Captain Cook and the other observers in 1769. This agrees with the testimony of all the telescopic observers, who are unanimous in saying that nothing like a connecting ligament has been seen in this transit, a circumstance which is probably owing to the great improvement in telescopes and to the education of the eye by previous practice in observing a model. Colonel Campbell, Dr. Auwers, and Professor Dollen, made good observations with their telescopes at Thebes.

The Roorkee party, headed by Colonel Tennant, have been highly successful in the most important part of their work, the photography, having taken 100 good photographs, besides securing the eye observations. In Japan M. Janssen has worked his revolver photographic slide well, and sixty ordinary photographs on glass have been taken by the Americans, and numerous daguerreotypes on silver plates by the French. Further, 150 measures of the lengths of cusps were made, and thirty-one differences of R.A., and eighteen differences of N.P.D. of the limbs of Venus and the Sun observed. The longitude of the American station at Nagasaki was determined in November by telegraph, using Wladiwostok as the point of reference.

CONGRES DES AMERICANISTES.

We have much pleasure in calling attention to the proposed International Congress of Americanists, which is to be held at Nancy next summer, and the idea of which, we presume, has been suggested by the recent International Congress of Orientalists. We have been favoured by M. Ed. Madier de Montjau, President of the American Society of France, with copies of the circular invitation to this gathering, and of the regulations under which it and future meetings will be held, from which we learn that those savants who take an interest in the history of America before its discovery by Columbus, in the ethnography of the native races of the New World, and in the interpretation of the written monuments which they have left behind, will meet at Nancy from the 19th to the 22nd of next July, and that an exhibition of American archæological remains will be open during the same period. The central organising committee will be glad to receive all communications that may be addressed to it for this session of the Congress, and desires to call the attention of students of American archæology and ethnography to the following points:—(1). Relations of Europe, Asia, Africa, and Oceania with America before the time of Columbus; (2). Interpretation of the written monuments of American antiquity; (3). Ethnographical and linguistical classification of the Indian races of the New World.—Those who are desirous of becoming members of this Congress may obtain tickets of membership (price 12 francs) on application to the American Society of France, at 20, Rue Bonaparte, Paris. Detailed programmes will be published later on, and will be forwarded to the members of the Congress, the future progress of which we shall watch with much interest, as it will, doubtless, supply the world with a vast amount of valuable and curious information on the subjects indicated above.

RAILWAYS IN CHINA.—The conductors of the Chinese paper Hwe Pao, published at Shanghai, appear to have had a hint from the mandarins opposed to the introduction of Western inventions. In an article on the subject of railways it says: "The accidents on the railway lines are very numerous, caused by collisions, by the engines or tenders taking fire, by the trains running off the lines, or by the bridges giving way and the trains being precipitated into the rivers below. In other cases the carriages are injured by the great speed at which they are hurried along, and the accidents are so numerous that it is often impossible to ascertain the exact number of dead and wounded. All the foreign journals are full of details concerning these accidents. But, admitting that most of these casualties are preventable, and that the trains follow their regular course, they travel quicker than the thoroughbred horse, and the people walking on the lines would have no time to get out of their way. From this cause alone the number of fatal accidents would be enormous. In all countries where railways exist they are considered a very dangerous mode of locomotion, and, beyond those who have very urgent business to transact, no one thinks of using them."

THE CHINESE IN CALIFORNIA.—In California the Chinese have, it is said, become so indispensable as servants that, notwithstanding the outcry raised against their immigration, they have established a footing there based entirely on their own merits. Consul Booker, in his report on the trade and commerce of California for 1873, lately issued, states that in the early part of last year the anti-Chinese cry was taken up by all classes of politicians, and at one time took so forcible a shape that the Chinese companies who control the immigration telegraphed to stop it altogether, and for a few months there were no arrivals; but of late every ship has brought a few Chinamen, and, notwithstanding all that has been said or written against the Chinese, it must be evident to every one that without them many of the wants of the people would have to go unsatisfied, as in the country they are almost entirely used as domestic servants and perform many duties for which they are especially adapted. Strong as the prejudice against them may be, it is certain it is not strong enough to keep those who are their most formidable opponents from making use of their services.

THE Russian explorer M. Miklucha-Maklay, having completed his researches on the ethnology of the Papuans in New Guinea, and having apparently proved incontestably the existence of the race in the Philippine Isles, he is preparing to visit the Malay peninsula. He will accordingly start from Batavia some time during the present month, land at one of the ports in the south, and from thence penetrate into the interior range of mountains, where he expects to find a tribe called Semang, which he, in common with other authorities, considers will prove to be of Papuan descent.

IT is notified that all persons having any claims or demands upon the estate of the late Mr. W. W. Ker, of Singapore, who died on the 14th of October last, are required to send in writing the particulars of their claims to Messrs. Carr, Bannister, and Co., the solicitors for the executors, on or before the 4th of January, 1875.

DR. PAUL GOLDSCHMIDT, a graduate of Göttingen University, and a pupil of Benfey and A. Weber, has been appointed by the Ceylon Government to collect and edit rock inscriptions, and to report upon the ruined cities of Ceylon.

Monetary and Commercial.

The position of the Manchester Market has altered little since our last report of the 4th instant, but the feeling of quiet has been more marked and increasingly dull under the influence of a reaction in the Liverpool Cotton Market; buyers are restricting their operations to absolute and immediate requirements. Quotations are nominally the same as last quoted, though the tendency is in buyers' favour, and in low qualities, especially where stocks are held, transactions have taken place on easier terms.

The directors of the Eastern Extension Australasia and China Telegraph Company (Limited) have declared an interim dividend for the quarter ending September 30 of 3s. per share, or 6 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, payable on the 15th proximo.

The Eastern Telegraph Company announce that the usual interim dividend of 2s. 6d. per share, in respect of profits for the quarter ending 30th September last, will be paid on and after 14th prox.

The Produce Markets Review, in referring to the present position of the Tea trade, says :—

The total deliveries from London bonded warehouses for the present year will probably reach at least 170,000,000 lbs., which far exceeds the largest quantity imported in any one year from China. But for the large importation of Indian growths, the question of future supplies would by this time have caused no small anxiety here; the more so, as although the quantity exported from China has vastly increased during the last ten years, this result has apparently been obtained at a considerable sacrifice of quality: fortunately, the yearly increasing supply from India, and the excellent quality of most of it, have removed all apprehension on this account. Other countries, too, are striving, with more or less success, to produce teas suited to the tastes of European consumers; and we have no doubt that in a very few years the import of tea from all sources will reach a total undreamed of by many at the present time. The cultivation and manufacture of the plant in Java have made immense progress during the last five or six years, both as regards quantity and quality, and its consumption in England has of late been considerable. The subject appears to be also engaging the attention of practical men in Ceylon, and, from experiments already tried, there is every prospect of ultimate success. Although Japan has only comparatively recently entered the field as a producer of tea, it nevertheless exports large quantities, principally of uncoloured green, to the United States of America, where they are highly esteemed on account of their purity and excellent quality. We learn, moreover, that the Japanese are rapidly extending the cultivation of the plant, and that heavy supplies are likely to be shipped direct to England. The Tea trade has evidently a great future before it: with sufficiently low-priced good tea, consumption would probably in a few years be doubled; and with a continually-augmenting production, there seems no reason whatever why this should not take place.

A first dividend of 3s. in the pound has been declared in the estate of Oppenheim and Schrader.

The amounts of Bar Silver to hand during the week have been very small, about £12,000 in all. The demand is exceedingly quiet, and the price remains at 57½d. per oz. The remainder of the Mexican Dollars by the last West India steamer have been sold at the same rate as the first portion, 56½d. per oz., and the market is now cleared of this coin.

A Circular just issued by the Eastern Telegraph Company states as follows :—

"The Eastern Telegraph Company, Limited, announce to the shareholders and the public that, after lengthened negotiation, agreements have been completed with the French Government, H.M. Postmaster-General, and the Submarine Telegraph Company, by which the company will immediately be placed in possession of a special wire between London and Marseilles, to be worked by the company's own clerks, in connection with their Marseilles-Malta cable. The effect of opening up this additional service will be to greatly accelerate the transit of messages, the new line being designed expressly for the traffic between Great Britain and Egypt. Telegrams should be written on the Company's forms, and directed 'via Falmouth;' these words being signalled as an instruction by the postal authorities free of charge. The messages will then be forwarded via Marseilles or via Gibraltar, whichever route is working best and most free from traffic. London messages should be presented for transmission at the company's offices, 74, Old Broad-street, 8 Leadenhall-street, or 42, Finsbury-circus."

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

There has been continued and increased dulness in the Produce Markets, the demand for most of the leading articles being restricted, and the transactions are therefore again much below the average at this period of the year; and the downward movement in Sugar, Coffee, Tea, Spices, and some other products is further prolonged. On the other hand, Rice and Hemp have experienced a better demand, and prices are higher.

TEA.

The market has been dull during the week. The quantity offering has been large, and more than buyers were willing to take, except at lower prices. Importers have, however, generally been firm, and for the sales made prices show no material alteration in Black Teas, Greens having again sold with much irregularity, and at lower rates. In public sale on the 8th 5,920 packages were offered, and 5,520 packages were sold without reserve. On the 10th 6,912 were sold without reserve. Congous at full prices, Scented Teas without change, but Green Teas at rather lower rates. The deliveries for the week as compared with last year are as follows :—

	1874. lbs.	1873. lbs.
Home Consumption	2,097,000	1,870,000
Coastwise	761,000	845,000
Total delivered	3,636,000	3,325,000

Congous.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings have been saleable at full prices; broken-leaf kinds at the decline last quoted. Common to good common show no change. Fair Kaisow kinds have been in full supply, the Trade offering ½d. per lb. below the ideas of importers, thus restricting business. Good and fine show no alteration, finest remain without enquiry. Pak-lin kinds have been firmly maintained. Black-leaf kinds: Common to fair have been dull of sale at about previous prices; in good to fine the few sales made have been without alteration. Finest remain firm. New make kinds, under 1s. per lb., have been fairly saleable at former rates, fair to good also remaining much as before. Oolongs have been difficult of sale at rather lower prices. Souchongs: Fair to good have sold rather lower, fine at about previous prices. Scented Teas.—Canton Capers have sold at about previous prices, but the demand is limited. Foo-chow kinds have been dull of sale. Canton Orange Pekoes have sold with difficulty for all the common to fair kinds. Fine long-leaf kinds have done better. In Foo-chow kinds business has been limited, without change in prices. Green Teas.—The market remains in a very unsatisfactory state, the only way of selling them being under the hammer without reserve, unless for choice invoices of Moyune kinds. Prices have been very irregular, but on the whole showing a further reduction.

SILK.

The London Market continues very quiet, there being little or no disposition amongst buyers to operate at present; prices are about the same as last quoted. Deliveries, 1st to 9th inst., inclusive :—China, 895 bales; Canton, 231; Japan, 142; Total, 1,268 bales.

Messrs. Arles, Dufouf and Co.'s Circular, dated Lyons, 5th inst.,

says:—Our Silk Market has been less active during last month. This is chiefly accounted for by the large purchases, on the spot and to arrive, effected in October; we must add that whilst several articles of manufactures, particularly Coloured Goods, have remained of very good sale, news from New York and other markets of consumption respecting Black Silks and Ribbons have been less encouraging. The consequence was a decided check in the sale of European Silk. Classical sorts, which are comparatively scarce, have alone maintained their value; on medium and low grades we quote a fall of about 4 to 5 per cent. Asiatic Throwns through their comparative cheapness continue to be used freely. Available stocks are limited; nevertheless, the threatening competition of Italians have prevented so far all improvement in prices. At actual rates the margin between China Raws and Throwns is so limited that throwsters, who have large supplies in hand, keep now on the reserve. Under the influence of a restricted demand and of fast arrivals, prices of Raws have lost part of the advance established in October.

CHINA PRESERVES.—At auction 550 cases Ginger (Chyloong) were mostly sold, 6 jars per case at 7¼d. to 8d., 12 ditto 9½d. to 9⅝d., 23 casks ditto sold at 6d. to 6½d., and 28 cases dry ditto at 11½d. to 1s. 4½d.; 50 cases Cumquats Chyloong brand sold at 11d. to 11½d., 16 casks ditto (Kwoncheong) at 7½d., and a portion of 19 casks Orange at 9d. per lb.

CUTCH continues steady, with small sales at 27s. 6d. to 28s. for fine Pegue. 699 boxes fine Pegue (GW&Co.) of new import in auction were bought in at the latter price, and 399 bags Calcutta at 26s. per cwt.

CAMPHOR.—A very limited business has been done in Japan at £3 15s., and in China at £3 12s. 6d. per cwt.

CUBEBS are lower, 41 bags having been sold at 21s. 6d. to 22s. for fair quality.

COCOANUT OIL.—Although less business has been done the market has continued very steady; about 30 tons fine Cochin have realised £43 15s. and small lots £44 to £44 5s. Ceylon has ruled at £37 to £37 10s. on the spot; 50 tons end of September shipment realised £39, and 100 tons November-December shipment also £39 per ton.

GALLS.—Notwithstanding heavy arrivals, the market for China has been firm with a limited business at 62s. 6d. per cwt. In auction 450 cases China (of fresh import) were chiefly bought in at 65s., a few selling at 63s., but since the sale about 150 cases have found buyers at 61s. 6d. per cwt.

GAMBIER.—There has been a steady demand at the decline previously noticed, and on the spot the sales amount to fully 1,500 bales block at 26s. ex quay, 100 tons now landing at 25s. 6d. ex ship. For arrival there is less demand, and prices are easier, 200 tons September to November shipment having been sold at 25s. 3d. ex ship. In auction of 1,596 bags fine pale free cubes 1,000 bags sold at a further advance at 45s. 6d. Of 535 bales pressed cubes 282 bales sold at about former rates, chiefly fine dark at 35s. to 35s. 5d. per cwt.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra steady, and of 37 cases offered one-third sold; 2nds fair at £8; 3rds at £4 15s. to £4 17s. 6d.; 2 cases Siam retired. Copal is firmer, but 572 cases at auction were retired. In the sales yesterday, of 287 cases Manila 137 cases found buyers at firm rates, good hard at 25s. to 25s. 6d., ordinary blocky 13s. 6d. to 14s. Damar firm; of 84 cases at public sale, a part sold at 51s. for fair, a little specky. Gamboge steady; 41 cases offered were retired.

GALANGAL ROOT is lower; of 308 bags at auction a few were quitted at 18s. to 19s. 6d. for lean and small quality.

HIDES.—At the last sales 2,950 Batavia buffalo hides offered and sold—shaved, 1st heavy, av. 23½ lb., 8½d.; unshaved, 1st heavy, av. 24⅜ to 25⅝ lb., 7d. to 7⅞d.; 2nd heavy, av. 23⅜ to 25⅜ lb., 5½d. to 6⅝d.; 1st light, av. 10⅞ to 16¾ lb., 9d.; 2nd light, av. 12 to 16½ lb., 6¼d.; light, unassorted, av. 14⅛ lb., 7⅜d.; 1st calf, av. 3⅝ to 8⅜ lb., 8½d.; 2nd calf, av. 3¼ to 6 lb., 6d. per lb.; 4,235 Singapore and Penang buffalo hides offered, 3,265 sold—slaughtered, 1st heavy, av. 38¼ lb., 6⅜d.; 2nds, av. 36½ lb., 5d.; sea damaged, av. 38⅜ lb., 5¼d.; ordinary, 1st heavy, av. 28⅝ to 46⅞ lb., 5d. to 5⅛d.; heavy, av. 34⅜ to 34½ lb., 4⅞d.; light, av. 11¼ to 16⅛ lb., 6d. to 7d.; 2nds, av. 30¼ to 34⅜ lb., 4¼d. to 4¼d. per lb.

HEMP.—There has been more demand for Manila, and at public sale rather dearer rates have been paid for common kinds. By private contract about 1,500 bales have been sold, chiefly mixed quantity below fair at £32 5s. In auction of 1,230 bales about 1,000 bales sold, brown at £29 5s., mixed quality below fair £31 to £31 10s., barely fair to fair £32 to £32 15s., good fair £34 to £34 5s., fine Zebu (from New York) at £38 to £38 5s.

INDIA-RUBBER has remained steady, but little has been done; of 100 cases Borneo at auction, a few sold at 1s. 4d., and there are sellers thereat; 47 packages Java were retired.

JAPAN WAX.—The market has been dull; of 137 cases at auction, half sold, cakes, good to fine at 52s. 6d. to 55s., saucer fine at 55s. 6d. Privately moderate sales been made at steady rates.

MUSK.—The market continues firm; public sales embraced 12 caddies Tonquin sold, fair selected well-shaped pods at 39s. 6d. to 40s. 6d.; rough and bally, middling to fair 17s. to 19s.; 14 tins Yunan sold, fair at 32s. to 34s., middling 28s., pickings 16s. to 17s.; 10 tins Cabardine sold at 14s. to 14s. 6d.; and of 6 tins grain 4 sold, fine at 57s. 6d. to 60s., middling 42s. 6d. per oz.

OILS.—Aniseed has been better, and sales were made, 10 cases at 8s. 9d., but more recently about 20 cases have changed hands at 8s. 7½d. to 8s. 6d., closing quiet. Cassia dull and very plentiful; small sales at 4s. 6d. Nutmeg quiet; of six cases half sold at 8d. Lemon Grass firm. Cinnamon scarce, and fine still wanted; 2 cases realised under the hammer 6s. 6d. to 7s. 1d. per oz. Large stock of leaf, and of 21 cases half sold, without reserve, at ⅜d. to 1⅛d. for low. Citronelle is very firm; privately 2d. has been paid, and 25 cases sold afloat at 1⅜d.; 13 cases at auction retired.

PEPPER.—Black has been inactive, with small business in Singapore at 6⅜d. down to 6½d., closing with sellers. Penang at 6¼d. to 6d., also sellers. At auction, of 3,790 bags offered, barely one-fourth sold, Siam at 6¼d. to 6⅜d. White has been quiet and easier, and at auction last week, of 1,553 bags, about 100 only sold, fair to fine at 8¼d. to 8⅜d., and about 300 bags afterwards privately at 8¼d. down to 8⅛d., but more recently there has been rather more inquiry, and 8⅜d. has been paid for fair.

RHUBARB.—Market for China steady, and low qualities higher. Of 93 cases offered two-thirds sold, good medium and bold bright and good fracture 2s. 8d. to 2s. 9d., pinky pale fracture rougher coat 1s. 7d., high dried 1s., low wormy 7d. to 9d.

RATTANS.—Market quiet; 1,100 bundles offered at auction were sold at £15 7s. 6d. per ton, and 1s. to 2s. 2d. per 100 canes for ordinary.

RICE.—The market has been steadier in all positions, but as the improved demand has been met freely, no decided advance in prices has taken place. An interesting feature is comprised in the demand for distillation, for not only have unusually large quantities of Madras been taken for that purpose, but two floating cargoes of soft grain have been purchased for Scotland. On the spot the demand has been chiefly directed to Madras, supplies of which have been unusually heavy, and a good amount of business has been done; in other kinds sales are unimportant. Floating cargoes have been in steady demand. In auction 1,104 bags good pinky Askoolie sold without reserve at 9s. 3d., 2,829 bags damaged Necransie sold, 3rd to 1st class at 7s. 3d. to 7s. 6d., 8,850 mats 931 bags Japan were withdrawn. The large supply of 11,742 bags Madras offered by auction without reserve were all sold at steady rates, chiefly at 8s. 9d., better qualities 9s. to 9s. 6d., the latter for very fine pinky. Privately white Bengal has been sold, middling at 10s. 6d., Askoolie at 9s. 3d. to 9s. 6d., Ballam at 11s. 9d., Rangoon at 8s. 6d. to 8s. 9d., Necransie at 8s. 3d., and Madras at 8s. 3d. for common to 9s. for good.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: No change since the quarterly sale. Cassia Lignea steady; 365 cases at public sale mere mostly sold at 59s. for good unworked, at which about 2,000 cases have also changed hands privately. Buds steady; but nothing done. Cloves: Penang are still scarce; 7 cases offered retired. Amboyna slightly easier; of 191 bags, about half sold at 1s. 7⅜d. to 1s. 8d. for good. Nutmegs: Common qualities are dull of sale, and at auction only a small part sold at cheaper rates, a few fine selling rather dearer. Of 98 cases, 97 boxes Penang 40 packages sold, 68's at 4s. 2d., 75's at 3s. 9d., mixed 80's at 3s. 5d., 99's at 3s. 3d., 108's and 102's at 3s. 1d., 103's at 2s. 10d. 20 boxes 4 bags defective Java bought in at 1s. to 1s. 2d. Mace is also dull. In auction, of 11 cases Penang only three cases pickings sold at 1s. 8d.

STRAW PLAIT.—In auction 114 bales China were partly sold, No. 1 quality at £17 10s. per bale.

STICKLAC has continued quiet. Privately about 150 cases Siam have been sold, fine at £5 10s. In auction 50 boxes Siam sold at easy rates, fair free at £4 15s.

STAR ANISEEDS.—There has been a good enquiry, but no business has been done, owing to absence of supplies.

SAPANWOOD has continued scarce and in request. At auction 15 tons Ceylon of new import sold at full rates at £12 12s. 6d. to £12 15s., and 21 tons Manila slightly stained at £10 10s. to £10 12s. 6d. per ton.

SAGO.—Market slightly easier; and of 2,600 bags offered two-thirds sold at 17s. to 18s. for fair to good small, and 16s. 6d. to 17s. heated. Flour quiet and very plentiful.

TAPIOCA is likewise slightly easier, and of 2,610 bags offered rather over half sold; Pearl bullets at 21s., dull medium bold 17s. per cwt.; medium bright 23s. Flake, low to good 1⅝d. to 2¼d. Flour steady; value unchanged. 145 bags sold at 2¼d. to 2½d. per lb.

TIN.—There has been no alteration in the market, which has continued quiet but steady. Quotations, which show no change, are as follows:—Straits on the spot, £93 to £93 10s.; afloat £92 to £92 10s.; Banca, £102; Billiton, £95 per ton.

CASUALTIES.

LIVERPOOL, DEC. 5.—A telegram from Falmouth of yesterday states that the Amboyna (str.) makes no water, considerable damage done about decks, four frames and starboard bow broken, boats and skylight stove, no damage to cargo so far as can be seen (the above steamer left Falmouth Dec. 7 for her destination).

NIEUWE DIEP, DEC. 7.—The Island Belle, Camm, from Java to Amsterdam, struck the ground near the Helder and has been towed in here in a sinking state and with loss of rudder; later,—the Island Belle is full of water.

MALTA, DEC. 7.—United Service (str.), from Singapore, unseaworthy in present state, has been surveyed under authority of the Board of Trade; must go into dock for repairs, and discharge part of cargo.

ROTTERDAM, DEC. 5.—Ottolina, arrived at Batavia from Nieuwe Diep, had cargo (coals), on fire, and jettisoned about 125 tons.

The Burmese (str.), from Ceylon to London, was ashore under the lighthouse, Island of Canis, near Tunis. The Ocean Queen offered assistance, which was refused; she was, however, assisted off by a French steamer, slightly damaged, and proceeded, after being aground twelve hours and throwing overboard some of her cargo.

SOURABAYA, DEC. 5, 1.15 P.M.—The Cornelia Mathilda (Dutch barq.), from Java to Amsterdam, with general produce, is stranded on Meinders shoal, at the North entrance of Bali Straits; she has been abandoned, and will become a total loss, ship and cargo; part of crew saved.

SHANGHAI, DEC. 5, 2.20 P.M.—A fire broke out on board the Conqueror (Brit. barq.), in port, having on board a cargo of tea for New York, and was not extinguished until much damage was done to vessel and cargo; she must discharge; a later telegram states that the fire was promptly suppressed, and that there was no material damage to ship; what cargo consists of uncertain till discharged.

The Robertus Hendrikus, Hageraats, Rotterdam to Batavia, put into Falmouth, Dec. 4, with boat stove and loss of sails.

BREMEN, DEC. 7.—A telegram from Hong Kong, Dec. 5, states that the Furst Bismarck (Ger. barque), from Chefoo (or Newchwang), to Swatow, has stranded, and been totally lost; crew saved.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID.—Dec. 2, Sultan (str.), from London to Colombo, &c.; 5, Leon (str.), from Liverpool to Manila, &c.

Off L'AGULHAS.—Oct. 28, Jas. Shepherd, Madden, from Shanghai, for London.

At SUEZ.—Dec. 4, Java (str.), from Java to Holland.

At ALGOA BAY.—Anna Bella, Stephen, from Hong Kong.

LIGHTHOUSE FOR JAPAN.—A large number of lighthouses have during the last few years been constructed in Edinburgh for the Japanese Government. They have been ordered through Messrs. Stevenson, the eminent lighthouse engineers, from whose designs the whole of the apparatus has been constructed. One of those lights is at present to be seen in the workshops of Messrs. Dove and Co., engineers, Greenside-lane, who have made the mechanical portion of the apparatus and fitted up the glasswork. This light is one of those known by the name of First Order Dioptric Holyphotal flashing light. The rays are acted upon by means of glass lenses and reflecting prisms, the whole of which are built together and placed on a revolving carriage, which is driven by clock-work. The effect of the revolving motion is to bring the large lenses with their attached cupolas of upper and lower prisms successively in front of the light, thus producing the appearance of a series of flashes. The large lamp placed in the centre of the apparatus is constructed to burn paraffin, and is fitted with Captain Dody's burners, which are at present being introduced into all the Scotch lighthouses. The cost of an apparatus of this description, with the lantern in which it is placed, is about £3,400.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—See article in the Civil Service Gazette.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
Sir SAMUEL BAKER,
In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Faky that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 3rd Nov.; but the Pacific mail chartered steamer Vancouver arrived at San Francisco on the 1st inst., with news to the 9th November The following summary of news has been telegraphed to New York :—

There is much discussion concerning the displacement of the director and English employés of the Mint at Osaka. The British community and newspapers of Yokohama complain bitterly, as if actual wrong had been done them, and proclaim that the national coinage will become valueless with the Mint taken away from British management. The matter is a serious one for the Japanese Government, and is totally misrepresented here. Some time since a contract was made with the Oriental Bank Corporation to superintend the establishment of a Mint among other public works. This contract expires early in 1875, but the Corporation has claimed the right to make future engagements, officials in the Mint and elsewhere. The Government denies this finding, or has already placed itself far too unreservedly in the hands of the Oriental Bank Corporation, and announced that engagements heretofore made by that body must terminate with the expiration of the general contract next February, so far as is practicable.

The condition of the troops in Southern Formosa is now healthful, the dangerous season having passed. Nearly 1,000 sick were brought back to Nagasaki early in October, their places having been supplied from the barracks at that port. The whole Japanese force now in Formosa is about 4,000 men. The main bodies are held in reserve at or near Nagasaki, to which additions are continually sent.

The impression appears to prevail in American journals that Iwakura especially directs the Government in the present crisis. This is a mistake. There are three Ministerial offices near the Throne, only the third of which in rank is held by Iwakura. When he visited America and Europe the second was vacant, but this has since been filled by the appointment of Shinmardzu Sahuro. The first is occupied by Sangio. Iwakura, in fact, takes very little part in the political discussions.

The public expenses are being reduced in various ways. The Mikado and members of the Imperial family have renounced part of their incomes. Numerous employés have requested a reduction of their salaries, and even scholars in the national academies have petitioned that the amount allowed for their education be temporarily reduced. Enthusiasm and offers of personal sacrifices are universal, and volunteers are being enrolled throughout the empire.

The British Minister has notified the English employed in the naval service of Japan that in case of war they must resign their positions. They, in return, have notified the Government that, in such an event, they will claim payment for the unexpired balance of their contracts, which demand will be rejected as preposterous. It is semi-officially announced that the French and English troops stationed at Yokohama will be sent home before the end of the year.

It is now doubted whether the Japanese Post-office can be got ready for the commencement of the new postal system by the 1st of January next. The department has decreed a fine of $150 for wrongfully opening any letters.

The United States Minister's relations with the Japanese Government are perfectly harmonious, but his representations in regard to the military registration of the servants in his service and the employment of Mr. Watson have been passed unheeded.

The Mikado's birthday was celebrated on the 3rd November with the military reviews, State receptions and public festivals of all kinds. The foreign Diplomatic Corps dined, by invitation, at the Imperial Guest House in Yedo.

A heavy typhoon has occurred at Yezo. Many sea coast villages were greatly injured, and one was entirely destroyed. Thirty-three junks were wrecked, and 200 lives were lost.

The boiler of a steamer on Lake Biwi exploded, and the passengers and crew, numbering 100, are reported to have been either killed by the explosion or drowned.

The superfluous supply of silk worm eggs has been reduced by burning large numbers of cartoons, and sales are now resumed in Yokohama at extremely low rates.

Orders have been issued by the Navy Department offering rewards for the discovery by Japanese ships of unknown rocks and shoals in Eastern waters.

The Japanese are preparing to erect fortifications on all important points along the coast.

CHINA.

—o—

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 6th November; the P. and O. mail from London Sept. 18 was received on the 2nd November. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

The races have occupied the week to the exclusion from public attention of more serious every-day matters, with the exception that contradictory news from the North regarding the difficulty between China and Japan has caused some excitement. The weather was rather cold during the first two days of the races, and the long continuance of rainy weather had broken in upon the usual training season. They went off very successfully, however. A large number of residents left Shanghai for up-country trips about the beginning of race week, some eighty house boats being employed in the exodus. But the absence of so many from the settlements was partly compensated by the presence of a good many visitors from outports.

Regarding the Formosan difficulty, without being too positive, we think we are justified in saying, from all that has reached us during the week, of a reliable character, concerning the progress of negotiations at Peking, that there will not be war. A despatch to a local Chinese officer of high standing states that an arrangement has actually been made. The Japanese asked for an indemnity of five millions, but as the Chinese firmly opposed the demand, they reduced it by three millions. Still the Chinese would not yield, but further bargaining brought the amount down from two millions to half a million taels, with which Okubo was fain to be satisfied. The only question remaining to be settled at the time the despatch was written, as we are informed, was whether the money should be handed over before or after the retirement of the expedition from Formosa. But there can be little doubt that, if matters have been arranged so far, the negotiators will trust each other to fulfil the details of the engagement. Our informant adds that the withdrawal of Yanigawari from the capital along with Okubo is deprived of any untoward significance by the fact that the Japanese Legation is left in charge of his second in command. It is highly probable that Yanigawari returns with the special Embassy, in order to give an account of his own share in the negotiations; and after the position he has held during the present year versus the Tsung-li Yamen, it would be in accordance with diplomatic courtesy and usage that he should be replaced as Resident Minister at Peking by some high officer who has not been mixed up in the recent unpleasantness. The foregoing statement is consistent with out last news direct from Peking.

The relations between the Japanese belonging to the war-vessel at Tientsin and the local Chinese are said not to be altogether amicable, some curiosity shown by the latter to inspect the ship being discouraged rather forcibly. The only indications of the state of feeling among the Chinese in Shanghai that we have lately heard of is the fact that the Taoutai has enlisted 150 men for his body guard, and that native charterers of foreign sailing vessels stipulate for a clause saving them from the consequences of war.

The steamer Cawdor Castle, while coming to the Shanghai and Honkew Wharf, ran into and sank the French brig St. Francois, which was lying alongside, sustaining some damage also to her own starboard bow. The steamer Shingking has returned to port, having sustained some damage to the fore part of her saloon in a storm she was caught in when she had made about a fourth of her voyage. The vessel is being repaired with all despatch.

The steamer Ningpo, from Hong Kong, reports having experienced very heavy weather as she came up the coast. The P. M. chartered steamer Vancouver, bound to Yokohama, had to run for shelter; and the Ningpo had to anchor more than once during her passage, through stress of weather. She also reports having seen a large junk ashore, and apparently abandoned, on Ashuelot Reef.

As the Dragon was going into Foochow on her last trip south, she passed the steamer Atalanta, bound from Hong Kong to Shanghai, off Tungying, a few miles above Matsou. The Atalanta was partially disabled by the breaking of a screw bearing, and turning back, made for the Min. At the White Dogs she took a tugboat, and arrived at Foochow safely on the 26th Oct. It was expected that she would be detained four or five days for repairs, but that it would not be necessary to dock her. Her long voyage is thus accounted for. She left Hong Kong on the 19th Oct.—The mail steamer Delhi met with very rough weather during a portion of her voyage from Hong Kong, and lost one of her crew overboard. The Delhi will have to remain at Woosung till the 6th Nov. nearly a whole week—for want of water to cross the Bar.

The arrival, on the 1st Nov., of the crew of the ship Lucerne, would seem to indicate the abandonment of all hope of recovering the stranded vessel. The tug Samson went to the vessel on the 27th Oct., having in tow a junk for the accommodation of the Lucerne's crew, and a number of coolies to work on the wreck when the tide permitted, and also to assist in the recovery of any property belonging to the vessel. The tugs Fuhlee and Rocket were alongside the wreck when the gale began on the 27th. They ran for shelter to an anchorage inside the lightship, while the junk, containing the crew and coolies, took shelter in a creek on the Yangtsze Cape. The captain remained in the Fuhlee till the 1st Nov., and then came up to Shanghai. The crew walked up from the Yangtsze Cape Creek to the beacon, and were brought from thence to Shanghai by a junk. It is said the Lucerne lies in a bed of mud about ten feet deep. The Fuhlee has left to look after the junk with the crew and coolies, but there is no apprehension felt regarding their safety.

A decree in the Peking Gazette of 17th October appoints Ying-han, Governor of Nganwei, or An Hwuy, to be Governor-General of Kwangtung and Kwangse, vice Juy-lin, lately deceased. Wu Yuan-ping, Governor of Hoopeh, was at the same time appointed to fill the post rendered vacant by Ying-han's advancement, but a decree in the Gazette of the 20th Oct. changes this arrangement, and announces that Wu is to become Governor of Kiangsu (this province), an office which, as we noticed the other day, Chang Futai has to vacate on account of the death of his mother.

Among other translations from the Peking Gazette is a minute of the trial of Li Kwang-chao, sent up to the throne by H. E. Li Hung-chang. The culprit, it will be remembered, endeavoured to secure official favour, and, as the investigation shows, a big "job," by making some generous proposals relative to the supply of timber to be employed in rebuilding the Summer Palace, which proposals he subsequently was unable to carry out. He played a high game and lost, and now awaits execution after a term of imprisonment. But it is not improbable that some Imperial act of grace will come to save his head before his term of imprisonment is up, and we have heard that in such cases, if there are a number of prisoners for execution about the same time, the Imperial clemency is sometimes displayed by reprieving a portion of them. Li, however, has committed the unpardonable sin, in addition to attempting a gigantic swindle (in which he appears to have been readily assisted by Palace officials), of using titles to which he had no right. The details of the case, given in the present report, are of unusual interest.

We regret to hear of the accidental death, at Hankow, on the 26th Oct., of Mr. W. J. E. Stewart, formerly of Shanghai. Mr. Stewart and some friends had gone off to the steamer Shanghai, which was to leave the same night, to see a gentleman on board, and were leaving the vessel, when in passing to the hulk Mr. Stewart missed his footing, owing to the swell in the river. He was carried away on the surface of the stream, but did not sink, and within some five minutes was picked up by a sampan, which had hastened to the rescue. He appeared to be dead when taken out of the water, but protracted efforts were made to restore animation, the ill success of which, under all the circumstances, led to the belief that death had resulted from shock rather than from immersion.

The Honourable B. P. Avery, the new Minister for the United States at the Court of Peking (vice the Hon. Mr. Low), accompanied by Mrs. Avery, arrived at Tientsin on the 18th Oct., and shortly after the vessel had been moored he took up his residence at the U.S. Consulate, with Consul Sheppard. On the following day Mr. Avery called on his Excellency Li Hung-chang, the Imperial Commissioner from the Northern Ports, who next day returned the call. It is said that Mr. Avery will start immediately for the metropolis, proceeding by the river to Tunchow.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 12th Nov.; the French mail from London Sept. 25 was received on the 5th Nov., and the following P. and O. mail of 2nd Oct. was received on the 9th Nov. The following items of news are from the China Mail:—

His Excellency Sir Arthur Edward Kennedy, K.C.M.G., C.B., Governor and Commander-in-Chief, having returned to the colony, the acting appointments held during his Excellency's absence under Notifications 163 and 164 of 15th October last have ceased.

An inquest was held on the 6th at the Government Civil Hospital on the body of Captain Lane, of the Imperial Customs cruiser Chien Jui. It appeared that the deceased was a British subject registered at Canton, but that he died on board a foreign ship at sea. It is a nice question whether the coroner here had jurisdiction, or whether the case should not have been taken by H. M.'s Consul at Canton. However, for the sake of the friends of the deceased, it is fortunate that an inquest was held--as they have the melancholy satisfaction of knowing that no medical aid could have saved him, for he died from an aneurism of the aorta.

Last year this time the opium steamer Hindostan, in coming up the China Sea, was "caught in a typhoon," when it will be remembered a clean sweep was made of all that was on her deck, a horse also having been washed overboard. As she is reported to have left Singapore only yesterday, the 30th instant, she must have had to do again with the "demon of the storm" after leaving Calcutta, since the reported occurrence of a cyclone in these regions was about the time the Hindostan was wired to have left.

The race course was opened on the 2nd, for training, when a large number of sporting gentlemen of the colony assembled. Several ponies are now taking gentle exercise matutinally. One or two others are being rather harder worked, as they are intended to take part in the Canton Races, which are advertised for the 17th December. We trust that there will be a good gathering here, and plenty of sport at the rapidly approaching races. Indeed, we think that we can foretell as much pretty safely. Besides the racing ponies already in the colony, several are coming down from Shanghai for certain; and there is a probability of the arrival of others from other ports.

We have seldom seen at St. John's Cathedral so large a number of ladies and gentlemen as assembled on the 6th to assist in celebrating the nuptials of Mr. Morland Kerr, the popular manager of the Oriental Bank, and Miss McNair of Singapore. Mr. Kerr's urbanity of manner and gentle disposition, both in private and quasi official life, have gained for him many friends in the East, and no better proof could be afforded to the lady who has now cast her lot amongst us and to her friends from Singapore, of the great esteem in which Mr. Kerr is held here, than the crowd of well-wishers that met them at the church this morning. After the ceremony, a large number of guests, over eighty we believe, were entertained at breakfast at Mr. Nicaise's of Dinder, and the bride and bridegroom left on their honeymoon trip about two o'clock, amidst showers of rice, old shoes, &c. We only echo the sentiment of the general Hong Kong community in wishing the newly married couple long life and many happy days.

H.M.S. line of battleship Victor Emanuel, appointed to relieve the Princess Charlotte, arrived at 2 P.M. on the 4th and anchored opposite the site of the boat-house. She has brought reliefs for the Military and Naval Forces on the China Station.

The project of a Chinese company to work the lead mines at Wai-chow has met with great popularity. So far as is known, it is only proposed that the undertaking should be an experimental one, and if it succeeds, companies will be started to work other mines too.

We see that the clock-tower has had its birdcage scaffolding removed, thereby indicating that the repairs to it are complete. It now shows out, "neat, trimly dressed, fresh as a bridegroom."

The Praya has been to a large extent temporarily restored, but it is, we believe, in contemplation to effect a considerable change in its permanent construction before another typhoon need be apprehended.

We are requested to state that every effort is being made to salve the cargo of the Leonor, and that in a few days all will be recovered. The agents are waiting instructions from the underwriters in London as to the disposal of the two steamers.

The finding of the Marine Court in the case of David Reed, late master of the White Cloud, was read to him on the 5th in the Harbour-Master's office. It is to the effect that he was guilty of culpable negligence, and that his certificate be suspended for eighteen months. The certificate of William Ellis, late chief officer of the White Cloud, was also suspended for six months.

The disaster of the late typhoon is not altogether without its good, for it furnishes lucrative employment to certain classes of workmen. We hear that the demand for masons and carpenters in Hong Kong is so great that over 2,000 of the fraternity have availed themselves of the cheap fare of the night boats to come down here, where they find ample employment at very remunerative rates.

We understand that the last pages of Archdeacon Gray's book have gone to press, which, considering its great length of 700 pages, and the time it was commenced, is creditable to the publishers. Much time is of course lost in sending proofs out of the Colony for revision, and the necessity in this case has probably added a full third to the time of production. The work is decidedly interesting, and is likely, we imagine, to have a good sale.

Professor Vanek has so frightened the Chinese with his sleight of hand that they are afraid to deal with him. One day he went into a foreign goods shop to buy something, and the price agreed for the article was $3. He placed this sum on the counter; suddenly two of the coins disappeared at the touch of the Professor. Of course the Chinaman refused to deliver the goods until the full amount was paid. The Professor made another touch on the remaining coin, and as suddenly the three dollars were on the counter again. This trick was repeated, until the Chinaman refused to sell unless the Professor paid him in $1 notes.

The s.s. Mongol brought out a large quantity of munitions of war for the Chinese Arsenal at Foochow. Amongst them are five Armstrong guns, weighing twenty tons each, and their carriages, weighing seven tons each. The steamer has gone to Aberdeen to put out this artillery under the Dock Company's shears. The reason of the debarcation here is that water at the Foochow Arsenal has decreased several feet in depth during the last two months, owing to the silting up of the river.

The Hon. P. Ryrie has presented to each of the Messrs. George and Edward Taufer a cup and purse containing $155. The above is the result of the public subscriptions raised to show the general sense of the Messrs. Taufer's conduct in saving life from the steamers Albay and Leonor during the typhoon on the 23rd of September last. Although individual subscriptions were limited to a small sum, the total amount subscribed was $386.

We observe that Mr. Hayllar, Q.C., has returned to the colony per Baroda.

The Carisbrooke took nine days on her recent passage from Saigon, and reports very rough weather outside, with a strong north-east monsoon.

Fresh tenders are invited for floating the Alaska off the beach at Aberdeen. We sincerely trust that the next effort made will be successful.

A nice little jetty is being constructed for the night-steamer Hanyang. This shows a determination on the part of her owners to stick to the trade.

The local authorities at Canton have sent to the British Consulate there a number of articles stolen from the steamer Spark after the lamentable catastrophe of the 22nd August last. The Cantonese have been brisker in their pursuit of the pirates than have our own police in Hong Kong. The articles identified are two of the Spark gongs, a watch belonging to one of the crew, two tins of Messrs. Deacon and Co.'s Tea musters, one ten-dollar gold piece, the property of Captain Brady, an Australian sovereign belonging to poor Mr. Mundy, a tablecloth, and other articles. Among the plunder yet unidentified are a rifle, a one hundred dollar, ten five-dollar, and five one-dollar notes, 10 Chinese pawn tickets, 46 Mexican dollars, some Chinese jewellery, and a quantity of clothing.

We understand that the Rev. N. A. Roach, of the London Missionary Society, has accepted the charge of Shameen Church, Canton, pending the appointment of a successor to the Ven. Archdeacon Gray. This appointment, though merely temporary, says much for Mr. Roach's popularity among Church of England people.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 19th November; no later mail from London had arrived out. We take the following items of intelligence from the Straits Times:—

Burglaries and thefts in dwelling houses have lately been of alarming frequency, the thieves in several instances carrying off iron money chests, to the neglect of jewellery and valuables lying in plain sight. Besides this, a considerable number of cleverly executed counterfeit Mexican dollars, of both the old and the new coinage, have been assiduously put in circulation here, but the vigorous prosecution by the police of all who are caught tendering the counterfeits has checked the operations of the rascals, several of whom have been committed for trial at the next criminal session. Monday, the 9th instant, the Prince of Wales' Birthday, was observed as a holiday by the Government and the mercantile community. The following evening the officers of H.M.S. Charybdis entertained the visitors at Government House with a private theatrical entertainment, in which the amateurs proved themselves actors of no mean ability, and acquitted themselves most admirably throughout.

There has been another severe typhoon in the China Sea, which was encountered by the P. and O. extra steamer Colombian on the 13th instant, on her way from Hong Kong to this port, in which she lost two boats, smashed bulwarks, and sustained other damage. The storm is described as of great violence, and we shall probably have to report further casualties. The arrivals of steamers via the Suez Canal have been the Deucalion on the 7th and Agamemnon on the 9th, from Liverpool; Galatea on the 9th, from Cardiff; Formosa on the 14th, from London; Kjobenhaven on the 16th, from Antwerp; Crocus on the 18th, from London. The departures have been the Tartar on the 6th, for New York; the Hong Kong on the 8th and Essen on the 14th, for London.

The Legislative Council has not yet resumed its sittings, and it is probable little more legislative business will be transacted this year. The Supply Bill for 1875, however, which appears in the Gazette, remains to be passed. The estimated expenditure is $1,485,178, or some $84,000 over that of the present year. There is, however, an increase of some $55,000 in the cost of establishments, which goes far to make up the difference. Penang is again unrepresented in the Council, owing to the resignation of Mr. Walter Scott, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. F. S. Brown, and it is as yet uncertain who will be chosen to occupy the seat.

Arrangements are in progress for organising the Administration of the Native States in terms of the recent Treaties, and it may be concluded that the appointments involved have already been determined upon, though these are not yet announced. Mr. Birch, the Colonial Secretary, is at present occupied on a commission to fix the boundaries of the newly-acquired territory opposite the Dindings, and Mr. Swettenham is acting as Resident at Salangore. The inquiry into the condition of the public service, which has been before the Executive Council for the last three months, has been concluded, and the report of the sitting and its results is now being drawn up. The Council held its sittings throughout with open doors, but the shorthand report of the same is not to be published here till it has been submitted to the Secretary of State for the Colonies. Whether the finding or result of the Council will be made known sooner is not stated, but from the aspect of the investigation, so far as the proceedings disclosed, there is little cause to doubt that the accusations which first gave rise to the inquiry will be declared to be without foundation.

We are given to understand that his Excellency the Governor is of opinion that the Municipality of Penang is responsible for the sanitary arrangements in Province Wellesley, and has accordingly called upon that body to set itself to work at once to improve the drainage, &c., of the different villages. It is furthermore stated that the Governor purposes to introduce sweeping changes in the present system of Municipal Government.

The Fourth Criminal Sessions of 1874 will be opened on Saturday, 14th, and it is understood that the Court will be adjourned till the 16th. We can scarcely be accused of being given to unnecessary cavilling when we assert that during the whole of our experience in the Settlement we never knew the Supreme Court to show less consideration for the jurors summoned to attend the assizes. Several of these will have to travel twenty or thirty miles to answer their names, and will either have to bear the cost of going back again to their homes in the Province, and returning on Monday, or be mulcted in the extra cost of living in town. A notice to the effect that jurors are not required to attend till Monday would save all this useless expenditure, and spare the pockets of many who can ill afford to lose a cent.

We are indebted to a private source for the following translations of official telegrams from Atchin to Batavia:—

A telegram from the Military Commander at Atchin, dated 13th October, mentions enemy numerous and busy in the vicinity of our establishments. Lieut. A. K. Begemann, wounded whilst patrolling, is now better. The blockade of Pasei has been raised. Health not improved, number of deaths stationary. Since 2nd instant four cases of cholera and one of small-pox.

Translation of a Government telegram received on the 5th instant from Atchin via Penang:—

Tuloh has hoisted the flag; blockade raised. Banda has returned from west coast with rather favourable reports.

The enemy erecting fortifications in the direction of Longbatta. State of health unfavourable; number of sick and mortality increasing. No new cases of small-pox; cholera, one.

During the temporary absence of Mr. H. M. Mills, who proceeds to England to complete the usual formalities on being called to the Bar and to enter on the Midland Circuit, Lieutenant Brackenbury, R.E., A.D.C., undertakes the duties of Private Secretary to the Governor. Mr. Mills returns by the last mail in February.

The Government Gazette notifies the appointment of Lieut. Herbert Meyrick, of the 1-10th Regiment, as a Justice of the Peace and Acting Assistant Superintendent of Police and Coroner for Penang.

SHANGHAI MORALITY.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Under the above heading a person signing himself "Pater-Familias" writes, in your issue of the 28th August, denouncing the demi-monde of Shanghai in terms worthy of the noble lord who was once good enough to describe this settlement as a "sink of iniquity." It is by no means as a champion of the class just mentioned—admittedly necessary in any large community though it may be—that I venture to address you in reply, but rather to expose the misrepresentations of your correspondent—misrepresentations too gross, perhaps, to require comment, but which still it may be well to correct for the benefit of a possible minority of credulous readers. As the simplest method I shall deal with them, briefly, in the order in which they appear in the communication under notice.

"Pater-Familias" writes:—

"The settlement is overrun with European women of various nationalities, who are allowed to ply for hire and drive in carriages with livery servants on the Bubbling Well-road, or Rotten-row of Shanghai, without interference by the police."

The settlement is not "overrun" with such women; on the contrary, their number, in proportion to that of the whole male community, is moderate when compared with that of other towns under similar conditions. The supply is, of course, strictly regulated by the demand, and the latter is kept within due bounds by the very considerable outlay required for the indulgence. It must not be supposed either that the persons in question "ply for hire on the Bubbling Well-road," a suspicion to which the slipshod English of the sentence might give rise, justifying a horrified reader in the supposition that at the very least "books" were unblushingly made up in the public thoroughfares.

"It is well known that young men who are foolish enough to visit the dens of these women have heavy bills sent in to them next day, under threats of exposure if not paid. This has already led to the ruin of several members of our community, and it is, in my humble opinion, high time that something was done to check this species of swindling."

"It is well known," on the contrary, that such bills, heavy though they be, are not, except, I presume, in cases of doubtful solvency, "sent in next day," and that "threats of exposure" are also simply mythical, for the sufficient reason, did no other exist, that such a course would imperil the popularity of a class to whom popularity is obviously indispensable. "The ruin of several members of our community" is traceable rather to share speculation and racing, gambling generally, in fact, than to undue indulgence in the lusts of the flesh. For the charge of "swindling" there is no ground. Here, as all over the world, a price, extravagant or not as the case may be, is demanded for a certain equivalent. Decision is open as to whether le jeu vaut la chandelle.

"* * it is now possible to walk down Regent-street without being jostled by abandoned women in a state of semi-nudity."

This is very fortunate for the habitués of Regent-street. Before this innovation was introduced there, how much more blessed must have been Shanghai, for from the earliest appearance in our midst of delegates from the section of society so obnoxious to "Pater-Familias," until the present day, no case has, I believe, been recorded of a "wife or daughter" having been "jostled by abandoned women," above all, by "abandoned women in a state of semi-nudity," for this is a variety—rare, let us hope, even in the past of Regent-street—absolutely unknown amongst us.

"The shopkeepers of Regent-street found it interfered with their business, so it was put down; I therefore fail to see why it cannot be kept under in Shanghai."

The English have been characterised as "a nation of shopkeepers." Justly would the taunt seem to have been applied, since this worthy class has been able, unaided, to produce such a social reform. Why this mighty power has not been directed to a similar end in Shanghai is perhaps due to the fact that the members of the demi-monde, so far from interfering with shop interests, are admirable and valued customers. To the storekeepers of our settlement "Pater-Familias" will therefore appeal in yain.

"An auction was lately held in Shanghai at one of these houses, furnished in the most sumptuous style, the proceeds of the sale amounting to two thousand pounds. The question arises therefore from whom did this money come"?

Owing, perhaps, to an abject respect for the magnificence of an establishment which sold out for two thousand pounds, the writer does not stigmatise is as a "den." But really the sum does not of itself prove, in the Far East, the sumptuous character of the domicile. These lines, however, are quoted to mark the naiveté, real or assumed, displayed in the concluding sentence.

"It (this evil) has been denounced from the pulpit, but still it flourishes like an 'upas tree,' killing all who approach its deadly influence."

The less said the better about the notorious denunciation from the pulpit, to which I presume your correspondent refers. A miguided chaplain made an offensive remark about young men coming to the sacred fane, "reeking from the arms of their mistresses." But the physical constitution of the human race must be strangely altered before protests, even when strengthened by pulpit inspiration, can be productive of much beneficial result. To conclude this criticism, the metaphor by which "the evil" is represented as "killing all who approach its deadly influence" is but a fitting end to such a quaint jumble of exaggeration and mock morality.

Wondering sadly what could have led your staid correspondent so to trifle with veracity, my eye is attracted by the date of his letter—4th July. Here may be the explanation. This day marks a great anniversary, which is honoured in Shanghai with a wealth of convivial observance. "Pater-Familias" doubtless joined in the general hilarity, and it is, perhaps, to the revulsion of feeling which he experienced on regaining his closet to a dark hour of racking brow and haply of uneasy conscience that may be attributed an attempted stigma, which, in a calmer, happier moment, he would doubtless willingly have recalled.—Your obedient servant,

October 19th, 1874. Z.

HAMBURG, DEC. 8.

The Court of Administration of the "Anglo-Deutsche Bank of Hamburg," in compliance with the wish expressed by a large number of shareholders to call a special meeting before the end of the year, and give them full information on the state of their affairs, in order to enable them to judge as to the expediency of liquidating the concern or continuing to carry it on with some modifications, have convened an extraordinary general meeting for the 22nd inst., and in the meantime have drawn up a very lengthy report, which has been printed and distributed to the shareholders, so that they may appear at the meeting prepared which way to vote. It has been no secret here for a long time that the affairs of this Bank were in a very bad way, and indeed a glance at the share-list, where the value has been always going lower and never recovering, would suffice to show the merest chance outsider that it must be a hazardous investment, as they are now not worth more than 42½ to 43 per cent. It must, however, be remembered that the Bank was founded at that unfortunate period of excitement when the wildest speculations were the order of the day, when shares were run up in a fabulous manner, private industrial undertakings of standing were bought and turned into joint-stock companies, directors were picked up in the streets and became millionaires in a few days, and everybody believed that the millennium of riches had arrived. Then came the general crash, and a panic ensued; bubble companies burst every day, directors, who were accustomed to roll down to their company's offices in splendid equipages with blood horses and magnificent liveries, suddenly skedaddled and became invisible, many of them taking with them the cash-box or other valuables, and in fact sauve qui peut was the general cry. Be it understood that I am far from insinuating that the directors of the Anglo-Deutsche Bank are to be charged with any such disreputable mal-practices; but they, according to their own account, certainly kept up with the spirit of the period and entered into wild speculations by which the shareholders are losers to the amount of several millions, and perhaps as much more will be eventually lost if the affairs of the Bank are wound up too quickly, and forced sales are effected.

One of the objects that have turned out most disastrously for the Bank is the Transatlantic Steamship Company—the so-called Eagle line—in which a large sum of money has been lost, the shares which were taken at par being now worth only 22 per cent. The report does not say how many shares the Bank originally held, but the directors confess to a loss of two million marks. Then another couple of millions have been lost by an equally unfortunate purchase of a paper mill in Holstein, which was worked by most expensive steam machinery, but cannot compete with the smaller establishments worked in the old way with a stream of water for the motive power. Another industrial undertaking in which the Bank took a large interest is called the "International Building and Railway Material-making Company at Frankfort, which, however, has managed to pay a dividend of 5 per cent., so that it at least covered the interest for the last year. Then a large brewery has been constructed at Wiesbaden, and a coal-field of lignites bought in Hungary, both of which are worked for account of the Bank, but confessedly at a serious loss. The sum of 102,235 marks has been lost by the dishonesty of one of the servants of the Bank—the chief cashier—which, however, is a mere bagatelle in comparison with the other items. Large sums of money have been invested in land speculations, chiefly at Berlin and Vienna, which are still in possession of the Bank, and appear among the assets. After the crash they became unsaleable, and would now not find a purchaser if brought to the hammer; but it is just possible that some day or other they may be got rid of without loss though at the cost of several years' interest on the capital invested. The real legitimate banking business has been on a very limited scale, and the receipts from bill-discounting and commission are not worth mentioning, and far below the expense of keeping up their large establishment of the palace they bought for offices and their numerous staff of liberally paid clerks and other employés, which are put down in the balance sheet at 214,409 marks.

From the above it will be seen that the Bank is in anything but a flourishing condition, nor are their prospects for the future very promising; and under these circumstances the directors come before the shareholders and ask for a general release from their responsibility, urging that if they were led into speculations that have proved disastrous, they did it with the best intentions and in the full hope at the time of making large profits for the shareholders. Their second question for the decision of the approaching meeting is whether the business shall be carried on or terminated and wound up. It is known that there are a great many shareholders very hostile to the directors, and indignant at what they consider the reckless mismanagement of the whole concern from the very beginning,

THE HEALTH OF THE ARMY IN CEYLON.

We have already given a summary of the official reports for 1872 on the Health of the Army serving in China and the Straits Settlements. We now complete the subject by a résumé of the report from Ceylon. The force of white troops stationed in the island during the year was the 73rd Regiment, two batteries of the Royal Artillery, and a few non-commissioned offices of the Ceylon Rifle Regiment, and details of the Army Hospital Corps. The average strength was 1,001, the admissions into hospital were 1,026; and the deaths, including three invalids at sea on their way to England, twenty-five. The admissions to hospital were considerably below, but the deaths considerably above those of the preceding year. General diseases were less prevalent, but more fatal, than in 1871. Two fatal cases of enteric fever occurred among the military prisoners confined in the civil jail at Colombo, a building, from gross sanitary defects, quite unfit for the reception of Europeans, and from which it was subsequently found necessary to remove the remaining military prisoners on account of the prevalence of dysentery in a severe and fatal form among them. Most of the admissions for remittent fever occurred in the 73rd Regiment, and the majority of them at Trincomalee. At Colombo the admissions for fevers of all kinds fell from 111 in 1871 to thirty in 1872, the decrease being attributable, in the opinion of the surgeon of the regiment, to the removal of the ramparts, which previously shut out the sea breeze from the fort. The diseases against which the Contagious Diseases Act is directed were considerably less prevalent. The principal medical officer reported that the Act was in full force, but that there were difficulties in the way of its being efficiently carried out. The increased prevalance and fatality of dysentery is attributed in part to the unusually heavy rainfall during the year, and the inundation of many parts of the island, but chiefly to the insanitary condition of the civil jail at Colombo already referred to, in which many of the worst cases originated. Accidents were considerably below the average, and none of them were fatal. There was one case of suicide by rifle shot in the 73rd Regiment, at Colombo, the indirect result of intemperance. The Asiatic troops in Ceylon during the year consisted of the Ceylon Rifle Regiment and eighty-seven Gun Lascars, and the average strength of the whole was 862. The admissions into hospital were 511, and the deaths nine. Both were much below the average of the past ten years.

Deputy-Inspector-General Watt, after stating that the year had, on the whole, been a healthy one, presents the following sanitary report:—Dysentery has been more intractable in its form, and double the number of admissions have taken place from it than in the year preceding. This is probably due, in some measure, to climatic influences. After a long, dry and hot period at the early part of the year, great quantities of rain fell, and the country, especially about Colombo—where the greatest amount of this disease occurred—was inundated, and remained so for a long time. But another marked cause of increase in the number of admissions from this affection was the insanitary state of the convict prison at Welikada, where dysentery, towards the latter part of the year, prevailed as an epidemic, and great mortality occurred. As many cases had been sent to the regimental hospitals, some of them very severe, I considered it necessary to recommend the removal of the military prisoners. This was done, and no cases of disease of any importance have been admitted since the prisoners have been in the Garrison Cells, where they still remain. I would strongly recommend that a military prison should be built at Colombo, for the reception of prisoners from all the stations in the island. The Garrison Cells, now in use, will soon have to be given up, and others built, and it would not add greatly to the expense if a sufficient number were built to accommodate all the military prisoners, as men are now only sent to the Garrison Cells when their sentences do not exceed forty-two days' imprisonment. Many additional buildings have been finished and occupied in the course of the year, especially two magnificent blocks of buildings at Colombo. At Galle and Trincomalee also new barracks have been built, and the means of ablution, ventilation, and drainage have been improved. Benham's ranges have also been supplied, for the use of the European troops, at nearly all the stations in the island, and the dry-earth system is extended to all stations. No alterations have taken place in the rations of the troops, which I consider are of good quality and sufficiently varied, nor has there been any change in the clothing of the troops, which appears suited to the climate. The thin flannel shirts which have been issued for the use of the sick in hospital have proved a great comfort, as the thick ones which were formerly issued were unfitted for use in tropical hospitals. I trust that very soon all the hospitals in the island will be supplied with them. The water supply throughout the island is generally good and abundant. At the new hospital on Galle Face, and the new married quarters adjacent, however, it has been found on analysis to be perfectly unfit for use, containing a large amount of animal impurities, which seem to arise from soakage from the lake, which is close by, and into which sewage of all descriptions is put. The water in the new barracks is of excellent quality, and a supply is daily sent down for the use of the quarters and hospital, for the purposes of drinking and cooking. I believe it is in contemplation to lay down pipes to convey pure water from the barracks to the whole of the quarters and hospital. The water also at some of the wells at Trincomalee has been found unfit for use, but there is an ample supply obtainable from those which contain good water. At all stations filters are used.

Of the European troops only five were sent to England invalided, against sixty-one in the previous year; but fifteen were discharged the service at Netley, the majority of whom were invalids of the previous year. Of the Asiatic troops seven only were discharged the service, against fifty-one in the previous year. Diseases of the digestive system were the chief cause of invaliding in the white troops. The proportion constantly sick was considerably lower than in 1871 among the European troops, and much lower among the Asiatic troops. The average sick time to each soldier also was reduced in both classes. The average duration of the cases was slightly increased among the European troops, but considerably reduced among the Asiatic troops. A table given in the report shows a gradually increasing ratio of mortality among the white troops in this command up to thirty-five years, and an excessive death rate between thirty-five and forty.

THE AGGRESSIVE CHINAMAN.

The New York Times has the following:—

He has come to stay. There is no longer any possibility of doubt as to his intentions. Ah Sin is permanent. Those Californians who have always been opposed to him, and who have disdainfully held him up to the gaze of the citizens of the Republic as a shallow Pagan whose hold upon our consideration was only temporary, are beginning to despair. The yellow son of the Celestial Empire is getting a firm grasp on civilisation; he begins to feel the independence of his position; he no longer cringes. As the courage and independence of the Celestial increase, as he feels more and more certain that he has established himself on American soil, he discloses characteristics which indisputably prove that he is getting civilised. The Chinaman has not been content with demonstrating his capacity for adopting the noble art of self-defence as it is understood in the West, but he has still further demonstrated his desire to have an intimate practical acquaintance with all the peculiar institutions of that section. In the vicinity of Marysville, Cal., he has blossomed into the full-fledged highwayman. A band of five Chinese, armed to the teeth, and provided with the usual profane and slang vocabulary of the eccentric "road agent" of the Pacific States, recently stopped an innocent emigrant of the Caucasian race and relieved him of a large sum of money. Deeply impressed with this method of securing fortunes as speedy, and, on the whole, reasonably safe, the imitative Pagans have entered industriously upon the business, and will very likely have many successors. There is no denying that they evince quite as much aptitude for this branch of high art as has ever been demonstrated by the more pretentious Caucasian.

These small instances serve to show the Chinaman in a new light and to prove that he is not likely to be much longer content with merely dwelling on the outskirts of our civilisation, but proposes to enter fully into it. He is no more depicted as the cringing barbarian, who suffers all wrong without protest, and mutely accepts his fate, whatever it may be; but as a decided element, and one which must always be taken into account. He is bold and energetic in mining camps and in cities; he crowds the white man aside now and then. The other day the inhabitants of one of the new fashionable quarters of San Francisco discovered, much to their horror, that a Chinese colony was about to spring up in their very midst; that a village of several hundred "heathen," with the accompanying gambling dens, and Joss-houses, would arise directly opposite the mansions of aristocrats, unless the speculators who controlled the land could induce the aforesaid heathen to change their minds. The "Celestial Alderman from the Chinese ward" and the "Americo-Chinese party" in local politics will, perhaps, be among the next announcements; and, in due time, the American citizens of California towns may expect to be met with the demand from Chinaman that Confucius shall be daily read in the pubiic schools.

PUBLIC-HOUSES IN ENGLAND AND JAPAN.—Mr. Cowper-Temple, M.P., while presiding at a meeting at Gosport on the 14th inst., for the purpose of establishing a working men's club in the town, said one of the Japanese Ambassadors who were sent over to enquire into the customs and habits of England, in order that they might report to their Emperor what portion of the English habits and customs might be imitated in Japan, was pleased to find that in every town and village a public-house had been provided. He thought these must be provided by the public for the benefit of the public; and he was much surprised to find that the public-house, instead of being a place necessarily for the good of the public, was much oftener for the good of the private individual who received the public into his house, and, in return, asked them to consume a certain amount of his liquor, whether they were thirsty or not, and to spend a certain sum of money, whether they liked it or not. In Japan, where there was a paternal government, it was likely they would establish houses for the public which would be for the good of the public. They could not do that in this country, but anything of that sort had to be done by private individuals; and one of the objects of the proposed club at Gosport was that it might be a sort of public-house for its members.

THE LATE MR. W. W. KER.—The will, with one codical, dated October 25, 1861, and June 21, 1870, of William Wemyss Ker, late of Singapore, who died on October 14 at Langlands, Clapham-park, was proved on the 26th ult. by John Cook and Henry Minchin Simons, the surviving executors, the personalty being sworn under £50,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife, Mrs. Eliza Catherine Ker, all his furniture and household effects, £1,000, and an annuity of £200, in addition to the provision made for her by marriage settlement; he also leaves her his house, called Langlands, for life. The rest of his property goes to his six children—Isabella, James, Robert, Thomas, Mary, and Henry.

THE Java Packet, from Holland to Java, has picked and landed at Batavia a boat's crew of the Euxine, which vessel had been destroyed by fire. The boat contained the second mate and eight seamen. They had been reduced to the last extremity of hunger, one of the crew, an Italian, having been killed and eaten by his companions.

THE Eastern and Australian Mail Company's steamer Somerset left Singapore on the 15th inst. for Brisbane, with the London mail of the 13th ult.

In the Court of Queen's Bench an action has been brought by Messrs. Sassoon and Co., of Bombay and China, against a firm of underwriters, claiming a sum of £30,000 for a cargo of opium which had been lost in transit from Hong Kong to Ningpo. The claim was disputed, on the ground that the insurance only covered the voyage from Bombay to Hong Kong. The Lord Chief Justice was of opinion that the point should be reserved for the decision of the full Court, and directed that a nominal verdict should be entered for the plaintiffs, subject to future argument.

LONDON: MONDAY, DEC. 21, 1874.

THE TYPHOON AT HONG KONG.

THE Hong Kong Government Gazette of October 17 publishes a series of reports by the Colonial officials of the damages and loss of life caused by the disastrous typhoon of Sept. 22 and 23, of which the following is a summary. From these documents we can arrive at a more correct comprehension of the nature of the disaster; and the reports reflect great credit on the local government, from Governor KENNEDY—whom, we presume, ordered their compilation—to all the officers engaged on them.

Mr. DEANE, Superintendent of Police, reports that the bodies of seventeen Europeans and 604 Chinese have been recovered by the police, that over 200 houses have been more or less destroyed, that two steamers were sunk in the harbour, and eight ships were supposed to have been lost, that the destruction of Chinese junks and small boats cannot even be estimated, and that in many cases they went down, crews and all, so that probably the number of bodies recovered does not represent more than one-third of the actual loss of life! No less than forty readings of the barometer were taken at the central station between 7.30 P.M. of the 22nd, and 4.20 A.M. of the 23rd; at the first-named time it stood at 29·50, falling gradually till it reached 28·73 at 2.3 A.M. of the 23rd, even shifting to ·70; after that time it rose slowly.

Mr. CECIL SMITH, the Registrar-General, gives the following statement of the mortality among the Chinese:—Drowned: men 419, women 152, boys 93, girls 48, or 712 in all. Killed by falling houses: men 52, women 15, boys 12, girls 5, or 84 in all. Total deaths 796, which is probably not above 33 per cent. of the real loss of life. Of foreigners 14 were known to have been drowned, and 3 killed by falling houses. Thus we have a grand total of 813 deaths registered, the result of this awful calamity.

Mr. PRICE, Surveyor-General, gives an elaborate report of the damage done to the city and outlying villages, and here we find the true explanation of the vast amount of damage done. That the island, he says, was not many miles distant from the focus of the cyclone is proved not only by the intensity of the wind (of the pressure of which unfortunately we have no record, as the anemometrical register was swept away), but by a feature known to exist only within such a focus, namely, the abrupt intervals of calm during the height of the gale. These lulls were instantaneous, often lasting as long as four or five minutes, and alternating with the most violent gusts, equally sudden, the conjoint action of the two became, as it were, that of a battering ram. To these sudden shocks, continued for three hours, buildings finally succumbed that would have withstood the same pressure of the wind had the latter been constant and steady. Kowloong escaped at first, owing to the mountains at the back of it, but was afterwards taken in flank. The Surveyor-General roughly estimates that about four per cent. only of the houses in Victoria escaped injury, i.e., in other words, from 4,000 to 6,000 dwellings were more or less injured. At the height of the storm, though it should then have been low water, the sea was driven back by the wind with such force that it washed over the lower portions of the city; before three A.M. the gasworks were submerged and the city plunged in darkness during the most anxious period. The Praya Wall for about three quarters of a mile has been so broken up that it will have to be entirely rebuilt with new material; and for another mile it has been so seriously damaged that it may also have to be rebuilt. After the sea retired, the magnificent Praya was left in places like a sloping beach, covered with the stones and concrete debris of the sea wall, together with wrecks and spars. If the gale had lasted but a few hours longer, some of the large mansions fronting the sea must inevitably have gone, for they were already being undermined by the waves. All the wharves along the Praya have been swept away or otherwise injured, except the P. and O. new jetty and the Hong Kong pier, both timber structures; all the granite piers, be it noted, succumbed long before the timber jetties, a point which should not be lost sight of when the work of reconstruction is begun. All the sewer outlets in the Praya wall were destroyed, and the sewage dammed in, and what with the stench thus caused and that from the decomposing bodies, it is a matter for wonder that the health of the colony did not suffer. The Government buildings nearly all suffered to some extent. Government House—with the Law Courts, Lock Hospital, and Public Offices—was the most fortunate. The Civil Hospital, already old and rickety, has been left in so ruined a state as to be no longer habitable. Victoria Gaol has lost part of its roof, and some of its windows, but it is still safe as a prison. Stonecutters' Island Gaol is a heap of ruins; many of its main walls are so cracked and out of the perpendicular that they must be knocked down. The Central Police Barracks, and the various Police Stations have suffered severely; a steam launch and other craft were left stranded on the basement floor of one of them. The General Post-office does not show any external signs of injury, but it has been greatly strained, owing to the weakness of the roof timbers. The six principal markets have been damaged, some in their roofs and some in their walls. The schools seem to have come off, on the whole, with trifling damage, but the police courts have not been so fortunate. The damage to the Harbour-master's office is surprisingly small, considering its position, but the meteorological station has been entirely swept away, instruments and all. The Pokfoolum reservoir had the water lifted out of it in sheets; the gauge basin and outlet pipe were so choked with sand that the water had to be cut off from the city for a day to admit of their being put to rights. If we bear in mind their position, the Victoria Peak buildings have not suffered so severely as might have been expected, though, of course, they are much damaged. Of the other public buildings the Cathedral has fared best. The Presbyterian Church and the Roman Catholic Cathedral were partly unroofed; St. Joseph's Church was laid in ruins, and the pediment of the City Hall was blown over, and completely crushed the front portico of the building. Well may Mr. PRICE remark that the city presents altogether a truly distressing sight; but the typhoon has not been without its lessons in showing what style of building will best withstand the fury of the wind. The amount of destruction reported in the Government Gardens and amongst the trees on the various roads is most lamentable, especially when we consider the labour and pains bestowed upon them, and the effects of this fearful typhoon will be felt there for many years to come.

Mr. THOMSETT, the Harbour-master, has a sad tale to tell He traces the advance of the typhoon, of the approach of which sure indications had been given by the barometer some hours before it burst upon the devoted island. He is of opinion that the casualties to the British and foreign shipping would not have been so great had more of the vessels been provided with heavier anchors, and had cable been veered at an earlier stage of the storm than was apparently done; but the sudden shiftings of the wind, and the simultaneous rise of tide, were doubtless the principal causes of the losses afloat. There was literally no place of safety for junks and small craft; even Stonecutter's Island and Kowloong Bays afforded them no protection. The casualties to junks are as follows:—Twenty-eight sunk, and 612 (including boats) driven on shore, of which 455 are repairable and 157 totally lost; besides these a number of boats are supposed to have been blown out to sea from Stanley and have never been heard of since. The probable number of lives lost from junks and boats is put at 672. Casualties of various kinds happened to thirty-three foreign vessels, with crews numbering 874 persons (including passengers in some instances), of whom 672 were saved, and the rest are missing, those lost being nearly all Chinese.

THE JAPANESE MINT.

THE report of the Director of the Japanese Imperial Mint at Osaka for the year ending 31st July has been issued, and we understand that it is the last which Mr. KINDER will issue, as his connection with the Mint is about to terminate. It is probably known to our readers that, when the Japanese Government decided on the establishment of a Mint, they made an engagement with the Oriental Bank Corporation, giving them authority to engage the principal officers and to act as bankers to the Mint in the supply of bullion and other requisites. This agreement terminates in February next, and the Japanese Government have signified their intention not to renew it. That the work has been well done appears to be satisfactorily proved by the certificates of the Assayer of the Royal Mint in London. The coinage has been perfect in weight and standard. The new silver yen of 416 grains has been received in China, the Straits, Java, Siam, &c., on a par with the dollar. Some difficulty has, however, been experienced since the coinage of the new American trade dollar, which weighs 420 grains, and it is under consideration to increase the weight of the Japanese yen. The Japanese Mint has successfully attained its object in producing a satisfactory gold and silver currency, and we must question the wisdom of the Government in severing their connection with the institution through whom this has been achieved. It seems, however, that the Japanese are incapable of appreciating our good old motto of "let well alone." We trust that the future administration of the Mint will be as successful as the past; but the credit of a mint is easily shaken, and once let a base or inferior coin be traced to it, and the whole coinage will be mistrusted. The right of the Japanese to adopt their own views on this, as well as all other similar matters we do not question; but we repeat, the wisdom of such procedure is decidedly adverse, in the long run, to their interests. The bunkum in the American papers with the big heads of the "British removed from the Mint," &c., we can, of course, afford to smile at after the great achievements of General WILLIAMS in the way of finance, on behalf of the Japanese Government. In another column we give a summary of the Director's report, to which we have alluded.

WITH reference to the paragraph which has been going the round of the press about a Chinese prince, speaking English, having arrived on an Educational Mission, it would be as well to state a few facts, which will perhaps settle the question. In the first place, no Chinese prince speaks English, and in the second place no prince could be deputed to represent an educational mission. The Chinese Educational Mission referred to can only mean the Tung-wen-Kwan, in Peking known as the Peking University, an institution that has had a very chequered career; or the lately established Board of Education for Chinese Youths in Foreign Languages and Sciences at Shanghai, under whose auspices several Chinese youths have been lately sent to America. The present mission is probably an off-shoot of this latter establishment, the object of which is to promote scientific education for the purpose of developing the actual resources of China without the necessity of employing foreigners. The great stumbling-block which has hitherto presented itself to those Chinese statesmen who wish to introduce foreign appliances into China is the fact that they must at first employ foreigners. This they are unwilling to do. The utter uselessness of English public schools as a means of instruction to Chinese youths needs no demonstration. Physics and the English language are totally neglected in China.

A SHORT time since we called attention to some proposed important reforms in the system of Consular Courts in Egypt, some of which would probably extend to the Consular Courts in the Far East. We learn from a correspondent of The Times that the consolidation of the various jurisdictions in Egypt under one judicial system is no longer delayed by the opposition of France and Greece. Those two countries have given their consent to the reform, and the judicial appointments in the new Courts are now being filled up. We are informed that an English Judge of First Instance is required in addition to the English Judge of Appeal already named, and the recommendation to the post is intrusted to the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.. It is understood that a judge in the event of his not being reappointed at the end of five years will receive one year's salary. The French system of law, with some slight modifications, will be administered, and all proceedings will be conducted in that language.

THE plant and machinery for the proposed new paper mills at Hiogo are ordered for shipment by the Eastern Agency Company, per steamer Pernambuco, to leave early in January. Mr. LOCKHART, the engineer who has superintended the construction of the works, proceeds to Hiogo by the same opportunity.

THE new Japanese Minister has arrived in London and taken his temporary residence at the Alexandra Hotel, Hyde Park. His credentials have been sent in to the Foreign-office. The newly-appointed Envoy to Berlin has been received by the Emperor.

WE are glad to notice that H.M.S. Frolic has been ordered from Hong Kong to the Sooloo Archipelago. The seizures by the Spanish, which we have lately reported, render it desirable that we were informed what is doing in that quarter.

THE appointment of Mr. WALTER SCOTT as a member of the Legislative Council of the Straits Settlements is gazetted. The appointment of ANDO TARO as Japanese Vice-Consul at Hong Kong has been approved by the QUEEN.

THE MINT AT OSAKA.

The report of the Director of the Imperial Japanese Mint at Osaka for the year ending 31st July, 1874, shows that the amount of gold of standard fineness imported into the Mint during the year was 456,944 ounces troy at ·900 standard, while the total for the previous year was 1,310,296, showing a decrease this year of 853,301 ounces. The gold bullion of various descriptions imported was 225,583 ounces. The amount of silver of standard fineness imported during the year was 2,300,721 ounces, against 2,432,375 in the previous year, the decrease being 131,654 ounces. The silver bullion of various descriptions imported amounted to 555,096 ounces.

During the year 1,724,158 gold yen pieces have been struck of the value of $8,620,801; 156,080 two-yen pieces, of the value of $312,160; and 438,811 one-yen pieces, valued at $438,811; the total being 2,319,049 coins, of the gross value of $9,371,772. The number of silver coins struck was 24,532,529, representing a value of $3,496,584; and the copper coins were 36,012,727, representing a value of $285,313; the grand total being 62,864,305, of the gross value of $13,153,669, showing an increase on the year of 36,713,099 in the number of coins.

There is a marked falling off in gold, which was to be expected, for the rate of exchange has ruled against the advantage of coining gold, and the amount in circulation is deemed sufficient.

The total number of persons employed in the executive department of the Mint was 380, including Japanese officials and operatives. No change has occurred in the Assay-office since the last report, and the business continues to be conducted with the greatest care and ability. The weighing-room now contains ten automatic balances, capable of weighing 100,000 coins per diem.

The gross receipts of the Mint from the commencement of the coinage in 1871 to July 31st, 1874, are estimated at yen 2,158,777.00.

SILVER COINAGE.

On the 17th March the Japanese Government issued the authorisation for the coinage of a new silver one-yen piece of improved design, the weight to be 416 grains troy and the fineness 900, with the value clearly indicated thereon, for the guidance of the foreigners as well as Japanese. A considerable number of these coins have gone into circulation. The Government of the Straits Settlements recognised the new coin as a legal tender, and it was also accepted at other places on the coast of China. But although the Japanese silver yen as then proposed was the precise equivalent of the Hong Kong dollar, the application to his Excellency the Governor of Hong Kong for the Japanese yen to be proclaimed in the colony as a legal tender was, at the instance of the Chamber of Commerce, refused. Strange to say, however, the Canton Government immediately proclaimed the coins for acceptance. The new silver yen has been, so far, well received, but serious objections were raised as to the weight of 416 grains, whilst the trade dollar of America weighed 420 grains. The Government have it under consideration how far it may be desirable to assimilate the weight of the Japanese yen with the American trade dollar.

The same difficulty presents itself as appears to have been felt in the United States. The unit of value is the gold dollar in one case and the gold yen in the other, and each country had previously a silver coin of the same nominal value. The "trade dollar" of the United States was authorised by the Coinage Act of Feb. 12th, 1873, and the addition to the designation was doubtless to distinguish it clearly from the previous silver dollar of 412½ grains in weight. "Further, it is designed expressly for export, and has no fixed value as compared with gold. It is in no proper sense a monetary standard or unit of account, and is not included or referred to when the silver coins for home use are spoken of."

From similar reasons the Japanese Government may deem it necessary to increase the weight of the silver coin intended solely for trade purposes amongst those who may find it inconvenient to adopt the gold currency of Japan. The designation, therefore, would no longer be a "yen," but as the weight and fineness in every respect equal the "trade dollar," the same term may be adopted, thereby marking distinctly the increased value over the legal deviation in weight should be one grain only in each direction, and the seignorage or minting charge will probably be reduced to ½ per cent.

The coinage of silver has been chiefly confined to the smaller denominations of subsidiary pieces, which continue to be in demand, and the silver coins already in circulation being equal only to about 41 cents per head of the population, a considerable increase may be looked for.

COPPER COINAGE.

The coinage of copper commenced in December last, and has steadily progressed. It has now reached some thirty-six million pieces; to replace, however, the present coinage of the country will require many years for the production of the required amount, and increased coining power will be necessary to meet this demand.

COST OF MINT.

From the Commissioners' account it appears that the total cost of the Mint establisnment from the commencement of the works in 1868 to 31st July, 1874, amounts to $1,960,075.00. This sum includes the original Mint buildings, the additions and enlargements for coinage of copper, the bullion offices, residences for officials, and workmens' barracks, gas works, coke ovens, store, and coal sheds—in fact, all buildings and appliances of whatever kind—machinery imported and manufactured, stores from Europe and Japan, coals, &c., as well as all salaries, wages, and every contingent expense. The appropriation of portions of this sum to capital account and current expenditure presents the usual difficulties—large additions to the machinery having been constructed on the premises, which, with endless other appliances, are, in the accounts referred to included in current expenditure.

The following division does not accord exactly with the Accountant's arrangements, but I consider it a fair approximation of the total under the two headings, viz. :—

Capital account	Yen 1,500,000
Current expenditure to July 31, 1874 ...	460,075
	Yen 1,960,075

For this outlay of 1,500,000 the Government possess a most efficiently-appointed Mint, complete in itself, and capable of producing 300,000 to 400,000 coins of mixed denominations, or $100,000 per diem. Some estimate may be formed of the extent and capacity of the establishment by reference to a statement in the Appendix, showing the superficial area of the principal departments. Of the imported stores included in current expenditure there may be sufficient in stock to supply the requirements of the coming year.

THE GROSS EARNINGS OR RECEIPTS OF THE MINT.

The gross receipts of the Mint from the commencement of the coinage in 1871 to July 31, 1874, are as follows :—

Gold.
Seignorage premelting and assay fees	Yen 475,636
Silver.
Seignorage, premelting, and assay fees, and profit on subsidiary coins	1,543,141
Copper.
Estimated gross profits on copper coinage ...	140,000

ESTIMATED ANNUAL EXPENDITURE.

The estimated expenditure for the ensuing year, including salaries, wages, stores, coals, &c., may be taken as follows :—

Directors' Department.
Pay of European officials, 36 Japanese sub-officials and cadets, and 331 operatives ...	Yen 102,540
Probable value of stores, coals, crucibles, stationery, &c.	51,000
Commissioners' Department.
Pay of 16 officials and 108 sub-officials and servants	62,000
Total ...	Yen 215,540

The above figures are of course subject to some variation, as much will depend on the actual operations of the Mint; and as the employés become more thoroughly acquainted with the duties, superfluous and indifferent men may be dispensed with and the expenses decreased.

With reference to the expenses of the Director's Department it must be borne in mind that the great distance from supplies and the necessity for the means being at hand to replace worn-out apparatus or injured machinery render many adjuncts imperative, which would not be required elsewhere. Not only are the engineers' workshops, smithy, &c., on a large scale, but a foundry had to be erected.

Copper, which in any other Mint would be received in a state suitable for coinage, has here to be refined. The production of coke, gas, and other requirements tend to swell the number of the Mint operatives. Again, attention should be directed to the large number of coins produced, for this is the chief test to enable a fair estimate to be formed as to the capabilities of a Mint. The value of the out-turn is no indication of the labour and attendant expenditure as the trouble and cost of striking a copper rin (1,000 pieces being equal to one yen) is nearly the same as would be the case in producing a gold coin of similar dimensions. It would be found that the expenditure compares favourably with any similar establishment where a like out-turn in number of coins is produced.

THE CONSULAR REPORTS ON THE TRADE OF CHINA.

FOOCHOW.

Mr. Consul Sinclair reports the receipts at the Maritime Customs from foreign trade amount to Tls. 1,658,530, or £497,559 2s. 11d., as against Tls. 1,861,208, or £538,362 11s. 11d. in 1872. There is, consequently, a falling off of £60,803 9s. in the trade of the year.

With regard to the opium trade Mr. Sinclair says :—

The chief feature to remark upon is a falling-off in the consumption of Patna, a reason for which is gathered from native sources to be owing to China-grown drug having been in more general supply, roughly estimated at about 1,700 piculs, against 1,000 piculs in the year 1872, as last spring was much milder than 1872, and consequently more favourable for the cultivation of the poppy. The cost is said to be about from $300 to $310 per picul, but only very small quantities are taken at one time, and probably thereby a le-kim tax is saved. The quality of the drug is, however, rather too thin; it is found necessary, in order to meet the native taste, to mix fully one-half of Indian growth to furnish sufficient pungency. Persian appears to have been driven out of the field as far as this port is concerned. The following are the places where the poppy is said to be cultivated for the manufacture of opium (the two first-named places are the most important in this respect):—Suz gan Heen, in the department of Wan-chow-foo, in the adjoining province of Chekiang, on the borders of the Fokien province; Tung-nan Heen, in the department of Tai-chow-foo, in the adjoining province of Chekiang; and in Tai-ping Heen, in this province.

Of the import of cotton goods he writes :—

The trade in piece-goods remains in a very unsatisfactory state. Were it not that it occasionally answers the purpose of foreign merchants to get up shirtings from Hong Kong to lay down funds in Foo-chow, or in order to relieve an over-stocked market in the south, there is little doubt but that the business would be entirely in the hands of the native dealers. One of the chief reasons why no effort has been made to keep the trade alive, is the fact of the unsound conditions on which business is done. Buyers are allowed to take delivery of the goods with a credit of seventy days, no bargain-money being lodged, and a very doubtful pledge given that the money will ultimately be paid. The buyers are able to sell off the goods and with the proceeds to speculate in other goods which they get up from Hong Kong, out of which, when sold, the British merchant gets paid the price of his goods at the end of the seventy days. But it will sometimes happen that the native dealer has not been successful in his speculations and that he is unable to fulfil his engagements towards the foreign importer; hence a loss arises which may, in some cases, neutralise the profits on the sales for a whole year. The compradores are supposed to be responsible for bad debts, and consequently, as the trade is so risky, they are not disposed to push it. As a convenience to themselves, dealers will buy on this market, but it is doubted whether sellers get the equivalent of Hong Kong rates, the extra expense, loss in interest, and risk considered. It is generally supposed, however, that native dealers are able to buy goods where there is a larger and more varied assortment, and lay them down cheaper than the English importer is able to sell them. There is, therefore, but little encouragement to the British merchant to give his attention to the imports in cottons and woollens, it being a business that gives trouble and causes anxiety.

AMOY.

Consul Pedder reports a decline in the value of the trade for the year, which may be accounted for partly by the values in currency being converted into sterling at a lower rate of exchange, and partly by an increase in the clandestine receipts of imports landed at other places for transmission into this district, in order to evade the excessive le-kin duties. Shipping shows a decrease of thirty-nine vessels in the total number entered and cleared, but an increase of nearly 10,000 tons in the aggregate tonnage, which amounted to 505,310 tons. Imports show an increase in a few items, of which the following are most worthy of note:—

Digitized by Google

Cotton yarn was imported to an amount of about 514,000 lbs. over the weight received in the previous year. Cotton piece goods show an increase in plain cloths of about 13,000 pieces. Raw cotton from India shows an increase of more than 700,000 lbs. weight, and there was an increased importation of nearly 800,000 lbs. weight of native cotton from the north of China. Rice was imported to nearly double the quantity received in the preceding year. Japan supplied nearly 118,000,000 lbs. of the total quantity imported: and the transportation of this article from that country to this place afforded profitable employment to many of the large British steamers which trade from England to China via the Suez Canal. Bean-cake from the north of China shows an increase of nearly 12,300,000 lbs. weight above the quantity received in the previous year.

In exports the most noticeable fact is a decrease in the quantity of tea sent away, the decrease in exports and re-exports of this article amounting to about 2,000,000 lbs. as compared with the quantity shipped in the preceding season. The falling off is attributed to the low prices ruling in foreign markets checking speculation here.

SWATOW.

Mr. Acting Consul Forest reports that the entire trade of the port in foreign bottoms in 1873, when compared with that of 1872, shows a falling off to the amount of £143,740. This decrease is entirely in the import of native produce and goods, such as beancake, rice, and Chinese manufactured articles, and that, in spite of this decrease, the trade still compares very favourably with that of any of the three years previous to 1872. Imports of foreign goods show a net increase of £551,000, and exports a net increase of £397,516. The prosperity of the port is therefore still on the increase, and the falling off in native imports may be considered a fortunate omen, as indicating a return of wealth to the inhabitants, who heretofore have been compelled, by floods and droughts, to expend their means in obtaining rice from other parts of China and from foreign countries.

The gross trade in foreign ships in 1873, as taken from the Customs' Returns, amounts in value to a sum of £5,161,644; the direct trade amounting to the sum of £2,566,432, and the indirect to £2,595,212. A most satisfactory increase is to be observed in most articles of British manufactured goods. This is attributable to the good harvests of last year, the absence of floods, and the general peaceful condition of the inhabitants of this circuit, who are beginning to find out that it is far more profitable to develop the resources of their territory than to indulge in universal fighting, which, until lately was their usual method of spending their time.

The gross value of the export trade in 1873 amounted to £1,751,915, as against £1,366,421 in 1872, showing an increase of £385,494.

CANTON.

Sir Brooke Robertson reports that the value of the trade for 1873 was £7,475,839, as against £9,030,031 in 1872, showing a falling off of £1,554,191. Remarking upon this, the report says:—

It must be taken into account that never within the memory of those engaged in the China trade has so much depression existed both in China and in England as during the past twelve months; various causes have contributed to this, not the least among which has been the stagnation of the home market and the high prices paid for tea and silk in China, and the two combined have been as disastrous to foreign trade as a war would be, and probably more so. But we must look a little further than this for failure, and perhaps it will be found in the altered state of commercial relations. For the past ten years a trade which was in the hands of the few has drifted into those of the many. Formerly capital was an essential element of commerce, now it is not, for the banks replace it by advancements on shipments, the result being that trade is thrown open to all comers, competition follows, and with it high prices in China, and an over-stocked market at home; such being some of the evils attending an unsound system.

The export of tea for the year was 87,555 piculs, against 110,288 piculs in 1872, or 11,714,101 lbs., against 14,705,052 lbs., or 2,990,951 lbs. less in 1873.

Of the import of opium the report continues:—

It is difficult to say what amount of opium is taken by this province, for no article is so largely smuggled from the British colony of Hong Kong, the facilities for that purpose being great, and the Chinese such adepts at it. A coast line of its entire length, studded with creeks, bay, and rivers, towns, and villages, with a hardy maritime population, an imperfect Customs service, except at Canton, the capital, which is situated ninety miles inland, and at the port of Swatow, afford opportunities for evading the duties, which are taken advantage of to their fullest extent. Within the last few years stations have been established on the mainland, in the neighbourhood of Hong Kong, and steam cruisers are employed in stopping and searching suspicious junks leaving the colony; but their seizures are insignificant, and they are too few in number to effect much in checking the contraband trade, which flourishes to an extent scarcely credible.

On piece goods:—

None are imported by foreigners; but that the trade in them is large, being brought from Hong Kong by Chinese, ample evidence is afforded by the shops in this rich and populous city, independently of the people, who are clothed to some extent in foreign manufactured cloth; but great complaints may be heard of the inferiority of these goods of late years, and there can be no question that such has seriously militated against what might have developed into an unlimited importation; and whilst the Chinese Government is denounced as being inimical to foreign trade, and throwing obstacles of all kinds in the way of this development, we, on our part, are doing our best to ruin it, and then lay the blame upon others. The Chinese are, themselves, large manufacturers, but their cotton fabrics are heavy, uneven in thread, and wanting in finish, but durable; they cannot, therefore, compete with us in quality or price, and until the practice set in of weighing our piece goods with clays, and facing them with size to cover deficiency in material and quality, there was every prospect of our supplying a large proportion of the population of China with clothing; for, giving a sound and cheap article, no Chinaman would be moved by patriotic instincts to support home manufactures by clothing himself with home-made cotton fabrics, if he can get the foreign article cheaper; but this he will do if he finds the latter worthless—thus showing that, after all, honesty is the best policy.

PACIFIC MAIL COMPANY.

(New York Times, Dec. 4.)

The differences and bickerings which have for some time past existed among the directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company culminated yesterday in the resignation by Mr. Russell Sage of his position as President and director of the company.

The following is Mr. Sage's letter of resignation:—

"New York, Dec. 3, 1874.

"Gentlemen,—My duties and engagements elsewhere are so pressing that I have not the time to devote to the labours of the office of President and director in your company. I, therefore, resign the same. The mission of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company is a noble one, and if its management is a wise and economical one it should ensure success. That this may be its future history is the sincere desire of your obedient servant, "RUSSELL SAGE."

The resignation was accepted, and Mr. William H. Guion assumed the duties of the office as President pro tem. The following circular was subsequently issued:—

"Office of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Nos. 59 and 61, Wall-street, New York, Dec. 3, 1874.

"A full report of the condition of this company is being prepared, and will be ready for the stockholders within ten days from date. This report will give a list of liabilities of the company and assets, names of the steamers built and launched since the last annual statement, and amounts they cost. Also payments made on the three steamers contracted for. Meanwhile I state, with the full concurrence of the Board of Directors, that the statements which have recently appeared in the public prints as to the liabilities of the company are incorrect. "RUFUS HATCH, Managing Director.

"Attest—THEODORE T. JOHNSON, Secretary."

INTERVIEW WITH MR. SAGE.

A reporter of the Times had an interview last evening with Mr. Sage in regard to his resignation. Mr. Sage said that, under the circumstances, he naturally felt some delicacy in saying much in reference to the affair. He was free to say, however, that he had for a long time been utterly dissatisfied with the manner in which the affairs of the company were being administered, but, notwithstanding, he felt that he was powerless to remedy the evils he witnessed. Consequently he had determined to resign. He had not fully made up his mind on the subject until Sunday last, when the managing director made a clean breast of it, and revealed to him the actual condition of the company. Until he received that communication from Mr. Hatch, it had been his belief that the statements published in the newspapers about the company's financial affairs were at least exaggerated, but he found that he was entirely mistaken, and that things were not only as bad as represented, but much worse. As an instance, he would mention the fact that the bank account at San Francisco had been overdrawn to the extent of $176,000. That fact had been kept studiously concealed. He (Mr. Sage) also ascertained that the assets of the company had been grossly over-estimated, and the liabilities correspondingly depreciated. Under these circumstances he deemed that the best course for him to pursue was to dissolve his connection with the company.

In reference to the sum alleged to have been expended as a corruption fund, to procure the subsidy from Congress, Mr. Sage declined to give any specific information beyond the statement that the cheques made out by Irwin covered some three-quarter million dollars.

Finally Mr. Sage said that with such a change in the affairs of the company as would ensure economy and good management, the concern ought to have a bright future. At present it was being badly managed, and was losing money. The most pressing thing at the moment was a proper arrangement with the Pacific Railroads, which would put an end to the present ruinous competition. He had done his best to bring about amicable relations between the Pacific Mail and the Pacific Roads, but all his efforts in that direction had been deliberately thwarted. The charge that he had been in the habit of "Bearing" the stock Mr. Sage emphatically denied.

The allegation in a morning paper that the proceeds of the 6,000 shares sold by the company a few days since had been devoted to the discharge of the indebtedness of the corporation to him (Mr. Sage) was untrue. The Pacific Mail Company was still in his debt to the amount of $125,000.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. W. H. GUION.

To a Times reporter who called upon him last evening Mr. William H. Guion stated that no president of the company has yet been elected to take the chair of Mr. Russell Sage. He (Mr. Guion) is not the President, and it is scarcely likely that he will be. When the Vice-President went to Europe last May the directors elected what he called a "President pro tem." who, in case of death or resignation of Mr. Sage, would act as President during the interregnum thus created, and until the election of another President. Mr. Guion was elected "President pro tem." in May, and he is now Acting President; but when the Board of Directors will go into the election of a regular President was more than he could or would tell. The cause of Mr. Russell Sage's resignation (Mr. Guion said) was his inability to get along harmoniously with a majority of the other directors, with whom he had some difficulties that were constantly recurring at the meetings of the board; and it was in the hope of restoring some sort of harmony in the Company that he concluded "to step down and out." Mr. Sage's letter of resignation would not state the nature of those troubles, and Mr. Guion was decidedly averse to saying anything whatever, either on that point or on the financial or other affairs of the Company.

FORMATION OF THE OPPOSITION LINE.

Vice-President Collis P. Huntington, of the Pacific Railroad, received the following despatch from San Francisco concerning the establishment of a steamship line on the Pacific Ocean:—"The Occidental and Orient Steamship Company of San Francisco on Monday filed an act of incorporation. The directors are Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker, David D. Colton, Lloyd Tevis, and Mark Hopkins. The capital is $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares of $100 each." Mr. Huntington said to some New York reporters that the new company would organise temporarily by the election of David D. Colton as president. After the details of organisation had been effected there might be a change in the presidency, but that would rest with the stockholders. The company had not yet secured the requisite steamers, but had the option of thirty vessels from various owners. They would require several at the start, and would increase them as occasion required. The vessels would ply between San Francisco, Hong Kong, and Yokohama, and would carry the bulk of the railroad freight. The Pacific Railroads had no official representation in the new company, but the several corporations would work in harmony. Being asked if the new company was an opposition to Pacific Mail, Mr. Huntington said that no such statement appeared in his despatch. The new company was not an opposition to anything, but was intended to carry freight and passengers, and would do it in a manner best adapted to promote their interests and increase their business.

THE WESTERN CHINA SURVEY.

The following circular has been issued to merchants and others at Rangoon by Colonel Duncan, on behalf of the Chief Commissioner:—

I am desired to inform you that his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council has resolved to send an expedition from British Burma to Yunan to explore the trade routes between Burma and Western China, and to report generally upon the commercial prospects of those countries.

2. The expedition will be under the leadership of Colonel Horace Brown, and will consist of himself and three selected officers. They will proceed probably towards the end of December, via Bhamo to Talifoo and Yunan.

3. The object of the mission is to explore trade routes, to ascertain the difficulties that exist in the way of opening up the old trade routes, and how the routes could be improved, and to report upon the best means of transport, the burdens to which trade is subject, the measures which it may be practicable to adopt for the protection of trade and the agency through which it would appear most advisable that trade should be carried on.

4. The members of the mission will also obtain as much information as possible regarding the conditions, resources, history, geography, and trade of the territories through which they may pass.

5. Should there be any special points which you are of opinion should be investigated by the mission in the interests of trade and commerce, the Chief Commissioner will be glad, if possible, to add these to the subjects which will have the attention of the expedition.

Naval and Military.

The following officers, who last served on the China station, have been appointed as under:—Lieutenant G. A. Primrose (in the Elk in 1872 and 1873), to the Excellent, gunnery-ship at Portsmouth; Lieutenant S. B. Roupell (in the Thistle from 1870 to 1873), to the Excellent; Navigating-Lieutenant G. A. Broad (in the Juno from 1871 to 1873), to the Valorous frigate, at Devonport; Gunner James Barry (in the Ringdove from 1868 to 1873), to the Hydra, turret-ship at Devonport; Gunner George Palmer (in the Princess Charlotte from 1870 to 1873), to the Impregnable, training-ship for boys at Devonport; Gunner John Richardson (in the Leven from 1871 to 1873), to the Favourite, coast-guard ship at Queensferry; Boatswain John Kent (in the Cadmus from 1871 to 1874), to the Asia, flagship of the Admiral-Superintendent at Portsmouth.

The vessels on the China station which will have completed three years' service during the coming year are the Thalia, corvette, commissioned March, 1872; and the Mosquito, gunboat, commissioned October, 1872. The undermentioned vessels, which have exceeded their commissions of three years, are still without orders for home:—Avon, gunvessel, commissioned July, 1871; Dwarf, gunvessel, commissioned July, 1871; and Hornet, gunvessel, commissioned November, 1871.

Assistant-Controller Purkis, who has been on leave since his return home from China, succeeds Assistant-Controller Nagle at Devonport Gun Wharf. Assistant Controller Gibbons has been appointed to Portsmouth Gun Wharf, on return from Nova Scotia, vice Assistant-Controller Molony, who left England recently for Hong Kong, to take up the duties of Principal Control officer in the China command.

Colonel H. A. Sarel, C.B., has been appointed assistant-adjutant-general at Dover, vice Colonel A. M. McDonald. Colonel Sarel served with the 9th Lancers during the Punjaub campaign of 1848-49, also throughout the Indian Mutiny of 1857-9, and he acted on the staff of Sir Hope Grant in China, in 1860 (brevet of lieutenant-colonel, medal with two clasps for the Taku Forts and Peking).

Staff-surgeon William J. Wilson, M.D., whose death we have already announced, entered the navy in 1846. He was advanced to staff surgeon on Dec. 2, 1868, and was appointed, Sept. 28, 1870, to the Iron Duke, 14, Capt. E. H. G. Lambert, on particular service, and subsequently commanded by Captain William Arthur, and flagship at China of Vice-Admiral C. F. A. Shadwell, C.B.

Brevet-major O'Shaughnessy, of the first battalion of the 12th Regiment, is to serve for a short extra period on the staff in China, and is expected to return to England about the end of 1875. He left Aldershot for Hong Kong in 1869, and has been employed on the staff ever since.

Lieut. Stewart Polkinghorne, of the Royal Marines, has been invalided from Japan, and, having disembarked at Gosport, has been granted four months' leave of absence for the benefit of his health.

Lieutenant Warton, of the 10th Foot, is under orders to return home from Singapore to relieve Lieutenant Holme at the depot at Colchester.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, DEC. 16.

The Parliamentary campaign is approaching its end. It is probable that the Budget debate will be concluded this week. The Budgets of Foreign Affairs, Justice, and Home Affairs have been carried, and also that of the Financial Department. The Minister de Willebois had some hard nuts to crack with reference to the Naval Budget. But all's well that ends well. The Budget of this Minister was carried by a large majority. The main question was the salaries of naval officers, and the theme of the Liberals was that the Minister intended to give in some cases too much, in others too little. The opposition against the Minister was, however, futile. The debate opened with a most curious attack of Mr. Fabius against the liberality in our system of punishment, and he urged that corporal punishments should be re-introduced. This was, according to his opinion, much to be preferred to our present system of punishments. Mr. Nierstrasz supported this idea, but the Minister was wise enough to refuse to grant the request. He also declined to agree with the complaint that our blockade squadron in Java was insufficient. The defence of the Minister was, on the whole, very poor, and I must indeed regret that our eloquent members of the Second Chamber chose him as their victim. The struggle against the Minister of the Financial Department had an exceptional character. This was a question of principles. Till now it has been usual that those who keep the key of our Treasury should so value the national income that there should always be a favourable balance. Mr. Van der Heim is of opinion that this is unnecessary, and he has changed the system. Some members were afraid that this was not quite secure; it was, they demonstrated, better to have a more or less considerable surplus than that revenue and expenses should balance. The state of our finances, it was asserted, was so favourable because we had always applied that rule prescribed by prudence. And there was even such an enormous opposition against the project to throw this custom overboard, that the Minister will perhaps have to choose between his plan and his portfolio. Of more importance still was the debate about our Education law. It was laid before the members of Parliament by Mr. Thorbecke in 1857, and carried after a very sharp debate. In that year it was a gigantic step forward in the Liberal path, but since that year scarcely anything has been done to introduce improvements. Instead of going gradually forward we took the way of the lobster, and the consequence, of course, is that our instruction system requires much improvement. Our Liberals, however, are afraid to touch that law, because they are quite convinced that they would lose ground if they even dared to try to alter it. The opinion that our Minister of the War Department would fail to carry his budget is now changed. He will, it is believed, obtain a small majority.

A rumour is circulating here that a Dutch-American Bank will be established in this town. This is the only thing which was wanted. Our capitalists, both large and small, have made such a profitable business with shares of American railways that they will be quite ready to subscribe the necessary capital for this Bank. The lull at the Bourse still prevails; transactions are of no importance. Money is rather abundant, but some failures—amongst others, that of Schaaf and Suur with liabilities of fcs. 700,000—made a miserable impression. A good demand has prevailed on the Exchange for shares of the East India Trading Bank. The price went up from 98 to 103 per cent. in consequence of the rumour that this year had been very profitable, so that a good dividend will be paid.

A letter has been sent anonymously to the address of General Knoop. It is an acte d'accusation against General Van Swieten, who is said to be destitute of energy and tact. The author (who signs himself "Brutus") says that there is no other plausible reason why the Commander-in-Chief repeatedly stopped the military operations than that he was an optimist pur sang, and thought that the foe would quietly submit. In this expectation most valuable time was sacrificed, and when the belief was not realised, it was too late, as the Atchinese had taken positions around the Kraton. If General Van Swieten had acted more energetically, then, most certainly, the second expedition would not have been only a half success.

The members of the First Chamber will meet on the 17th inst., for the despatch of business. It is, however, very doubtful whether we shall be ready with the several Budgets before the 1st of January, as it is prescribed by the Constitution.

As a curiosity, I may mention that the daughter of Professor Opzoomer, only sixteen years old, has written a tragedy in the German language which is generally highly spoken of.

I regret to record the death of Mr. J. W. Smissaert, a gentleman well known in East India circles. He died at the Hague.

COMMERCIAL.

Our market for Colonial Produce is of course badly influenced by the very advanced season. There is only some demand for direct consumption, and prices are with difficulty maintained. Even the public auctions have not given a satisfactory result. The only article which has met with any demand has been Arrack, of which about 250 casks ex Voorlichter and Grondwet changed hands at fcs. 244 to fcs. 246. The imports have been of no importance. The only vessel which has arrived has been the steamer Koning der Nederlanden. The Prins Hendrik has started for Java.

The weather is horrible; rainy and stormy, but, perhaps, this is the precursor of a welcome frost.

SHIPPING.

PASSENGERS OUTWARD.—For Java, per steamer Holland: Mrs. Dil and family, Mr. J. J. H. Stolte, Miss C. Tjebbes, Mrs. B. S. J. de Heus, Messrs. M. T. Hagerman, T. C. H. Cramer, J. J. Ebeling, Messrs. T. and A. Odenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Verdoes and child, Mr. and Mrs. Sap and child, and Mr. de Ridder.

Monetary and Commercial.

Tenders for £550,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England on the 16th inst. The amounts allotted were—To Calcutta, £276,000; to Bombay, £220,000; and to Madras, £54,000. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10d. will receive about 52 per cent., above in full; and on Bombay at that price about 46 per cent., above in full. There is a further reduction in the demand for remittances apparent in these figures.

The directors of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company have resolved to pay the usual interim dividend of 1¼ per cent., free of income tax, for the quarter ending the 31st inst.

The meeting of the Ceylon Company (Limited) was held on the 15th inst., when the report, which recommended the payment of an interim dividend at the rate of four per cent. per annum, was adopted.

The directors of the National Bank of New Zealand have resolved to pay on the 4th of January an interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for the six months ending 30th September last.

The Bank of Constantinople announce that the ad interim dividend of 6 per cent. per annum for the year ending December 31 next will be payable on and after the 1st prox.

The half-yearly dividend on the Japan Seven per Cent. Loan (1873), due on the 1st of January, is announced for payment by the Oriental Bank.

Mr. James Findlay, of Greenock, has issued a circular stating that, in consequence of the embarrassments of the firm of Findlay, Wade, and Co., of Shanghai, of which he is a partner, he is under the necessity of calling a meeting of his creditors.

In the Court of Chancery Vice-Chancellor Sir Richard Malins has given his sanction to a triple currency funding scheme of arrangement entered into by the firm of Bowles, Brothers, and Co., now in course of reconstruction, with the creditors of the Joint National Agency (Limited).

The demand for Bar Silver for India has declined, in consequence of large shipments forwarded on German account. Orders for Spain and elsewhere are also very limited, and the price has therefore declined, transactions having taken place at 57½d. per oz., the lowest price on record. There is less demand for Mexican Dollars. A few sales have taken place at 56½d. per oz., but this price will not be maintained for the large amounts now on the market by the French and West India steamers, which have brought about £180,000.

CASUALTIES.

PORTSMOUTH, DEC. 10.—The State of Virginia (str.), Moodie, from London, to Singapore and China, has put into Spithead, with condensing pipes out of order, and left again on the 18th.

We learn by telegram from Hong Kong that the steamer Mongol, belonging to the London, China, and New York Steamship Company, went down off the Nine Pin, master and fifteen hands lost; she left Hong Kong on the 11th inst., with a general cargo, for Yokohama.

The Burmese (str.), jettisoned 287 casks and barrels coffee and ten or twelve tons coir.

The Glenisla, Watts, London to Penang, lost an anchor and sixty fathoms chain in the Downs during the gale Dec. 10; they have been replaced.

Advices from Mauritius, Nov. 13, report that the Prinses Amalie, Timmermann, from Amsterdam to Batavia, put in there Oct. 7, with damage, has been trimmed by the stern to repair the leak in her bow—cargo uninjured.

ST. HELENA, NOV. 21.—The Chacma, Gallichan, arrived here from Colombo, encountered a hurricane, Sept. 9, in lat. 4 S., lon. 82 E., throwing the vessel on her beam ends, and causing the cargo to shift; a heavy sea also broke over her, gutting the cabin, smashing the skylights, and washing away several movable articles from decks.

PLYMOUTH, DEC. 13.—The Min (str.), Morgan, from London to Yokohama, &c., arrived here, had cabin flooded, and received other damage. A later telegram states:—Min, cargo all right, hatches perfect order, repairs expected to be finished on 17th, two lifeboats slightly damaged, movable articles washed from deck.

The outward P. and O. steamer Lombardy, from Southampton, with the heavy Bombay mails, had to put into Plymouth on 10th, through stress of weather, and has returned to Southampton to repair damages.

Advices from Malta, Dec. 8, state that the United Service (str.) had been surveyed; four holes found in her bottom, and several plates to be badly corroded, the cement gone, and many rivet heads eaten away. The steamer will therefore be placed on the hydraulic lift, which will be ready for her by the time she is sufficiently lightened to be lifted without risk. The vessel was on her way home, for the purpose of undergoing thorough repair, both to hull and machinery.

The Ionia (str.), Jeffreys, from Java, &c., to Rotterdam, has put into the Motherbank short of coal, and with four of her crew disabled.

ROTTERDAM, DEC. 11.—A telegram from the master of the Maasluis, arrived at Atchin from Newcastle, states that the coals heated very much on the voyage; and that a portion of them had to be thrown overboard.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At CADIZ.—Emiliano (str.), from Manila, and sailed Dec. 14 for Liverpool.

At ST. HELENA.—Nov. 13, Jas. Sheppherd, Madden, from Shanghai and sailed for London; Odin, Nilsson, from Cheribon, and sailed for Falmouth; 15, Hugh Bourne, Davison, from Ilo Ilo, and sailed for Falmouth; 19, Chacma, Gallichan, from Ceylon, and sailed 21 for London; 20, Amandine, Farrow, from Cheribon, and sailed 21 for Falmouth; 21, Noach II., V. Swieten, from Java, and sailed for Rotterdam.

The Rapide (Russ. barq.), from Padang to New York, which vessel encountered a hurricane Sept. 27, was spoken in lat. 12 S., lon. 87 E., with loss of sails, boats, and foretopgallantyard.

Sing Tai passed Cape, Nov. 13, seventy-eight days from Hong Kong to London. Tea cargo.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

Sir SAMUEL BAKER,

In his work on the Sources of the Nile, says:—

"I ordered my dragoman Mahomet to inform the "Faky that I was a doctor, and that I had the best "medicines at the service of the sick, with advice "gratis. In a short time I had many applicants, to "whom I served out a quantity of Holloway's Pills. "These are most useful to an explorer, as, possessing "unmistakable purgative properties, they create an "undeniable effect upon the patient, which satisfies "him of their value."

This fine Medicine cures all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, is a Great PURIFIER of the BLOOD, and wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females—young or aged.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—See article in the Civil Service Gazette.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

The present French mail brings advices from this port to the 10th Nov.; the French mail from London, Sept. 11, arrived out on the 1st Nov., and the following P. and O. mail of Sept. 18 was received on the 4th Nov. The following summary of news is from the Japan Herald:—

The Formosa difficulty is settled. From the latest telegrams received it appears that Japan demanded two million taels indemnity as the price upon which it would consent to evacuate Formosa. This was point blank refused to be agreed to, and Okubo broke off the negotiations, and made preparations to return. Subsequently negotiations were re-opened, when China offered Tls. 500,000, which sum was accepted, and an agreement entered into that the Japanese should quit Formosa by the 20th December, at which date the indemnity money is to be paid. The pusillanimous conduct of China in thus submitting to this squeeze on the part of Japan is here universally condemned, as exhibiting abject cowardice. Japan will naturally exult in getting out of the serious trouble to which her bellicose policy was leading her. Amongst foreigners the news of the pacific solution of the difficulties between the two countries has been received with much satisfaction.

The 3rd November was the twenty-fourth birthday of the Mikado. At nine o'clock in the morning a grand review took place in the drilling-ground near the Gaimusho, Tokio; about 3,000 soldiers were paraded. The artillery fired a salute to the Emperor. The Japanese military band played the Japanese National Anthem. His Majesty, accompanied by the Princes Higashi Fushimi and Arisgawa no Miya, was present in full dress. Minister Saigo and other high officials of the Government were present. The weather was delightful. The troops appear to have been admirably drilled. Several foreign ladies and gentlemen were present. The day was generally kept as a holiday among the native portion of the population, and the native town was decorated with flags and lanterns in honour of the occasion. Most of the Government offices shone replendent (with the notable exception of the Post-office), whilst the railroad deserves special mention, as arches of evergreens were erected at all the entrances. The Kenrei held a reception in the morning, and in the evening he entertained at dinner the Consular body, the commanding officers of the foreign men-of-war and troops, and the principal Japanese officials. A banquet also took place in Tokio, at which the diplomatic body were present. In connection with the salute fired at midday, we may mention a rather amusing incident, which suggests a great want of knowledge on the part of the Japanese commanding officer of the etiquette of saluting. On occasions such as the present, it is not customary for the vessels of the nationality whose flag it is to return the salutes which are fired by the other men-of-war present in harbour, it being understood that the compliment will be returned by them on any similar festive occasion; but to-day, after the firing at noon was finished, the Japanese began again, and to the astonishment of the initiated, hoisted the flags of the different men-of-war, and laboriously returned their salutes, thus wasting a great deal of unnecessary powder.

The burning of the silkworms' egg cards (to the extent of nearly half a million) has ceased, and the market has been reopened; but the artificial scarcity thus created does not appear to have realised the hopes of the authors of the scheme, as prices are still very low. It is stated that while the notice prohibiting sales was still in force, and during which time no business was supposed to be done, one of the merchants was discovered to have sold 1,200 cards to a foreigner, which, although causing much astonishment amongst the clique, has been settled by the amount received being invested in cards to be burnt.

The protracted case of Davison and Co. v. the Oriental Banking Corporation, which occupied several days, came to a conclusion on the 17th Oct. The counsel on both sides addressed the jury at length, and his Honour lucidly summed up. The jury then retired. After an absence of an hour and a quarter they returned a verdict that defendants were liable for all the charges on the goods landed for them; that they were also liable for the charges on the goods transferred from the Chartered Mercantile Bank since the date of the transfer; but that they were not liable for the commission on the sale of them. His Honour said that this verdict would carry costs. Mr. Dickens stated his intention of appealing.

We learn that an action for libel is impending between Mr. W. G. Howell, the editor and proprietor of the Japan Mail, and Messrs. Moss and Anglin, of the Japan Gazette, for a letter, under the signature of "Fair Play," which appeared in the last named newspaper. Mr. Howell has, through his legal adviser, called for a retractation and an apology for the statements in the letter in question, with the alternative of the proprietors of the Gazette being made defendants in an action at law. No apology has been rendered.

We learn that at Saghalien the Japanese have succumbed to the rigour of the climate and the aggressions of the Russians, for the island is being evacuated. Shortly there will be neither a Japanese official nor a Japanese settler left. The island will henceforth be regarded as a Russian possession. Joint occupation appears to have terminated.

Yoshida, the newly-appointed Minister to the United States, left by the Pacific mail of the 9th Nov. A banquet, at which both Mr. Bingham and General Van Buren were present, was given to him previous to his departure.

In view of the late change of views in Korea, a Japanese Embassy has been despatched there from this country. The members of it were, previous to their departure, received by the Mikado.

The athletic sports meeting took place on the 30th and 31st Oct., but the races have, in consequence of unfavourable weather, been postponed until the 10th, 11th, and 12th Nov.

The question of Municipal Government is being agitated, and a meeting has been held on the subject.

The late Tycoon's brother, Mimbutayo, has joined the army as a lieutenant.

The wife of Iwakura, well known as the head of the late Embassy, has just died.

The following items of intelligence are taken from the Japan Mail:—

A remarkable memorial which has been addressed to the Mikado has appeared in the Shimbun Zasshi. While ostensibly displaying a desire to advocate the resumption of by-gone usages, it is clearly intended to enforce the reasoning which, like the wit of an epigram or a woman's postscript, discloses its presumed motive in its ending. If its authenticity may be relied on it affords an unsuspected view of the real attitude of the samurai class, who, so far from desiderating a peaceful policy, are presumed to have been at the root of the movement which led to present complications with China. It is not impossible that the writers contemplate the creation of a large standing army, drawn from another social stratum than their own, with some measure of apprehension, and that they seek to discourage its creation rather from a fear of the consequences to themselves than from true patriotism. But whatever the motives of the memorial it possesses unusual interest.

Dr. J. F. Elmore, accredited by the Government of Peru Charge d'Affaires in Japan, arrived in Yokohama by the French mail on the 1st Nov. Dr. Elmore, who, it will be remembered, accompanied Captain Garcia and assisted in negotiating the treaties of Peru with Japan and China, purposes to establish his Legation at Yedo. We understand that Dr. Elmore has already secured a suitable establishment there with this view.

A report from Kioto states that the boiler of a Japanese steamer plying upon Lake Biwa has exploded, and that all the passengers and crew, numbering 100, were either killed or drowned. It is to be hoped that the extent of the catastrophe has been magnified.

CHINA.

—o—

NEWCHWANG.

A correspondent writes:—

The Taoutai died on 21st Oct., of aneurism of the heart. On dit that his "farming of this district" was at a heavy loss, and the anxiety consequent thereon caused his death.

From Korea we learn that the Government is really in the hands of the rightful sovereign, a young man of about twenty-four years, and the trade with China has been resumed, under strict conditions. At the mart, five days' voyage from this, business has actually been done in piece goods, such as heavy grey shirtings, white shirtings, &c.; but the rates are not very encouraging, and the bartering is under difficulties. Korea is only about seventy-five miles from the mart, where there is a boundary, through which one reaches the neutral ground between China and its closely guarded frontier. It is death to attempt a passage, as the Koreans are very jealous of their territory. But if a foreign Power were desirous to enter the forbidden country, it would be the simplest matter possible to march 1,000 well equipped men from this port to the capital, and in twenty days foreigners would be masters of that wonderful country, which boasts of having withstood France, Germany America, and even England (as the General Sherman was taken to be of this nationality). But I suppose China would object to her soil being made the highway to a conquest of Korea.

It is very cold here already; four days' strong north wind; thermometer 26 deg.!

SHANGHAI.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the 13th November; the French mail from London Sept. 25 was received on the 11th November. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

The s.s. Appin, which arrived on Nov. 7th, brought as passengers his Excellency Okubo, the Envoy Extraordinary for the settlement of the Chino-Japanese difficulty in re Formosa, and his suite. As they passed under the stern of H.I.J.M. flagship Rio-jho-kan in Chefoo Harbour, the sailors manned the yards and gave three hearty cheers, wonderfully à l'Anglaise, while the guns of the ironclad thundered a parting salute. The Ambassador, with several members of his suite, called on the Taoutai; his Excellency paid the Arsenal a visit, when he was conducted through the works by Hung Taoutai.

We hear that in consequence of the amicable settlement of the Chino-Japan dispute, the departure of Admiral Shadwell from these shores will be hastened. We are sure the residents in Shanghai will bid the gallant admiral and his officers a cordial farewell, and wish them a safe and prosperous voyage.

The admiral will probably leave Shanghai in the Modeste, to rejoin his flagship outside Woosung. The Iron Duke will proceed to Hong Kong on her homeward voyage after the arrival of the next English mail, which is expected on Sunday. The Modeste, after a short cruise, will return to Shanghai for the winter. The Dwarf, we learn further, also goes to Hong Kong, calling at Ningpo and Amoy. We observe by the home papers just received, that the Dwarf and Avon have completed more than three years' service, both having been commissioned on the 18th of July, 1871. After the arrival of the mail, the Swinger proceeds up the Yangtsze, to visit the various ports.

The brig St. Francois has been removed from the Hongkew Wharf to the Pootung shore, where she is beached in a favourable position for effecting the necessary preliminary repairs before docking. A suit for damages has been entered in H.B.M. Supreme Court against the Cawdor Castle, and a warrant formally issued for the arrest of the steamer. Bonds to the amount of $40,000 having been entered into by the agents, Messrs. Adamson, Bell and Co., she will not suffer any detention. The amount claimed by the St. Francois is Tls. 22,000.

The resuscitation or reorganisation of the Philharmonic Society is likely to prove more than can this season be accomplished by the gentlemen who have interested themselves in the matter, but we learn that M. Remusat is busying himself with a view to supplying the deficiency. The indefatigable maestro hopes to give a concert on the 17th inst., in the Masonic Hall, and we understand will be supported by recent acquisitions to the musical amateurs of Shanghai, as well as by former favourites. Should the first be a success, which it no doubt will be, both on the score of merit and because of the threatened dearth of entertainments of this description, it is M. Remusat's intention to organise a concert, if possible, once a month during the remainder of the cool season.

The Shanghai Gymnasium Committee offer inducements to men to go into training again, by announcing a day's athletic sports. A meeting of the Paper Hunt Club was held, when the Club was re-organised for the approaching season.

A Naval Court of Enquiry sat at the British Vice-Consulate to investigate the circumstances attending the loss of the British ship Lucerne, by striking on the Ariadne Rock, on the 23rd October last. Commander Buckle, of H.M.S. Frolic, was president. After a most searching investigation, the Court came to the opinion that Captain Russell was guilty of an error in judgment in not dropping an anchor immediately the proximity of the rock was reported to him by the first mate, and in attempting to wear the ship in so light a wind, and with the current setting so strongly towards the rock; and they furthermore expressed an opinion that pilots should not quit a vessel sailing northward from Shanghai until she was clear of the dangers in the vicinity of the mouth of the Yangtsze. The captain's certificate was suspended for two months, those of the first and second officers being returned to them.

The wreck of the Lucerne, which was sold at auction on Friday, realised—for the hull Tls. 303, and for the cargo Tls. 260.

Some five or six weeks ago Mr. W. Gray, of the I.M. Customs, was bitten slightly by a Chinese cur, but the wound being superficial, quickly healed, and he felt no inconvenience from it. On Sunday, however, he became unwell, and on Monday morning, while at his home in Honkew, he was seized with unmistakable symptoms of hydrophobia. The paroxysms increased with awful rapidity and violence, and it became necessary to remove the unfortunate man to the General Hospital, where he died.

Several changes have lately occurred among the Customs Commissioners. Mr. Drew, recently arrived from home, left last week to take charge at Chefoo, where Mr. Hughes had been acting vice Mr. H. O. Brown transferred to Takow; Mr. J. H. Hart left by the Dragon for Foochow; and Mr. Detring is expected by next English mail, to relieve Mr. White, at Ningpo, the latter gentleman going home.

We regret to learn that the announcement has been received by telegraph of the death, on 15th October, of E. C. Bowra, Esq., Commissioner of Imperial Maritime Customs, who was enjoying in England a well-earned vacation after his exertions as a representative of Chinese interests at the Vienna Exhibition. Death is reported to have occurred suddenly, from heart disease. Mr. Bowra was an official of rare energy and ability, and the service to which he belonged suffers a serious loss by the premature termination of his career.

A party of six German gentlemen, five of whom were astronomers, the sixth being a photographer, passed through Shanghai the other day, on the way to Chefoo, to observe the approaching transit of Venus. The head of the party is Dr. Adolf, and the second Dr. Valentiner, of the Leyden Observatory. The party is to act in conjunction with one from the United States, which has selected Nagasaki as its point of observation, and with a Dutch expedition to Mauritius. A very complete equipment has been taken to Chefoo for the purposes of the expedition; and the German war steamer Arcana, which was lately reported as having arrived at Chefoo from Japan, has been placed at the disposition of the party, with the view principally of maintaining rapid and direct intercourse with Nagasaki.

A paragraph in the papers received by the last French mail informed us that a Russian expedition had just been despatched from Irkutsk to Uliasutai, Gobi, and the adjoining provinces of Western China, to inquire into the state of the Mahomedan Dungan rebellion, and to ascertain whether the western tea trade could be directed to the Irtish river. The party has just passed through Shanghai in pursuance of its mission. It consists of Captain Sosnovsky, of the General Staff; Captain Matoosovsky, of the engineers; Dr. Piasetsky; Mr. Boiarsky, photographer; three Cossacks, and two interpreters. The party came from Kiachta via Peking, and having procured the necessary passports for the projected journey at the latter place, came on to Shanghai, where it has been located at the Oriental Hotel. Some of its members left for Hankow by the Fusiyama last week, and the remainder followed by the Fire Queen on Sunday. After reaching Hankow the party will go up the Han River, and proceed westward, with the objects indicated above.

There was a fairly brisk auction at the Horse Bazaar, and some thirty-two ponies were sold at prices ranging from Tls. 200 to Tls. 15. Tourterelle was knocked out at Tls. 200; Bar Sells, Ravensdale, and Lothario brought about Tls. 150 apiece; Seabird, Andante, Blucher, and Godolphin came next at about Tls. 100. Few of the better racing ponies were sold, however. Sinecure changed owners by private bargain.

The following items are from the Courier:—

The Notification which—in terms of an advertisement in Portuguese which has appeared in the Daily News—the subjects of that Power interested in opium are invited to read on the gate of the Portuguese Consulate to which it is affixed—is, we learn, to the effect that all Portuguese dealing in opium are henceforth to give delivery of it to (Chinese) purchasers on the premises of the Portuguese seller; after which its being the property of the (Chinese) purchaser shall admit of no question, and should it be seized on the streets of the Settlement on account of any alleged non-compliance with Chinese fiscal regulations, it will be a matter of purely Chinese concern. This measure has doubtless been suggested by the amount of trouble recently given both to the Municipal, the Chinese, and Portuguese authorities by Portuguese subjects who, professedly dealing in opium, whenever the opium guild detectives made a seizure in our streets of opium sent from the houses of these Portuguese, came forward and reclaimed it on the ground that it was still foreign property, and as such not liable to the Chinese tax, for the evasion of which it was seized.

A cricket match was played between 11 of the club and 11 of H.M.S. Modeste. The gallant gentlemen in blue were very decisively beaten, scoring only 58 and 47 to the club's 109 and 128. Mr. Aubert scored the handsome figure of 61.

The recently constituted "Shanghai Pilot Company" has ceased to exist, owing, we hear, to internal dissensions. Half-a-dozen of the former members of the Independence Pilot Company have re-organised themselves under that style and title; the other members of the defunct company will, we suppose, be like Hal of the Wynd, and "fecht for their ain hand."

OUTRAGE ON MISSIONARIES AT HOOCHOW.

The Courier states that on Sunday, the 1st instant, the Revs. Messrs. Meadows and Douthwaite, two missionaries belonging to what is known as the China Inland Mission, were attacked by a Chinese mob, and forced to fly for their lives, while their property was destroyed or carried off, at the well-known foo city of Hoochow, at the southern extremity of the Tahoo Lake, about 100 miles to the S.W. of Shanghai and some forty miles north and west of Hangchow, the provincial capital of Chekiang. It appears that in the course of the past year the members of the Inland Mission, who have their headquarters at Hangchow, sent some of their native preachers to preach and circulate books in Hoochow. Premises were taken, in which for two months a couple of native preachers, and the wife of one of them, who acted as a Biblewoman, pursued their labours without molestation. Then the literati began to notice them, and by and by the district tepao brought a message from their landlord that they were to depart at once, no reason being given. The preachers wrote to the Mission at Hangchow; and having after some difficulty obtained an interview with the Taoutai there, which resulted in nothing, Messrs. Meadows and Douthwaite started for Hoochow, arriving on the 31st ult. at the Mission Station.

After paying a visit to the Prefect, they found a crowd round the house of the married preacher, who was ill, and the inmates of the place had great difficulty in withstanding their violence, and had to resort to various expedients. At last they were compelled to escape by a back way, while the mob wreaked their will on the place. The missionaries reached the Yamen of the Chehsiens by boat, between eight and nine P.M., and urged that the sick man and his wife, who remained behind, should be sent for But this was declared to be impossible until the following day, and meanwhile the missionaries were given wretched lodging, without the means of keeping themselves warm. Next day the sick man and his wife were brought over, and informed the missionaries that the mission station had been completely sacked. Messrs. Meadows and Douthwaite, distrusting the faithless promises of the Chinese local authorities, now resolved to go to Shanghai. On the 5th inst., therefore, after four days' fruitless negotiation, with a view to the punishment of the offenders, Messrs. Meadows and Douthwaite left Hoochow, and on the 7th inst. arrived at Shanghai.

"THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

The correspondent of The Times, writing from Shanghai, says:—

The sudden relief from national anxiety when war so lately appeared to be all but inevitable will, it is to be feared, have an unfortunate effect in discouraging the Chinese Executive from pursuing various objects of a progressive nature which they had begun to regard with favour; and it is not improbable that what little has already been effected in this direction may incur disrepute and suspicion. I have already reported, I think, the opening of telegraphic communication between the city of Foochow and its foreign anchorage at Pagoda Islands, a trifling distance along a river's bank of some twelve miles; and I then ventured a conjecture that the line might possibly be extended so as to cross the Formosa channel and connect the island with the main land. This anticipation has not been realised, but a construction of a more startling character, if taken in the light of an innovation, has been commenced since I wrote, in the shape of a telegraph line overland from Foochow to Amoy, a distance of about 170 to 175 miles. This line, even when war threatened, was reported to have attracted popular suspicion, and now that peace is declared, and the urgent need for opening it has passed by, it is more than likely that the efforts of its opponents will be redoubled. In this connection it is worth while mentioning a story which is abroad to the effect that the Russian Government have made the construction of the above lines of telegraph pretext for demanding the concession of a line from Kiachta to Peking, the Chinese Government having pledged themselves some time ago to admit Russia to telegraphic privileges in the event of these being ever conceded to any other foreign Power within Chinese territory; and it is rumoured that the Chinese are endeavouring to escape from the dilemma by repudiating the acts of the provincial authorities at Foochow, as having been ventured upon without reference to the central Government at Peking.

A new missionary difficulty has, I regret to say, just cropped up, the victims in this case being once more members of the China Inland or "Taylor" Mission, a name which may be remembered in connection with the Yangchow outrage of 1868. Two gentlemen of this mission, Messrs. Meadows and Douthwaite, had, it seems, established themselves in Hoo-chow, a city of Che-Kiang Province, conspicuous for its wealth and literary pretensions, and about 100 miles distant from Shanghai.

Digitized by Google

Preaching premises had been quietly secured in the usual way through the intervention of friendly natives, but, the suspicion of the literary classes having been after a while aroused, efforts were made, though without success, to terrify the Chinese implicated into cancelling the lease of the premises and ejecting its foreign occupants from the neighbourhood. The customary proceedings followed. Inflammatory placards were circulated, a mob collected around the house, the missionaries appealed for protection to the local authorities; some of these affected absence on duty, others pretended to be ignorant of what was doing, others again evaded direct responsibility, while the missionary applicants were meanwhile bandied from one yamen to another until hours had been wasted, and when at last they returned to their temporary home it was only to find it gutted, and to be themselves violently assaulted. Fortunately, they managed to make their escape, and they have since laid their complaint before the Consul at Shanghai. Whether he will be able to procure them redress is doubtful, for the locality is only accessible through a series of narrow canals, and our Consuls nowadays are not likely to forget the adverse opinions pronounced upon their intervention in the Yang-chow and Formosa cases. There can be no doubt that if missionaries choose to take their lives in their hands, and, venturing beyond Consular control, proceed to commit acts calculated to annoy or outrage the feelings of the people, they can only have themselves to thank for any untoward consequences which may follow, and they certainly cannot expect their own officials to have recourse to extreme measures for their indemnification.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by the present mail extend to the 19th Nov.; no later mail from London had been received since the 9th Nov. The following items of news are from the Daily Press:—

A meeting of the Legislative Council was held on the 16th Nov., the Chief Justice presiding, in the absence of the Governor. The following protest from the Hon. P. Ryrie was put in:—"Notice having been duly given, I, Phineas Ryrie, a member of the Legislative Council of Hong Kong, protest against a vote of said Council, sanctioning the expenditure of a sum of $8,112.00 on the fire brigade." A declaration was appended to the protest, which ran as follows:—

1st. That clause 5 of Fire Brigade Ordinance No. 4, of 1868, has been contravened inasmuch as that on the report of a fire being made at the central station on the morning of the 23rd September, 1874, the brigade was neither mustered nor turned out with their engines and all necessary implements as provided by said clause.

2nd. That the aforesaid clause provides also for the framing of regulations and that no such regulations have been made.

3rd. That the President of the Council was unable or unwilling to say, in reply to a question put, who was the officer in command of the fire brigade.

4th. That the present management of the brigade is faulty; a proper fire commission, such as exists in Shanghai and other places, should be appointed, it being most undesirable that one person only should have the control of the expenditure, as from mistaken economy on his part much damage may result; and I am informed that a valuable engine, the property of the public, has been rendered almost useless in consequence of there not being a properly qualified and careful engineer to attend to it constantly.

5th. That the drill of the brigade is not such as to make it an efficient one in event of a fire, much more being needed to that end than merely turning out the force once a month, and feebly pumping water out of and into the harbour for the space of a quarter of an hour. Such instruction can never fit men to cope successfully with the difficulties to be encountered at a serious fire.

A lengthy discussion ensued, resulting ultimately in the form of Mr. Ryrie's motion being amended as follows:—"The Hon. Phineas Ryrie, after complaining of the conduct of the Captain Superintendent of Police on the night of the typhoon, and of the refusal of the Government to institute a public inquiry, after a petition had been addressed to his Excellency the Governor praying that an inquiry should be made, moves," &c. The Colonial Secretary then read the following memorandum from his Excellency respecting the Fire Brigade:—

The complaints now made against the efficiency and organisation of the Fire Brigade are the first that have come to my knowledge either publicly or privately. The brigade, as at present constituted, was handed down to me by my predecessor as being in a most efficient state, and until the present time I have never heard any other opinion, or of any want of promptitude when its services were required. No fire has occurred during the last two and a half years which was not speedily extinguished. Under these circumstances, I have seen no necessity for interfering with an establishment which worked so satisfactorily. And, moreover, as the services rendered by the brigade were to a great extent voluntary, I deemed interference or new rules to be injudicious and unnecessary. I know of no shortcoming on the part of the brigade as a body, nor on the part of those in charge of it.

Nevertheless, I shall direct an inquiry as to whether the rules applicable to the brigade can be amended, and also with a view to a reduction of the cost, whether the charge to the public bears an equitable proportion to that borne by the insurance offices, who derive so large a benefit from the existence of an efficient fire brigade. I shall be glad to have some specific charge of inefficiency before any steps are taken to disturb a system which has hitherto worked so harmoniously, and as far as my knowledge extends efficiently.

The Council then went into committee on the estimates, and on the vote for $3,620,000, under "Educational," the Colonial Treasurer said it was proposed to increase this vote by $1,000. It was proposed to reprint part of Dr. Williams' Tonic Dictionary, and it was stated that the work could not be undertaken without aid from Government. It was proposed at first for the Government to take 250 copies, which would have entailed an expenditure of $1,600. The proposition of Dr. Eitel, who is to get out the work, was then referred to Mr. Stewart, the Inspector of Schools, who, in reply, stated that such a dictionary was indispensable. It was recommended that a grant of $1,000 should be made to Dr. Eitel. The motion was carried after some discussion.

Mr. Rowett moved that the monthly grant made to the Italian Convent of $80 should be increased to $130, but the motion was withdrawn on a promise that enquiries should be made by the Government. The remaining items of the Estimates were passed without discussion, and the Ordinance to control recruiting in the Colony for the service of Foreign States was carried. The Council thne adjourned.

The following Bills were read the first time:—Ordinance enacted by the Governor of Hong Kong, with the advice of the Legislative Council thereof, to apply a sum not exceeding $730,000 to the public service of the year 1875. An Ordinance enacted by the Governor of Hong Kong, with the advice of the Legislative Council thereof, to provide for the security of properties vested in the official trustee, by virtue of which Ordinance all trustees, executors, administrators, or other persons having moneys on trust shall be at liberty, on filing an affidavit describing the instrument creating the trust, to pay the same with the privity of the official trustee into the Colonial Treasury in trust to attend the orders of the Court.

The following letter from Her Majesty's Consul at Canton with reference to the capture and pillage of the steamer Spark, has been forwarded to us for publication:—

H.M. Consulate, Canton, 12th November, 1874.

Sir,—With reference to the capture and pillage of the steamer Spark by pirates, the murders of the master, G. Brady, and the purser, Felix Ferries, and the dangerous wounding of Mr. Mundy, a passenger, and others on the 22nd of August last, I have the honour to state, for the information of his Excellency the Governor, that every effort was made by the Canton Government to arrest the guilty parties, and fourteen in all were captured and brought to trial, and of these six, having confessed their guilt,—

Liu A-wu, Chang Te Hsiu, Liang To Ching, Kwo Ken Hao, Wu Ch'ai Kwei, and Wu Kwo Yu, were executed on the 3rd, and two, Ho Hsin K'wen and Hwang A-lien, on the 6th instant.

Fan Afeng, who died from wounds received at his capture, was also beheaded.

The heads of these criminals will be exposed in the usual manner as a warning to all.

On the other persons in custody sentences have not yet been passed, there being doubts respecting the identity of one or two of them, or whether they were engaged in the piracy.

In reporting these executions, his Excellency the Acting Viceroy informs me that no reward can be accepted for the apprehension of the pirates, the police having done no more than their duty.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient servant,

B. ROBERTSON, Consul.

The Hon. J. Gardiner Austin, Colonial Secretary, Hong Kong.

The following account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending the 31st October, 1874, is published in the Gazette:—

Banks.	Average Amount
Oriental Bank Corporation	$683,703
Chartered Mercantile Band of India, London and China	678,254
Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China	509,617
Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corqoration	1,396,879
Total	$3,268,453

The purchasers of the British ship Mindanao succeeded in lifting her, by means of four junks, from in front of the P.M.S. Co.'s wharf, where she was sunk, but she grounded again in front of the east corner of the harbour-master's office.

The British steamship Yesso, from Coast ports, struck a large junk, which ran into her port side before the paddle box. It appears that the Yesso on her arrival steamed alongside the barque Christianshaven to discharge cargo, but finding this to be impracticable on account of the latter being so low in the water, she sheared off again to make fast to a buoy. Just then the steamship Altona came up on the other side, and was also making for the same buoy. The Yesso then had to stop. Just at that time a large junk tacking from Kowloon side to Hong Kong bore down on the Yesso's bows. The Yesso could only go one way, and that was ahead, as the Altona was on one side and the Christianshaven on the other, and if she backed astern she would have run into the barque Ellen. She therefore had to remain stationary. The junk was hailed, but she took no notice. She could have easily eased off sheet and run down between, but she ran clean into the guard of the paddle wheel. The junk's mast went over the side and her bows were completely smashed. She immediately filled and sank below the Canton steamer wharf. No lives were lost, as several boats took all the hands off.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The following items are from the Siam Weekly Advertiser :—

One of the members of the Privy Council has been found guilty of alleged embezzlement, which act is a violation of the solemn oath of office, binding each of its members to loyalty to the Sovereign, and fidelity alike to the King and to the best interests of the State. For this offence, it is said, H.E. Phaya Ah-han-boriraks, Acting Minister of Agriculture, has been deposed from his position as a member of the Privy Council. In one instance it is said Phaya Ah-han-boriraks and his subaltern Kunrut-ak-saun, have misappropriated over $325,152, and that the accounts have been tampered with. The Government, it seems, is so well satisfied of criminality that his Majesty has deposed this prominent nobleman from his position as a member of the Privy Council. The case is still under investigation, and no little anxiety is felt as to the amount of fraud and criminality that may grow out of the revelations of this case.

The time has come when dishonesty must be put down efficiently and persistently, and that virtue and honesty, domestic, social, political, and commercial, must be created, fostered, and perpetuated.

Some time since the Siamese Government issued a proclamation forbidding children under fifteen years of age engaging in legalised gambling, and specifying certain sports that they must not engage in on the public thoroughfares. Another proclamation has just made its appearance making it criminal for them to engage in games of chance.

The Lighthouse discussion has at last culminated in the completion of a lighthouse, to guide the mariner in directing his course over the bar of the Chow Phya River in unfavourable weather. H.E. Chow Phya Bhanuwongs Mahah Kosahtibaudee, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, has issued a proclamation on this subject, the purport of which is that the lighthouse is now ready for use, and will flash forth its light at night for the benefit of Government and trading vessels passing to and fro over the bar on and after the ninth of November (1874).

The Presbytery of Siam held its session in the Chapel, at the Presbyterian Mission compound, Bangnamch'on, Bangkok, Oct. 30th. The Rev. N. A. McDonald preached the annual sermon.

The report of the Siamese commissioners P'raya Anuchitchahn-chai and P'raya Kalahome-rahch-saanah, who were sent by H.M. the Supreme King to the province Tahk to investigate the complaints of insecurity that came from that region, shows a fearful state of insecurity to both life and property in that region. Travellers have been waylaid, fired upon, and mercilessly plundered. Of these some were killed and others were wounded. Peaceful and industrious citizens have been assailed by marauders; they, too, have been fired upon, and their houses heartlessly plundered, and they have had to flee, and return to find themselves impoverished and compelled to start anew in life to accumulate the means of livelihood.

The report of these commissioners shows the great need of honest, efficient Government officials, and police, and reliable guarantees that the lives, the property, the persons and the lawful pursuits of all law-abiding citizens shall be sacredly protected. This is the great political problem for the present King of Siam to solve. If H.M. succeeds in regenerating the Siamese Government, creating political honesty in all departments of Siamese officialdom, and in securing real reliable protection for all his people in all his dominions, in all their lawful pursuits and possessions, he will have achieved a great and glorious work, and will well deserve a prominent place in the history of this century.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—During the interval there had been a weaker tendency in all descriptions of imports, the only exceptions to the general dulness having been a continued inquiry for 28/32 Yarn, and more demand for Cotton Sateens and Blankets. In the market for metals there had been a little more inquiry for Nail-rods, but at no improvement in prices. Occasional sales of suitable sizes of Bar Iron were reported, though quotations for most descriptions were quite nominal.

HIOGO-OSAKA.—Deliveries of goods had been fairly large, and considerable activity was apparent early in the month. The market had, however, been freely supplied, and at closing there was somewhat less animation, with declining quotations for many articles.

CHEFOO.—Messrs. Wilson, Cornabe and Co.'s Circular says :—Our last was issued on the 1st ult., and since that date our market for imports has been rather inanimate. Cotton Goods : Grey Shirtings and T-Cloths have been saleable to a small extent, but rates are still under the equivalent of Shanghai values. Drills and Fancy Cottons have not been inquired after. Metals : Both Iron and Lead have been dull of sale, and rates have, if anything, a downward tendency.

SHANGHAI.—Dulness continued to prevail in the market, and very little business had been done.

FOOCHOW.—The only sale of piece goods reported $1.72½ per piece. Lead is quoted at $8.25 per picul.

MANILA.—The market for Plain Staples continued very quiet, and, with few exceptions, quotations remained unaltered. Coloured goods of suitable styles and assortments were in good demand, and values exhibit an upward tendency.

BANGKOK.—A fair business had been done at the previously ruling prices.

EXPORTS.

—o—

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The settlements had only amounted to 1,700 piculs, whilst supplies had come in steadily; prices show no alteration, so far, and the market closed quiet but firm. The barque New Republic sailed for New York on the 1st Nov. with a tea cargo of 557,801 lbs. from this port. The barque Jessica, also for New York, having arrived from Hiogo, was loading.

HIOGO-OSAKA.—Business had continued on a moderate scale, without much change to note in prices, which, however, had hardened somewhat, while at the same time the quality of the Teas on offer was daily growing poorer. Settlements and arrivals to the 28th Oct. were on nearly the same scale, the former being reported at 6,000 piculs. Total Settlements for the season to date piculs 41,950, against piculs 18,500 for the corresponding period last year. Stocks estimated at 1,800 piculs. The British barque Jessica had sailed with 313,645lbs. for New York, via Yokohama, filling at the latter port.

SHANGHAI.—Black : Settlements had been chiefly in the common kinds at Tls. 15 to 16½, being unchanged rates. Settlements—3,871 chests, at Tls. 14 to 20 ; stock, 1,950 chests. Green : There was a fair business done early in the week, but the demand at the close was very slack, and Teamen seemed more anxious to sell. The stock had increased. Export to Great Britain to date (exclusive of lost cargoes) :—

Black	62,397,923 lbs.	against	54,563,376 lbs.
Green	6,657,930 ,,	,,	6,998,516 ,,
	69,055,853		61,561,892

FOOCHOW.—Messrs. Westall, Galton, and Co.'s Weekly Letter says : There is but little to report. During the past week the business has been confined to the purchase of some 6,000 chests of Congou, and some trifling settlements of Oolong. Congou : Rates are without any material alteration, but purchases show better value than settlements of the previous week. The market closes with nothing doing. Souchong : Only two chops have found buyers. Oolong : The settlements have been confined to Formosa kinds, and appear better value than late purchases of the district sorts. Flowery Pekoe : One chop of very common has changed hands. Scented Teas : No transactions. The export to Great Britain, the Continent of Europe, and the Cape of Good Hope amounts to 48,451,790 lbs., against 44,672,209 lbs. at the same time last year. To America, 864,675 lbs., against 2,237,895 lbs. To the Colonies, 11,161,355 lbs., against 11,415,955 lbs. last year.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Since the 5th Nov. the purchases of silk had not exceeded 400 bales, of which 250 bales were re-reels chiefly of common and market classes, which had been taken at slightly lower prices, viz., Tls. 330 to Tls. 430 for Hainings, and Tls. 327½ to Tls. 365 for Tsatlees. Common Laeyangs (Skeins) and inferior Tsatlees were reported purchased at Tls. 212½ to Tls. 215 for the former and Tls. 280 per picul for the latter. The market was weak and in face of the heavy stocks Chinese were very anxious sellers, and were offering market classes of silk at lower rates, but the concession was not sufficient to induce business to any extent, as prospects were in favour of a still further decline. Chops and all known silks were not so eagerly pressed for sale, but were offered at lower prices than purchases were made at a fortnight previously. Arrivals having exceeded the settlements the unsold stock had increased to 13,500 bales.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had shown less activity. Dealers manifested little disposition to meet buyers until towards the close, when, arrivals being on a liberal scale, a weaker feeling became apparent, and, at the close, a decline of $10 per picul was quoted. Silkworms' Eggs : According to a report, of a semi-official character, the total production this year has been 2,470,000 cards ; 600,000 cards are to be kept in the native market, for the consumption of Japan. The quantity destroyed by fire, as reported in our last issue, does not exceed 470,000 cards, which leaves 1,400,000 cards available for export. The total settlements, to date, being 900,000 cards, the unsold stock may be estimated as follows :—240,000 cards in Yokohama, and 260,000 to arrive—a portion of which is in Yedo. Prices were easier—Annual Green and White selling at from $0.30 to $0.60, according to quality. The total shipments, to date, had reached nearly 800,000 cards.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

THE BURNING OF THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMER "JAPAN."

HONG KONG, DEC. 19.—The Pacific mail steamer Japan, from Yokohama, was destroyed by fire at sea on the 17th inst., sixty miles from this port. A few of her crew and passengers have arrived here, but it is expected that many have been lost.

HONG KONG, DEC. 21.—The captain and several more of the crew and passengers of the mail steamer Japan, arrived here yesterday. There are now missing Mr. Tyndall, a cabin passenger, and one steerage passenger, the surgeon of the ship and several of the crew, and 400 Chinese. The fire on board was first discovered over the boilers at eleven P.M. on the 17th inst., 150 miles from Hong Kong. It being impossible to subdue it, the captain decided at one A.M. on the 18th inst. to abandon the vessel. The boats remained near here until noon in order to save life, and then proceeded to Swatow. The Japan's mails were lost.

HONG KONG, DEC. 23.—Two American gunboats have returned from the scene of the Japan's disaster, and have brought back Mr. Tyndall, Dr. Gates, and 120 Chinese. The Pacific steamer Alaska was blown ashore during the late typhoon, but has been safely floated.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

WLADIWOSTOCK, DEC. 18.—Great uneasiness is caused among the inhabitants of Schkatoff, in the Amoor territory, by the news of the approach of a Mantchoo army towards the Russian frontier. This force, orignally stated to number 6,000 men, is constantly swelled by other bands as it advances. The Russian Government has taken measures for the protection of the inhabitants, and has sent out scouts and stationed outposts at various points. It is believed that a body of Russian troops will be despatched against the advancing Mantchoos.

THE ATCHIN WAR.

THE HAGUE, DEC. 21.—According to an official telegram from Atchin on the 18th inst., the result of the mission of the Comptroller, who was sent to the refractory States on the West Coast of Atchin with an ultimatum, was not satisfactory.

CHINA MARKET REPORT.

HONG KONG, DEC. 24.—Grey Shirtings, 6½ catties, 8¼lb., $2.50; Cotton Yarn, water-twist, $1.14. Total exports of Tea from China and Japan to England from 1st June, 153,000,000 lbs., against 131,875,000 lbs. to corresponding date last year.

SHANGHAI, DEC. 24.—Grey Shirtings, 6½ catties, 8¼lbs., Tls. 1.9.1. Tea: Green in fair demand. Silk, firm; No. 3 Tsatlee (Koonfongsings), Tls. 410.

THE MAILS.

PRESENT INWARD MAIL.—MARSEILLES, DEC. 22.—The Messageries Maritimes steamer Hoogly, with the inward French mails from China and Japan, arrived to-day at 10 A.M. at the Hyeres Bay anchorage, where the mails were landed, in consequence of stress of weather. She brings 96 passengers and a general cargo, including 235 bales of silk, 12,694 packages of tea, and 596 packages of sundries, for London, which part of her cargo will be forwarded to its destination per Company's steamer Gange, due in London on or about the 6th of January.

NEXT INWARD MAIL.—SUEZ, DEC. 26.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Surat arrived at 1, and the Baroda at 5 P.M. to-day from Calcutta and Bombay respectively.—ALEXANDRIA, DEC. 27.—The P. and O. steamer Venetia sailed at 11 A.M. to-day for Brindisi, where she is expeeted to arrive on the 30th inst. The mails will probably reach London on the morning of Saturday next.

HEAVY PORTION OF LAST INWARD MAIL.—GIBRALTAR, DEC. 24.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Australia arrived at 6 P.M., and leaves for Southampton at two o'clock to-morrow morning, where she may be expected on Tuesday evening. Experienced very heavy weather. All well.

INWARD MAIL DUE JANUARY 18.—GALLE, DEC. 24.—The P. and O. Company's steamer Nubia, from Australia, and the Geelong, from China, arrived here to-day with the China and Australian mails. The Peshawur leaves here for Suez to-morrow. Specie for Europe, £530,000.

Naval and Military.

Two new war steamers, the Contest and the Express, which have been built by Messrs. Doxford and Co., of Sunderland, are in the Tyne. They made a satisfactory trial run on the 18th inst. Their engines have been put in by Messrs. R. and W. Hawthorne, of Newcastle. The vessels have been built for coasting purposes, and are very fine specimens of their class.

Permission has been granted by the Admiralty to the request made by the officers and ship's company of H.M.S. Cadmus, recently paid off at Devonport, to place a tablet in the dockyard chapel at that port, in memory of their deceased shipmates, who died during the commission, which will be remembered as a happy one by all who served in her.

The colonelcy of the 67th Regiment, vacant by the death of General F. J. Davies, has been conferred on Lieutenant-General H. P. Raymond, the dates of whose commissions are as fellows:—Ensign, 1825; lieutenant, 1827; captain, 1834; major, 1846; lieutenant-colonel, 1851; colonel, 1854; major-general, 1865; lieutenant-general, 1874.

Colonel Younghusband's special Committee on Gun cotton have forwarded their report to the Secretary for War. They recommend gun-cotton as a valuable explosive both for military and naval purposes. With regard to safety of manufacture, storage, and conveyance, it compared favourably with other explosives examined.

Colonel John Stokes, C.B., Royal Engineers, has been appointed Commanding Royal Engineers at Chatham, in succession to Colonel J. W. Lovell, C.B. Colonel Stokes served with distinction through the Kaffir wars of 1846-47 and 1850-52, and did good service with the Turkish contingent during the war with Russia.

Mr. John Read, late boatswain of the Revenge, who was recently dismissed the Service by court-martial, has, by permission of the Admiralty, re-entered as chief petty officer, the time served as warrant officer being allowed to count for chief petty officer's time with regard to pension.

Lieutenant R. G. Warton, of the first battalion of the 10th Regiment, is under orders to return home from Singapore to relieve Lieutenant G. C. Helme at the depot. Lieutenant F. N. I. Taylor has left England for Singapore to rejoin head-quarters from leave of absence.

Colonel Peter Stark Lumsden, C.B., C.S.I., Bengal Staff Corps, has been confirmed in his appointment as Adjutant-General to the Army in India from 1st September, 1874, and is given the local rank of Major-General.

Mr. George Liddell, assistant-paymaster, R.N., has been selected to fill the post of secretary to Captain Algernon M'L. Lyons, the newly appointed commodore at Jamaica.

Mr. Swainson, at present Superintendent of the Observatory, Portsmouth, and formerly of the Foochow Arsenal, has been promoted to the rank of Staff-Commander.

New crews for the Alacrity and Conflict, employed on the Australian station, as well as some supernumeraries, are held in readiness at Devonport to embark for passage.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

ACHARD V. RING AND OTHERS.—MARINE INSURANCE CASE.

This was an action by the charterer of a ship against the shipowners to recover the value of a damaged cargo destroyed by scuttling the ship in order to put out a fire; and it raised a question of some importance as to the liability of shipowners in such cases. The question is one which has greatly divided the opinion of authorities on mercantile law, and the action was avowedly brought to reopen the question, in consequence of a decision in this Court having been reversed by the Court of Error. In that case—"Stewart v. the Pacific Insurance Company"—this Court held that the claim in such a case by the general law was tenable, and that a custom could not alter the law in that respect, but the Court of Error reversed that decision on the ground that a custom to exclude such claims was valid. The present action was brought to review that decision and dispute the alleged custom to exclude such claims. In April, 1872, the plaintiff chartered a ship of the defendants to bring a cargo of rice from Burmah to Liverpool, and by the charter questions of general average were to be settled by the custom of London underwriters. The ship arrived in dock, and had half discharged the cargo, when on the 2nd of November, 1872, a fire was discovered in the hold, and at the advice of the harbour-master the ship was scuttled to put out the fire. Of course the rest of the cargo was much damaged, and the charterer claimed about £4,700 from the shipowners, by way of "general average"—that is, as an expenditure incurred for the salvation of the ship. The shipowners disputed the claim and relied on a decision in the Court of Error in the Exchequer Chamber, on the 23rd of June, 1873, to the effect that by the custom of underwriters such claims were excluded. By the charter questions of general average were to be settled by the custom of the London underwriters, and the custom, as proved in that case, excluded such claims. But it was disputed in the present case that such a custom existed, or, at all events, that it has existed since that case, as it was then, it was said, altered, though the damage in the present case was before the decision referred to. The case for the plaintiff was opened upon the general law, and the authority of this Court in the case cited. On the other side the decision of the Court of Error was relied on.

The Lord Chief Justice summed up the case to the jury, directing them as to the law, and leaving to them the question of fact as to the supposed custom. In the result, after some deliberation, the jury found for the plaintiff.

EASTERN AGRICULTURAL COMPANIES.

OUR last issue contained two announcements in reference to business of an identical character, and yet so entirely opposite in their nature that we are tempted to offer a few remarks on some of the features of these two very similar undertakings. It was then stated, on the faith of the Report of the Directors of the Ceylon Company, that they had resolved on closing their business in Mauritius, owing to the unremunerative character of sugar growing in that island, and it was in the same issue announced that a new association for a precisely similar purpose has been formed, called the Agriculturist Company of Mauritius (Limited), with a capital of £500,000, in 50,000 shares of £10 each. This Company states its objects to be, "to make advances on growing crops in Mauritius, as "well as to acquire sugar estates and to undertake irriga- "tion works." It is stated in the prospectus that the sugar estates in the island produce for the most part from 500 to 2,000 tons of sugar each, and employ a number of Indian coolies, varying from 250 to 1,000. The Board of Direction is almost identical with that of the Credit Foncier of Mauritius.

The fact of a body of capitalists being found ready to enter upon business which is being abandoned by another company after a number of years' operations is full of significance, especially when the latter fact be taken in connection with the reason assigned, viz., the losing character of sugar production. "With regard "to the announcement," say the directors, "of their "intention to restrict their business in the Mau- "ritius, and to withdraw altogether from it, the matter "had been carefully considered by the board, and they felt "certain that that was the right course to pursue, since the "price of labour and provisions had risen to such an extent "as to curtail the profits; for whereas the cost of making "one cwt. of sugar used to be $3½ it was $4½, and though "the prices obtained were higher, yet they were not so in "proportion to the increased cost, and there was no reason "to suppose it would diminish." According to this showing, the entire sugar interest of Mauritius must be on the verge of ruin, and the marvel is how a new company can be found to enter upon such unprofitable business!

In Ceylon, too, we are told, the whole produce of the island had been equal to not more than 2½ cwt. per acre, though they had only suffered in common with their neighbours, who, many of them, had been making losses instead of profits. So that making losses instead of gains by some occult process is made to yield a dividend of four per cent. per annum. So far from being disappointed at this low rate, as the directors anticipate, shareholders should feel considerably surprised that any dividend at all had been squeezed out of such a state of things as described by the Chairman at the recent meeting. "The leaf disease and "the unusual rains had, however, so reduced the crop that "it would not come up to the average, and though some "estates had borne well, the majority had not paid their "expenses." Leaf disease had no doubt something to do with short crops, but we were not aware that the season referred to, 1872-3, had been unusually wet.

If one half of what is stated in the Ceylon papers in regard to planting operations and dealings with constituents by this Company be true, we suspect that other causes than leaf disease and unusual rains are in operation to the prejudice of shareholders' interests. No doubt the coffee interest of Ceylon has had its trials and disappointments of late, but upon the whole it has been and is still fairly successful, quite as much so as any other agricultural pursuit in the tropics. We do not hesitate to affirm that a larger number of Ceylon coffee proprietors have retired from the island with independent means during the last two years than in any previous period of like duration. A Company, therefore, having such an important stake in the island ought to present a better report than that just published. That there has been sad mismanagement somewhere there can be no doubt; but the Company possess in their many fine properties the means of future success if they will but use those means aright.

CHINESE COOLIES IN NORTHERN AUSTRALIA.

IN a recent issue we mentioned that a movement was on foot in the colony of Queensland, on the eastern coast of Australia, to introduce Chinese, labour into that territory, for tropical agriculture. According to the Northern Territory Times, a system of coolie emigration has already commenced between Singapore and Port Darwin, on the north-west coast, where a new town has been formed and named Palmerston, under the jurisdiction of the South Australian Government, who have authorised agents to engage the immigrants. A batch of some two hundred were brought over in this manner, and landed from the British ship Vidar, at the settlement, and the Government representative transferred their services to private parties, on their paying the cost of introducing them, which was about £9 7s. per head, including passage-money, commission for selecting, medical fees, and the expenses incurred by the employment of Captain DOUGLAS on his special mission, besides the provisions of the men on the voyage. The wages are fixed at the rate of 8s. per week, and they are to be supplied with rations by their employers, "according to the custom of Chinese coolies in Australia," and at the end of two years' service, if they wish to return to Singapore, they are to be provided with a free passage; or, if they wish to remain in the colony they are to be paid £5 each in lieu thereof. Medical attendance is also to be provided free of charge. On his part each coolie signs an agreement printed in English and Chinese, under which he binds himself to act as a "general servant" for a period of two years; and his services as such are to be available "in town or country, field, mine, factory or house." It is provided, also, that they are not to be required to work on Sundays, and not more than ten hours of one day in twenty-four hours. Accompanying this first body of men were eleven mandores, or gangers, the chief man getting £5 6s. per month, and the others £3 10s. to £2 10s. per month. Altogether the terms are more liberal for the Chinese labourer than any hitherto set forth, and as the system is under Government control, there is every guarantee of these being faithfully carried out.

THE account of affairs in Pahang, as related in The Times of the 22nd inst. hardly convey an exact idea of the facts. Certain evidence was laid before Governor CLARKE, accusing the Bandahara of Pahang of hostility towards the Maharajah of Johore and complicity in acts of piracy. It now appears that these accusations are groundless, for with the exception of a murder committed by a small Pahang Chieftain, there existed no real ground of complaint against the Pahang Government. An old feud existed between the Bandahara and the Maharajah, which Sir ANDREW CLARKE will no doubt do his best to remove. Although considerable progress has been made in the Straits, and the new policy works well, yet much remains to be accomplished. It is injudicious, therefore, in the partisans of the new policy to anticipate in every possible way the good which may accrue. The articles which have appeared in some of our contemporaries are calculated to have a mischievous tendency, and Sir ANDREW CLARKE may well ask to be spared from the laudation thus indiscriminately offered him. The wonderful accounts of the results of "investments in agriculture" should be received with caution. There is, no doubt, much to be done, which, if well done, will prove very remunerative. The immense profits spoken of can only be obtained after the expenditure of time, money, patience, and great perseverance.

THE German Minister of Commerce at Berlin has announced to all Chambers of Commerce and mercantile bodies whom it may concern that in consequence of the efforts of the German representative in Yedo, the Japanese Government has declared itself willing to permit German vessels for a fixed fee to obtain coal from the Takashina pits, and to continue their voyages thence without calling again at Nagasaki.

THE expedition for the exploration of the Western China route, which has started from Rangoon for Bhamo and Momein to Talifoo, will terminate at Shanghai, and effect a complete survey and report of the Yangtsze valley. Besides the names we have given in a previous issue, we understand that Mr. ALLEN, Interpreter, of the China Consular Service, has joined.

BY a telegram which we publish in another column it will be seen that the progress of the Dutch in Atchin is still described as "unsatisfactory." It appears very doubtful if the campaign will be brought to a close this season. The resignation of Governor-General LOUDON will further complicate matters.

THE troopship Adventure arrived at Hong Kong on the 22nd inst. with the Marines from Yokohama, en route for England. As no reinforcements are under orders, we presume that the withdrawal of this force from Yokohama has been finally decided on by the Foreign-office.

THE Emperor of GERMANY has granted an audience to Prince YOSIHISA, the uncle of the MIKADO.

The Aborigines of Northern Formosa. A Paper read before the North China Branch of the R.A.S., Shanghai, 18th June, 1874. By EDWARD C. TAINTOR, A.M., F.R.G.S., Commissioner in the Chinese Customs Service. Privately printed at the Customs' Press, Shanghai: 1874.

At least two thirds of the island of Formosa are inhabited by aboriginal tribes, who are for the most part in a savage state, and it was to a study of those living in the northern—or, more strictly speaking, in the north-eastern—part of the island that Mr. Taintor applied himself during his official residence there; the greater part of the information given in this interesting paper was, however, derived from a visit which he paid to a point some fifty-four miles south of Kelung, where a colony of semi-civilised aborigines had recently been established under the leadership of a foreigner.

The aborigines of Northern Formosa are of two races, very different in appearance, and, indeed, in almost every respect. The one is partially civilised, and adopts some Chinese customs; these are called in the local Chinese dialect Pepo hwan, or savages of the plain, pepo being a corruption of ping-pu; they are also termed shek fan (in mandarin shu-fan). The savages proper constitute the other race, their various clans being included under the designation shêng fan.

The Pepos, who call themselves "Kabaran," are the medium of intercourse between the Chinese and the savages, and some 4,000 of them inhabit a fertile valley, which commences twenty-five miles south of Kelung and extends to Suao Bay, a distance of fourteen miles; its popular name is Kapsulan, but it is officially called Komalan, and was erected into a ting district in 1812. "The Pepos," says Mr. Taintor, "present a great variety of face, especially among the women. Many of the men . . . are tall and straight, and much superior in physique to the Chinese. They have a much more frank, open, manly expression of countenance than the latter, and this is greatly heightened by their eyes. The women are small and slender, and although marrying young, do not appear so prematurely faded as the Chinese women. Some of them had really handsome, regular features; others were extremely ugly. Some of them are of a clear olive colour—others as dark and coarse as Malays. Their finest features are their eyes, which are uncommonly large, round, and full, with an iris of a deep rich black, and languid as a Spanish belle's. . . . . The women are simple, naïve, and curious, and have none of the affected prudery of the Chinese women." The Pepos are fishermen or hunters according as they live on the coast or in the interior, and some of them cultivate a little ground; their women do most of the drudgery, and when not otherwise occupied, they are engaged in weaving cloth. Mr. Taintor "found it extremely difficult to get any satisfactory ideas regarding the religious beliefs and superstitions of the Pepos," but he gives an account of some curious ceremonies which he saw or had described to him, one being apparently of a quasi-religious nature.

The Shêng fan, or savages proper, of whom the principal clan is the Yukan, are smaller men than the Pepos, and inferior to them in appearance. Mr. Taintor states that they intermarry very closely, that their skulls are of the pyramidal rather than the oval type, and that their eyes are not so large and full as those of the Pepos, nor yet so almond-shaped and oblique as those of the Chinese. Their hair is coarse, straight, and black, uncut and unshaven, but carefully gathered into a bunch at the back of the head. Their women are remarkably short and thick-set; very low foreheads predominate in both sexes, and their whole expression is destitute of intelligence. They all tattoo the face in dark blue lines with indigo; and, remarks Mr. Taintor, the "broad band of sombre blue, running across the whole face of the women, adds materially to their prevailing natural ugliness, and should be a far more effective safe-guard for jealous husbands than even the blackened teeth of the Japanese women," One of the most singular customs prevalent among them is that of knocking out the eye-teeth of all the children when they reach the age of six or eight years, in the belief that it strengthens their speed and wind in hunting! Their whole mode of existence is primitive in the extreme; they live chiefly by the chase, but they also cultivate a few things like sweet potatoes, yams, ground nuts, &c.; they grow tobacco, and its "name, ta-ba-ka, is sufficient evidence of its introduction among them by either the Dutch or Spanish colonists;" their huts are about as simply constructed as they well can be, poles and grass being the materials employed: lastly, we may mention that "they bury their dead standing upright, and their weapons and utensils are buried with them."

It is to be regretted that Mr. Taintor did not think it worth while to give us some more detailed information with regard to the camphor trade in its various aspects, instead of merely quoting a couple of paragraphs from an old Customs' Trade Report, especially as he considers that Formosa possesses an exceptional interest and importance from the fact of its being the principal source of the camphor supply of the world. He concludes his valuable contribution on the Formosan aborigines with some notices relating to them, "condensed and translated from the Komalan-ting Chih, the geographical and statistical description of the Komalan or Kapsulan valley," and with a quotation from the Tung-chêng Tsi, which is "noteworthy for the sentiments expressed as to the proper method of dealing with the savages." Among the former the account of the way in which the aborigines make wine is curious;—"Their wine," it is stated, "is made from glutinous rice. Each person takes a handful of rice in his mouth, and masticates it until soft. It is then put into an earthen jar, and by the next day it has fermented, so that by adding water wine is produced. They consider very sour wines the best."

In an Appendix to his Paper Mr. Taintor gives a comparative vocabulary of the Kabaran (Pepo) and Yukan (Savage) dialects, comprising 378 words of the former and 135 of the latter. In several instances he adds the corresponding expressions in Malay, Javanese, and the languages in use in the Philippines, Madagascar, &c.; and the coincidence, actual or approximate, is in many cases certainly very striking.

If the visit of the Shah of Persia to Europe has been unproductive of any real good to his Persian subjects, it has at least had the result of developing the literary resources of his Majesty. The Diary of the Shah's Tour through Europe is a quaint narrative, and that portion of it which relates to England is most amusing. Of all the sights shown to the Shah, none seem to have gratified him more than the wax exhibition at Madame Tussaud's, and it is not unlikely that Teheran will one day rival London in its wax-work exhibitions. The journey through Europe was a source of continued wonder, commencing in Russia, and increasing at every fresh stage until it finally reached the culminating point here in England. The Shah was much impressed with the appearance of the crowds who greeted him on his journeyings through London, and he is rather inclined to believe that the homage paid him by a curious mob was due to his importance as a ruler, a surmise it would be perhaps unwise to undeceive him about. The Diary is an interesting supplement to the journey itself, and when we add that the publisher, Mr. John Murray, of Albemarle-street, has spared no pains in the embellishment of the volume, we feel sure that it will be sought for by all those who wish to renew their acquaintance with an Eastern Sovereign whose popularity was so unbounded during his stay amongst us.

Mr. Jones, the first part of whose pamphlet, The Million on the Rail, and Railroad Dividends, we have noticed, has now issued a second portion, in which he gives an exhaustive review of the traffic on the various railways, with a view to adducing evidence in support of the arguments introduced in the earlier part of the pamphlet.

In "The Light of Fern Glen," by Mr. H. Holt (Marlborough and Co.), we have a very pleasant story, well told. It is a welcome addition to our Christmas literature.

The official report on the Vienna Exhibition ordered by Government has been issued, but presents no new feature of interest.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, DEC. 22.

Since I sent off my last letter nothing further has been done in the German Parliament with regard to the new Bank Law, about which the Committee of twenty-one members and the Federal Council have, however, come to an understanding as reported below, before it is brought forward again. In the meantime the House has been busily engaged in discussing the Budget of 1875, it being of great importance to get through with it before the adjournment of the House for the holidays.

One item of the Budget that was quite new, and will no doubt be appreciated by your readers, is a sum placed on the Estimates for the establishment of a Scientific Institution to be founded at Hamburg under the name of the "Deutsche Seewarte," or Marine Observatory, the practical benefits to be derived from which must be apparent to every one connected with commercial affairs, navigation and insurance. In the preamble of the Bill and the explanatory "Motives" it is described as having for its object to extend the knowledge of the sea and all the branches of science connected with it; to observe the weather on the coasts of Germany and give warning signals to vessels if a storm may be expected; to promote the interests of navigation by utilising the observations made and collected; to test and correct the more important instruments used on board ship for the safety of life and property, such as the chronometers, sextants, and barometers; to collect and journalise the physical relations of the sea and meteorological observations made during the voyage of a vessel from a distant country; to form a collection of maps and charts of the more important coasts and harbours; to make observations on magnetism, and especially its effect on the deviation of the compasses in iron ships; to compile handbooks for the safest and quickest route for different voyages; to edit and publish a periodical containing the most recent discoveries and information that may be of practical utility to ship-masters, and to give them every advice and assistance they may stand in need of.

In the debate that ensued a Member proposed to extend the field of operations to keeping a strict watch on the encroachments or recession of the sea, and a control over the safety of the dykes that preserve the low country near the sea from those fearful inundations that have from time to time done such fatal injuries to Holland, Denmark, Heligoland, and other lines of coast. Mosle (the member for Bremen) warned the House against passing this amendment, as being out of the bearings of the proposed institution. In this he was supported with all the weight of Government by General von Stosch, the Head of the Admiralty, who pronounced it as simply a local question, and one more suited for land-surveyors and road-makers who are closely connected with earth-works. The amendment was consequently thrown out. Captain St. Paul-Hillaire, of the German Navy, moved that the Sea Observatory be considered a branch of the Hydrographical Department of the Admiralty, which was accepted without a division. Herr Schmidt, member for Stettin, objected to Hamburg as the seat of the Institution, as not being so well suited for the purpose as Berlin, which, though more inland, has telegraphic communication with all parts of the coast, whereas at Hamburg new wires would have to be laid in every direction. If it was urged that at Hamburg the officials of the Observatory would be in direct and vivâ voce relations with the captains and shipmasters of all countries and from all parts of the world, it should not be lost sight of, that at Berlin it would have the support of the Academy of Sciences, the University, the Observatory, and other scientific institutions. These objections, however, found no favour with the House, the Bill was passed in its original form with the amendment of Capt. St. Paul-Hillaire to place the Institution under the orders and control of the Admiralty. The sum placed on the est mates for the purpose, and passed without a murmur, was 50,000 reichs marks for salaries and remunerations, as also 24,800 marks for fitting-up expenses, signal stations, telegraphic instruments, wires, &c.

The proposals laid before the Parliamentary Committee by President von Delbrück, with regard to the new arrangement of the Bank Law, with a Central Bank, state that the present Bank of Prussia shall be changed into a private Bank under the control and management of the State, with a working capital of 120 million marks, one half of which to be raised by the sixty millions belonging to private individuals, and the other half by subscription. The present shareholders, if willing to forego their claims to the Reserve Fund of the Bank of Prussia, will receive an equal nominal amount of shares in the new concern in exchange for their present shares. Shareholders who decline these terms will be paid off at par, and the sum required for that purpose, as well as the other half of the capital, will be open for public subscription in the form of new shares. The notes of the new Reichsbank will be taken at full value by all public offices in Germany; Prussia to receive back its capital of 1,906,800 thalers, with one-half of the Reserve Fund. The Bank of Prussia to receive an indemnity of five million thalers, for loss of commission and profits connected with loans negotiated and still pending. The amount of uncovered bank notes not to exceed 380,000,000 marks, which are liable to the annual duty of one per cent. In this sum the Reichsbank may participate to the extent of 250,000,000 marks, Bavaria 32,000,000 marks, the Saxon Banks 24,000,000 marks, the Prussian private Banks, exclusive of the Bank of Frankfort, 12,988,000 marks, the Banks of Frankfort, Wurtemberg, and Baden, and the Bank for South Germany, each of them 10,000,000 marks, and the other Banks of Issue, together 21,012,000 marks, making the above total amount. A new paragraph is added, to the effect that those Banks of Issue, whose privileges expire during the fifty years for which the Reichsbank is chartered, those privileges are transferred without further legislation to the last named Institution. The other alterations are merely in the wording of the draft required to suit the above. In this state it will probably be brought before Parliament.

The appointment of Consul-General at New York for Germany, which has been vacant some months by the occupant, Dr. J. Rösing, being recalled to fill an important and influential post in the Foreign Office at Berlin, has been definitely filled up, the appointment being given to Dr. H. A. Schumacher, a native of Bremen, hitherto Diplomatic Agent in Central America, who, we further learn, has safely arrived at New York, after a long and perilous journey overland from Santa Fe de Bogota.

A few days ago Herr Mosle, Member of Parliament for Bremen, had the honour of an audience of H.M. the Emperor, to present the first copy of the work on the Second German North Polar Expedition, when he informed his Majesty that it was the intention of the German Geographers to send out another expedition in the spring of 1876, provided Parliament would provide the funds. The Emperor spoke very favourably of this fresh undertaking, and promised his cordial co-operation and support.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM, DEC. 22.

An important political event has transpired since my last letter. On the 19th inst. we were surprised by the news that Mr. Loudon, the Governor-General of Java, had presented his resignation. On the same day the Second Chamber held its last sitting for this year, and Mr. Van Goltstein was interpellated about this rumour. The Minister stated that it was true; Mr. Loudon had repeatedly asked for his dismissal, at first under certain conditions, and finally without any conditions. The King had accepted it, and Mr. Loudon's successor would be gazetted that very night. The reason? Well, the Minister said that there was some difference of opinion upon a certain subject; but we do not know what subject it was. I need not add that a good many speculative on dits were circulated about the successor to the Governorship, and when the name of Mr. W. J. Van Lansberge, our ambassador at the Court of Brussels, was mentioned, it was thought to be a hoax. However, it was quite true, Mr. Van Lansberge having been formally appointed. I hear he is a most able diplomatist but an Ultramontane, and till now has been an entire stranger to colonial matters. I think his appointment will cause a storm of indignation. His place at Brussels will, a rumour says, be filled by Mr. Gericke Van Herwynen, who is very partial to the Belgian capital. The leading Liberal paper, the Handelsblad, declares its astonishment that the Minister was so reticent with his information as to the reasons which led to Mr. Loudon's dismissal. Why did the Chamber not ask for more ample information? Was it a matter of no importance? Were the members asleep? But if we were surprised, the paper says, by the news, we were the more astonished on reading the name of his successor. It further states that Mr. van Lansberge is an absolute "know-nothing" as regards colonial matters, and at this time it is most necessary to appoint a Governor-general who is au courant with the topics of the day in Java. The Handelsblad is of opinion that there are black spots on our colonial horizon.

The Chamber is now in recess; but before leaving the Hague the members voted the last chapters of the Budget. The Minister of the War Department obtained a satisfactory majority, although his policy was criticised most severely. A shower of sharp remarks poured from all parts of the House, and poor Mr. Weitzel could hardly have expected his majority of fourteen votes. The main objection against his policy was that he wants seventeen millions a year to consolidate our means of defence, of which nothing is at present organised. This is, you will agree, annoying. If we pay such an enormous sum we like to obtain something for it. It is of no use to throw the money out of the window. The present state is bad, but I think the future will be still worse. The Minister stated positively that he is quite unable to spend the money in a more productive way; he will want even still more money, notwithstanding that the vote for our means of defence has been doubled within a few years. The reason that his estimates were not rejected was, that we have had a succession of Ministers for this department without gaining one step in the right direction. The members were withheld from saying "No," by the fear that the successor of Mr. Weitzel might be still worse than he is. And, indeed, he is a most able man; such is the general opinion. Perhaps a parliamentary enquete will be opened in order, if possible, to find out the reasons why we spend such enormous sums for military purposes with no practical results. With the Colonial Budget the debates were closed. Several members attacked the Minister, Van Goltstein, and declared openly that he had no system. When he was member of Parliament he was a Conservative, whilst he now seems to be converted into a Liberal. Messrs. Kuyper and Gratama wished for more explanations about our policy in Atchin. The first-named member asked what the new Cabinet had altered in our Atchin-policy? and if we are still involved in a war with that country? also whether this Cabinet made themselves answerable for the declaration of the former Cabinet, that we were quite in the right when we went to war? Mr. Van Goltstein answered that he was obliged to accept accomplished facts; the Government does not approve the policy that led to the war, but it was now its duty to carry it on: j'y suis j'y reste. In the meantime all that was possible would be done to terminate the war. He did not know anything about bad reports, and he stated that there were no reasons for uneasiness. The end of this unimportant debate was that the Budget was carried by 65 ayes against 2 noes. With a tournament between the Minister of the Financial Department and some members, who have built Chateaux en Espagne, about free trade, abolition of the taxes on soap, salt, sugar, &c., the sitting ended. The members will now rest for three or four weeks. When they re-assemble they will deal with the fortress system —the "to be or not to be" of General Weitzel. The members of the First Chamber met yesterday for the despatch of business. I think the debates in our Senate will be very dull, there being not the least intention to overthrow the Cabinet.

The committee at the Hague that made an appeal to the public to back them in their endeavours to substitute cremation for interment has had success. More than 200 persons have intimated that they were willing to become members of a cremation society. Amongst them were many ladies.

Mr. J. Heykamp, pastor at Schiedam, has been elected Archbishop of the Old Catholics in Holland.

Mr. Fransen van de Putte has left the Hague for a trip abroad. He will stay some months in Italy.

At the Bourse a lull prevails. The prices of the shares in the Trading Company have gone down enormously, as much as 4½ per cent. Rumours are current that the Company has undergone heavy losses by failures in Japan. Dividends for next year were offered at f.25 to f.28. We, however, must not forget that the Company is actually in a state of transition, and that the manager will "clear the ship." Bad debts will be written off and bad speculations set aside. That this influences the dividend is quite comprehensible, but there is no fear for the capital. The prices of shares of the East India Railway Company have advanced rather considerably. From the prospectus of the new loan I learn that till the 1st of January, 1876, only an amount of f.2,300,000 will be brought on the market. The price of subscription is 95 per cent., with an interest of 4½ per cent. The Company is of opinion that the future is most promising.

On the Produce Markets transactions have come to a stand-still. Only some very small parcels for direct wants have changed hands. The auctions, which were held last week, have, however, given fairly satisfactory results, although prices in most instances tended downward.

Our weather is horrible. Wind, storm, rain, hail, snow and just frost enough to make the streets slippery.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—CHINA AND JAPAN.

The full text of President Grant's Message to Congress, presented on the 7th inst., has been received. With reference to China affairs the President says:—Our relations with China continue to be friendly, During the past year the fear of hostilities between China and Japan, growing out of the landing of an armed force upon the Island of Formosa by the latter, has occasioned uneasiness. It is earnestly hoped, however, that the difficulties arising from this cause will be adjusted, and that the advance of civilisation in these empires may not be retarded by a state of war. In consequence of the part taken by certain citizens of the United States in this expedition, our representatives in those countries have been instructed to impress upon the Government of China and Japan the firm intention of this country to maintain strict neutrality in the event of hostilities and to carefully prevent any infraction of law on the part of our citizens. In connection with this subject I call the attention of Congress to a generally conceded fact that the great proportion of the Chinese immigrants who come to our shores do not come voluntarily to make their homes with us and their labour productive of general prosperity, but come under contracts with head men, who own them almost absolutely. In a worse form does it apply to Chinese women. Hardly a perceptible percentage of them perform any honourable labour, but they are bought for shameful purposes to the disgrace of the communities where settled, and to the great demoralisation of the youth of those localities. If this evil practice can be legislated against it will be my pleasure as well as duty to enforce any resolution to secure so desirable an end.

On the subject of Japan the President says:—It is hoped that negotiations between the Government of Japan and the Treaty Powers, looking to the further opening of the Empire and to the removal of various restrictions upon trade and travel, may soon produce the results desired, which cannot fail to inure to the benefit of all the parties. Having, on previous occasions, submitted to the consideration of Congress the propriety of the release of the Japanese Government from the further payment of the indemnity under the Convention of October 22, 1864, and as no action had been taken thereon, it became my duty to regard the obligations of the Convention as in force, and as the other Powers interested have received their portion of the indemnity in full, the Minister of the United States in Japan has, in behalf of this Government, received the remainder of the amount due to the United States under the Convention of Simonoseky. I submit the propriety of applying the income of a part, if not the whole, of this fund to the education in the Japanese language of a number of young men, to be under obligations to serve the Government for a specified time as interpreters at the Legation and the Consulates in Japan. A limited number of Japanese youths might at the same time be educated in our vernacular, and mutual benefit would result to both Governments. The importance of having our own citizens competent and familiar with the language of Japan, to act as interpreters and in other capacities connected with the Legation and the Consulates in that country, cannot be readily overestimated.

ON THE DUTIES OF JAPANESE MINISTERS ACCREDITED TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

(TRANSLATION.)

"Nichi-nichi Shimbun."

What are the duties for the discharge of which a Representative is sent to a foreign country and for which he resides at the capital of that country? It is necessary for us at the present moment to devote special attention to this question and to arrive at a clear comprehension.

Although there are Representatives of several degrees in rank, there is no difference between them as regards their powers as Envoys of their Sovereign and Representatives of their Government. The most important duty in connection with which they are sent to foreign Courts is to see that the treaties of friendship concluded between their own country and that to which they are accredited are faithfully carried out, and to exert every effort to protect the rights of their fellow-countrymen.

Is there any matter of such vital importance as the accrediting of our representatives to foreign countries? Is it because our people do not take the slightest amount of interest in the subject of our foreign relations that we have asked this question? Some say that the appointments are unnecessary, others that the representatives are sinecurists, or that the legations are places of ease and retirement to which certain members of the Government are as it were banished. Consequently we here enumerate the important questions relating to our present foreign relations in which the welfare of the whole country is concerned, in order to draw the attention of our countrymen to the subject, as follows:—

1. Revision of the treaties.
2. Causing foreigners resident in Japan to obey the laws of the Japanese Government relating to taxation.
3. To subject foreigners resident in Japan to the laws of our country.
4. To enable foreigners to travel in the interior of Japan.
5. Permission to foreigners to trade in all parts of Japan.
6. Freedom to believe (any creed).
7. Joint occupation of Sagalien by Japanese and Russians.
8. Korean question.
9. Formosan question.
10. The having asked the Emperor of Russia to arbitrate in the matter of the detention at Yokohama of the Peruvian slave ship.
11. The Simonoseki indemnity.
12. Japanese coasting trade.
13. Allowing foreigners to acquire real property in the interior of Japan.

If a single one of these questions is not arranged to the satisfaction of our Government, the evil effects will be an affair of importance enough to affect the thirty-two millions of Japan. The persons who take on their individual shoulders these grave questions are the Representatives who are accredited to foreign countries. The office of Representative is therefore more important than that of Councillor of State, Minister or Vice-Minister. But our people think nothing of these most urgent questions. They take interest in the Formosan Question alone. What surprises us most is that officials in the discharge of important functions, with the exception of those immediately concerned in foreign affairs, are frequently ignorant of them. Is it the fault of the Government that so much carelessness exists, or the fault of the people; or is any one else responsible? We believe that it is the fault of those who do not acquaint the people with what goes on. The carelessness of the Japanese people is not the fault of the Government. In foreign countries, when matters of such importance arise, they are minutely discussed by the newspapers, who explain to the people where the right lies, and the merits of each question. This is considered the duty of the newspapers. Is it not the fault of our writers that they omit to do the same? From ignorance of the urgent nature of foreign relations arises this carelessness. Representatives are called useless sinecurists. This is a very grave matter. We shall therefore record what we have learnt, and go into the questions in their order, thus hoping to make some compensation to the Government and to the people for our negligence.

THE MALAY PENINSULA.

("TIMES'" CORRESPONDENT.)

The recent debate held in our Legislative Council here on the subject of the conduct of this Government with regard to the Native States in the Malayan Peninsula must be considered as marking an epoch in the history of that policy of which the Treaty of Pangkir formed the inauguration. At the close of Sir Andrew Clarke's speech all the members testified their hearty adherence to what had already been done and their willingness to support the continuance of a course of action which has hitherto met with signal success, and which it may prove a not uninteresting study to review, more especially as far as it regards the present relations of the Straits Settlements with the several States in the Malayan Peninsula. To begin near home, then, our fast friend the Maharajah of Johore is developing con amore the resources of his Province. His steam saw-mills are now constantly at work, roads are being formed in various directions, and his Highness has just secured the services of an eminent civil engineer from the North-West Provinces of India to superintend his pet hobby. The line of railway which commenced some two years ago is now being rapidly pushed forward. In Sunghie Ujong, the long-standing disputes between the Datu Klana and the Datu Banda, which at one time threatened to disturb the peace of the neighbouring States, are at length being arranged, the Datu Klana having signed an agreement with our Government, by the terms of which he binds himself to collect no illegal taxes and to refer to arbitration any disputes in which he may be concerned. His opponent has not yet signed, but there is every prospect that the matter will soon be amicably settled, the Datu Banda's son having, within the last few days, come to Singapore and proffered to the Governor his services as mediator.

The Datu Purba of Rumbow, whose differences with this same Datu Klana at one time gave a good deal of uneasiness and paralysed all the trade between Malacca and the Lingie River, has also visited Singapore several times lately, with the view of seeking the assistance of the British Government in opening up the resources of his country, the tin mines of which have never yet been worked, owing to an ancient prophecy, which has been handed down from generation to generation, that ill luck would attend that ruler of Rumbow who first permitted minerals to leave his country. However, the present Datu is a bright, intelligent young man, and seems inclined to set at nought the ancient legend.

At Salangore the Sultan has for the last four months had an officer of the Civil Service resident at his Court, whose advice he invariably seeks in all important questions, and whose expenses his Highness has volunteered to defray, and does punctually defray, to our Exchequer by monthly instalments. Indeed, so converted to more enlightened ideas has this old monarch become, that he has issued a proclamation notifying "all whom it may concern," that he has been pleased to consent that in future all revenue shall be collected by the agent of the British Government, and that he will grant concessions on liberal terms to all settlers, guaranteeing to them the same security of life and property that they would find under the British flag. Of this proclamation there is little doubt that many will avail themselves, for the district of Salangore, especially the neighbourhood of the Langat River, is admirably adapted for the cultivation of tobacco, sugar, and tapioca. To proceed still northwards, the State of Perak is just now most interesting. In that part of Perak known as Laroot, the industrious Chinese are busily working the tin mines, and now that they have been unmolested for some months they are working them with such good effect that it is estimated that the revenue derived from this district alone will reach $100,000 a year, and Captain Speedy, the Acting Resident, is actively opening up roads, forming reservoirs of water for the mines, and carrying out other works of public utility. Of course there have been difficulties; some of them grave enough to cause for the moment much anxiety, but prompt and vigorous measures have checked and removed them in their commencement, and instead of leading to a series of complications, their speedy suppression has rather fostered confidence in the Power which has overcome them, and tended to restore that European ascendency which, once firmly implanted among the natives, will probably in itself suffice to prevent a recurrence.

There has been, too, a difficulty on the east coast in the State of Pahang between the Bandahara, as Chief, of that Province, and the Maharajah of Johore, originating in a murder committed by some of the retainers of the former, who were stationed as head men on the River Indau, the frontier between the two States. There has been for years past an ill-feeling between these two Princes, who are relations, and we all know how bitter quarrels among kinsmen can become, and, a political motive having been assigned to the deed, the complication threatened to become so serious that Sir Andrew Clarke proceeded thither in person with Her Majesty's ships Charybdis, Hart, and Avon, and after a preliminary visit to Indau held an interview with the Bandahara and advised him to institute a searching inquiry into the matter in co-operation with the Maharajah, who was only too willing to abide by the decision of our Government. With such good results was this interview attended that not only did the Bandahara appoint three of his chiefs as Commissioners to proceed to Indau and commence an investigation, but he has since written to the Governor acquainting him how the inquiry was proceeding, and soliciting his good offices in procuring for him labour to enable him to reopen the rich gold mines with which his country is teeming. Such labour there is never any difficulty in obtaining, Chinese coolies being plentiful throughout the settlements, and willing enough to work, if only they can do so with security to life and property; but there is no doubt that these Chinese require European experience to direct them. The returns for investments made in agriculture are both high and rapid. Tapioca yields some 20 per cent.; sugar, 25 to 30 per cent.; and in tobacco the profit seems so fabulous that I would hesitate to give credence to the estimates had I not been positively assured by an English planter of experience, who has just returned from inspecting the cultivation of that plant in Sumatra, that in some cases the returns were during the first year 50 per cent. and in subsequent years cent. per cent. on the outlay. This is a young country in agriculture, with a virgin soil rich in alluvial deposits, and a climate so unvarying that there is but little dread of those droughts or floods to which in less-favoured climes planters and farmers are exposed. True that the planting of tobacco has hitherto not been carried out on any large scale in the peninsula, but on the opposite coast of Sumatra the experiment has been tried under similar conditions with the results above quoted, and the tobacco obtained is said to be good enough to form the outside leaf of manufactured cigars. In Sumatra, too, there is difficulty in extending the experiment, labour being difficult to obtain in the Dutch Dependencies, a drawback which does not exist in our settlements, where the liberal rule of the Government attracts coolies in large numbers from China and from India.

KOREA AND JAPAN.

The relations between Korea and Japan have for some time been in an extremely critical state. The Koreans, proud of their successful resistance to the French and American invasions of their coast in 1866 and 1871, have been in the habit of looking with contempt on their less conservative neighbours, and have viewed with loudly expressed dissatisfaction the—as they consider—undue concessions which the Japanese Government have made to foreign demands. Not long since it was reported that the King of Korea had stamped under foot a letter addressed to him by the Mikado, and a few months ago the people showed themselves to be in accord with their Sovereign by burning down a village on the coast peopled by Japanese settlers. Now we learn that all this has been changed, that the Korean Government is profuse in its expressions of goodwill towards Japan, and that the prominent members of the anti-Japanese party have been cast into prison. The difficulty of gaining any insight into the political workings of these far distant States is such that we are thankful for any light that may be cast on the subject, more especially when that light is derived from purely native sources. Of the motives which gave rise to this change of front on the part of the Korean officials the writer of a letter to the Nisshin Shinjishi supplies a very reasonable account. The writer, who signs himself "A Waiter for a Good Opportunity," and who describes himself as being a Samurai from the Nagasaki district, reproduces in his letter, an epitomised English version of which appears in the Japan Mail, the substance of a communication which he had received from a well-informed friend on the state of politics in Korea. From it we learn that in June last a Japanese Envoy, Moriyama Shigeru by name, was sent to Korea. On reaching the capital he found that the King's Government was much alarmed at the magnitude of the preparations which Japan was making for the Formosan expedition, as they feared that should the Japanese return in triumph the forces which would then become disposable would be turned against themselves. Under these circumstances, Moriyama found the task of "dispelling the ingrained illusions of years" a comparatively easy one, and the Government was at length induced "to recognise the favourable sentiments cherished towards it by Japan." The next step was to secure that punishment should be meted out to those "officials who ever since 1868 have been hostile to Japan," and though the "Waiter for a Good Opportunity," professes to shudder at the severity shown towards these offenders—of whom he relates that the Governor of Toraifu has been banished; that the Kundo, the official in charge of Japanese affairs, has been thrown into prison; that the interpreter, Saizaishu, has been put in irons and confined in a strong gaol; that all their confederates have been arrested and that their property has been confiscated—we cannot but suspect that a word from his countryman, Moriyama, would have mitigated the severity of these sentences, or that at least his influence would have been sufficient to have saved the Kundo and Saizaishu from the fate which is said to await them of having "their heads exposed by way of satisfaction to Japan." The fear which had overspread the land must have been great indeed if, as we are told, "all the inhabitants now feel as though the gloom of night were dispersed, and hold feasts of congratulation. The Korean officials," also, "at their interviews with us, showed their regret for the past and their wish to be guided by us for the future, and try earnestly that friendly relations may be cemented." These words and sentiments, aptly remarks the writer, "greatly resemble those of a defeated general declaring that he surrenders himself." Moriyama appears to have personally reaped some of the benefits of this change of feeling. Verses were written to his honour, and every demonstration of respect was shown towards him. "We are well acquainted," said the Korean Ministers to him, "with the power and prosperity of your honourable country. Your eloquence is better than a million soldiers." But such cajolery fails to impose on the "Waiter for a Good Opportunity," who, with Bismarkian frankness, adds, by way of comment, "While by such flattering speeches they try to appease our anger, they unmistakably betray their own faintheartedness."

PACIFIC MAIL COMPANY INVESTIGATION.

(NEW YORK TIMES.)

The Pacific mail jobbers must now meet the charges against them before a committee of Congress. The Ways and Means Committee, finding an inquiry into the affairs of this company upon its docket of unfinished business, has taken the case immediately in hand. Yesterday, at a secret meeting of the committee, subpœnas were issued for several persons, whose testimony was desired, and the members pledged themselves to secrecy till announcements of the service of the papers was received. The late President Sage, Rufus Hatch, and C. K. Garrison have been summoned. A subpœna was forwarded for Irwin, who is credited with disbursing the funds by which the subsidies were pulled through Congress, but service upon him has not yet been made, though measures have been taken to secure his attendance. The investigation will probably be public. There is no doubt that if the facts can be obtained the inquiry will make a genuine sensation. Garrison has said things privately in New York, which have come to the knowledge of members of the committee, that, if repeated here, will bring some members of Congress into the case. He is reported to have said, for instance, that a certain Congressman threatened his life if he should testify to the truth. Congressional investigations have not usually accomplished much, but the success of the Committee on Ways and Means last winter with the Sanborn frauds gives hopes of its clearing up the mysteries of the Pacific Mail. The Committee on Ways and Means will begin the investigation as soon as the witnesses summoned arrive, which may possibly be to-morrow. The examination by this committee will be confined to inquiries as to the use of money in Congress in securing the passage of subsidies. Whatever developments of the other affairs of the company are made they will be incidental to the inquiry in this direction. It ought to be said in this connection that the attack upon Mr. Garfield for reporting from the Appropriations Committee the appropriation for the continuance of this subsidy is exceedingly unjust, for the Appropriation Committee has not only not reported it, but has not yet acted upon this item in connection with the Appropriation Bill.

Some disclosures were recently made at Washington with regard to the Pacific Mail subsidy. A Mr. Parsons, a member from Cleveland, Ohio admitted that he had received money for securing the passage of the Pacific Mail subsidy. He was at the time the Bill was passed Marshal of the United States Supreme Court, and he had the reputation not only of lobbying for the Pacific Mail subsidy, but of spending some of the money for the Taxes Pacific Railroad.

THE ACTING AMERICAN MINISTER AT PEKING

THE RECENT CHINESE REBELLION.

Chargé d'Affaires Williams, writing to the Secretary of State under date of Peking, February last, speaks of the reduction of the last stronghold of the Mohammedan rebels who controlled the north-western provinces of Shensi and Kansuh for more than ten years. He shows the merciless nature of Chinese warfare, and the rancour of war as aggravated in this rebellion by the bitterness of religious bigotry in which the Mohammedans excelled. There is no reason for doubting the statements here given, and as the rebels had themselves given no quarter, I suppose they expected none. The insurrection thus ended has left large portions of these two provinces nearly depopulated, and years must elapse before they can recover from the desolation of war. In cases where these rebels, who are said to be all pure Chinese, and not Turks, met bodies of native Catholics in their progress, they are reported to have always spared their lives if not found in arms. The capture of Suh-Chan brings to an end all organised rebellion within the borders of China proper, or the eighteen provinces. It began in 1848, in the towns lying west of Canton City, and, through the mismanagement of the provincial authorities, its leaders waxed stronger and more desperate, and, under the name of Taepings (Great Peace), nearly succeeded in dismembering the Empire. They were finally subdued in 1865. After the capture of Nanking the Mohammedans rose in array in the south-west and north-west, where they set the Imperialists at defiance for ten years or more, but are now no longer formidable, and the few chiefs who may have escaped with a small following will not be able to gather head in those devastated districts. The manner in which orderly government, trade and rebuilding in the ruined towns has revived in those departments in the Valley of the Yangtsze, which were left almost like a wilderness in 1865, leads me to hope for a similar reviving in the western provinces.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS IN KOREA.

Mr. Williams says, March 30:—A Roman Catholic bishop, whose diocese comprises a part of Manchooria and the region contiguous to Korea, has lately reached Peking from Newchwang, and brings an account of an entire change in the Government of Korea within the last three months, and the removal of the ruler who had usurped the chief authority during the past fifteen years. The change has been brought about without bloodshed, and the Bishop ("Monsignor R.") looks forward to a peaceable state of their missions, seeing that the new authorities are favourably disposed toward foreigners and Christianity.

Monetary and Commercial.

The directors of the Canada Company have decided to recommend, at the meeting on the 31st inst., a dividend of £1 per share for the half-year ending the 10th prox.; also to divide a further sum of £2 per share as a twelfth instalment, in repayment of the paid capital of the company.

The directors of the National Steamship Company have, out of the insurance account, declared a dividend for the half-year ending the 31st inst. of 6s. on each Original share, and 3s. on each Preferential share, free of income-tax, and payable on the 1st prox.

The Board of the Buenos Ayres Great Southern Railway Company (Limited) have declared a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum on the Ordinary Shares of the company for the half-year ending 30th June last (carrying forward a balance of £13,865), payable on the 1st proximo.

The directors of the Colonial Bank have decided to declare at the half-yearly general meeting, to be held on the 7th prox., a dividend upon the paid-up capital of 7½ per cent. for the half-year ending the 30th June last.

The directors of the Peel River Land and Mineral Company (Limited) have decided to recommend to the proprietors at the annual general meeting to be held on the 15th prox., a second dividend of 2½ per cent., which will make, with the interim dividend of 2½ per cent., paid on account in July last, a total distribution of 5 per cent. for the year ending June last.

The directors of the Bank of Roumania have declared a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, payable on the 1st proximo.

The failure is announced of Messrs. Robert Maxwell and Co., of Mincing-lane, with liabilities estimated at £100,000, and their suspension involves that of Maxwell and Co., of Madras. The books of the firm have been placed in the hands of accountants. The failure is also announced of George O. Brown and Co., flax export and import merchants, of Dundee, with liabilities amounting to about £30,000.

In our last we noticed the difficulties of Findlay, Wade, and Co., Shanghai, and that a meeting of creditors of Capt. Findlay had been held in Greenock. As an interim measure, it was decided that Mr. Findlay should execute a trust deed, subject to the approval of the creditors.

The firms of Bourjau, Hubener, and Co., of Hamburg and China, and of Macgregor and Co., Hong Kong, are also reported in difficulties.

The joint official liquidators of the Albert Life Assurance Company announce that they have absolutely completed the payment of dividends to the creditors of the amalgamated companies, and that no further returns can be made.

The China Trans-Pacific steamer Vasco de Gama is reported at San Francisco on the 22nd in seventeen days from Yokohama.

The market for Bar Silver continues tolerably firm at 57½d. per oz., at which rate the amounts to hand this week have been taken. Mexican Dollars have been sold at 56d. per oz.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

Business in the Produce Markets has continued to exhibit the quietude incidental to this period of the year. No alteration of any importance has occurred, and the only change perceptible is a slight improvement in Rice, Silk and Tin. The Markets closed yesterday for the Christmas Holidays, and will reopen on the 5th proximo.

TEA.

The Market is virtually closed till after the Christmas recess, and as the trade for some few weeks past has been buying simply to supply current wants, and mostly of teas offered at auction without reserve, the stocks held must have run down to a low point. The position as regards figures reads highly satisfactory; the home consumption will reach 5,000,000 lbs. in excess of any former period, and the export department compares favourably, taking into consideration that so little common tea has been shipped to Russia this season. Prices for nearly all grades are very fair, but we question if any teas are giving a profit on import cost. There being no doubt that the season of 1874-5 is closed at the various shipping ports, and that under any circumstances nothing but rubbish can be obtained to swell supplies, should any be shipped, it is clearly to the interest of importers not to force business the coming year. The position of Green Tea is not satisfactory, though prices ruling are lower than for some years past. It is to the high cost in China that the blame must be laid which has led to the heavy losses of late. The consumption is about the same as during the years preceding the Taeping rebellion, but prices in China seem to be from 10 to 15 per cent. higher. The Adulteration Act, still in force, has, doubtless, interfered with sales, though we have heard of no prosecutions for some months. Indian Tea has barely kept up to the deliveries of last year, yet it now holds a firm position in the market, and without doubt will, every year, more seriously check the consumption of China growth of fine quality, unless the latter, which we doubt not, can be imported to compete with it. Accounts from India speak of a largely-increased area of land being brought under cultivation, and it is but natural that so profitable a field for capital will be eagerly availed of, and an important increase in supplies will follow.

SILK.

There is nothing new in the market; a little more inquiry for China Silk is showing itself, and prices seem steady at 12s. 6d. for fair 5, 15s. 6d. for Blue Elephant, and 19s. to 19s. 6d. for best chop thirds; some little business has been doing lately on this basis. Canton Silk is quiet, and 11s. 3d. is the best offer now made for market No. 4 Tsatlees; Japans are neglected, as also Bengals. Deliveries of China Silk are fair.

COTTON.—The market continues to exhibit a want of animation; the small business transacted, however, has been at steady rates.

COFFEE.—The concluding public sales of the year, held 22nd inst., passed off with very good spirit, and the small supplies offered were taken off with a good competition, at 1s. to 2s. per cwt. advance. The Plantation Ceylon, including a small quantity per steamer Burmese, amounted to 86 casks 15 tierces 9 barrels 67 bags, and the whole sold, good middling at 103s. to 105s., middling at 100s. to 102s. 6d., low middling at 97s. to 92s., small at 92s. to 94s. 6d., peas at 118s. to 121s. 6d., and triage at 82s. to 87s. 6d.

CAMPHOR has been very inactive; about 150 cases have been quitted at 71s. 3d. to 75s. per cwt.

COCOANUT OIL.—Ceylon is firm at the last quoted rates.

GAMBIER is firm and a small private business has been done at 25s. 6d. to 26s. per cwt.

GALLS.—Prices of China are rather easier; about 250 cases good sold, chiefly at 61s. 6d., but more recently a few cases dark at same figure.

HEMP.—Manila has been quiet at the previous value; about 1,000 bales have been sold privately at £31 15s. to £33 per ton for mixed to fair quality.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Market steady; of 109 cases Borneo at auction, a few sold at 11d. to 11¼d. for common foul; good quality is worth 1s. 3¼d. per. lb.

JAPAN WAX.—Large sales have been effected privately at easy rates; 32 bags grey yellow, greasy unbleached, sold at 32s. per cwt.

PEPPER.—Black has continued dull, with small sales of Singapore at 6 7-16d. to 6½d.; Penang at 6⅛d. to 5⅞d., closing sellers at latter figure. At auction, of 807 bags offered, barely half sold; Singapore at 6¼d. White has been in better demand and slightly advanced; at auction, of 764 bags, about 500 sold; fair to good 8⅝d. to 8⅝d. Privately 500 bags at 8½d. to 8⅝d., full terms.

RATTANS.—Market quiet; of 17,722 bundles offered at auction two-thirds were sold at 1s. 2d. to 3s. 3d. per 100 canes for ordinary to middling.

RICE.—The business on the spot has been almost nil. There has again been a good demand for floating cargoes of soft grain, and two have been announced at higher prices; one Rangoon, October sailing, at 10s., Liverpool quay terms, and one Bassein, per Walls Castle, August sailing, containing 960 tons, at 9s. 9d., Liverpool quay terms.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: There has been a fair small trade, chiefly in the bought-in lots of last quarterly sales, at sales' rates, and a few lots of fine in second hands at a slight advance. Cassia Lignea: Market steady: and 350 cases at public sale were sold at 56s. for coarse mouldy unworked; sales of good at 59s. to 59s. 6d. for small lots, closing rather firmer. Afloat offering at 60s. Buds: Steady: but nothing done. Cloves: Penang are very scarce and firm. Mace: The market continues quiet; and sales are of small extent. Nutmegs: Quiet; and of 122 cases offered about half placed; 96's at 3s. 3d.; 134's to 122's at 2s. 8d. to 2s. 11d.

SUGAR.—The dullness previously existing has continued and scarcely any business has been done during the week. The only sale of East India has been 14,000 bags clayed Manila at 20s. per cwt.

SAGO and TAPIOCA are without change.

Digitized by Google

SAPANWOOD continues scarce and firm; 6 tons Manila of fair quality sold at £10 10s., and 4 tons Ceylon at £12 per ton.

TIN.—Business has continues steady, and prices show a slight advance for Straits. Subjoined are the closing quotations:—Straits on the spot £94, afloat £93 to £93 10s., Banca £100, Billiton £95 per ton.

CASUALTIES.

The Terentia, Bevan, from Glasgow to Singapore, put into Falmouth Dec. 15, with loss of sails and bulwarks.

NEW YORK, DEC. 5.—The Johanne (Ger. ship), Bange, arrived here Dec. 2, from Manila, reports that on Nov. 13, in lat. 30 N., lon. 69 W., she experienced a severe squall from S. to N.W., lasting one hour, during which she lost foretopmast, fore and main topgallantmast. On Nov. 24, in lat. 36 N., lon. 70 W., she encountered a hurricane, beginning at S. and veering to N., lasting twenty-four hours, in which she lost forestaysail.

PORTSMOUTH, DEC. 17.—The Maria Eliza (Dut.), V. Deursen, from Amsterdam to Sourabaya, with a general cargo, has arrived at the Motherbank, with 'oss of jibboom, head gear, cat head, &c., and stem damaged, having been in collision in the North Sea; later accounts state that she has been towed into harbour to undergo repairs.

LIVERPOOL, DEC. 18.—The Winlow, arrived here to-day from Samarang, encountered very heavy gales when passing the Western Islands between the 10th and 15th, and shipped some heavy seas, which carried away longboat and a portion of mainrail and bulwarks; also stove a large iron water tank which was lashed on deck.

GREENOCK, DEC. 17.—The Singapore (str.), Dumbreck, from Glasgow to Singapore, took the ground at Gravel Point during a fog yesterday afternoon; she floated off at high water and proceeded to sea.

STORNAWAY, DEC. 15.—It is reported that the tops of the lower masts of the Maju are now above water.

HONG KONG, DEC. 19.—The Japan (American mail str.), from Yokohama to Hong Kong, took fire at sea and was totally destroyed. The chief engineer, one passenger, and seven Chinese crew have arrived here.—Dec. 21. The master and several more of the crew and passengers arrived here yesterday. There are now missing Mr. Tyndall, a cabin passenger and one steerage, the surgeon of the ship, a few of the crew, and about 400 Chinese. The fire was first discovered over the boilers on Dec. 17, 150 miles from Hong Kong. It being impossible to subdue it the master decided the following day to abandon her. The boats remained near until the noon, in order to save life, and then proceeded to Swatow.

The County of Sutherland (str.), from Java to Rotterdam, grounded on the Schaar, near Brouwershaven, but floated off without assistance.

The United Service (str.) has been put upon the hydraulic lift, and it has been ordered that the defective plates which are under the engine-room be doubled upon the outside, and that new rivets be put in and the cement renewed where necessary, after which the vessel will be in a perfectly good condition to proceed.

LISBON, DEC. 21.—The Rollo, Off. No. 60,802, from London to Hong Kong, with a general cargo, has been towed in here from lat. 42.30 N., 9.40 W., with main and mizenmasts gone, with all attached boats crushed, and with loss of a portion of bulwarks and rails, poop-deck stove and pump gear damaged; ship tight; happened 16th; no agreement.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORT SAID.—Dec. 17, Abbotsford (str.), from London to Singapore and China; 20, Holland (str.), from Nieuwe Diep to Java; 21, Amboina (str.), from Glasgow to Java; 22, Elgin (str.), from London to Colombo, &c.

At SUEZ.—Dec. 18, Voorwaarts (str.), from Java to Nieuwe Diep.

The Visayas (str.) (of Manila), which is reported to have left Hong Kong for Manila on the 16th September last, has been posted by the Committee of Lloyd's as a missing vessel.

At MOSSEL BAY.—Henrietta, and sailed, Dec. 18, for Batavia.

LAUNCHES, &c.

On Dec. 21 there was launched from the building yard of Messrs. Caird and Co., Greenock, a screw steamer for the Burmah Steamship Company, named the Shuaydagone. The following are her dimensions:—Length on main deck, 177ft.; breadth of beam, moulded, 23ft.; depth, moulded, 16ft. She has a pair of compound high and low pressure engines of 90-horse power nominal; tonnage, builders' measurement, 460 tons. Captain Bowers, the managing director, has superintended the building of this steamer, and another one to be launched shortly.

The P. and O. Company's steamer Lombardy, Captain Gillson which put back damaged in the recent heavy gales, has completed her repairs, and sailed from Southampton on the 18th inst. for Bombay.

The steamer Esmeralda, Capt. Thebaud, the launch of which we lately noticed, from the yard of Messrs. Hall and Russell, Aberdeen, has had a trial trip, which has proved satisfactory, twelve knots having been attained. She proceeds, via Suez Canal, for Manila, to take up the local line in connection with the steamers of the Pacific Mail Company. This is one of the finest steamers ever built and engined by the firm, and we think will prove a credit to them.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—See article in the Civil Service Gazette.
